Gregg Asks Railway Talks Resume Both Groups Willing To Try Again

GRANDVIEW AVENUE HOUSEWIVES and their small children had fun today on the steep hillside of Prince of Wales School playground. There was enough fresh-fallen snow to cover most of the bumps but the first dip, above, was a hazard. On left toboggan are Mrs. George Pinch and son Paul, 2; centre, Mrs. Jerry White and Daivd, 4, and Mrs. Laverne Gilmour and Mrs. Fred Fuller with Johnny Fuller, 3. "Our husbands will have sketchy lunches," they said, "but snow doesn't come every day, especially this winter." —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Child 4 Dies, Parents Questioned

Hint Murder Charge May Be Laid; 75 Bruises On Body

ELMIRA (CP)—Police questioned a chemical worker and his wife for hours today in the death of their four-year-old daughter. Henry William Paepcke, formerly of Kitchener, and his English war bride, Sheila, were arrested here Tuesday night nine hours after they reported the death of their daughter, Glennice, to Dr. Donald F. Young at St. Jacob's.

This morning police reported that the two were charged with murder. However, it was learned later that although the charges had been made out they had not been signed nor formally laid. Police questioning of the couple went on all morning at Kitchener.

At 2 p. m. Crown attorney Harold Daufman said at Kitchener: "It appears that a murder charge will be laid. Investigation is continuing."

Dr. LeRoy Wagner, coroner of this town 12 miles northwest of Kitchener, performed the autopsy. He said the child's body bore about 75 bruises and that death was caused by a brain haemmorhage. A haemmorhage also had occurred in the pancreas.

TAKEN TO JAIL

Police said Paepcke returned home from work at an Elmira chemical plant yesterday and found the child dead and his wife in a hysterical condition.

Mrs. Paepcke was reported to have said the child was injured in falling from a chair. Neighbors said the little girl had been addicted to tantrums.

Dr. Wagner said he signed the necessary papers four years ago to have Mrs. Paepcke committed to a mental hospital but that provincial police did not execute the order.

The other child in the family, Sheril, 5, was placed in the care of neighbors overnight.

Cabinet Members Holding Emergency Session, Prepare Moves In Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Parties in the railway wage dispute today expressed willingness to resume negotiations right away in response to a personal appeal from Labor Minister Gregg. Emerging from a cabinet meeting early this afternoon, Mr. Gregg said he had received these assurances separately from the railways and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in telephone talks this morning. Cabinet then adjourned until 2 p.m. EST to await word from the disputants on whether a meeting is arranged. Mr. Gregg made his announcement to waiting newspapermen in the presence of Prime Minister St. Laurent but he emphasized that his request to the parties, whose latest negotiations broke down last night, was a personal one and was not considered as coming from cabinet.

The cabinet meeting was the second emergency session in the last two days. The ministers met two hours last night and another two hours today.

STILL HOPEFUL

Asked by reporters if he is hopeful there will be no strike, Mr. St Laurent replied:

"Oh, yes, and I think that is the attitude of the Canadian people as a whole."

But he would go no further than that.

Asked if he was "confident" he shrugged:

"I don't think opinions at this time are worth a peanut."

ALTERNATE METHODS

In addition to Mr. Gregg's appeal to the parties, Mr. St. Laurent said, cabinet has been considering alternate methods of dealing with the strike set for next Monday, but he declined to say what they were. "However," he said, "you can be fairly certain that when 20 men get around a table at a time like this, they are going to do a lot of talking."

But he indicated no other decisions have been taken pending the outcome of the possible new negotiations."

"We don't cross our bridges until we come to them," he said in reply to a question on that point.

REQUESTED NEW TALKS

Mr. Gregg said he had asked for the new negotiations in separate telephone conversations with A. J. Kelly, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, both at Montreal. W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was with Mr. Gordon at the time.

Strike Deadlock Not Hopeless Union Man Says

MONTREAL (CP)— A. J. Kelly, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said today he told Labor Minister Gregg in a telephone conversation "we are standing by and willing to meet with the companies" in any new effort to avert a strike.

Mr. Kelly said he had received a phone call from Mr. Gregg and understands the minister was wiring both parties in the dispute.

MONTREAL — (CP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announced today it has agreed to resume wage talks with the Canadian railways at 3 p.m. (EST).

Meanwhile, top officials of the railway companies were reported meeting together.

Mr. Kelly said:

"I haven't called our negotiating committee together on the strength of a personal telephone call, and we have been expecting a telegram from Ottawa. But the committee is available on 30 minutes' notice to attend a meeting.

NOT WITHOUT HOPE

"I told the minister we are not without hope and would be available for any co-operative effort to reach a settlement."

"It's not 6 a. m. Feb. 2 yet and we still do not view the situation as hopeless," he replied.

"There is still time to avoid the railway strike."

But he did not indicate what he thought might happen to head off the strike, which the union has said it will call at 6 a. m. local time Monday unless a satisfactory settlement is reached in its wage increase demands on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

READY FOR EMERGENNCIES

Mr. Kelly said instructions have been sent to all union representatives and chairmen of locals instructing them to deal with strike emergencies as they arise.

"We have informed the railways that we will co-operate in every way in seeing that essential supplies reach areas where they are needed. There will be no fast rule in this respect. No blanket instructions have been issued."

He said it would be impossible to prepare a list of commodities which should be allowed to be moved by rail.

"We would only run into difficulty if we attempted to make such a list. The instructions are flexible enough to permit district representatives to use their discretion.

"If bona fide emergencies arise, they will be taken care of. We will do our best to see there is no tragedy resulting from our decision."

Letter Service Will Continue Despite Strike

OTTAWA (CP)— Letter service will continue throughout Canada in the event of a rail strike, W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said today.

But the department will not accept newspapers or parcels, other than medical suplies, for handling through the mail service, he said.

Mr. Turnbull was elaborating on a departmental announcement Tuesday outlining an emergency plan for curtailed operation of mail services in the event of a strike scheduled for Feb. 2.

OVERSEAS SHIPMENTS

The deputy said the department already has been in touch with United States and United Kingdom authorities to "choke off" shipments of newspapers and parcel post to Canada in the event of a strike.

All letters, however, will be accepted for handling and moved as quickly as possible, using commercial air lines and northern bush pilots, Mr. Turnbull said

Local trucking and bus services also will be used to supplement the airlift.

Woman Killed, Hit By Truck

COBOURG (ENS).— Mrs Clara Beebe, wife of Lorenzo Beebe, who lived about five miles west of Welcome, was killed instantly Tuesday night when struck, police said, by a truck driven by Earl Shoemaker of Cobourg.

Mrs. Beebe, who was 72 years of age, and said to have poor eyesight, got off an east-bound bus in front of her home. She went around the back of the bus to cross the highway to her house on the north side when she stepped into the side of a west-bound truck driven by Shoemaker, a Cobourg contractor. She received a broken neck, and died instantly.

The body was removed to Port Hope and Coroner Dr. E. L. Wrathall of Port Hope will open an inquest today. Provincial Constable William Warner of Cobourg investigated.

Ontario Deputy-Reeve Hands In Resignation

WHITBY (CP)—Morley Bain resigned Tuesday as deputy reeve of nearby Scott township, ending a constitutional crisis in Ontario county.

The county council last week started steps to oust him from its ranks on grounds the township lacks sufficient population to be entitled to a deputy reeve.

Until Tuesday, Scott had a reeve, a deputy reeve and three councillors. Without the deputy reeve, it can have its reeve and four councillors.

Farmers Deny Buying Cadillacs And Mink Coats

VICTORIA (CP) — Canadian farmers are worried that their city cousins think they drive Cadillacs from the house to the oatfield and buy their wives new mink coats every year. The subject came up repeatedly Tuesday at the opening of the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. It is scheduled for more discussion before the meeting breaks up Thursday.

A furore broke out Tuesday when Agriculture Minister Gardiner presented figures showing that farmers in some fields of agriculture are making more money than they did during the last three years of the war, though they are producing less. He referred specifically to producers of butterfat, hogs, cattle and eggs.

Several delegates said the figures were unfair because they represented gross income and did not take into account increased farm costs. They contended they were actually making less money.

PRESENTS PRICE FIGURES

Mr. Gardiner presented more figures showing average market prices for cheese, hogs and cattle between 1949 and 1951 were higher than parity prices—those at which the producer can make a profit commensurate with profits in other branches of the national economy.

A delegate said it was unfair to use the parity prices given because they were based on 1943-45, when prices were controlled.

One delegate accused the press of misrepresenting farm economy by publishing only gross income figures without mentioning costs and net income. A reporter gave him a copy of the speech by H. H. Hannam, association president, and pointed to the part where Mr. Hannam said the farmer's purchasing power has been declining steadily for the last four years and that in 1953 it may drop to 20 per cent under the 1948 figure.

CROWDING INCOME

Another delegate said "costs are crowding our income." Costs had increased out of proportion to those in other industries, which were draining off farm manpower with higher wages.

Mr. Hannam took several digs at city folk, to the loud applause of delegates.

Trailer Sets Fire To 7 Houses

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A gasoline-laden tanker-trailer skidded on an icy hill early today, overturned and exploded, setting fire to seven houses on the outskirts of this central New York city. Four of the homes burned to the ground. No casualties were reported.

About 25 to 30 residents were driven out into the freezing rain, and later took shelter with neighbors and relatives.

The driver of the truck, Robert Michaels, 25, escaped unhurt and was credited with arousing the occupants of the burning homes.

Michaels said he applied the brakes to his tractor-trailer as he came down the hill, but was unable to slow the vehicle. It tipped over as it rounded a sharp turn at the base of the hill.

Plane Flounders Passengers Rescued

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) —A flying boat taking off with Britons bound for a holiday in Madeira foundered and sank in Southampton harbor before dawn today but all were rescued unhurt.

Youth Hanged For Shot He Didn't Fire

LONDON (AP)—A 19-year-old Briton was hanged today for a murder shot he did not fire — despite a dramatic 11th-hour appeal for his life to the Queen.

The youth, Derek Bentley, took part in a holdup in which a policeman was killed. A companion, who actually fired the fatal shot, escaped with an indeterminate prison sentence because he was only 16 years old.

He went to the gallows despite an appeal by his friends to the Queen that she override her cabinet advisers and stay the execution. Earlier, Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe had rejected clemency pleas signed by more than 200 members of Parliament.

CROWD OUTSIDE

A crowd of approximately 500 persons milling outside the prison booed and shouted as the main gate swung open at 9:10 a. m. (4:10 a. m. EST) for the notice of execution to be posted.

A glass, shielding the prison gate bulletin board, was smashed in the crush. Police reinforcements were called to handle the crowd and protect members of the prison staff trying to post the execution notice.

Bentley did not carry a gun in the robbery attempt but under British law responsibility is shared by all who participate in such a crime. The jury convicted Bentley. However, it recommended mercy in his case.

The sentence aroused strong feeling in Britain. Hundreds of persons demonstrated Tuesday night in front of the office of the home secretary, the House of Commons and deputy prime minister Anthony Eden's house to back up their demand for clemency.

Warns Russia Able Give Knockout Blow

LONDON (AP)—A former high-ranking British naval officer warned today that Russia could knock out Britain with an all-out attack on her shipping.

Rear-Admiral Angus Nicholl, retired, said Britain urgently needs fast seaborne fighters capable of protecting the vital Atlantic shipping lanes against sudden attack by enemy jet fighters.

"Until we have them, Britain—indeed Western Europe — is in danger," he said.

Girl 16, Dies From Wound

TORONTO (CP) — A 16-year-old Kitchener girl, with a bullet wound in the back of her head, died in hospital here Tuesday night despite a surgeon's efforts to save her life.

The coroner's office said a post mortem is to be held today.

A young man, said to have been the girl's boy friend, was questioned and later released. His car and a rifle also had been seized. Police said no charges have been laid.

The shooting first came to the attention of Kitchener police early Tuesday when constable Peter Davidson was flagged down by a motorist. The driver asked the officer to accompany him to hospital with a girl who had been wounded.

Circumstances of the shooting were not clear. One source said the youth had picked up the girl at her home to drive her to work.

Food Shortage Not Expected

OTTAWA (CP)— Most Canadian communities have sufficient food to prevent any immediate shortage even without rail service on perishables, agriculture department officials said today.

They were commenting on the railways' embargo on the shipment of perishables and livestock unless they can reach destinations before the strike deadline next Monday.

"Most areas have good local supplies and will not be affected," said L. W. Pearsall, the department's marketing director.

"Of course if we have a strike the food situation would depend on how long the strike would last. For example, Halifax and other Maritime areas buy a lot of meat from the Prairies.

"There may be some handicaps, but I am sure egg and poultry products will continue to roll," said A. D. Davey, head of the department's poultry division.

Cut Red Force To Bits In Attack

SEOUL (AP) — A 100-man Communist attack smashed against the main UN lines on the eastern Korean front today, but Allied defenders cut the Red force to bits, the U. S. 8th army reported.

In the air, the Fifth Air Force said U. S. sabre jets damaged one Communist MiG fighter over Uiju, just south of the Manchurian border. It was the 10th straight day of air battles deep in northwest Korea.

Army headquarters said United Nations troops killed at least 20 and possibly 40 North Korean attackers in the bitter, bloody scrap north of the Punchbowl.

The Reds jumped off in the early morning darkness after a 10-minute artillery barrage and opened a 20-yard hole in Allied lines. But the advance was quickly blocked in a sharp exchange of hand grenade, small arms and automatic weapons fire.

Stock Market Said 'Bedlam'

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative fever raced through the stock market today at a rate that could surpass Tuesday's record-smashing volume of 10,567,000.

A handful of "penny" issues, some of them worth only a few cents last month, zipped through the high-speed tickers to pace the market to a two-hour volume of 4,991,000 shares. This is 900,000 shares higher than Tuesday's first two hours.

The high-speed tickers lagged as much as five minutes behind trading during the first hour but caught up by 11:15 a. m. During the height of Tuesday's rush the tapes were never more than 3½ minutes late. Floor traders rushed madly to fill buy and sell orders. One trader described the trading floor as "absolute bedlam."

Main interest behind the record volumes was the discovery of base metal ore near Bathurst, N. B. Both of Tuesday's leaders have interests in the area.

Battle In Rooming House To Arrest Three Men

TORONTO (CP)—RCMP and city police arrested three men after a short but fierce struggle in a rooming house Tuesday night.

The men are: Louis Gallow, alias Gallo, 50, of Hamilton; Edwin McDonald, 33, and Herbert Connery, both of Toronto.

Gallow was held on charges of shooting with intent to maim, laid by Brantford police Jan. 8 after a shooting in a restaurant, and of absconding $20,000 bail.

Connery and McDonald, brother of Mickey McDonald, Canada's one-time most-wanted criminal and now presumed dead, were charged with obstructing police.

The absconding charge was laid against Gallow Nov. 27 by St. Catharines police when he failed to appear in court on three charges, one of them being a habitual criminal.

The Hamilton charges were conspiracy to possess, transport and distribute narcotics.

The narcotic charges were laid in August, 1951, after the RCMP broke up what they described as one of the biggest narcotic rings in Hamilton's history.

In St. Catharines, Gallow was charged with breaking and entering and with being a habitual criminal. His $20,000 bail was posted by two elderly women.

Edwin McDonald has served penitentiary sentences for possession of counterfeit money and for hijacking.

CCL Fears Code Changes Threaten Right To Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor says it sees "a grave threat to labor's right to strike" arising from two sections of a proposed revision of the Criminal Code now before Parliament.

Headquarters of the 370,000-member congress, Canada's No. 2 labor organization, said the two sections are "vicious" and "dangerous" and should be struck out.

The CCL position was put forward in a 4,000-word memorandum circulated to its membership. In a covering letter to the unions, Donald MacDonald, CCL secretary-treasurer, said the organization plans to carry its argument before a Commons committee to which the Criminal Code revision has been referred.

The revision, the work of a royal commission, is the first major overhaul in the Criminal Code since 1892. The Senate made some changes in passing it last session. Last Friday the Commons gave it second reading and decided to set up a 17-member committee to give it detailed study.

The CCL memorandum said that section 365, dealing with criminal breach of contract, embodied a legal concept "not found elsewhere in our law" that people could be prosecuted for breach of a civil contract under the Criminal Code.

"It is conceivable that under section 365, employees could be prosecuted as a result of a wildcat strike. . . ."

The CCL said that section 372 of the proposed Criminal Code, dealing with mischief, lacked any definition of the circumstances involved or the kind of property to be protected from mischief.

"It provides employers and hostile public authorities with a weapon which could be used against labor with utter injustice and with utter ruthlessness," the memorandum said. "Most certainly it could be used to break any strike."

Two Referees Held Prisoners In Rooms

PLATTSVILLE (CP) — Two referees at a hockey games last night in which Plattsville lost the game to New Dundas by a score of 10-8 were held prisoners in their dressing rooms for half an hour by a howling mob of hockey fans.

The flare-up started when the referees, Bob Lantz and Cecil Dunn of Galt, called two penalties for elbowing and slashing against Plattsville in the last two minutes of play with the score tied. New Dundas then scored two goals against the short-handed team and bedlam broke loose.

When the final whistle sounded the ice was littered with debris. Oranges, apples and paper boxes were hurled at the referees and as they attempted to leave the ice they were met by the fans with swinging fists.

The game, held in this community 10 miles west of Galt, was the first of a round-robin playoff series in the Ontario Rural Hockey Association Intermediate A League.

Jersey Breeders Predict Good Year For '53

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Jersey breeders look with optimism toward the removal of the United States embargo on Canadian cattle March 1, but with fear toward the increasing inroads of dairy substitutes. Members of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, meeting here, said Tuesday they felt increased effort is necessary to protect the industry against vegetable oil products. But officials said they felt reopening of the American market for breeding stock might make 1953 one of the best years for the breed.

The retiring president of the organization, W. D. Thomson of Brooklin, said he felt the domestic market was not enough and that breeders should not become too dependent on any one market. He favored efforts to reopen the British market for dairy produce.

THREAT INCREASED

The threat of synthetic dairy products, he said, had been increased by an acute labor situation and loss of export markets for many products. He suggested breeders cull their herds to get rid of all but the best animals, and support the efforts of all organizations fighting the inroads of dairy substitutes.

At the meeting of the Ontario club, retiring president Edgar Buck of Waterloo asked for more emphasis on quality and asked the government to provide the same protection for dairy farmers that was given manufacturers.

Members also amended the constitution to make Ontario representation a little more representative of the province. Instead of directors being chosen for the province regardless of location they will now be chosen on the basis of two from Western Ontario, two from Central Ontario, and one from Eastern Ontario.

Use Extra Guns To Guard Jail

HAMILTON (CP)—Armed with sub-machine-guns, guards and city police patrolled Barton street jail Tuesday night in face of rumors an attempt would be made to rescue two prisoners held for Buffalo police.

Walter Griffen and Maurice O'Dell are held under an extradition warrant to face charges of robbery and murder of a Buffalo jeweller. They have applied for writs of habeas corpus.

After a Buffalo grand jury indictment, the extradition order was granted Jan. 17 by a Canadian court. The prisoners then were given 15 days in which to receive the habeas corpus writs or be turned over to Buffalo police.

Sunday night two shots were reported fired from the side of the jail where the two men were confined.

Hamilton-Buffalo Service Unaffected

HAMILTON (CP)—Railway service from here to Buffalo and Detroit will not be affected by a national railway strike, an official of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway said Tuesday

General Manager W. B. Salter said that service to Toronto, however, would be stopped.

Mr. Salter said a stand-by agreement had been made between the railway and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen whereby employees agreed to maintain service in the event of a strike until settlement was reached.

He said similar agreements had been made by the Ontario Northland and Algoma Central Railways.

Speculative Interest Drives Trading Up

Volume for the first three hours totalled 7,359,000 shares. Tuesday's record - breaking session recorded only 5,460,000 shares at the end of the third hour.

Speculative interest in a number of low - priced mining issues sparked the massive volume. Heaviest trader was Porcupine Pen, turning over more than 2,400,000 shares in the first three hours to gain .11 cents.

The rest of the market resisted the upward speculative pull and showed general small losses, led by a drop of almost one point by industrials on the exchange index. Golds, base metals and western oils showed smaller losses.

A wide list of small losses weakened industrials as liquors, steels and papers slipped. Golds held firm.

Higher-priced base metals were mixed but most others slipped. United Asbestos and Nesbitt Labine dropped pennies while Cassiar gained.

Senior golds were mixed and junior producers showed a majority of losses as Campbell Red Lake traded lower. Prospects held firm but holding companies weakened.

A few of the active "penny dogs" weakened but most added small amounts. Nubar and New Norseman dropped two cents in active trading while New Highridge, Jacknife, New Larder U and Keyboycon gained.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)— The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 3 1-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 97 1-32 cents, pound sterling $2.73⅛, against $2.73 5-16.

Will Consider Higher Floor Price For Eggs

VICTORIA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Tuesday he will consider with the cabinet soon the possibility of a higher floor price for eggs.

He also told delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture that his best information is that the price of hogs will go up four cents a pound after the U.S. lifts its livestock embargo March 1.

Support price for eggs now is 28 cents a dozen paid to the wholesaler. Egg producers want the floor set at 44 cents.

Mr. Gardiner presented a table showing the average market price for eggs between 1949 and 1951 was 58.8 cents but the parity price was 63½. (Parity price is one at which the producer can make a profit commensurate with profits made in other branches of the national economy.)

WARRANTS HIGHER FLOOR

The minister said there was a sufficient spread between market and parity prices to warrant consideration of a higher floor and he would take the matter up with his colleagues in Ottawa.

The convention was opened by H. H. Hannam of Ottawa, president of the federation, which represents some 400,000 farmers across Canada.

Mr. Hannam forecast a good domestic market if the defence program keeps at its present high pace, but he found the outlook for export of livestock, dairy and poultry products "far from bright." The outlook for export markets for cereals, he said, was "excellent."

First H-Bomb Drop In Pacific

FORT WORTH (AP)—A newspaper said Tuesday what is believed to be history's first H-bomb drop was made in the South Pacific by a B-36 which returned to its home base here with its bomb bay doors blackened and blistered.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram said it learned that the B-36 was based at Carswell air force base.

"The heat-scarred B-36 has been returned to service after repair of radio-active and other damage," the paper said.

"Primed to top flight condition by a specially-selected crew of airmen and then flown away by a super-selected crew, the big brother to the B-29 'Enola Gay' which dropped the first atom-bomb over Japan, took off here shortly before the Nov. 1 blast date.

"The aircraft, with its blue-ribbon crew and 'top-secret mission,' picked up the most devastating chunk of machinery and molecules ever assembled in the world's history at 'a western state' and proceeded to the Eniwetok Island area for the drop.

"The bomb-bay doors through which the hydrogen bomb plummeted were freshly painted before the airplane left Carswell.

"They were blackened, scarred and blistered when the plane returned."

MORE ABOUT—

He said that when family members from the city visit their relatives on the farm they tell them they (the farmers) work too hard and long and at the same time that food prices in the city are too high.

"They tell them that they (the farmers) should work only five days a week and take a long weekend off, but with all their worldly wisdom and fast-revolving bank accounts they have not yet told the farmers how to develop a cow that gives milk only five days a week."

Mr. Hannam added that city folk always had the comforting thought that if a depression hit and they were up against it in the city, they could always go home to their farmer-relatives.

LOOKING BEYOND

Mr. Hannam said that despite the fact agriculture had not yet obtained equality in the national economy, Canadian farmers were looking beyond the borders of their own country.

"It's a recognition of that fundamental relationship of the soil to the human family and of the importance of producing more and yet more food for minimum health and well-being for that large half of the world's population living in underdeveloped countries. Those people, hundreds of millions of them, underfed, insecure, want food and land and human dignity."

Canadian farmers were ready and willing to help but "unless better programs at both the national and international level are found and implemented for meeting this problem (market uncertainity and price instability) food producers in Canada dare not respond with all-out production to attain the expansion requested by the United Nations' food and agricultural organization."

Fao's goal was that the increase in food production overtake and exceed the rate of increase in world population.

2 Fliers Killed In Crash Near Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's treacherous wastelands have added two more names to the list of fliers who braved the elements and never returned.

Pilot Jim Block 22, and his trapper passenger, Alvin Baker, 34, both of Bissett, Man., were found dead Tuesday in the crumpled wreckage of a Piper Cub. The single-engined aircraft crashed in lake-strewn country 106 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Block ventured into rainy weather Friday to pick up Baker at Moore lake, just 15 miles east of Bissett, and fly him to a cabin farther east near the Ontario boundary. The plane is believed to have gone down soon after leaving Moore lake.

Almost buried in snow, it was sighted by a search aircraft from the RCAF search and rescue centre here. Block's body was flown out after being towed on a toboggan to a waiting aircraft. Baker's body, tightly jammed in the Piper Cub's fuselage, will be removed today.

What caused the crash may never be learned. It may have been engine failure.

But unpredictable weather sweeping in from the north could have sent the tiny aircraft to its doom.

Bush pilots who have built up thriving businesses flying freight and passengers to isolated regions have been forced down for days by sudden squalls.

Training Men Protect Stations

OTTAWA (CP)—Training to enable RCAF ground crews to protect their own air stations in the event of enemy attack opened Tuesday at nearby Rockcliffe airport.

The training here will involve every officer and airman serving in the Ottawa area, air force headquarters announced. Eventually it will be given to every serving member of the service.

Wing Cmdr. A. H. Blake, over-all co-ordinator of the ground defence program, explained the new training is part of an inter-service agreement which stipulates the RCAF will be responsible for defence of the immediate area surrounding its air strips, while the army will concentrate on the defence of main areas.

Cabinet Members

The minister said he told them he was anxious that "all facilities possible be explored under free negotiations" before any government action might be taken.

He asked them to "do all they can to arrange another discussion that might be immediately productive of results."

Mr. St. Laurent told the reporters that this move was taken after cabinet received overnight telegrams from the disputants explaining the latest collapse of talks in Montreal Tuesday night.

It was for lack of the information in these wires that cabinet Tuesday night adjourned its first emergency session until this morning.

Mr. Gregg sat with the other ministers this morning briefly and then left to make his telephone calls. He was away for about an hour, and cabinet sat for another half hour on his return.

At the end of the meeting, the Prime Minister said he expects to make a statement on the rail issue in the Commons when it opens at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Meanwhile, the regular weekly caucus called for this morning stood adjourned indefinitely. After meeting briefly, the members adjourned until noon in the hope the cabinet would join them by then, but after resuming, they adjourned once more, to resume on call.

First Sub-Killer Ship Will Be At Sea Shortly

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy said Tuesday the first of at least 16 submarine-killer warships of radical modern design will soon be at sea. She is the largely-rebuilt former destroyer Algonquin.

At the same time, the navy announced:

1. The destroyer Crescent will shortly follow the Algonquin's lead in undergoing a multi-million-dollar transformation from a destroyer to one of the low-slung, ultra-modern destroyer-escorts.

2. The 10,000-ton former maintenance ship Flamborough Head is being recommissioned as the Cape Breton and will be used as a floating training-base for technical apprentices in Halifax harbor.

The Algonquin was picked a couple of years ago as a guinea pig to undergo radical changes that make her pretty well a prototype of the destroyer-escorts Canada is building as her answer to the submarine menace. Her behavior in the sea trials ahead will be closely watched.

Fourteen of the escorts, heavily equipped with radar and other detection devices, are being built or are to be built from scratch but the first of these 14 won't be ready until early 1954, months behind the original schedule.

In addition, the navy has rebuilt the Algonquin and now is going to rebuild the crescent into virtual equivalents of the escorts, raising the total to at least 16. Indications are that more destroyers will be converted.

The escorts can, if necessary, be fought largely with electronic devices from under cover rather than outside on the bridge. Their whole design is an anti-submarine design and they are expected to be as efficient as any warships in the world in that field.

The Crescent, now en route from Halifax to Esquimalt, B.C., is making her last voyage as a destroyer. Following her arrival at the west coast Monday the Crescent will be taken in hand at the navy dockyard for conversion.

Jet Bomber Has Set New Record

England To Australia Flight Made In Less Than Day

DARWIN, Australia (CP)—Britain's Canberra jet bomber, already the conquerer of Atlantic speed records, today established another mark by flying from England to Australia—more than 8,000 miles—in less than a day.

The twin-jet whizzed down at this North Australian port at 4:07 p.m. today (1:37 a.m. EST), just 22 hours and one minute after leaving London.

Its actual flying time for the 8,608-mile trip—unofficial so far—was 19 hours and one minute.

This more than halved the previous official record listed with the British air ministry of 45 hours 35 minutes, clocked by a four-engine Lancaster bomber in August, 1946.

BEATS FLYING TIME

It also bested the 19 hours 12 minutes flying time in which another Canberra jet made the trip last March 16, but that flight was not clocked officially and the plane en route laid up in Singapore for 48 hours.

A two-man RAF crew—both Second World War veterans—brought the blue bomber through its trip from London. They were the pilot, Flt. Lt. Leslie Morris Whittington, 29, and his navigator, Flt. Lt. John Anthony Brown, 30.

They left London Tuesday at 8:36 a.m. GMT (3:36 a.m. EST Tuesday) and stopped en route three times for fuel—at Fayid, in the Suez Canal zone; at Karachi, capital of Pakistan; and in Singapore. In all they spent three hours on the ground, the longest stay an hour and 16 minutes in Karachi.

ANOTHER RECORD

En route they also collected another official record, eclipsing the old London-to-Karachi mark. Their time of eight hours, 53 minutes bettered a previous record of 15 hours, 18 minutes for the 3,921-mile run set in May, 1949, by a Sea Fury.

The British ministry of supply, in announcing the trip Tuesday, stressed that the record try was only a secondary mission. The speedster, they explained, is destined for secret experimental work at the Commonwealth guided missile and rocket testing ranges at Woomera, in the Australian desert.

The pilot refused to disclose the top speed of his flight but said they were making the trip at more than 40,000 feet and using oxygen to breathe all the way.

Montreal Ready To Welcome New Cardinal

By BARRY WEST

MONTREAL (CP) — This predominantly French - speaking Roman Catholic city took on a festive air today as it prepared to welcome home Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, first prince of the church in Montreal's history.

The 48-year-old prelate, appointed to the college of cardinals Nov. 29 and elevated at a consistory in Vatican City Jan. 15, returns home from Rome Thursday night. He is the sixth Canadian to become a cardinal and the fifth from Quebec province.

Gaily - colored banners, shields and flags decorated homes and buildings and the myriad outside stair cases, typical of the city, were wound with bunting and bright-hued crepe paper.

Most colorful spot was the area around Windsor station, where Cardinal Leger will arrive by train from New York. Striking banners of red, purple and gold were draped from nearby buildings.

The cardinal, who landed at New York today from Europe aboard the liner United States, will proceed the few blocks from the railway station to the archbishop's palace for a short reception before benediction of the blessed sacrament in St. James Cathedral.

Mayor Camillien Houde asked Montrealers, in a special proclamation, to decorate the exterior of their homes and business places to celebrate the cardinal's homecoming.

Cancel Contract

HAVANA (AP) — A Havana casino and night club cancelled its contract Tuesday night with Josephine Baker, Negro singer who has made frequent attacks in South America recently on racial discrimination in the United States. The managers of the club said they tore up the contract because Miss Baker was unable to arrive in time for her scheduled opening Feb. 2, but night club circles speculated that her recent criticism of the U.S. probably was a factor.

Municipal Bodies Iron Out Fire Hall Differences

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — Council and members of the Public Utilities Commission held a joint meeting Monday evening in the council chambers. Commissioner McGregor, Newman and Meyers represented the P.U.C.

Mayor R. J. Locke acted as chairman. Sale of a strip of property near the office of the P.U.C, on Front Street was discussed and a committee comprising Mayor Locke, W. F. Burgess, A. J. Meyers, C. Newman and J. C. Birmingham, together with the man who wishes to purchase the property, Thomas Gillibrand, will talk the matter over; Councillor Burgess will report at the next council meeting.

Much discussion arose about who owned the fire hall and who should look after not only the building, but the equipment that is housed in it.

Councillor Ness chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee of the 1952 council, explained the situation. Mr. Ness said the present situation was unsatisfactory and that the fire truck was not being properly looked after. If the town looked after the equipment, and paid for it, they would receive a grant of 25 per cent of the cost from the government. No such grant would be made if the equipment was owned and maintained by the P.U.C.

HERE P.U.C. WORKMEN

Commissioner R. J. McGregor moved, seconded by commissioner Newman that the town council hire the P.U.C. workmen, at a nominal fee of $1 per year, to look after the equipment. They would fill the fire extinguishers and keep the truck in good condition and look after the hose. Expenses for material and maintenance will be charged to the council. This motion carried.

Councillors P. H. Macmillan, and George Free, moved that council be responsible for the maintence and upkeep of the firehall building but not pumps or other equipment owned by the P.U.C.

The P.U.C. representatives, presented a previously drawn resolution asking that in future, the mayor inform the chairman of the commission of any impending or prospective property deals, especially any that would be suitable for P.U.C. purposes. The fact that council has in the past sold certain lots in the town, without consulting the P.U.C., who it turned out later, also wanted the lots to expand their services, has been a bone of contention between the two bodies.

PUBLIC PARK

After adjournment Mayor locke called a special meeting of the council to discuss business at hand, and to hear delegations.

A deputation from the local Chamber of Commerce proposed that the town purchase the property on the west side of the canal where a fire recently destroyed an implement shop which was formerly a grist mill, and the Methodist church. J. F. R. Douglas, barrister, said almost all towns of comparable size have a public park, whereas Campbellford has none. He said he had interviewed the persons who now own the property and they have signified their willingness to sell, and even said they thought a public park would be a good idea.

The Chamber of Commerce has not sufficient funds to purchase the ground, but they urged council to do so, and the chamber would give any support necessary in preparing the land. Lots total about 140 feet front-age on Queen street.

E. C. McKeel said in a recent trip through the United States, he observed almost every town had a park of some sort, and added the establishment of a public park in Campbellford would surely be a service to tourists.

The matter was left in the hands of the property committe to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Setters were received from the Rotary Club and the Canadian Legion, in which both organizations named members to the Arena Board. Council approved the appointment of George Bibby and Howard Wilson of the Canadian Legion and F. M. Rutherford and Wm. G. Holmes from the Rotary Club.

Town Planning Board Studied

LINDSAY — (ENS) — Town council meeting in session with Ops township council, decided to set up a town planning board, with the objective of establishing a town plan.

The meeting was held under sponsorship of the planning committee of council, headed by Ald. J. A. McQuarrie, who brought the scheme back before council this year. The town had a planning board six years ago, but it was abandoned after a year's work.

Col. Stanley Nash, of the committee planning branch of the Department of Planning and Development, answered questions and outlined the requirements and duties of a planning body, as set out in the Ontario Municipal Act. He urged the town to go ahead with its plan for such an executive.

Ald. J. A. Harrigan asked if the town had any type of zoning by-law at the present, and was told that there is such a law, but it does not restrict the building of any type of business. Col. Nash told the meeting the council would be required to set the initial expense of the planning operation, but that it might not exceed 40 to 50 cents per capita in the town. Ops township already had a zoning plan which has been in effect for a few years.

Another question which was posed concerned the Trans Canada Highway. The members of council wished to know whether or not the highway would pass through the town, and if so whether it would be routed by Kent Street, the main street, or Colborne St. to the north. Col. Nash could not give definite information, the problem being out of his department, but he said he understood the policy of the Highways Department to be the highway would by-pass any large towns or cities. Most of the municipalities affected, he said, would rather have it that way.

Believe Plans Well Advanced To Ease War Pressure

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration was reported authoritatively today to have well-advanced plans for trying to end the Korean and Indo-Chinese wars by denying Russia any "advantage" from them.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles, discussing this subject publicly for the first time since the new administration took power, told a national radio and television audience Tuesday night:

"Today these wars go on because the enemy thinks he's getting an advantage by continuing the war. I believe that Gen. Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace."

Dulles' statement was described authoritatively as being based upon plans for specific moves, although he gave no hint as to what these moves will be.

PINPOINTS TROUBLE AREAS

Dulles' broadcast speech pinpointed trouble spots of the world in a survey of U. S. foreign policy problems.

On one foreign policy problem, Dulles had what appeared to be an implied threat of new U. S. action toward Western European Allies unless they persist in efforts toward unity. He noted that French and German steps toward formation of a European defence community under which West Germany could rearm have recently been "somewhat stalled."

Dulles said the U. S. has put almost $30,000,000,000 into Western Europe since the end of the Second World War in the hope of developing unity there and he said that if France, Germany and Britain now go their separate ways it would be necessary to give "a little rethinking" to U. S. policy toward Europe. But he refused to believe there was no chance of unity.

The new secretary of state dealt in blunt words with what he conceives to be Russia's policies. He said the U. S. has "enemies who are plotting our destruction" and added that "these enemies are the Russian Communists and their Allies in other countries."

TO ISOLATE U.S.

Soviet strategy, he went on, is to encircle and isolate the United States. This strategy must be countered by a strong American military establishment and by the creation of military strength in friendly countries with this purpose: "Never to wage war but only to deter war."

Some people have said privately, Dulles went on, that a war with Russia is inevitable and that the U. S. should have it soon rather than late because time is running against the U. S.

"President Eisenhower is absolutely opposed to any such policy," Dulles said, "and so of course am I. . . ."

The secretary actually delivered his speech before cameras in his office Monday afternoon, and it was the film record then made that was actually broadcast.

Cancel Agreement With Counties Council

COBOURG (ENS).— Port Hope town council this week confirmed the recommendation of the road and bridge committee made at last week's session of Counties Council that the agreement between that town and Northumberland and Durham Counties be cancelled. The town council of Port Hope passed a bylaw rescinding the bylaw by which the town agreed the counties would take over Cavan and Molson Streets in Port Hope, effect the necessary repairs, after which the roads would revert from the counties road system to the town. In cancelling the agreement the town of Port Hope gives permanent title to the streets in question to the counties.

Dies From Wound

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a coma for two years, Phineas Prouty, 7, died Tuesday of a bullet wound in the head, inflicted while he watched a western movie on television. In the excitement of the picture, 10-year-old Diana Lee Davis, a neighbor, touched the trigger of a .22-calibre rifle which she had taken from young Prouty. Diana's father left the rifle in the living room and thought it was unloaded.

Move To Advance Opening Date Of Fishing Season Gains Support

COBOURG (ENS).—The move by the Rice Lake Tourist Association to have the Rice Lake fishing season advanced from July 1, as it is at present, to June 20, has met with fairly general approval. When the association presented its request to the Northumberland and Durham Counties Council for support, it brought along two resolutions from Haldimand and Alnwick Townships, endorsing the proposal. Counties Council also endorsed it.

The feeling of the tourist association is that Northumberland and Durham Counties are in a different situation than further north and the association was encouraged in its stand by the fact that they understood the Department of Lands and Forests was thinking of changing the opening day for Rice Lake alone, although not in favor of altering the regulation in regard to drifting. In view of the fact that Rice Lake is a month ahead of the north, the advancing of the date is only reasonable, states the Rice Lake Tourist Association.

Faust, La Traviata Double Operatic Bill

A double operatic bill of Faust and La Traviata is the offering of Harry Yudin at the Centre Theatre, Wednesday, Feb. 4, afernoon and evening.

"I am still hoping that Peterborough will respond to the grand opera in the large numbers reported from St. Catharines," Mr. Yudin said. "In this feature next week, there are three outstanding artists: Itala Tajo, Nelly Corradi and Gino Mattera. Orchestra, chorus, singing stars and splendid staging should attract wide attention here.

Traviata and Faust speak for themselves to people who like good music. At any rate, I'm bringing in both to round out a fine bill."

Baron Indignant At Reporter's Question

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters) Newly-wed German Baron Ernst von Heyningen-Huene, 22, protested indignantly when a reporter asked him Tuesday if his marriage to 28-year-old Nancy Oakes was a case of love at first sight.

"Damn it, that's too much," shouted the baron after he and his mink-coated bride of a month arrived from New York in the liner Liberte.

Added Toronto - born Nancy: "That's rather personal, you know."

Nancy is the daughter of the late Harry Oakes, who was murdered in the Bahamas in 1943.

Goldin Resigns As Director

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Arthur J. Reaume announced Tuesday that Eli C. Goldin, one of two city representatives on the new board of directors of East Windsor Hospital, has resigned.

The announcement came shortly after the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario nominated Rahno M. Beamish, superintendent of nurses at the Sarnia, Ont., General Hospital, to represent the association on the board.

Mr. Goldin said in a letter to the mayor his time "at present is taken up to such an extent that I will not be able to give enough to the hospital to justify the trust the appointment implies."

6 Agents Executed

Big Business And Government

The dispute about President Eisenhower's appointment of Mr. Charles E. Wilson to be his Secretary of Defence is now officially over, but we think it will be a long time before it is forgotten. A brief reconsideration of the facts shows us this: the President named his Cabinet some weeks ago so that, in accordance with custom, his choices might be officially approved by the Senate on the day of his inauguration; Mr. Wilson's name was not so approved, because he held two and a half million dollars' worth of General Motors stock, and the U.S. government does a great deal of business with General Motors; it is against U.S. law for a government official to hold stock in any company with which the government is doing business. Mr. Wilson has now sold his stock and his appointment to the Cabinet is complete.

• • •

There is nothing out of the way about this incident, except Mr. Wilson's attitude when the situation was made clear to him; he said that he thought that the existing law might be changed, and said also that he could not see how the welfare of the United States might seriously differ from the welfare of General Motors. It has never been suggested by anyone, and could not seriously be suggested, that Mr. Wilson was not entirely sincere and open in this statement of opinion. Nor could anyone seriously deny that Mr. Wilson is one of the ablest industrial administrators in the U.S.A., an honest man, and a good American. But apparently he does not see that public office and private interest must be kept strictly apart, and he does not see that what is good for big business might not always be equally good for the U.S.A.

• • •

This is an attitude toward public service which is still fairly new in the history of democracy, but it is growing, and it may be observed on high and low levels. The new notion of public service seems to be that it is something a man condescends to, if it will not interfere too greatly with his personal concerns. This, we need hardly point out, has never been the spirit which built great nations. That spirit has been expressed in sentimental, but deeply sincere, verse by Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, thus:

I vow to thee, my country,
All earthly things above,
Entire and whole and perfect,
The service of my love;
The love that knows no question,
The love that stands the test,
That lays upon the altar
The dearest and the best;
The love that never falters,
The love that pays the price,
The love that makes, undaunted,
The final sacrifice.

When the final sacrifice happens to be two and a half million dollars' worth of General Motors stock, the wrench must be a severe one. Nevertheless, greater sacrifices have been made by patriots of the U.S.A. in the past, and great countries demand great sacrifices. It is when men of Cabinet stature balk at sacrifice that some discomfort is felt, and this new concept of public service is thrust into unavoidable prominence. We may sincerely hope that it will never be raised again to the embarrassment of President Eisenhower's administration.

What, No Love?

Our esteemed contemporary, the Kitchener-Waterloo Record has written forcefully against what it calls "the cheap sentimentality that has been growing up around romance and the idea of human mating." This sort of thinking has nothing to do with marriage, it says, and continues with the following remarkable assertion:

> It is refreshing to know that in all successful marriages there is not time for sentiment and fake glamour.
> Their background of happiness is the patter of little feet, the decreasing mortgage, insurance premiums, tax receipts, perhaps bond coupons, a bit of patriotism and belief in the eternal verities.

In other words, what keeps married couples together is shared responsibilities, shared debts, and shared assets, with a little love of country and a little love of God thrown in for good measure? We shudder at the idea, and if that is how life is lived in Western Ontario we are truly sorry.

We know, of course, that it is not the whole truth. We know that, even among subscribers of the Record, there must be a great many couples whose marriages are successful and enduring because a man and a woman love one another, and show it by words and deeds.

Send out a reporter, Record, and if he listens intently at enough Kitchener-Waterloo keyholes, he will hear husbands saying something to this effect: "My dear, although we have a joint bank-account, and have nearly paid off our mortgage, our taxes and our insurance, I want you to know that you are, and have always been, the light of my life, the apple of my eye and the chief source of my happiness." Then, if the Record reporter puts the other ear to the keyhole, he will hear the wife reply: "My darling, I have never really cared much about the patter of little feet, and the climate of our beloved country gives me the heebie-jeebies, but I wanted you from the first day I saw you, and because I've got you, nothing else really matters."

That, dear contemporary, is what makes marriages, and it is commoner than you seem to think. And it begins with a great deal of boy-and-girl sentimentality of the sort you despise. It is love that makes the world go round, and without love not even a paid-up mortgage and a suitcase full of war bonds—no, not even patriotism and the eternal verities—can make a marriage a success. Successful marriages have plenty of time for sentiment, and are illuminated by a glamour which is inexhaustible and glorious.

Anarchy of Language

In our mail this morning was a mimeographed letter from a magazine in the U.S.A. which offered us a statement on labour conditions by a man prominent in union politics, with the assurance "it's bombastic". We took this to mean, as the dictionary has it, that that statement was "inflated or turgid language, fustian". But as we read onward we found that the writer apparently thought that "bombastic" meant "explosive, startling, as might be the explosion of a bomb". There is no excuse or precedent for using the word in this way, and we protest against it.

Hardly a day passes that we do not meet with words misused, or words which have been misunderstood and used in a slipshod, disrespectful fashion. Writers in the U.S.A. and in Canada appear to think that this anarchy of language is excusable on the ground that language is a growing thing, and that they can alter the meaning of a word by using it wrongly. They are mistaken; growth of language is not achieved by rampant illiteracy.

Why is this sort of illiteracy common on this continent? A recent Gallup Poll suggests the reason. Apparently fewer people read books in the U.S.A. than in any other democracy, and Canada is not far above her neighbour in this respect. An Englishman (if Dr. Gallup may be believed) reads three times as many books as an American. Denmark has three times as many bookstores, proportionately to population, as the U.S.A.

This continent is not backward in declaring itself to be the hope of the world in troubled times. Our illiteracy and stupidity in the use of language makes us, in that department at least, a very poor hope for anybody. And let nobody scorn the necessity for using language accurately and intelligently. When the coinage of words becomes debased it inevitably debases the coinage of thought. A nation which cannot use its own language correctly cannot think coherently, and a nation cannot think coherently is in decline.

Using Parking Meter Money

The Peterborough Trades and Labour Council has asked the City Council to apply parking meter revenue to the acquisition of additional parking space and not to the general treasury. The suggestion has the merit of logic and practicality.

Car parkers are paying the money. Why should it not go to their service, present and future; that is, to provide additional off-street parking areas? The time will come when the present old Market Square will no longer be available for parking. Even with it, more parking space is needed. Unless a fund is built up now for more parking lots, they will not readily be had. Councils will not be well disposed to issue debentures to provide capital for new lots, debentures which must be paid for by all the taxpayers.

The money is available annually now, without borrowing or dipping into taxpayers' pockets for the benefit of a specific group of them, the car drivers. Since May 12th, 1947, they have paid out $177,782 at the meters—$160,979.44 of it in coppers and nickels at street meters. So far this money has gone into the general city treasury.

When the cost of installing meters has been met—it was met long ago; when an allowance is made to the general treasury for loss of potential revenue from property taxation from the market block; when provision is made for the cost of collection from the meters (the city police do this), there will still be thousands of dollars clear profit each year. If this money were set aside to buy and prepare new off-street parking lots, Peterborough drivers and visitors shopping down town would be admirably provided with convenient parking places. And should they not be?—it is their money which is providing the revenue.

NOTES AND COMMENT

"When You're in Love You're Nine Feet Tall"—title of new song. That's rather a low cloud to have one's head in.

The Terror Is Under Way

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

DEVIOUSLY and almost imperceptibly the new Soviet terror is getting under way and broadening its range. Its final shape is still very far from clear, but already several distinct objectives, or lines of attack, are visible; and as these emerge one after another it becomes increasingly certain that the Jewish issue as such is not the Kremlin's main concern.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE REAL VICTIMS, whoever they may prove to be, must be convicted of a definite crime against the State, which will help to emphasise the extreme hostility of the outside world. The main crime is evidently to be assisting or conniving at a Zionist-Imperialist conspiracy to undermine the Soviet regime. And it seems likely that the Zionist aspect of this conspiracy is thrown in as a convenience. It sounds better to talk of Zionist plots against the Kremlin than about Russian plots against the Kremlin. This does not mean that the Jews in Russia will not get badly knocked about; it simply means that as far as Stalin is concerned they are not the main enemy.

◇ ◇ ◇

SO FAR the revealed "enemies of the people" fall into a number of categories which may be listed as follows:

1. Paid agents of the Western Imperialists, represented so far by the nine doctors, with their alleged murderous activities.

2. Industrial saboteurs and financial racketeers, represented by the Kiev officials, who were shot for embezzlement and currency offences at the end of December.

3. Spies, represented by the official of the Ministry of Non-Ferrous Metallurgy who was arrested for stealing a secret document.

4. Bourgeois nationalists, or separatists, from the national republics, represented by Professor Filimenov, the Kazakh scholar who has just been arrested for this crime.

5. Economists and Party theoreticians responsible for propagating the "anti-Marxist" idea of N. A. Voznessensky, the ex-politburo member, ex-Deputy Prime Minister, ex-Chief Planner, who was dismissed in 1949 and may yet, himself be put on trial.

6. The security police, main instrument of all past purges, which is this time due for purging itself. In connection with the "doctors' plot," "Pravda" went out of its way to condemn the security apparatus for lack of proper vigilance. It is certain now that the December rumours about the shooting of Abakumov, Minister of State Security since 1946, had some foundation in fact. Abakumov, one of the right-hand men of Beria (who is in charge of the security police) and an immense power in the land, made no appearance at the Party Congress and was not elected to the new Central Committee. Something has happened to him. He may not have been shot. He may very well be brought to trial as one of the men behind the doctors.

THESE VARIOUS CATEGORIES, it will be seen, cover a very wide field. And there is a great deal more to each category than is indicated by the bare facts cited above. Thus, the doctors at their trial will be asked who put them up to murder Zhdanov. There will be more arrests for industrial sabotage and embezzlement; and it will be "discovered," almost certainly, that the offenders were acting on orders from highly placed officials bent on ruining the Soviet economy in the interests of the Imperialist powers. Already the solitary individual in the Ministry of Non-Ferrous Metallurgy accused of treason is not alone. Senior officials of his Ministry have been reprimanded for lack of vigilance. Some will soon be charged with worse than this. Again, the unfortunate professor in Kazakhstan is only a forerunner. The continuous purges of recent years in the national republics have provided the Kremlin with scores of plotters against the unity of the U. S. S. R.

◇ ◇ ◇

AND ALREADY "Pravda" has ominously observed that the Kazakhstan party organization must have known of the professor's crime. As for the anti-Marxist theories (based on the assumption that Soviet power could do anything asked of it) were rewarded with a Stalin prize and supported by th Moscow Central Committee as a body for a number of years— the only difficulty here will be to find important Communists who did not publicly subscribed to them.

◇ ◇ ◇

FINALLY, the attack on the security police opens limitless possibilities. But just what the probabilites are, it is too early to say. For some time it has looked as though Malenkov (chief secretary of the Communist Party under Stalin) and Beria have been fighting each other for supreme power under Stalin. During the past year Beria seems to have lost his influence and Malenkov to have gained. If in fact the present troubles are connected with a personal rivalry of this kind, we may expect fireworks on a highly illuminating scale.

FOR THE MOMENT all we are justified in concluding is that Stalin, almost certainly listening to Malenkov, has decided that a new terror is urgently necessary, either to stamp out real or potential opposition in high places, or to bear down ruthlessly on the spirit of inarticulate unrest which, manifesting itself in a number of ways, has been cumbering the efficient working of the Government machine for the past five year. The scape-goat, the common denominator, is to be the Zionist-Imperialist conspiracy, to which all other sins may be related. The man to watch is A. Poskrebyshev, for many years Stalin's chief private secretary, who emerged from his usual obscurity with a disciplinary speech at the Nineteenth Party Congress in October, and, a fortnight ago, contributed to "Pravda" a long article which contained a warning to all the nationalities of the Soviet Union who might harbour visions of escaping in some measure from the rigid centralism of Moscow. That warning may well have been intended also to impress readers in the satellite countries. Poskrebyshev was the man who supervised for Stalin the paralysing terror of the 'thirties. Many elevated figures, including two chiefs of police, fell at his hand.

RED JUGGERNAUT

Lapses At Another Coronation

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

DESPITE all the elaborate preparations for the Coronation, it would be a miracle indeed if the ceremonies went off without a hitch. Some incidents at Queen Victoria's Coronation on June 28, 1838, certainly were a little less than decorous. The London Times recalls, for exmaple, that the Duke of Sussex was rather too enthusiastic about doing homage to his sovereign; shortly after the solemn moment of crowning he insisted on embracing her and had to be led off by the peers around him. Another peer, aged 82, fell and "rolled quite down" the steps leading to the throne. To forestall a second try, Queen Victoria arose and went down the steps to receive his homage.

Although she forgave these lapses, the Queen was highly indignant to discover, upon being conducted into St. Edward's Chapel at the end of the service, that the altar there was covered with sandwiches and bottles of wine. Lord Melbourne remarked on the altar's singular appearance; yet the noble lord had a glass of wine himself and put down the First Sword of State which, he confessed, had become rather heavy. Whereupon the Queen admitted that the Crown was hurting her head and removed it for a time.

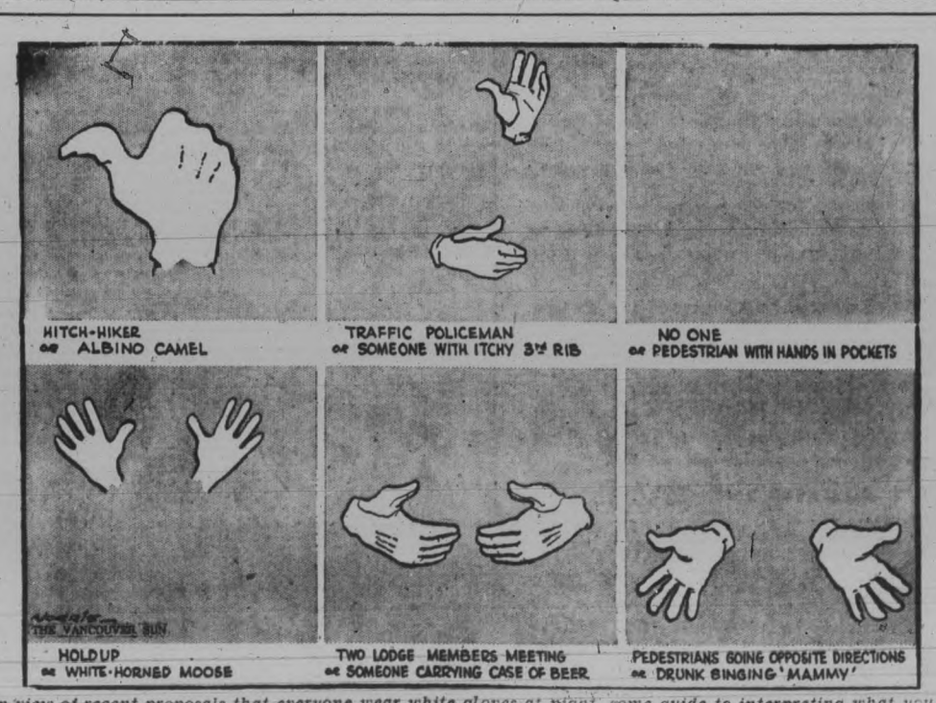
Although this unscheduled rest in the chapel revived the Queen, it imposed a strain on the multitude outside. As a result of the delay (a brilliant sun and "sundry deep potations" had their effect too) the "lower classes" greeted her appearance with some irritability of spirit.

But these occurrences merely marred the solemnity of the occasion; they in no way diminished the popular appeal of the spectacle. To the two million individuals who thronged London, Queen Victoria's Coronation was "the greatest holiday ever observed in England."

Academic Freedom: A Strange View

(CALGARY HERALD)

OUR contemporary, The Edmonton Journal, has been saying some very strange things lately about academic freedom. The Journal was concerned about some remarks made in a recent issue of the University of Toronto student newspaper concerning civil liberties in general and academic freedom in particular; and it was especially critical of an anonymous letter in which it was alleged that university authorites had restricted the freedom of faculty members to discuss controversial subjects.



"The general proposition that the administrative authorities of a university have no right to supervise or control the teaching," says The Journal, "is one that needs to be firmly challenged. Most Canadian universities are public institutions supported by the taxpayers .... The authorities are entitled to call upon the lecturer to choose whether he will be a university lecturer or a free-lance propagandist. He cannot be both."

"Perhaps," The Journal goes on, "the most disturbing feature of the Toronto row is that Stanley Sidney Smith, the president of the university, has responded to the letter by a statement that there has not been even the slighest tendency .... to screen anything taught in the classrooms of the university. If this is really the case, it is an appalling dereliction of duty."

We cannot believe that The Journal has realized the full implications of what it is arguing. If the case is removed to an Alberta context, we are presented with this situation: The University of Alberta is financed by the Alberta Government, which therefore to all intents and purposes may be regarded as the "authorities" which the Journal argues have an absolute right to decide what shall or shall not be taught on the campus. On this analogy, it would be quite proper— and presumably wholeheartedly supported by The Journal —for the Alberta government to decree that henceforth the teaching of economics based on the out-moded monetary theories of J. S. Mill and J. M. Keynes be thrown out, and that in its place be substituted a new school of economics based on the gospel according to Douglas and Aberhart. It would not be the first time this has been tried.

The idea of this or any other government being given power to censor university lectures fills us with unmitigated horror; yet no other interpretation can be put on The Journal's argument. Anyway, why are we so afraid of unorthodox ideas being discussed in university class-rooms? Have we so little faith in our own way of life that we are afraid to expose anybody to any other philosophy for fear they will decide overnight that it is better?

We believe that a university is the market-place of ideas— good and bad, sensible and silly. How are students to learn how to make a choice between the genuine and the shoddy unless they are allowed to look at both? After all, the only reason they are attending university at all is to learn to think for themselves. Are we afraid to let them?

In view of recent proposals that everyone wear white gloves at night, some guide to interpreting what you see is obviously needed . . .

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness. (Gen. 1: 3-4).

◇ ◇ ◇

O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles. (Ps. 43: 3).

◇ ◇ ◇

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his path; for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem ....

O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord. (Isa. 2: 2. 3. 5).

Thus saith the Lord; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jeruslem: and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth; and the mountain of the Lord of hosts the holy mountain ....

Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and from the west country; and I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and in righteousness. (Zech. 3; 3. 7, 8).

Alfred Laliberte, R.C.A.

(Montreal Star)

Those who are familiar with the heroic statue of Dollard des Ormeaux in Lafontaine Park—and what Montrealer is not?—will regret to learn of the death of the man who modelled it. Alfred Laliberte was one of the many Quebec artists who found inspiration in the adventurous past of this province. The names of Louis-Philippe Hebert and Suzor Cote immediately come to mind. Alfred Laliberte was of this proud company.

Mr. Laliberte worked for the most part on the monumental scale and will be remembered best for his work in this field, but, scattered about the world, recognized as fine work, are many of his portrait busts, medallions and medals. He will be remembered here, too, for having created on Ste. Famille street something that became an art centre in the city. It was he who built the studio building there which housed artists of such renown of Cullen and Pilot and still serves another generation of painters and sculptors.

Quebec is rich in artists who pursue the historical tradition. Alfred Laliberte was not the least of these.

Mrs. Northey's Rink Wins Warne Trophy 'Spiel In Exciting Finish In 10th

Not until after the last stone was thrown was there a winner Tuesday in the women's Warne Trophy bonspiel at the Peterborough Curling Club. Only then did bonspiel officials know who the winner was: Mrs. E. H. Northy's rink from Lakefield. The ending was a suitable climax to one of the women's most successful bonspiels in several years.

BOTH COULD WIN

All other games were completed in the final draw and only Mrs. Northey's rink was left playing Mrs. Jack Fanning's Peterborough rink. There was a strong possibility that either rink could win, but they didn't realize it.

Scoring the bonspiel on a wins-points system, the officials noticed that either rink could edge another Peterborough rink, skipped by Mrs. Muriel McCartney, for the trophy.

A STONE SHOT

At the eighth end Mrs. Northey was up 8-6, needing only a 12 to win the trophy. Mrs. Northey's final stone fell short on the ninth end, giving her only a two end.

But in the 10th and final end, with the skips ready to curl, Mrs. Northey was laying two stones She tried for a guard, but it went through for a third. Mrs. Fanning's first stone scattered the stones and left the button open. It also left Mrs. Northey's still laying three. Mrs. Northey's second stone was a good guard, but Mrs. Fanning took it out neatly, making the guard knock out another Northey stone. The guard stone stayed in, still leaving Mrs. Northey with a three-end and the Warne Trophy.

CAME AS SHOCK

The large gallery broke the good news to Mrs. Northey's rink who appeared shocked to hear how close the decision had actually been.

The victory gave Mrs. Northey's rink three wins, 34 plus one points, for the trophy and table lighters. Mrs. Muriel McCartney's rink placed second close behind with three wins, 33 plus one points, for train cases.

Other three-game winners and prizewinners were: Mrs. Jack Watt's Peterborough rink, third, rugs; Mrs. R. MacIntosh's Bobcaygeon rink, fourth, travelling irons: two-win high was won by another Peterborough rink, skipped by Mrs. Tom Doughty, for serving trays, while the one-game winner was also a Peterborough rink, skipped by Mrs. M. Holt, with oven servers as prizes.

SUMMARY FOR ROUND THREE

Mrs. McLeod 3, Mrs. Walker 10.

THE LAST END OF THE FINAL GAME in the women's two-day bonspiel decided a winner Tuesday for the Warne Trophy. It went to Lakefield's Mrs. E. H. Northey's rink but only after she scored a three-end for a final score of 13-6 over Mrs. Jack Fanning's Peterborough rink. That victory gave the Lakefield rink three wins and a score, 34 plus one. The trophy rink included: (back, left to right), Mrs. Northey (skip), Mrs. Harold Hamblin, (front, left to right) Mrs. David Charlton and Mrs. Clarence Coons. Mrs. Muriel McCartney's Peterborough rink placed second.—(Examiner Staff Phtoo).

Fain Trade Unusual Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—In contrast to the National League, Ferris Fain is the first American League player in 51 years to be dealt to another club after winning the batting championship the previous season.

Fain, who topped the circuit with a .327 mark in 1952, was traded Tuesday by Philadelphia Athletics to Chicago White Sox in a five-player swap involving the White Sox first sacker, Eddie Robinson.

In 1902, one year after the formation of the American League, Napoleon Lajoie, the AL's pacesetter in 1901, was sold by Philadelphia Athletics to Cleveland Indians.

The National League has been prone to trade its batting champions more frequently.

As recently as 1943, Boston Braves traded Ernie Lombardi to New York Giants for second baseman Connie Ryan. The lumbering catcher had batted .330 to pace the league in 1942.

Local Curlers Play At Quebec Seignory

Twelve Peterborough women, forming three rinks, will be among the 152 women curlers who will match skill with the irons and brooms at the Seigniory Club Thursday in Quebec. They'll compete in the first round of the 22nd annual competition for the Sewell trophy .

The Peterborough rinks include: Mrs. Jack Fanning (skip), Miss H. Fanning, Mrs. E. Riley, Mrs. I. MacGillivray; Mrs. C. Westbrook (skip), Mrs. C. Coons, Mrs. L. Inman, Mrs. E. O'Toole, Mrs. V. Selkirk (skip), Mrs. Jack Watts, Mrs. D. Norman, Mrs. C. Selkirk and Mrs. R. Turner.

Besides the Peterborough rinks there are entries from Toronto, Ottawa, Hawkesbury, Morrisburg, Pembroke, Perth, Arnprior, Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Buckingham, Lachute, Montebello, Outremont, Pointe Claire and Montreal West.

Play will commence Thursday at 9 a.m.; then Mrs. Fanning's rink will play Mrs. A. P. Hart of the Toronto Granite Club. Mrs. Westbrooke's rink meets Mrs. N. H. Chalmers' Montreal West rink and Mrs. V. Selkirk's rink plays Mrs. C. T. Cook's Ottawa Glebe rink on the 2 p.m. draw.

The play will continue throughout Thursday, Friday and Saturday with the semi-finals, finals and consolation finals (Sunday).

Each of the 38 rinks will play three 10-end games. The four rinks with the highest margin of score will play to a finalist for the Sewell trophy. Others will enter consolation play.

Take Heat Wins In Sixth Event

Castle Lee, owned by the H. and B. Stable of Norwich and guided by Bill Harvey, won both heats in the fifth and secondary feature.

PAY CUT FOR KINER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ralph Kiner, the National League's home-run king, is unhappy over the prospect of a pay cut.

The Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, who earned $90,000 in salary and bonuses last season, says general manager Branch Rickey offered him a 25-per-cent reduction as part of a retrenchment policy to recoup from the last-place club's financial losses.

Kiner, who has led or tied for the home-run crown for the last seven years, said Tuesday he considers himself of value as a gate attraction and feels he should be paid accordingly. He hit 37 homers in 1952.

Kiner added that he and the club aren't too far apart in their negotiations.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Even before many youngsters have their first pair of skates, their secret ambition is to become a National League hockey player. I'm one of that multitude and I still dream.

This week I've been a goalie, kicking pucks out of the net catching pucks in my mitt, and batting pucks away with my stick. I've been sensational. I've been like former NHL star, Dave Kerr. That dream started after a chat with Dave earlier this week.

During his years in the NHL with the New York Rangers, Dave helped to win a Stanley Cup and won for himself the Vezina trophy. He also won the admiration of those boys who saw him play or read about him. I was one.

Dave dreamed of a hockey career and set his sights on a professional career early. His exceptional ability for goal-tending, combined with hard work, sent him up the hockey chain quickly.

With Christmas presents, goalie pads and stick, he became the neighbourhood team goalie at 9. Soon he became a city champion as goalie for the Toronto city championship bantams. From there into juvenile and then junior when only 13 ! ! !

His reputation as an exceptionally good goalie spread and offers for him to play increased. He played for North Toronto, Toronto Canoe and Iroquois Falls in junior and then jumped into senior.

Still school-age, Dave goal-tended the Montreal AAA hockey club to the Allan Cup and then into the big time, the NHL, as goalie for the Montreal Maroons.

DAVE KERR

As Dave looks back, he compares the climb up the ladder like going to school, first public school, then high school and then college.

He remembers quite vividly his first year with the Maroons and meeting, on ice, such greats as Howie Morenz, the Big S line (Nels Stewart, Babe Siebert and Smith), the Kid Line (Busher Jackson, Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau) and others. Dave was among the greats.

Dave recalls that Morenz was the most sensational, adding that he had a "terrific shot" and who should know better than a goalie. Morenz also liked kidding the opposition, especially the goalies.

Once Morenz said to Dave, "Watch that top right corner, kid." But Dave expected just the opposite. Down came Morenz and he really attempted to beat that top right. But the red light didn't go on.

Dave hit his pro peak along with the New York Rangers. With teammates, Bryan Hextall, Ott Heller, Art Coulter, Mac and Neil Colville, Lynn and Muzz Patrick, Babe Pratt and others. Dave won the Staney Cup from Toronto. That same year he won the Vezina trophy, averaging less than two goals a game.

Believing that sports are good for a certain period and beyond that the athlete's only kidding himself. Dave retired a year later to settle into a private and more secure business, thinking of the future.

Like many former pros, Dave doesn't look back to the Stanley Cup or Vezina trophy days for thrills, but to his junior days.

His biggest thrill came while playing for Iroquois Falls in junior. Then they managed to squeeze the Northern Ontario title away from North Bay Trappers, but only after a brawl which left only Dave and one player for Iroquois Falls and a goalie and three players for the Trappers on the ice. They played short for a minute and a half without serious consequences.

He was so excited after the game he couldn't tie his bow-tie.

But his greatest disappointment soon followed for the Falls lost to Owen Sound in the Ontario finals.

Just as he succeeded in hockey, Dave has succeeded in private ventures as proprietor of the Empress Hotel and as a gentleman farmer.

Marines Gain Hoop Win Over Belleville

Throwing up a stiff defensive zone curtain in the second half and at the same time employing a fast-breaking offence, Doug MacPherson's Marines chalked up their first out-of-town exhibition win Tuesday night, defeating Belleville Moiras 50-46. A last-minute call invited the Marines to Belleville for the return match with Moiras; earlier this year the Moiras edged the Marines 64-51 at the Peterborough YMCA.

Marines used a zone defence during the first half but they didn't move with the play, allowing the Moiras' stars, Batchelor and Soules, to move in for short set shots. But in the second half, the zone defence tightened and shifted easily with the play, completely stemming the Moiras' attack.

Soules practically set the Moiras well out in front during the first half with his short set shots. With Batchelor, Soules counted 17 points to boost the Moiras up 32-28 at the half. Only effective rebounding at the offensive hoop by Hugh Dibben allowed Marines to stay within range.

MAIN SCORER

Dibben continued his rebounding and scoring in the second half, but Northcott was the main scorer. Guards Ab Stewart, Bill Edger and Gord Burns rebounded well at the defensive basket, then threw quick passes to Northcott for breakaways.

The defensive rebounding by Edger, Burns and Stewart was particularly good as well as the offensive rebounding by Dibben. Meanwhile Batchelor and Soules with set shots were standouts for Belleville.

Soules' first half total of 17 points (he didn't score in the second half) was good enough for the game's individual high. He was closely followed by Dibben with 15 and Northcott with 14.

With a record of two wins and a loss in their exhibitions, Marines will face the Orillia YMCA this Saturday night at the Peterborough YMCA gym.

LINEUPS

Marines (50)—Dibben 15, Stewart 8, Smith, Edger 7, Payne 5, Northcott 14, Burns 1.

Moiras (46)—McClay 8, Batchelor 12, Soules 17, Massey, Spafford 4, Gerrow, Muirhead 5, Dousett, Pamas, Fitzpatrick.

Petes Playing Twice Against Lake Placid

Jim Ellis' senior Petes hockey team will roam south of the border next week for an invitation two-game series with Lake Placid Roamers. The games, on Saturday and Sunday nights, will be part of the weekend's winter features.

Two years ago the Petes made their first visit to Lake Placid with whom several Peterborough players, such as Fred Mortimer and Bill McMasters have played. The Petes on that occasion lost both games, 5-2 and 7-3.

Baz Phelan said the Petes will play the games in the Olympic arena where such top figure skaters as Suzanne Morrow and Dick Button practice and where the New York Rangers used to train.

This year the Roamers are playing in a Montreal league with teams from McGill University, Loyolla College, the Montreal hockey clubs and others. The calibre of the hockey is comparable to senior "B".

The Petes-Roamers series is coupled with the North America bobsled runs at speeds from 50 to 80 miles an hour. These competitions will be held Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The Petes, after their Friday night game (Feb. 6) with Kingston Goodyears in Kingston, will leave for Lake Placid.

P Of W Juniors Win

Prince of Wales junior school hockey team chalked up its third shutout in as many starts yesterday with a 3-0 win over Queen Mary. Gary Billingsley scored first on a pass from Bernard Burns. David Drummond notched the next two, once on an assist from Terry Downer. Brian Donaldson was steady in the net to earn the shutout. Teams:

Prince of Wales — Donaldson, Curie, Curvin, Thompson, Davies, Burns, Billingsley, Downer, Drummond, Frost, Todd, Henderson, Andrews, James.

D. Hendren Leads

D. Hendren had high three of 749 and top single of 285 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League. A. Dixon's 488 was closest to the blind score of 475. Collis led teams with 3146 as Black's hit a high single game of 1128. Collis blanked Austin's, with 2-1 wins going to Curtin's, Cardinals, Marines and Black's over Sevenaires, Bassel's, Aces and Arcos in that order.

Good singles were: D. Hendren 285 and 255, N. Ephgrave 277, M. Morton 270, M. Behan 264, L. Miller 262, M. Selkirk 259 and 255, A. Stinson 255, J. Moore 254, E. Basciano 253, L. Vincent 253, and M. Bidding Starts For Athletes

VANCOUVER (CP)—The bidding has started for the all-star cast of Empire athletes coming here in 1954 for the British Commonwealth and Empire Games.

United States promoters plan to bid for U.S. appearances of Empire track and field and swim stars.

Eric Whitehead, of the Vancouver Province said in his sports column Tuesday that promoters in Seattle have tentative plans for an Empire vs U.S. track and field and swim meet.

Whitehead said the big bid will be for the flying Aussie, John Landy, who is knocking at the door of the four-minute mile.

The Americans, however, may have to stand in line. There is also a series of Canadian bids for the Commonwealth stars, and they may get first consideration.

The Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto is expected to make a bid for the stars, and across the Prairies places like Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon and Winnipeg may plan a show.

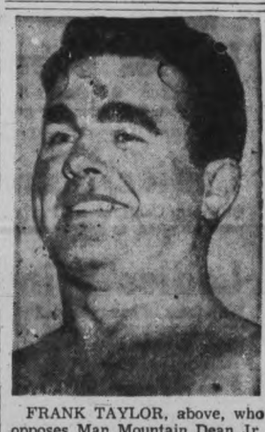
SINK SAILORS

In Brantford, the Redmen sank Sarnia Sailors 6-5. The win left the Redmen clinging to the fourth and last playoff berth. Sarnia is in fifth spot.



Redman Jackie Taylor sank a penalty shot and Arn Dugan, Sam Kennedy, Wally Hnatiuk, Don Oberholtzer and Bill Dinning added the other Brantford goals.

Sailors' Chuck Glabb and Don Emms scored twice and Jim Wilson came up with the other.

Referee Larry Lewin was kept busy. In the second period, he had police escort a fan from the rink for using bad language. Later a flying stick clipped Lewin on the eyebrow.

C's Manager Denies Sunday Hockey Plan

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — F. M. Rutherford, manager of Campbellford's TVL team, said today that reports that the local club wishes to try Sunday hockey in Campbellford are absolutely unfounded. The club has no thought of Sunday hockey, said the manager, who added, that he would not like to see Sunday hockey in Campbellford himself and would be against any such move if it ever did arise, which he does not think will happen locally.

Montreal May Lead League If Rangers Given Lashing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All Montreal Canadiens have to do to take over first place in the National Hockey League is knock over a tail-end club tonight. Since New York Rangers, besides trailing their nearest competitors by 10 points, bank heavily on a forward line that spends most of its off-time duty in sick-bay, the Montrealers' task doesn't appear too difficult.

But the Canadiens have found in past visits to Madison Square Garden that the Rangers can be rugged in their own home town.

Three times the Habitants tried their luck in New York and were willing to settle for a tie. The fourth time they took a 7-0 drubbing.

MAKE LIFE MISERABLE

Since then, the New Yorkers have rolled to an 8-2 victory over the first-place Red Wings in Detroit and have made life miserable for the league in general.

Their Plaster Line of centre Don Raleigh, who has worn a cast on his left wrist all season, and rookie wingers George Senick and Aldo Guidolin, who sports bandages on a broken left thumb and a bad right wrist respectively, still turns in a fair chore.

And there aren't any bandages on the high-scoring trio that murdered the Habitants on their last visit, Paul Ronty, Wally Hergesheimer and Neil Strain.

LOST ONLY ONE

The Canadiens, on the other hand have lost only one of their last seven starts, a 5-1 reverse at the hands of the unpredictable Chicago Black Hawks last Saturday. They blew a chance for first place Sunday when Detroit tied them to maintain its one-point edge.

Looming large in their spurt is the familiar figure of rightwinger Maurice Richard, a week ago Saturday, the Rocket got a lot out of his system when he spent 23 minutes in the penalty box to set a record for a single game. He then proceeded to go on a scoring rampage.

With five goals to his credit in the last five games, Richard again is spearheading the Canadien offence. And that generally spells trouble for Montreal's opponents.

The teams go back into action in Montreal Thursday night while Detroit visits the Hawks in Chicago and Boston Bruins play host to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Ask Private Enterprise Have Greater Role In TV

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government was urged Tuesday to give private enterprise a greater role in the development of television.

Spokesmen for the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties criticized government plans to licence privately-owned television stations only in areas not now served or to be served by the publicly-owned CBC.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) said the government's policy will give the CBC a monopoly on the "choice cities in Canada."

The Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-Macleod) said private stations are to be left areas where "they are liable to go broke."

R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) said he is glad the CBC is going into areas where it will have some chance of success. In the past the government had started or taken over some projects in areas where neither public nor private enterprise could succeed.

MAY BE RESUMED

The members spoke after Revenue Minister McCann sponsored a motion to establish a 26-man committee to review activities of the CBC. The motion was still being debated at the adjournment hour and the debate may be resumed Thursday. Today, members will discuss private members' resolutions.

Dr. McCann, who reports to Parliament for the CBC, said the government's policy is to make national television service available to as many Canadians as possible through co-operation between private and public enterprise.

Private stations would be licensed in areas not now served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Toronto and Montreal and plans stations in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Halifax. He indicated CBC plans may be extended later to cover other centres.

The policy to license only one station in a given area at this time would work "both ways," Dr. McCann said. The CBC station in Toronto, for instance, would be protected.

"But if a licence were given in Kitchener, Ont., serving a community of perhaps 500,000 people, a similar protection would be given in that no other licence would be given in that area at this time."

"I have mentioned Kitchener. The CBC has not designated that as an area to be served by them, so it will be one available for private stations."

OPERATING BY FALL

Dr. McCann said the station in Vancouver likely will be in operation this fall or by the end of this year. He gave no estimate of when the stations in Winnipeg, Ottawa and Halifax will start operations.

He said possibly Saskatchewan will be covered by stations in Alberta and Manitoba. If that was not possible, consideration would have to be given to a CBC transmitter in Saskatchewan.

The CBC stations in the main areas of Canada would be the foundation o a "nation-wide system." The stations would have "production facilities available to use Canadian talent effectively for programs that will be available across the country."

The stations would not be linked by a network for at least some years. In the meantime national service would be provided through the use of recordings. Private stations would be required to carry the CBC's national programs as well as their own.

Dr. McCann said "it has been suggested that under this policy taxpayers in other parts of the country would be paying for television operations serving only the areas where there will be CBC stations." That was not so.

IN FORM OF LOSSES

The $8,000,000 advanced to the CBC for television was in the form of loans. Programs produced in CBC production centres would be available to Canadians in many parts of the country through both public and privately-owned stations.

The government believed there should be television service available to as many Canadians as possible before licences are granted for two stations in any one area.

Mr. Fleming said the government's policy was "arid and sterile." It was absurd to suggest that cities such as Toronto and Montreal could not afford more than one station.

Private enterprise was prepared to go ahead with television development without cost to the taxpayer, but the government refused permission.

YEARS BEHIND

The government's policy had put Canada years behind the United Kingdom and the United States in television development.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) said the government's policy was a denial of every right of free enterprise. He joined Mr. Fleming in criticizing some CBC programs and regulations.

Mr. Knight said there was a lot of criticism of the CBC, but it come mainly from those who would profit from a lessening of public control. In the new field of television there was more need for public control than in radio, because it was a more powerful influence for good or evil.

Mr. Hansell said the taxpayer is being forced to support something he might not want to support. Every time the government had to subsidize the CBC the money came out of the pockets of all the taxpayers.

Overtime Decision Postponed To Feb. 5

TORONTO (CP)—A decision on whether overtime should be played on a doubleheader hockey schedule was postponed until Feb. 5 by an Ontario Hockey Association subcommittee Tuesday night.

The question arose as a result of a 1-1 tie Jan. 16 between Toronto Marlboros and Barrie Flyers. The coaches of both teams claimed no overtime should be played when there is a doubleheader.

Stafford Smythe, Marlboro manager, and Hap Emms, Barrie coach were absent from the meeting and decision was postponed. The question of a replay will also be brought up Feb. 5.

Thoroughbred Racing Boom Continues In US

NEW YORK (AP)—The thoroughbred racing boom which hit a record peak in attendance last year is reflected today in a big swing to the spectacular and lucrative $100,000 races.

Action of Delaware Park in doubling the value of the New Castle handicap to $100,000, making it the richest race in the world for fillies and mares, brings to 18 the number of hundred grand races in this country.

In the last six months no less than eight races have joined the $100,000 class, as track management seeks to attract the top horses running in the United States and abroad.

Howie Morenz, in the midst of cracking the old adage that "they don't come back," suffered a broken leg in an NHL game at Montreal 16 years ago tonight and died some weeks later. One of hockey's all-time greats, he had returned to Montreal Canadiens in 1936 after being traded to Chicago.

Flu Outbreak In U.S. Seems Waning

NEW YORK (AP) — The widespread outbreak of mild flu, grippe and other respiratory infections appears to be waning in most sections of the United States.

A country-wide survey today showed that flu-like diseases are on the decline in at least 16 states, with only three states reporting a sizable increase.

Elsewhere, respiratory infections are running near normal for the winter period.

The survey indicated the outbreaks have been more distressing than dangerous. In most cases the illness lasts only three to five days. Few deaths have resulted directly.

The four states hardest hit by infection a week ago — Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee and Minnesota — all reported conditions slightly improved.

HAVE SNIFFLES

Several notables have been stricken mildly. President and Mrs. Eisenhower have colds and sniffles.

Dr. Roy Feenster, Massachusetts director of communicable diseases, said most of the flu this year is A-prime type and not particularly serious.

"This year's flu is getting more attention because it is hitting all parts of the country about the same time, whereas it usually jumps from one area to another over a period of weeks," he said.

Dr. R. O. Saxvic, North Dakota health officer, estimated 8,000 to 10,000 cases have appeared in that state with incidence still showing a slight gain. He said the flue outbreak is the heaviest in "many years", but that the disease itself is relatively mild.

Quinte Juniors Get Win Over Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS) — The flashy Belleville Hawks, playing at top form, crushed the Lindsay juniors 9-2 in an OHA junior "B" hockey game played here last night. Hank Therrien, flying Frenchman of the local group, scored two solo goals, and played an outstanding game to lead the visitors to their win over the short-handed Lindsay crew, playing without three of their regulars, and far below the form they displayed in winning twice over Peterborough last week.

Pat Gilmour and Doug Hull also scored twice in Belleville victory, while Jacklin, Delbosco and Jones scored singles. Hal Williams and Ron Teel tallied for the losers, who dropped back into fourth place with the loss. Showing tremendous power and skating speed, the Hawks outscored the locals 2-1 in the first period, 4-0 in the second, and 3-1 in the third. They tallied four of their goals while shorthanded, and three while the Lindsay team played a man short. The visitors drew 11 penalties, including four to Delbosco, to the locals seven.

TOP-RANKING FILLY—Canadiana is the first Canadian-bred filly to receive high ranking in international handicap ratings. Bred and owned by E. P. Taylor, Toronto industrialist-sportsman, Canadiana was rated third among all two-year-old fillies of 1952 in North America by John B. Campbell, official handicapper for the Jockey Club of New York, generally regarded as the most astute weight-assigner on the continent. In addition Canadiana, winner of nine of her 11 starts last year, is 8-5 favorite in the winter books for the 94th running of the Queen's Plate, to be contested in Toronto next summer. Her regular jockey, Jose Vina, is in the saddle in this photo.

Taylor Horse Ranked Third Of All Fillies On Continent

TORONTO (CP) — Canadiana, bred and owned by Toronto sportsman E. P. Taylor, has been ranked third of all the two-year-old fillies in North America in 1952.

Never before has a Canadian-bred been rated so highly in open competition with American-breds.

The ratings were made by John Campbell, official handicapper for the New York Jockey Club, generally regarded as the most astute weight-assigner in North America. The only United States fillies which Campbell ranked above Canadiana were Calumet Farm's Bubbley and Mrs. Dale Shaffer's Sweet Patootie.

Campbell assigned 114 pounds to Canadiana, only two pounds less than the best of her sex, in the ratings for his annual Experimental handicap, in which he ranks the continent's leading two-year-olds.

Top weight of 130 pounds has been given, as expected, to Alfred Vanderbilt's remarkable colt, Native Dancer. In all, only eight American two-year-olds are rated ahead of Canadiana.

Chicago Full Of Pennant Dreams After Obtaining Ferris Fain

General Manager Frank Lane today was highly elated over his successful year-long attempt to purchase the 30-year-old first baseman who led American League batters with .344 in 1951 and .327 last season.

To get consistent-hitting Fain, the tidiest bit of trade bait that has been dangling for two years, the White Sox gave up their only proven long-ball hitter, first-sacker Eddie Robinson.

That others were involved in the off-season's biggest baseball deal is somewhat inconsequential. The Athletics also donated Bob Wilson, rookie second baseman who batted .269 for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1952. The Sox gave up outfielder Ed McGhee and infielder Joe Demaestri, both unsuccessful in previous flings with Chicago.

VIEWED WITH MISGIVING

The relinquishing of Robinson, 32-year-old power - swinger, who batted .296 last season, was viewed with some misgiving among White Sox fans who have thought all along that Lane was shopping for another long ball hitter.

Robbie in the last two years has driven in twice as many as Fain, 221 to 111.

Lane said Fain will fit in perfectly "with the definite program we've been planning at Comiskey Park for years in getting a pennant winner."

Ontario Ladies' Tankard Play Will Commence Feb. 3

The Ontario Ladies Tankard championships will be held at the Peterborough Curling Club on Feb. 3, with 16 rinks from all parts of the province competing.

Two rinks from each of eight divisions in the Ontario Curling Association will be entered. The rinks have emerged successfully from elimination matches in their own divisions.

Following is the draw:

Mrs. C. Schmidt, Kitchener vs. Mrs. C. Knapman, Hamilton Victoria.

Mrs. J. Rutherford, Kingston vs. Mrs. L. E. Wooley, Toronto Granite.

34 Penalties As Galt Whips Royals 8-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was as lively as an Irish wake in Galt arena Tuesday night.

In one of the scrappiest games of the season the Black Hawks walloped Montreal Royals 8-2 to move into a fourth-place tie with St. Catharines Teepees in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Defenceman Moe Mantha scored four goals while Bob Wilson, Pete Kowalachuk, Red Crawford and Minnie Menard each counted one. Sandy Morrison and George Betty scored for the Royals.

The loss was the Royals' third in their second invasion of the Ontario circuit.

34 PENALTIES

Harassed referees handed out 34 penalties — including 14 majors, four misconducts and a match misconduct—and police twice waded in to restore order.

Their services first were required when a fight flared in the penalty box at the end of the second period. Later they broke up a free-for-all on the ice with only a minute left to play.

In Windsor, Guelph Biltmores kept their playoff hopes alive by edging the Spitfires 4-3 and tightening their grip on seventh spot.

EDGE TEEPEES

In St. Catharines, Oshawa Generals downed the Teepees 5-3. The win left Oshawa in sixth place, six points behind the fourth-place Teepees and Black Hawks.

Bob Mader scored twice for Oshawa—once on an empty net in a last-ditch Teepee power play—and Stan Parker, Ken Collin and Jim Sinden added the others.

Junior Colleges Suggested To Ease Problem

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the University of Toronto suggested Tuesday night a province-wide system of junior colleges as the answer to impending problems of vastly increased university enrolment.

In his annual report Dr Sidney Smith said the effect of junior colleges "would be to make available to large numbers the opportunity for general education beyond secondary school, and to reduce the numbers who now enroll at universities but fail to meet their exacting requirements."

BORROW SOMETHING

The junior college, which would be sandwiched between the present secondary school curriculum and the university, would borrow something from each.

The royal commission on education, of which Dr. Smith was a member, recommended such a system and gave certain guideposts for its development.

The Ontario government has said the recommendation will not be adopted.

Dr. Smith's proposal differs from that of the royal commission in that it would make it possible for students to proceed to university strictly from secondary schools, bypassing junior college.

Order Publishers Send 2 Books

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Bradley Tuesday ordered all Canadian book publishers to send two copies of their publications to the National Library of Canada.

The order becomes effective Feb. 1. Certain exceptions are listed in the regulations published in the official Canada Gazette. Publishers who don't comply are liable to a fine of $25.

A similar practice is carried out in most other countries having national libraries. A home for Canada's National Library actually isn't built and likely won't be for another three years, but books shipped by the publishers will be gathered in the public archives, catalogued and stored until the new structure is erected.

Excepted from the order are publishers who ship copies of their books to the federal copyright office for registration.

A publisher who deals in expensive books will have to ship only one copy to the national library if its retail value exceeds $12.50.

Mother Committed To Mental Hospital

WINNIPEG (CP) — Katherine Hasewich, charged with the slaying of her two young children last Dec. 1, has been committed to Selkirk mental hospital, police said Tuesday.

The 36-year-old common-law wife of William Tytenych has been under psychiatric examination since the day following the slaying. Her name appeared on city police court docket Tuesday and a stay of proceedings on the murder charges was entered by the Crown.

The two children—eight-year-old Harry William Tytenych and a two-day-old unnamed daughter—were found in their beds with their throats cut. A kitchen knife with a six-inch blade was the alleged murder weapon.

12-Year Hunt For Lawyer Ends At Grave In Cemetery

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Postal inspectors said Tuesday the 12-year hunt for lawyer John M. Dredger Jr., accused of using the mails to defraud friends and relatives of $570,000, has ended at a grave in Northwood cemetery.

The inspectors, David H. Stephen and George H. Sadler, reported they have found "sufficient conclusive evidence" that a man buried nearly four years ago as "William Worman" really was the long-sought Dredger.

"The information has been turned over to the U.S. attorney," Stephen said. "As far as I am concerned, the case is closed."

Dredger, up to that time a respected lawyer and investment counsellor, walked away from his home in the Germantown section of Philadelphia Jan. 3, 1941. He carried a bulging briefcase containing records of the accounts he had handled.

SHORTAGES IN ACCOUNTS

Later, an investigation disclosed shortages in the accounts, and charges were filed against him. Creditors seized all his assets, including his home, and managed to recover about $8,000 of the $570,000.

Mrs. Dredger, who contended that her husband was only a victim of circumstances, had no resources, was reduced to "half a bedstead," she testified at one hearing. She finally went to live with a sister at Paterson, N.J.

For years, federal and local police sought Dredger throughout the U.S., Canada and Mexico, never found any positive trace of him. At some time in 1950 they began watching the house at Paterson, on the possibility that Dredger might seek to return to his wife.

In that watch, they learned that a man identified as "William Worman" has come to the house in Paterson in 1949, penniless and wasted by illness. He was then 69. When he died, Mrs. Dredger and her relative arranged the funeral, brought the body to Northwood cemetery for burial in the cemetery lot that John M. Dredger had bought in 1911.

Investigators, checking further, learned that the death certificate gave William Worman the same birth date as Dredger. They showed photographs of Dredger to ministers and undertakers associated with the "Worman" funeral, were told that the pictures resembled the dead man.

Success Of Science Expanding In Correcting Nature's Mistakes

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The great drama of the Brodie Siamese twins is science's growing success in correcting nature's mistakes.

Ever since antiquity, nature has been making cruel errors in fashioning new human beings. Numerous things can go wrong in the pre-birth development of a child, resulting in various conditions. Siamese twins are one rare result.

There are other bizarre kinds of accidents, even two-headed children or other malformations.

Until lately, medical science was virtually helpless in attempting to correct or prevent these or other more common errors and faults of nature. But now science is starting to chalk up successes.

The thrilling latest example was the attempt to separate the Brodie twins, Rodney Dee and Roger Lee, joined at the tops of their heads. This kind of separation has never succeeded before with either twin surviving any appreciable time.

The fact is that until recent years it could not be attempted with much real prospect of success. Unavailable were blood banks, potent drugs, better anaesthetics and other aids, and advanced knowledge permitting such hazardous surgery.

OTHER SUCCESSES

But science and surgery are winning dramatic—and almost routine—successes now in correcting other kinds of defects and faults by nature.

Heart surgery, for example, is saving children born with defective hearts. Clubfeet, malformed chests, and other conditions are being corrected very often.

More is being learned about how to prevent some of the malformations that can occur in human babies, while still in the mother's womb.

German measles, a virus disease, has been discovered to be one culprit, and mothers-to-be can be forewarned to avoid this disease. For if a pregnant woman gets German measles early in pregnancy, the virus can affect her developing baby, producing cataracts, heart defects, or other errors.

NO WAYS TO PREVENT

As yet there are no ways to prevent Siamese twinning.

The cause of Siamese twins long was thought to be a collision within the mother's womb of twin embryos early in life. The twins were thought to fuse, to remain joined by parts of their bodies.

Now it's known that Siamese twins come from one ovum or egg of the mother, which divides at an early age. Normally, these two tiny clusters of cells would go on to become identical twins.

But due to some delay or error, the cluster of cells does not divide completely. They remain in contact, as the infants develop, and the twins are born joined by the back, abdomen, chest, or head.

University Heads Study Professionalism

TORONTO (CP)—The heads of the universities which compete for college football championships have had a frank discussion about the threat of professionalism, president Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto said Tuesday night.

In his annual report he mentioned specifically the heads of McGill, Queen's, Varsity and Western, so the meeting must have been held before McMaster was admitted to the league late last year.

Dr. Smith said he hoped it was more than wishful thinking to express the belief the threat of professionalism in intercollegiate sport particularly in football, has been weakened.

Jailed 10 Days Drunk Driving

Harry McIlmoyle, Burleigh township, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for drunk driving and fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month concurrent in jail for driving without a license by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court here Tuesday. The car, which McIlmoyle said belonged to his wife, was ordered impounded for three months.

OPP Constable John McKendry gave evidence that before noon on December 19, McIlmoyle forced him to swing his cruiser off Highway 28 into the ditch to avoid a collision. He swung the cruiser about and pursued the McIlmoyle vehicle which pulled into the driveway of a general store, known as the Bruce Inn.

"He was very much under the influence of alcohol to the extent that he was stupid," Constable McKendry said. "He was the drunkest person I ever placed under arrest."

He said he took the accused to the county jail where he took his watch and threw it against the wall.

McIlmoyle said that it was a cheap watch that would not keep time and as he took it out he knew it must be wrong; so, he threw it against the wall.

Francis Tedford of Smith township was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to driving a truck without a license plate.

Mrs. Teresa Dettler was fined $4 and $2.50 costs for driving an improperly lighted vehicle. OPP Constable Thomas Armitage said that when he stopped Mrs. Detlors car on January 10 at the intersection of Highway 28 and the Buckhorn Road, the front right headlight was out and there was no red glass in the taillight.

Grizzled Army Sergeants Become Patient Teachers

The 64 apprentices quartered in this area—41 at the Royal Canadian School of Signals at Vimy and 23 at the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' School at Barriefield—are finding that life in an army camp can be much like that in any boys' school. Enlistment requirements call for a minimum grade eight education and many of the boys, like identical twins Ronald Gordon and Roger Allen Johnston of Sechelt, B.C., left school to join the apprentice squadron.

Biggest change for the boys is the fact that they are being paid while receiving military, trade and academic training. They receive half the pay of a private for the first year and then go on full allowance according to rank."

"SOFT GLOVE" VARIETY

Squadron Commander Major R.N Bindoff says treatment of the youthful soldiers will be of the "soft glove" variety, with a gradual enforcement of discipline.

And that's where the big change in army life occurs. Grizzled sergeants are becoming patient teachers. All officers and non-commissioned officers have been specially selected for the new job.

The soldier apprentice is signed for seven years but has the option of asking for release at the end of five years. During the first year of training, academic studies—mathematics, physics and English—take up 25 weeks and 19 weeks in the second year. There will be eight weeks of trade training during the first year and 15 during the second.

Each year the soldier apprentice will receive 30 days' leave with full pay and allowances.

The youths are in class from 8 a.m. and take eight 45-minute training periods during the day. After supper there is a supervised study period and then the boys are on their own until 10 p.m. when they are required to be in bed.

Mother-In-Law Trouble Too

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The John Barrymore juniors say they had mother-in-law trouble, but no marital spat, at the windup of their Palm Springs honeymoon last week end.

Mrs. Barrymore, the 26-year-old actress Cara Williams, said they invited her mother, Mrs. Florence Williams, Los Angeles, to their Palm Springs hotel for the week-end.

Mrs. Williams, said her daughter, announced that "I don't approve of this marriage" and "I don't like your husband." However, they took her to dinner and drove her to another hotel.

The second phase of the week-end which led to rumors of a honeymooners' squabble had to do with a cut on young Barrymore's arm. His bride said he was posing for some shots for a photographer friend, did a handstand but lost his balance and fell through a window. The arm cut required five stitches.

Barrymore, 20, son of the late "Great Profile," whose domestic difficulties made numerous headlines, said "we had no fight at all. I love Cara with all my heart."

Handyman 29, Held As Rape-Slayer

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—Police today sought a 29-year-old Negro handyman as the rape-slayer of a young mother whose knifed and garroted body was found Monday night in a house here she had occupied only two weeks.

State police Sergt. Louis Marchese said that William Davis was accused of the crime by his wife, Dolly.

Marchese said that Davis and his wife did part-time housework for Mrs. Penny Evans, 30, whose nearly nude body was found by two policemen after authorities reported that Mrs. Davis had telephoned them saying:

"My husband has just killed a woman."

CLEARANCE

We might as well be frank about it. We are heavily overstocked with all kinds of winter merchandise. In anticipation of a large buying spree by the general public for cold weather needs, we purchased huge quantities of wearing apparel for men, women and children. Due to circumstances beyond our control, we are stuck with over half a million dollars worth of goods which we must dispose of within the next thirty days. We must raise cash immediately and have reduced all prices to cost and even below cost — we had to — in order to try to turn the merchandise into ready cash.

Phillips Approves Water Fluoridation

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips gave his blessing Tuesday to fluoridation of civic water supplies. However he cautioned that the full benefits of fluoridation to secondary teeth will not be established for another three to five years.

No permissive legislation is necessary to enable a municipality to go ahead, nor is any grant-in-aid likely to be forthcoming.

Dr. Phillips' endorsation followed the report of the committee of experts on children's teeth and endorsation by the Canadian Dental and Canadian Medical Associations.

"Buy" Orders Set Record On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Floods of "buy" orders for low-priced speculative mining stocks Tuesday gave the Toronto stock exchange the busiest session of its 100-year history.

Hectic trading shot the volume for the session up to 10,567,000 shares, smashing the old record of 7,774,000 shares.

Two "penny" issues—both interested in new base metals discoveries near Bathurst, N.B.—sparked the drive with volumes of more than 1,000,000 shares each. Porcupine Pen moved 1,597,000 shares to gain five cents while New Larder U added 50 cents in a turnover of 1,232,000 shares.

At least 15 other low-priced mining issues traded more than 100,000 shares each during the 5½-hour session.

PREVIOUS RECORD

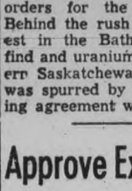
The previous record day was Oct. 11, 1951, when western oils were booming.

The market as a whole failed to follow the upward lead of the speculative issues. Industrials held firm with a gain of one point on the exchange's index while base metals dropped almost one index point. Golds and western oils also weakened.

Traders said they were "going crazy" trying to fill the rush of orders for the "penny" issues. Behind the rush was public interest in the Bathurst base metals find and uranium activity in northern Saskatchewan. New Larder U was spurred by news of a financing agreement with Frobisher.

Approve Expulsion Of Party Leader

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The executive of the Newfoundland Progressive Conservative Association Monday night approved the expulsion of Peter J. Cashin from the provincial party leadership.



The executive backed up a weekend decision by Mr. Cashin's four legislature colleagues that he could not continue as opposition chief after publicly attacking one of the province's two Progressive Conservative members of Parliament.

In a broadcast address Mr. Cashin charged Gordon Higgins, member for the federal riding of St. John's East, with using the issue of Newfoundland confederation terms to his own political advantage.

Suggest Plan To Beat Rustlers

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—In a move to combat cattle rustling in Western Ontario the Middlesex Livestock Protective Association Tuesday night recommended to farmers an identification plan — duly registered—for all commercial livestock. The identification process, if adopted by Western Ontario livestock owners, would apply to cattle, sheep, swine and other farm animals sold for consumer consumption.

Alarmed at the increasing cattle rustling in the province, the association also suggested closer cooperation with provincial police in attempts by the authorities to curb the rustlers. Although no definite figures were available on a province-wide basis the association felt loss to livestock owners through cattle rustling is in the "thousands of dollars."

Ted Bateman of Mount Bridges, secretary of the Ontario Beef Cattle Producers' Association, suggested that commercial cattle be registered with the Ontario livestock branch in a similar manner to the registration of purebred stock with the department of livestock records.

Pension Fund Inquiry Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) suggested Tuesday that the Commons committee on radio inquire into the auditor - general's comments on payments into the CBC pension fund on behalf of A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman.

In his report for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952, Auditor-General Watson Sellar referred to the CBC pension fund and said $12,000 was charged as an expense. The amount was to cover the full cost of back payments into the pension fund for Mr. Dunton from 1945 to 1951.

Mr. Dunton was appointed CBC chairman in 1945, but was not eligible for coverage under the pension plan until legislation was passed in 1951.

Mr. Sellar said the question of the back payments was still under review by the CBC at the end of the last fiscal year. However, "doubt must necessarily be entertained" as to the power of the CBC to absorb the cost of the back payments without contributions by the chairman.

Fire Guts Cottage

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—The wife of a local service man, Mrs. George Smiley, lost more than $2,000 in furnishings when the small cottage she lived in at the rear of Hickling's food market was gutted by fire Tuesday. Total damage was estimated at $3,500.

Meakes President Of Dailies Association

TORONTO (CP)—J. R. Meakes, publisher and general manager of the Sudbury Star, was elected president of the Ontario Provincial Dailies Association Tuesday. He succeeds T. L. Wilson, vice-president and managing director of the Oshawa Times-Gazette, who becomes past president.

W. J. Coyle of the Kingston Whig-Standard was elected vice-president.

Directors elected were: J. R. Bates, St. Catharines Standard; H. J. Shore, Welland-Port Colborne Tribune; Harold G. Burley, Sarnia Canadian Observer; P. S. Robertson, Cornwall Standard - Freeholder; R. L. Curran, Sault Ste. Marie Star; St. Clair McCabe, Thomson Dailies; J. F. Grainger North Bay Nugget; T. H. Kay, Kitchener-Waterloo Record; E. P. Ray, St. Thomas Times-Journal; Peter M. Preston, Brantford Expositor; J. Edwards, Brockville Recorder and Times.

Ban Swedish Movie

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP)—The Swedish film "Summer Dance," which includes a scene showing two young lovers bathing nude in a lake, was banned Tuesday from Saarland theatres. The government film review commission said the film was outlawed not because of the swimming scene, but because the board objected to the way an evangelical minister was portrayed.

Truck Demolished

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A light truck was demolished north of Lucan Tuesday night and its driver got away with only a broken ankle. Douglas Swift, 31, of London, who was alone in the truck, was released after treatment in hospital here. Police said the truck, owned by the Bell Telephone Company, slid sideways into a concrete bridge abutment on No. 4 Highway.

Changes Robbery Story

OSHAWA (CP)—Police said Tuesday an immigrant who reported last week he had been held up by two men and robbed of $197 has revised his story. They said Robert Bayer, 22, told them he lost the money in a crap game with two strangers.

CBC Programs Under Fire In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member of Parliament for Alberta constituency of Macleod, told the Commons Tuesday night that some CBC programs are open to criticism.

Speaking during debate on a motion to set up a committee to deal with the CBC, Mr. Hansell said he understood that on a recent play on Stage 53 a young girl was described as a "pale slut."

That was not a good phrase in a program that could be heard at a time when young people were at home.

In the story, he said, a Chinese cook attempted to seduce a teenage Canadian girl. Mr. Hansell said he had not heard the broadcast and "I don't know whether the cook succeeded."

END OF STORY

But the story ended with the girl marrying a Winnipeg widower.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said a broadcast Sunday by Michael Barkway, Ottawa correspondent of the Financial Post, was "straight government propaganda."

Mr. Barkway's broadcast, on the CBC's "Capital Report," dealt with the Currie report on army works services.

Study Industrial Promotion Question

Fourth annual inter-county conference on industrial promotion was held in Lindsay.

Representatives from the Ontario Planning Board acted the parts of United States industrialists interested in Ontario locations. Answering their questions were Mayor Charles Lamb of Lindsay, industrial commissioner Dan McQuarrie, and Chamber of Commerce secretary Harold Pollock. They were assisted by J. A. McQuarrie of the planning board, and E. A. Gomme of the community planning board.

Object of the skit was to impress on delegates the importance of being able to answer any questions that might be asked.

In the afternoon session, the conference was thrown open for discussion. Four of the main topics were: zoning for industrial and residential purposes, basis of assessment and taxation for industrial purposes, labor conditions, and the availability and suitability of land for industrial purposes.

Following the meeting, delegates were taken on a bus trip around Lindsay. Representing Peterborough at the conference were industrial commissioner William Burnie and City Clerk E. A. Outram.

Butter Price To Rise Unless Ottawa Acts

TORONTO (CP)—A dairy industry spokesman said Tuesday an order halting the sale of federal government butter stocks will lead to an increase in retail butter prices unless it is rescinded at once.

He described the government action, which went into effect Saturday, as "utterly fantastic."

The spokesman, who declined use of his name, said: "there will be a shortage if the order lasts 10 days."

GIVES SHOOTING VERDICT

County Judge John de N. Kennedy at 4:30 p.m. today will give judgment on the common assault charge against Donald C. Hall, 29, of Scarboro. Hall was originally charged with shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm to Melvin Tripp, 32, in a shooting affray last Sept. 27 outside Tripp's cabin, south of Apsley. Hall was alleged to have fired a couple of shotgun shells in the direction of the cabin; then Tripp emerged and winged Hall in the shoulder with a shotgun blast.

UP BLIND ALLOWANCE

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind have petitioned the Canadian government to (a) increase the blind allowance from $40 to $50 a month; and (b) eliminate the means test. Before adjourning the county council concurred in this action and a copy of their resolution will be forwarded to the Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, and the two MPs representing Peterborough county — Gordon K. Fraser and George White.

IUE DEFEATS UE

The International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL), in a vote Tuesday among the production workers of the Phillips Electrical Works Ltd., Brockville, defeated the rival United Electrical Workers 417 votes to 352. Two ballots were spoiled. Joe Wirtz, IUE-CIO Canadian co-ordinator, made this comment on the victory: "The CGE plant in Peterborough is next on the list. I am confident that once CGE workers are given the opportunity to choose between IUE-CIO and the old UE they will do just as Phillips workers did Tuesday . . ." The right-wing electrical union has now embarked on its third campaign to supplant Local 524, UE, as the bargaining agent among the production workers at the Peterborough CGE works.

May Integrate Drama Festival

Integration of the Peterborough Drama Festival with the Eastern Ontario Drama League, a branch of the Dominion Drama Festival, was proposed at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Festival held Tuesday evening in the committee rooms of the City Hall. John Londerville, western area representative of the EODL, spoke in support of the integration.

Peter McCombe, president of the Peterborough Festival organization, favored it but cautioned that the non-competitive nature of the Peterborough festival had advantages for inexperienced groups but will to face competitive adjudication which the EODL festival provided. A decision on affiliation was not made.

Mr. McCombe announced his intention to retire from the presidency, but his willingness to serve in some other capacity on the executive. Thanks of the drama organizations included in the Peterborough Festival were voiced by Robertson Davies. Mr. McCombe has been president since the festival was organized four years ago.

Representatives of five drama groups in the city and of the Recreation Commission attended, as well as others interested in promoting drama.

A nominating committee to provide a slate of officers was named, headed by W. A. Brown, to report at another general meeting to be held within a month.

Old Boys And Girls Return For Confederation Reunion

The Home and School Association of the Confederation Public School celebrated on Tuesday evening the 25th anniversary of the opening of the school. A short program was held in the large playroom in the basement and this was attended by more than 300 old boys and girls. Following the program tea was served, buffet style, in the kindergarten room of the school.

A highlight of the evening was the address of Mrs. H. B. Jackson, the first principal of the school, who served in that capacity for 16 years.

Mrs. Jackson told of organizing the school in 1927 with first classes being held in the basement of May's school and St. George's Anglican Church. Here the classes remained until the four-room school building was ready.

TRIBUTE TO PRINCIPAL

Clarence Porter as a member of the Board of Education and one of first class of Confederation School introduced Mrs. Jackson and paid tribute to her as a teacher and a friend to the boys and girls of the school. Jack Nicholls principal outlined the history of the school which received its name from Confederation year (60th anniversary) which was being celebrated in Canada the year the school was built.

Mr. Nicholls mentioned some of the former teachers who had given valued service to the school and also former members who served on the various boards.

Leo Copp, principal of the Peterborough Normal School at one time inspector of the Confederation School when it formed a part of S. S. No. 2 School Section North Monaghan, showed a most interesting film. This film was of pictures which he had taken during his days as inspector. There were numerous shots of pupils of 20 years ago who attended Confederation School. Recalling some of the faces and names provided an informal entertainment which went a long way to make the evening a success. Mr. Copp also spoke honouring Mrs. Jackson. G. Wilson Craw chairman of the accomodation committee of the Board of Education brought the greetings of the board and told of extension plans made shortly after the area south of Lansdowne Street became part of the city of Peterborough. He told of the problems the Board of Educaitons then faced with overcrowded schools and the difficulty in war time of building additions.

Mr. Craw said that in the years since annexation the Board of Education had spent $920,000 on school buildings in the section of the city south of Lansdowne St. He looked forward to the area becoming one of the most suitable residential areas in any part of Ontario with Confederation forming the senior public school and at least three junior or neighborhood schools. The Kenner Collegiate is the centre of secondary school education.

Arnold Olmstead, vice-principal told of the achievements of the boys and girls on the playing field since the school became a part of the Peterborough organization and he also introduced Mr. Copp.

Mrs. Lionel Monk, president of the association presided and during the tea hour former pupils had a enjoyable social time renewing acquaintances and meeting old teachers.

The rooms were open to inspection and old registers were on display. In this way former pupils were able to recall the names of boys and girls in the same class with them.

A happy social period followed with refreshments being served by executive members and conveners of the Home and School Association. Social convener Mrs. Harry Sutton was in charge, assisted by Mrs. George Kiff and buffet style arrangements were made.

Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bannon.

Dimes Useless In Market Lot

An average take of $10 a week in dimes in the collection of the city parking square meters is causing uneasiness to the official civic conscience.

Why anybody thinks of putting a dime into the meter slot is beyond the conjecturing of the city officials who have to do with the supervising of the parking system.

At one time it was thought that with experience the trickle of dimes would dry up, but so far there is no sign of it declining.

Another simple direction to prevent the ruffling of car driver tempers: Use the meter on the left hand side of your car. The meter designating your parking space is at the driver's side. All you do is get out and walk straight to it; no ambling around the back to get to the wrong collecting post.

And, no dimes . . . please!

Coroner's Inquest In Woman's Death

An inquest was to be held at the city hall at two o'clock this afternoon to inquire into the death of Mrs. Alexina Muirhead, 49, whose body was found on the floor of her upstairs apartment at 311 Louis St. Monday night.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said an autopsy performed yesterday morning revealed Mrs. Muirhead had died from acute pancreatitis and bronchial pneumonia. Her body was found by police and neighbors who broke into her apartment. Mrs. Muirhead, a hotel cleaning woman, lived alone in her apartment and had been separated from her husband Robert since 1945.

Car Insurance Rates May Jump 9 Per Cent

City auto insurance firms are expecting momentarily a new rate schedule that will announce higher car insurance rates for city and district drivers.

Only one area in Ontario was excluded in the general statement this week that the rates would increase. That area was around Windsor. There, rates will drop slightly. Here, they may be increased by as much as nine per cent, some agents expects.

Hexed . . .

County snow shovel operators may well believe that an Examiner photographer put the hex on them Tuesday. On the front page was a picture showing several idle plows in the county garage yard on River Rd. An overnight snowfall of more than two inches, plus the forenoon's heavy snow, gave them an opporunity to be up and around today.

Three Boys Spend Night Unsheltered

Trio Walked from City To Bethany Along Railway, Roads

Three boys of public-school age who ran away from their Peterborough homes Tuesday afternoon, early this morning were returned to their families.

They got out as far as Bethany —20 miles southwest of Peterborough— before their escapade began to wear a bit thin.

The three knocked on the door of the Bethany home of Charles Palmer about 6.30 a.m. today. They were cold after an all-night trek from Peterborough; a bit hungry; and they had only 25 cents among them.

After a bit of persuasion by Mr. Palmer, John Andrew, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andrew of 654 Hawley St. declared he was ready to go home.

But the other two—Victor Godfrey, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Godfrey, 688 Hawley St., and Douglas Wannan, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Wannan, 660 Little St.—refused to pack in, and they were later picked up by Provincial Police in the bush a mile east of the village.

NOT FROSTBITTEN

They had walked down the railway tracks to Cavan and then followed a township road to Bethany. Though the temperature was below freezing during the night, and there was a heavy fall of snow, none of the boys was frostbitten.

Early Tuesday afternoon they had left their homes and instead of going to Grove School where they are pupils, they decided to run away — maybe to Bowmanville or Niagara Falls; they weren't sure.

City police and the OPP were alerted and a description of the missing boys was broadcast over CHEX.

"They knocked on the door about 6.30 this morning." said Mr. Palmer, who is in the personnel department of CGE. "They asked if it was all right for the three of them to come in and get warm."

ADMIT RUNAWAY

When Mr. Palmer asked how it was that three boys of their age had been out all night, they finally admitted they had run away from home. He advised the boys to return home and offered to take them.

Young Andrew accepted, but the other two wanted to go on.

"If you're going to call the police we're going right now," they said. And they left shortly afterward.

In less than an hour they were found in the bush by Provincial Police from Peterborough HQ. By this time all of the glamor had faded from what at first seemed like a Huckleberry Finn escapade.

Laundry Workers Get Five-Cent Increase

Union and management at Fannings' Launderers and Dry Cleaners have signed a one-year contract that gives the employees a wage boost of five cents an hour and an extra statutory holiday.

The contract was signed Tuesday. It includes the unanimous recommendations of a government-appointed conciliation board under the chairmanship of Robert Stacey of Brantford.

Some 46 employees are in the agreement, including four salesmen and the staffs in the dry cleaning and laundry plants. Local 1112, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL) are the bargaining agents for the employees.

Besides the general increase of five cents an hour the conciliation board recommended pay for an extra statutory holiday— Dominion Day on July 1. And from now on overtime will be calculated on a daily basis, not on a weekly basis.

The work day is from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., and time worked over that will be paid for time and a half.

Car Rolls On Side

Arthur R. Murphy, 576 Harvey St., parked his car in a laneway at 78 Sophia St., Monday afternoon. When he came out of the house, he discovered that the car had rolled back out of the laneway across the street and over on its right side, which was damaged to the extent of approximately $95.

June In January

June in January has been an ideal of sentimental song writers for years. This January is closer to the ideal than most, but it is seldom that there are phenomena of August in this winter month. Late Tuesday afternoon the fire department was called out to a minor grass fire on Armour Hill behind King George School. It was doused without trouble.

Two Get Terms In Penitentiary, For $1,040 Theft

Three men who blew a safe in Belleville last Nov. 9 and then tried to break into the Beaver Lumber Co. here in Peterborough were sentenced today in Belleville.

Mickey Metrunitz, 40, owner and operator of a summer resort at Jackson Point, Lake Simcoe, was given four years in Kingston penitentiary. Another of the trio, Walter Johnson, 40, of Toronto, also got four years. William Knutsen, 29, also of Toronto, was given 18 months definite and six months indeterminate. All had pleaded guilty.

The three-man gang broke into the Trinidad Leaseholds office in Belleville last November 9, blew the safe, and escaped with $1,040.

TRIPPED UP

They were tripped up in their night of crime by some alert work by Inspector of Detectives W. A. (Bud) Clarke. Inspector Clarke, then a detective-sergeant, saw the men jump over the east fence of the Beaver Lumber Co. about 11:30 p.m.

He made a mental note of the fact that a car with the lights out was parked nearby.

Cutting his own lights he let his car coast around to the front of the Beaver Lumber Co. driveway and jumped the fence. One of the men approaching the office building, saw Clarke and began to run.

The police officer returned the fire and later a German Lueger pistol was found near the fence where the men made their getaway. A shell was jammed in the breech.

RADIO WARNING

A warning was broadcast over the police radio and later that night OPP Constable Tom Fitzpatrick, waiting at a road block at Highways 35 and 7, saw a car answering the description of the one spotted by Clarke.

He trailed it into Lindsay and just opposite the Lindsay police station he ran the car into the curb and arrested three men at gunpoint. A total of $1,040 in bills was found stuffed behind the rear seat of the car.

Rangers Douse Forest Fires

TORONTO (CP) — Ninety per cent of the forest fires in Ontario last year were smothered before they burned five acres, J. L. van Camp of Montreal, general manager of the Canadian Forestry Association, said today.

Mr. van Camp said there is "no greater injustice" than to suppose forest fire suppression depends on rain. He said provincial forest rangers last year coped with 1,095 outbreaks, of which only 16 were in the 100 to 500-acre class.

"Well organized forest services are happy if a timely shower comes along," he said, "but they don't sit on their haunches waiting for rain. Ontario's forest protection system has well-trained manpower. Last season's fine achievement must be credited in large part to the skill and diligence of those who man the fire lines."

Holland Drops Aid

THE HAGUE (CP)—The Netherlands officially announced Tuesday a decision not to ask the U.S. for dollar aid this coming fiscal year. The Netherlands has received $966,000,000 in aid under the U.S. mutual security agreement in recent years and had originally made a request for $15,000,000 this year.

Mail Services, Florists Face Problems If Railway Strike Occurs

Most Industries Report No Concern Felt Over Threatened Transport Stoppage; No Halt Seen In Federal Building Work

Some hardships are in store for Peterborough and district residents, should the threat of a general Canada-wide railway strike mature. Mail services will be particularly effected, although other inconveniences will face a number of private firms and other agencies in the city. A bulletin issued from the Post Office already, has given advance warning that mail services may, should the strike materialize, be seriously curtailed. Emergency measures to be undertaken will include an embargo on parcel post, including air parcel post, newspapers and other printed matter.

These classes of mail will not be accepted, several days prior to the effective date of the threatened strike, if delivery to the public cannot be assured by February 2.

Mail service to out-of-town points will be restricted to letters in their ordinary form; first class matter prepaid at air mail rates; medicines, including analyses, specimens and other similar items prepaid at nominal rates, sent to or from doctors or hospitals.

No restrictions will be imposed on local mails, for the time being. The Postal Department emphasizes, however, that the restrictions above are the minimum to be expected in the event of a railway strike. Further reductions in service may have to be imposed as transportation difficulties develop.

Postmaster-General Alcide Cote has issued a statement assuring the public no effort will be spared by his department to render best possible mail service by utilizing every alternative means of transport.

ACCEPTING EXPRESS

Railway officials in Peterborough stated to The Examiner on Wednesday morning that freight and express, except perishable goods, is still being accepted for delivery. Express shipments of perishable goods are still being accepted for district points, but not for distant connecting points in the United States.

Express is being accepted at the local offices up to Friday and Saturday, which can reach its destination by next Saturday or Sunday. All shippers, they added, are being advised their consignments may be subject to delay.

The present ruling applies to freight and express offices of both the CPR and CNR.

Railway officials contacted unofficially expressed hope the strike will not become effectiv., and a last-minute settlement emerge.

INDUSTRY UNWORRIED

A number of Peterborough industries and firms expressed views on the situation they are presently facing. The majority of them felt the strike would not seriously hamper operations, while others amplified on arrangements being completed to handle transportation, similar to those used in the last railway strike.

Canada Packers reported their local plant would not seriously be effected, since most of their shipments come by truck from within a 100-mile radius of Peterborough. The plant, it was added, makes all its deliveries in the district by truck. Only inconvenience, one official stated, was that curtailment would have to be made on some shipments of cattle which are brought here by rail from western Canada. Such shipments were not heavy, he stated.

Enough material is on hand for construction to continue on the new federal building in Peterborough for at least three months, a member of the construction company in charge stated this morning. One car of coal is expected this week, he added, and has been en route for two weeks previously. Very little coal is being used at present, he added, and there is no concern.

FRUITS MAIN CONCERN

"Perishable goods," comprising mainly citrus fruits and fruit juices from Florida and California are main concern of Peterborough wholesale grocers. They added, however, that van delivery through most densely populated areas was already carrying a great part of consignments.

Should the strike develop, one firm stated, plans could be completed for transportation used during the last railway strike. American heated cars pulled the perishable fruits and some vegetables from assembly points in Florida and California, to the United States border, at rail terminals in Detroit and Buffalo. From here the shipments were picked up by huge heated transport vans to Toronto. One wholesaler stated he had a carlot of bananas delivered by rail to Niagara Falls during the last strike, and picked it up by heated truck.

Canned goods are already routed through to Toronto and heated vans might also continue through to Peterborough, one of the major wholesale fruit houses in the city stated. Present contracts with

Chief Appeals To Drivers For Co-operation

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard suggests that motorists can help the drivers of fire equipment and prevent accidents by thoughtfulness in stopping at street intersections.

"I feel sure our Department will get public co-operation in such common details as pulling up at corners, just to mention one," Chief Leonard said today. "Last Friday a serious accident was narrowly avoided when a car driver pulled up too close to the street intersection into which the fire truck operator had to make a turn.

"The car was so close to the street line of the intersection that our truck had to make a wide turn to avoid it. We just missed cars on the side of the street opposite the car, and we actually nipped off a bus standard.

"If cars will stop well back from the street line, we should have sufficient space to make a safe turn from one street into the other. I think car drivers will all understand that situation and also how they can help the department by giving our apparatus plenty of room to make such turns."

"Another request to car drivers is this: please don't pass a fire truck when it is pulling up at a fire. Supposing one of our men is hopping off the truck, he naturally is thinking chiefly of the job in hand, and is not so likely to be looking for cars speeding by. The public can help in that case by stopping some distance back from the truck as it pulls up.

Another bit of co-operation from car drivers can help the Department. I know that the Chiefs before me have asked for this assistance, and I am just repeating it on my own behalf and also for the sake of the Department. When you hear a fire apparatus siren please pull over to open side of the road and stop if you can, until our equipment has passed by."

Chief Leonard said the public could help a great deal more than they realized, and especially if people would remember that the great increase in the number of cars in use today has accentuated the problem of the Department truck drivers.

Illegitimate Births Reported On Decline

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Tuesday illegitimate births in Ontario are on the decline.

He said that in 1945, the peak year of illegitimate births, 892 children were born out of wedlock in 11,360 live births in Toronto. By 1950 this figure had dropped to 688 out of a total of 13,618 births. More recent figures are not available.

More than 4,000 mothers in Ontario receive government allowances because of children born out of wedlock.

Refloat Vessel After 5 Days

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Norwegian freighter Kent County was refloated Tuesday from Little Bell Island, where she has been grounded since Thursday.

Kent County, owned by Westfal, Larsen Company of Bergen, had been waiting to load iron ore at Wabana, on nearby Bell Island in Conception Bay, when she slipped her moorings. None of her 40-man crew was injured.

Two other ships earlier reported in trouble now are heading for port under their own power.

The 7,000-ton British freighter St. Edmund, listing slightly to starboard with temporary bindings across a crack in her plates, is headed here with a United States Coast Guard cutter as escort.

The Icelandic freighter Foldin has repaired her damaged steering gear after drifting in heavy seas off Greenland following an Atlantic storm.

Search and rescue officials report she now is headed for her home port.

Missing Boy Found

LOWVILLE (CP)—Jimmy Johnson, 14, who ran away from home Monday, was found Tuesday at the home of his grandmother in Napanee, 165 miles away. Police said he hitchhiked all night to get there. The boy's parents said he had run away because fellow students at Burlington high school teased him about a cast he wore on a broken arm.

FRIGID SHRINE FOR WATER GOD—The Japanese children, above, have built this igloo-like shrine to honor the God of Water, which they believe comes to them in winter in the form of snow. Centuries-old ceremonies will be performed before a representation of the god. The annual winter ritual is observed in the north-eastern Japanese provinces of Niigata and Akita.

British Labor Party Sponsoring Wider Nationalization Program

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain's Labor party is getting down to cases on future policy, and it looks as though the word nationalization is in for another vogue.

If present trends mean anything, the party's program for the next election wil linclude proposals for nationalizing agricultural land, aircraft factories and some parts of the chemical industry.

That leaves out, significantly, three large industries which in the past have felt the breath of impending nationalization hot upon them. Labor's 1950 election program had sugar, cement and water ticketed for state ownership. Interest waned after the election, however, and it would seem a good guess that these three will be left in private hands.

MISSED BY ACCIDENT

Water's reprieve, if such it proves to be, will interest historians. It should have been nationalized seven years ago. A story which appears authentic has it that Labor party planners intended to include nationalization of water supplies in their 1945 manifesto, but accidentally left it out.

Now the tendency seems to be to regard sugar, water and cement as relatively secondary. At a time of economic crisis for Britain, labor leaders are saying, one of the most important things is increased food production at home.

The next step, naturally, is the possibility of nationalizing the land, an idea with which Labor has often flirted. Opinion at the moment appears to be against outright nationalization, but in favor of some limited form of public ownership.

Aneurin (Nye) Bevan, one of the left's leading men of ideas, gave an indication what may be brewing when he wrote recently:

"Speaking for myself, I would take over all rented agricultural land, so that the state could provide for the cultivator those functions which were formerly provided by the best landlords."

BIG PROPORTION

Later, Bevan explained he considers "rented agricultural land" comprises about two-thirds of the country's total land area. He said he feels the old landlord-tenant relationship has broken down, leaving many landlords unable to afford the equipment for modern farming.

Bevan also wants to nationalize "those units of the chemical industries which are monopolies or near monopolies." Fertilizers are of prime importance in any program for increased food production.

The aircraft industry, an important part of the rearmament drive and a big source of dollars, also figures prominently in Labor's new thinking on nationalization. The party, with its traditional penchant toward pacifism, has long objected to profits being made out of rearmament.

These new proposals mark what appears to be a new phase in Labor's approach to nationalization. For generations this has been an article of faith in the socialist creed. The post-war years and the experience of Labor's first majority government produced some second thoughts on the subject, and in recent years only left-wing speakers have openly championed nationalization. Others spoke in more general terms of "extending the frontiers of public control."

Adjourn Motion To Declare Mayoralty Election Illegal

TORONTO (CP)—A motion to declare the Dec. 1 mayoralty election at Cornwall illegal was adjourned to the late February sittings of the Supreme court in Cornwall.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale adjourned the hearing after he had been told that it not only would be costly but inconvenient to bring 24 witnesses from Cornwall to Toronto. The next Cornwall assizes will start Feb. 23.

The motion to have the election declared invalid was made by Robert Revie, defeated by a large majority by Mayor Aaron Horovitz. Mr. Revie alleges serious irregularities in the election, including the counting of ballots by Mayor Horovitz.

Peter Bolsby, counsel for Mr. Revie, asked that the motion be heard by a Supreme Court justice at Cornwall. He claimed that a higher court judge would have a "more detached attitude" than a local judge.

WANT IT SETTLED

Mayor Horovitz was represented by John Brooke, who urged that the matter be referred to a local judge at Cornwall to expedite the case.

Mr. Justice Gale agreed that speed was essential since the civic position in Cornwall is "in a very unsettling and dangerous situation" and likely will remain so until the present case is decided.

He suggested the possibility that he might not have the authority to adjourn the case to Cornwall, in which event it would be sent back to Toronto.

Last week, Mr. Revie was granted an election recount by Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson, who will hear the motion adjourned by Mr. Justice Gale. Mr. Justice Gale may yet hear the motion since the case is last on the February list and may have to be traversed to the April 27 sittings when he will be sitting.

School Patrols To Compete For Safety Award

An eleventh school will be added to the list of those which have instituted safety patrols this week when Queen Elizabeth School inaugurates its new program within a few days.

Queen Alexandra School joined the campaign on January 15, when safety patrols were begun at Barnardo Ave. and George St.; Barnardo Ave. and Water St.; Barnardo Ave. at Conger St.; Benson Ave. at the Normal School and Aberdeen Ave. at Chemong Rd. There are 32 patrol members under Capt. Ross Magee.

On January 22, a seven-man patrol under Capt. J. B. Paquette was inaugurated at St. Anne's School, with patrol posts at Chemong Rd. and Wolsley and Bennet streets.

The next school to be organized will be Central School, according to PC Don Mackay, who is organizing the project.

Meanwhile, the Miller Safety Award, presented by Alderman Doug. Miller, will be placed on display in a downtown store window, along with photographs of the various patrols in action. Judges for the award are Chief Constable John Thompson, Recreation Commissioner Alex Sinclair, and Parks Commissioner Arma Butcher.

Patrols will be judged on the basis of deportment; care of equipment; efficiency on duty; safety attitude of all students of the school; benefits derived from safety courts and patrol meetings, and support given by teachers. Frequent visits will be made to the schools and school areas by the three judges.

Constable Mackay said he had received almost 100 per cent support from teachers in getting the patrol system under way.

Nearly Drowns In Vinegar

BRANTFORD (CP)—A Toronto truck driver, Joseph Hadbavny, 26, was nearly drowned in a ditch full of vinegar Tuesday when the truck he was driving overturned near New Durham.

Hadbavny was thrown from the cab of the truck and was carried into the ditch by the flood of vinegar that gushed from the wrecked tank.

A passing truck driver and a farmer pulled him out of the ditch gasping for breath and momentarily blinded from the liquid

Sees Korean War Lasting 50 Years

CHICAGO (AP) — A former aide of Gen. James Van Fleet says the Korean war might drag on for 50 years unless someone at the top makes the necessary decisions.

That's the opinion of Lt.-Col. James C. McNamara, who was press adviser to Gen. Van Fleet, as given in an interview with the Chicago Tribune. Gen. Van Fleet, commander of the 8th army, is slated for retirement next month.

McNamara, who returned recently from his assignment in Korea, summarized his views on the Korean war Monday while visiting wartime comrades in Chicago.

The Chicago Tribune, in a story of McNamara's views, also quoted him as saying:

"We need more manpower in the 8th army. Gen. Van Fleet has not had the support he should be getting either from America or the UN. The UN troops are good, but they are only token forces.

"If Gen. Van Fleet had had the essential aid he needed he could have defeated the Chinese Reds in April or October of 1951."

COMPOSERS MEET—Thirty-five years after comopsing the popular song, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," Gene Lockhart (left) and Ernest Seitz performed together in public for the first time at a benefit performance in Toronto. Seitz, a pianist-composer, said he wrote the melody to the hit song as an exercise in melody when he was 12. Gene Lockhart, a former student at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and now a prominent stage and movie actor, wrote the words to the song, published in 1918. The benefit was for a $750,000 St. Michael's College centennial fund.

GIANT STRIDES

Again in 1952, Canada moved forward with giant strides. In every significant field of activity, 1951 figures were surpassed and new highs reached.

And once again the Royal Bank moved forward. Our assets advanced to $2,691,456,873, the highest ever reported by any Canadian bank. Deposit accounts numbered over 2,250,000. Total deposits passed the $2.5 billion mark—a new record—and a striking reflection of the thrift of individual Canadians.

In the rugged mountains of the Pacific Coast, on the fringe of the Arctic Circle, in cities, towns and villages from coast to coast, we built new branches and modernized others, to keep pace with the growth of a busy nation. Over 780 branches strong, the Royal Bank matches strides with Canada, a big bank serving a growing country.

Popular Quartet To Sing At Church

One of Canada's most popular quartet, the Commodores, are guest artists who will appear Friday at George Street United Church. They will be assisted by the church choir.

Brought together during the Second World War, the four were members of a large singing chorus in the Canadian Navy Show. Their off-stage harmonies were overheard and they soon became on-stage hits as a quartet.

Two are from Ontario — Carl Tapscott, second tenor and arranger, is from Toronto, and Donald Parrish, emcee and bass, comes from Wallaceburg; and the other two are from British Columbia, Harvard Reddick, first tenor, Port Simpson, and John Bingham, baritone, from Vancouver.

In their evening at George Street Church, they will be assisted by the choir under the direction of Charles E. Alleh.

CHESS MASTER—Abe Yanofsky, of Winnipeg, former Canadian chess champion, is team-captain of Oxford University which recently won the National Chess Club championship of Britain, defeating Lud Eagle, defenders. Yanofsky, studying for a law degree, won his final match with a 19-move defeat of H. Israel, one of Lud Eagle's leading players. Last September, Yanofsky, 27, finished in a tie for second place in the premier tournament of the second Open Chess Congress at Paignton, Devon, England.

Court Upholds $6,000 Damages

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday upheld an Ontario Appeal Court decision awarding an Ottawa widow $6,000 damages following the death of her husband in a dentist's office two years ago.

The widow, Mrs. Lee Robert Holt sued Dr. Percy L. Nesbitt after her 20-year-old husband died in the dentist's office while having a number of teeth extracted. An autopsy showed he died from asphyxia caused by the presence of a blood-soaked sponge lodged in his windpipe.

The action was first brought before the Supreme Court of Ontario and dismissed. The Ontario Appeal Court, however, awarded Mrs. Holt $6,000 and ruled that the dentist had been negligent.

Man Roaming Streets With Radioactive Bottle

Officials at the University of Toronto's school of applied science identified him as a middle-aged inventor named "Wilf."

Dean K. F. Tupper said he doubts the man is dangerous to the public. Police said they have received no reports about the man.

At the university, scientists tried to impress upon the man that he might be endangering himself by carrying around the substance, which set geiger counters jumping, but they said he seemed worried about the possibility of losing the bottle or having it stolen.

"Wilf" is described as a carpenter with some experience in prospecting for minerals and working in metals.

Forget Differences

BERLIN (Reuters) — Big Four occupation officials clinked glasses at a cocktail party in East Berlin Tuesday for the first top-level get-together in two years. The occasion was the retirement of Lt.-Col. A. A. Shaitan, the Soviet protocol officer, who is returning to Russia.

Birthday Party Ended By Fire

LAKEVIEW, Ont. (CP)—Karen Damm's ninth birthday party came to an abrupt end Monday when flames that destroyed a neighboring house charred the roof of her parents' home.

Karen and her four guests had just begun their party when flames from an electric heater ignited papers and demolished the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McNeil. When Karen returned her birthday cake was still on the table, its candles melted and drooping.

A third house in this Toronto suburb, owned by H. T. Longhurst was also damaged. Total damage was estimated at $10,000.

Fail To Get Chairmanship

OTTAWA (CP)—The Opposition tried unsuccessfully Tuesday to wrest the key position of chairman in the Commons defence expenditures committee from the Liberals.

They were voted down 15 to 5 by the Liberal majority. The vote made Col. David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) chairman of the committee and he started his proceedings by pledging that it will be "no whitewash" of defence spending.

The committee is expected to call George S. Currie of Montreal, the man who signed the controversial Currie report either Thursday or next Tuesday. He is likely to be the key witness in a searching inquiry into his report on the army works service.

New Timber, Fish Management Plan For Northern Ontario

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A timber, fish and game management plan that will "equal anything developed anywhere" will be in operation in Northern and Northwestern Ontario's 17 forest districts by next September.

This was announced Tuesday by Len Hughes, president of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association at the organization's 25th annual convention.

He said the NOOA has been advocating such a plan for several years to ensure timber and wildlife for the enjoyment of future generations.

The lands and forests department has been working along the lines of such a plan for some time and several restricted zones have already been set up.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES

The program calls for establishment immediately of committees in each of the 17 forestry districts. They will include representatives of the NOOA, department of lands and forests, timber operators and fish and game interests.

Each committee will divide its district into zones ranging from those that will be closed to others where activities will be unlimited. Some will be kept for private camps only; a limit of the number of tourist operators allowed will be set on others.

The committees will have the final word on use to be made of each area. They will meet monthly to whip the scheme into shape. It is expected that detailed maps will be one result by which a prospective tourist operator can easily see where there are openings and by which tourists can tell what type of zone they are visiting.

Travel Minister Cecile said operators of tourist camps, restaurants and hotels in Ontario charge excessive rates for food and service of insufficient quality.

He said quality must go up and prices down if Ontario resort operators are to meet competition from the United States.

Southwestern Ontario and the North Bay area are exceptions to this, he said, exceeding the northwestern and southeastern sections in the development of tourist accommodation.

He said pressure from American operators is getting greater every year, with better accommodation being provided for the casual traveller who is not particularly interested in hunting and fishing.

The minister also said that On-Wisconsin and Minnesota in opening a full-time office in Chicago for promotion of the tourist industry.

Supper And Tea Social Events Of Warne Bonspiel

Mrs. Wm. Archibald, the social convener of the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club, played a very important part in the two-day Warne Bonspiel at the rink this week though she was never on the ice. She was responsible for a most delicious buffet supper on Monday evening when bounteous servings were enjoyed by some of 112 'spielers' and a few friends, and on Tuesday afternoon she convened the tea which was the social highlight of the affair.

Assisting Mrs. Archibald with the supper arrangements were Mrs. J. Wocker, Mrs. Dick Miller, Mrs. Ian MacGillivray, Mrs. R. Green, Mrs. A. Clark and Mrs. R. Dixon and they were assisted in the serving by Mrs. A. Ingram, Mrs. R. Bastable, Mrs. D. Marshall, Mrs. D. Bell, Mrs. L. Reynolds and Mrs. L. W. Thompson.

For the tea she arranged a table centrepiece of spring flowers and tall white tapers and Mrs. R. H. Turner and Mrs. C. B. Westbrook were invited to preside. Servers were the new curlers this year: Mrs. D. Chamberlain, Mrs. Cliff Vincent, Mrs. G. Neiberg, Mrs. H. Dunham, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. B. R. Smyth, Mrs. L. W. Thompson, Mrs. J Smith and Mrs. C. Campbell.

Scriver, treasurer, reported that the Presbyterial went over the allocation when it raised a total of $12,892. It was voted that the extra money go toward two projects: Audio-visual unit for Canada, and scholarship for a girl from Korea.

New literature was on display and the secretary Mrs. A. Olmstead reviewed the books and pamphlets. A number of books from the Presbyterial library were also on display, with Mrs. W. H. Morton in charge.

During the dinner hour, greetings were brought by the Rev. H. D. McCormack, St. James' Church; Mrs. Carmen Bell, president, Peterborough Presbyterial WA, and the Rev. N. Cole of Hastings, chairman of Peterborough Presbytery.

After supper, a round table symposium was led by Miss Jean Hammond assisted by Miss Miranda Brown, Miss Gladys Langton, Mrs. Carmen Bell, Mrs. George Hill and Miss Anne Jamieson. Members are urged to be 'talent scouts' for girls who would enter the work of the church.

The closing message and prayer were given by president Mrs. Metcalfe.

HASTINGS SCHOOL.

Hastings Home and School Association met the public school. The president reported the show "Shooting Stars" had been a success. She also asked the members to keep in mind the annual home and school convention, to be held in Toronto.

Mrs. J. G. Thompson, program convener, then took charge and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. George Rigby, Sr.

Mrs. Rigby chose as her subject "Literature in the Home." She based her address on books she read and remembered, when she first started reading. She recommended good books for relaxation. She stressed that reading was a sin if work of the home became neglected.

Among authors she particularly mentioned were: Nellie McClung, Ralph Connor, Gene Stratton Porter, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Grace Livingstone Hill, Upton Sinclair and Lloyd Douglas. Poetry came in for its share of discussion and quotation.

Mrs. Thompson expressed appreciation for such an inspiring message. The Hastings Hayseeds rendered several numbers.

Woman Invades Printing Industry

TORONTO (CP)—The printing industry, traditionally a man's world, has been invaded—by a woman.

Attractive Mrs. Margaret Gibb, 38, was recently appointed acting general manager of the Monotype Company of Canada, and the men don't seem to mind it at all.

No stranger to the field, Mrs. Gibb started out as a stenographer in the general office 18 years ago. She became secretary to a man who moved up through the organization to president, and she followed right along with him.

The wife of a Toronto grocery-store operator and former stockbroker, Mrs. Gibb was quickly involved in a complete overhaul of the company's downtown offices. She says they are planning a coast-to-coast expansion.

Survey Accident To Children In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The institute of child health at Sydney University is studying answers to questionnaires sent to 50,000 mothers of young children asking what sort of accidents their children had been involved in.

When they have collated all the answers, research workers at the institute hope to present an educational and publicity campaign to save other children from accidents.

As any parent might guess, the answers show that 50,000 youngsters will experience just about 50,000 different sorts of accidents. But already the lecturer in child health at the university, Dr. F.W. Clements, has been able to tell parents some of the more common accidents.

These include: Falling while running with bottles or glasses, or with sticks, rulers or flags in their mouths; opening car doors and falling out; rolling off tables or beds; drinking anything they can reach (especially kerosene or fly spray); pulling hot saucepans or teapots on themselves and falling off fences.

Two Presbyterial Speakers Challenge "Entertainment"

Two clear-cut paths toward the theme of the WMS Presbyterial meeting of United Church members Tuesday were pointed out by the afternoon speaker, Miss Miranda Brown, a home mission worker with wide experience in western, eastern and central Canada.

The theme was "Enlistment" and Miss Brown reminded the ladies they are constantly hearing of the need of young men and women in the mission service. Therefore she asked that they first "Pray that the Lord may send more laborers to the harvest" and secondly "speak to the young people of the church at every opportunity about a future of this kind."

She wondered why vocational directors do not bring mission work before their pupils as a possible career.

Miss Brown's sub-topic for her address was "another version of a well-known Bible text: "Go ye into all of life and apply the gospel to every human need."

Stories from her experiences in school homes in Saskatchewan and Alberta, at the community mission in the seaport city of Sydnew, N.S., and as a worker of St. Christopher's Church of All People in Hamilton illustrated how Miss Brown has applied this text. "We are still confronted with a task that calls out the faith of the Christian church and tests it immensely," she said. "The Christian has the only answer to the need of the world."

Miss Brown also told the Society members that it is through WMS bales, as well as monetary donations, that many young people of the west come to know the Christian faith.

This speaker was introduced to the meeting by Mrs. R. Hanscom of Knox Church. Miss Brown has been 18 years in the work.

Mrs. F. W. K. Harris introduced the speaker for the morning session, Mrs. John McKillop, president of the Dominion Board, Toronto.

Speaking on "The World For Christ" Mrs. McKillop asked: "Have we faith to believe that the love of Christ can win the world for Christ?" She spoke of community missions all across Canada, Sunday School by radio and by correspondence; charges where minister have 19 to 22 churches and WMS are able to send in graduates from the training school who can take full charge of three or four charges from children's groups to women's groups as well as sermons on Sundays.

She pleaded for an enthusiastic Advance for Christ in all the work. The need for workers in Africa, India and Japan is great she said. Bible classes are held in strange places and the young people are crowding into these places but they are also crowding into the Communist meetings, Mrs. McKillop said. Oh! that we might be alive to the work that may be temporary.

The Christian community in Korea is going through a regular Gethsemane. A wonderful rehabilitation work is being done but extra help is needed, she pointed out.

"As we look over the world and see the nations in their turmoil and spiritual need, we would be enthusiastic in our approach to young people. They respond to their sovereign for war-time service—will they not respond to their Sovereign King of Kings. Shall we each help to broadcast the King's message on our own wave length?" she challenged.

World Scope Of Red Cross Emphasized By Frank Hull

The Red Cross has become at times too much of a local organization, Ontario division president Mr. Frank Hull of Toronto told the 37th annual meeting of Peterborough's branch Tuesday evening.

He intimated that perhaps members from time to time forget that it is primarily an international organization, although its services for the most part are aimed at a local level.

He referred to the recent international conference of Red Cross in Toronto, the first held in North America since 1912, and suggested that the society's international power had never been fully used.

Many members who attended that conference were aware for the first time of the size and scope of the society. The Red Cross "is not just another local charity", said Mr. Hull.

He touched briefly on the national blood service the Red Cross had pledged itself to, and mentioned that the cost of the free blood transfusion srvice had proved much greater than anticipated. At present it has reached nearly $1,700,000 annually.

Temporarily, other services normally offered by the society have been curtailed. This, Mr. Hull hoped, would be a situation that would not continue long. By the end of this year, he expected some way will be found to solve the problem.

Only committee report given in full at the meeting was that of the blood donor service. Mrs. C. J. Ray, the convener, reviewed the service's 10-year history in Peterborough and spoke of the work being done at present.

She said that the small charge made by hospitals for blood transfusions was to cover the cost of equipment which cannot be reused.

Mrs. F. E. Hooper introduced Mr. Hull, and he was thanked by Bruce Payne.

DOROTHY DIX

Adjustment Worries Widow Of Son and New Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: In a few weeks I am marrying Fred, and I am afraid of trouble between him and my seven-year-old son, Larry. So far they have gotten along pretty well together, but there are indications that this felicitous state will not last. I have been a widow for four years, and since I had to work to support the boy, I boarded him with a family in the suburbs. Consequently, I saw him only on week ends. Now there is an adjustment to be made between my own son and myself. I have given up my job and in the few weeks I've had Larry to myself I realize he has been babied. This is Fred's chief objection to him. He claims that Larry should be much more grown up, and is trying to push him too far. I feel that the adjustment should be made gradually. Fred feels Larry should begin to be independent at once. Larry gets along very well in school, has many friends, and has always made a favorable impression on adults.

OLIVIA H.

ANSWER: Larry seems to be in for a series of adjustments that would try the average adult. You're taking your re-acquired duties of motherhood too seriously, Fred is assuming the obligations of a step-father with all the spirit of a born reformer, and poor Larry is in the middle trying to fathom the meaning of all the sudden activity around him.

The child has already gone through one great period of readjustment after his father's death, when he had to learn to do without both father and mother in a new family environment now he is going through the whole process again. Both you and Fred should be more gentle with the boy and give him a chance to get his bearings. You wouldn't expect to uproot an adult and have him merge into new surroundings with no perceptible struggle; why expect a youngster to accomplish the impossible?

Before you marry Fred it should be clearly understood between you just exactly what your respective relations to Larry will be. Fred, as the newly acquired father, certainly should have some say in the rearing and disciplining of the boy, but his responsibility should not include tyrannical tactics. A seven-year-old is barely out of babyhood, and should not be expected to act like a man. The transition should come gradually, and if the child has been babied in his foster home, don't expect him to change overnight and suddenly become a self-possessed, self-reliant person. These things come through patient training, not suddenly.

TACT AND LOVE NEEDED

Your little triangle has all the makings of a domestic tempest, and it will take tact and deep love to keep the angles in their proper places. There is almost always a difficult situation to overcome in second marriages that involve children; a natural jealousy exists between the child and stepparent and each is inclined to regard the other as an interloper. Handling both of them in a manner to keep everyone placated and happy is a gruelling task for a woman.

Keeping in close touch with Larry's teachers will help you follow his progress, and she also will give you particular advice as to whether or not he is adjusted at his own age level. If, in the opinion of his teachers, he measures up to other children of his age, don't try to change him. Nature will take care of progression in her own time-tested manner.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady with a girl for almost half a year. I am 16 and she was recently 17. She'll be out of high school this year while I have still two years to go. Do you think I'm too young to go steady? Why are girls' parents so unreasonable and old-fashioned? They do not want us to go steady. We can have dates only on week ends.

N. D. E.

ANSWER: Your extremely well written letter certainly proves that you are more mature and intelligent than most boys of 16, and have earned the right to date a girl a year older.

Parents who impose such restrictions, described by you as "old-fashioned", are really just guarding the welfare of their child. There's nothing unreasonable about that. Your girl has generous dating privileges, and her parents are quite right to frown on "going steady" at your respective ages. You'd do well to cultivate some other girls, but if you insist on sticking to this one, prove your maturity by acceding to her parents' wishes.

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do to cure my husband of extremely bad table manners? He knows better, but seems to delight in humiliating the children and myself by his uncouth behavior. The children feel they cannot bring their friends in to a meal.

C. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Make it a point, in whatever way fits into your family schedule, to refuse to sit at the same table with your husband unless he observes the rudimentary rules of table etiquette. You and the children should have your evening meal before he comes home, then let him eat alone. He's acting like a child, and should be treated as such.

Keefe Braselle Appears Second Cantor

By BOB THOMAS

What wonders a little makeup wrought! Keefe no longer looked like the brash and handsome juvenile. His hair was slicked down and combed to the side. His eyes were darker (by means of contact lenses) and the eyebrows were more pronounced. The Cantor scar was simulated on his forehead.

He was a ringer for the banjo-eyed comic, even to a pair of outstanding ears. This was done by pulling the ears slightly forward. He can also pop and roll his eyes.

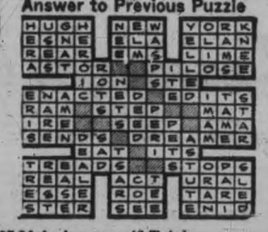
"The eye-rolling wasn't easy to learn," said Keefe, who is playing the lead in "The Eddie Cantor Story."

NOT CONCERNED

Asked if he were concerned over being permanently identified as Eddie Cantor, he said:

"Not at all, and I'll tell you why. When I was chosen for this part, only one person in Hollywood thought I could do the role: the producer, Sid Skolsky. Everybody else thought he was crazy to pick me. Now if nobody else thought I could play Cantor, it shouldn't be hard for me to go back to being Keefe Brasselle.

"This makeup helps, too. I look like Cantor in this picture. So when I play future roles, I'll look like myself."



In this regard, he may have an advantage over Larry Parks. The latter played Jolson without attempting to imitate the mammy singer's physical characteristics. Thus his own face and personality were closely identified with Jolson in the public mind. Parks has not yet been able to shake that identification.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Offer Beef Strogonoff On Special-Purpose Menu

For years I have been tantalized by a friend of curs in Montreal who thinks that Beef Strogonoff is the ultimate in flavor for any beef dish. But Beef Strogonoff calls for beef tenderloin. That puts it in a posh level that few of us can reach. But most of us can buy beef tenderloin on the rare occasion—and I discovered that a delicious Beef Strogonoff may be made with sirloin steak too. That decided me.

Tomato and Lemon Juice Cocktail
Beef Strogonoff
Fluffy Mashed Potatoes
Spinach
Lime, Pear and Orange Individual Salads
Crackers and Cheese Coffee.

Directions:

BEEF STROGONOFF

One pound lean beef, preferably the tenderloin (but sirloin or round from baby beef will do nicely), 1 pint fat free beef stockk, 2 tablespoons sour cream, 1 tablespoon thick tomato juice, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, salt, pepper? The simplest way to get the beef stock is boil a beef soup bone, but you can get it by diluting a can of consomme as directed on the tin, but this changes the flavor. Cut the beef into 1-inch squares, sprinkle it generously with salt and pepper and let stand covered 2 hours. Melt the butter and stir in the flour, then stir in the stock until thick. Stir in the tomato juice and sour cream. (Thus you have the Strogonoff sauce.) Saute the meat in another tablesppoon butter with the onion until it is seared on all sides—the heat must be high and you must turn the meat all of the time. When brown transfer the meat to the sauce and simmer for 15 minutes. Serve at once. You can see that the sauce on this is sort of like gravy and would be delicious with the fluffy mashed potatoes served with it.

NOTE: I have a venturesome friend who cannot afford the steak so blithely uses ground beef balls instead of the cubed steak, produces her version of Beef Strogonoff with no other changes. She is a wonderful optimist, and as a consequence enjoys Strogonoff often while the rest of us are wishing for it.

LIME, PEAR AND ORANGE SALADS

One package of lime jelly powder, 1 4-oz. package white cream cheese, 1 cup mashed canned pears, 1 cup hot pear juice, orange sections, lettuce. Mix the cheese and jelly powder and mash to blend. Pour in hot pear juice and stir until jelly powder dissolves. Add mashed pears and beat until smooth. Pour into moulds to chill. (This may be moulded in a large mould for it slices easily if you do not have individual ones.) Serve on bed of lettuce cups or shredded lettuce and garnish generously with membrance-free orange sections and pass.

Fruit Dressing: (Good on almost any fruit salad.) Whip ¼ cup of heavy cream stiff. In cold bowl beat ½ cup genuine mayonnaise with ¼ cup red currant jelly until perfectly smooth. Fold this into the whipped cream.

Last week I promised to give you a new version of Horseradish Cream, which we served with hot Spiced Beef? Whip until stiff ½ cup heavy sweet cream or sour cream. Fold in 2 tablespoons each well-drained bottled horseradish and extremely finely chopped pickled beets. Add salt and pepper to taste. Delicious with many beef dishes that do not include gravy.

Blame Top Reds For PoW Riots

TOKYO (AP) — The United Nations command today charged the two top Communist armistice negotiators with "direct responsibility" for bloody prisoner-of-war riots on Koje and Cheju islands.

The UNC quoted captured Communist documents and Allied intelligence reports in directly blaming North Korean Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate to the suspended talks, and his deputy, Gen. Lee Sang Cho.

The Allies said the uprisings, which cost the lives of more than 200 Red prisoners, were part of the "Communist campaign on the second front of the Korean war."

This was followed by the school built in 1878, which served as a High and Public School until the present public school was erected about 1900, and used as public and high school. One room upstairs was used as a Normal school, known as a model school.

Metal Boom May Help Control Fire

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Weary men battling two multi-million-dollar offshore gas well fires worked doggedly today to complete a metal boom to yank away a pipe spurting flaming gas dangerously near three other wells.

The boom was started after more than 30 shots from a 75-millimetre recoiless rifle failed to blow away the 11-inch thick steel pipe.

One of the wells exploded sunday and the other caught fire Monday. Both are on a wooden platform erected on pilings driven into the Gulf of Mexico 10 miles from the Louisiana coast and about 90 miles southwest of New Orleans.

If the metal boom doesn't work, two other plans are on tap.

The first would be to place the 75-mm. rifle on a boat and move in on the target from upwind for another try.

TAKES TIME TO DRILL

The second would be to drill another well and tap the burning well at its source about 10,000 feet down in the earth. A spokesman for the Pure Oil Company, owner of the burning wells, said this probably would take from four to six weeks.

Army infantrymen from Camp Polk, La., hit the T-shaped pipe on the top of the well several times with high explosive, armor-piercing ammunition but could not blast it away.

The weakened "T" pipe—actually a square steel forging with a hole bored through the centre—directs the flow of gas from the well. Flames spewed from the ends of the crossbar of the "T" and gave the appearance of two huge blow torches.

The roar of the flames sounded like 100 freight trains and the night sky was so bright a newspaper could be read a mile away.

Firefighters hope that if the "T" is blown away the flames will shoot straight skyward and relieve the danger to the three adjacent wells.

It would also allow them to come in and cap the burning wells.

Kidney Won't Work Boy Loses Life

PARIS (AP) — Sorrowing relatives prepared today for the funeral of Marius Renard, 16-year-old French boy who lost a valiant 33-day battle to survive with a single kidney transplanted from his mother.

Young Renard was born with only one kidney. It was injured in a fall three days before Christmas. Surgeons removed the damaged organ and grafted in its place a kidney taken from his mother, Mrs. Gilberte Renard, 45.

The boy's condition improved at first but about 10 days ago the kidney stopped functioning.

truckers would still hold good, he added. Storage facilities at Toronto would enable district van operators to also operate through eastern Ontario, he stated.

Florists are faced with a real hardship, since their product is fully perishable. In place of the telegraph delivery service, a prominent local florist stated, long distance telephones could be used, within limited distances. Express shipments of flowers and plants, however, would result, in the event of a strike, in a good number of varieties having to be brought in. Big nurseries already truck a good portion of their produce into Toronto, he said.

In addition, he commented, Trans-Canada Airlines would fly a heavy portion of flowers. The possibility also existed of major nurseries at Brampton and Port Dover using their own heated vans to meet demand of retailers throughout southern Ontario. A possibility already exists, another florist stated, of completing arrangement for trucking of flowers in heated van through eastern Ontario.

Areas most greatly affected, in the case of cut flowers, it was stated, would be districts not densely settled, and most regions of western Canada.

Coal and coke retailers reported that supplies on hand would enable them to fill all local needs for a period of at least several weeks. Mild weather throughout the present winter has not created any immediate demand for coal or coke, they added.

Deliveries to local yards are still being made daily, they added, while other carlots are still en route and will probably be here by the end of the week. One dealer reported no less than five cars of coal had been received on his order Wednesday, and more are still on the road. Estimates for time of arrival for coal, by rail, were from a week to ten days.

Continuing mild weather will also contribute greatly to conserving local supplies, while dealers anticipate no panic of last minute purchasers. The present situation was considered quite satisfactory.

Report Man Admits Newark Rape Slaying

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Police Commissioner Arthur Weller said today a man identified as William Davis, 29, had been arrested and had orally admitted the rape-slaying of a 28-year-old former actress in Westport, Conn.

Weller said Davis had been picked up by detectives acting on a tip from Brooklyn, N.Y., police.

Also picked up with Davis was a woman companion identified as Janie Allen, who was being detained for questioning.

Davis, a Negro handyman, has been the object of a widespread police search since Westport authorities found the partly-nude body of Mrs. Senada Coats Evans, estranged wife of Montgomery Evans 52-year-old writer and heir to a banking fortune.

Trade Mission In Venezuela

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, (CP)—Canada's goodwill trade mission swept into the second half of its bit Latin-American tour with an appeal Tuesday night for more trade aimed at Venezuela, one of the world's major oil countries.

"We are not 'fair weather' exporters," Trade Minister Howe of Canada said in a speech prepared for the Maracaibo Rotary Club.

"Canadian manufacturers and exporters have a reputation second to none. The only business in which we are interested is good business where both sides are satisfied with the contract made and the goods delivered.

"We are not in business only for today or tomorrow, but for a long time to come."

The mission already has visited Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and now heads into Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Cuba and Mexico.

Illegal Parking Charge Quashed

A charge of illegal parking on the highway against Gordon H. Smith, North Monaghan Township, was withdrawn by Crown Attorney J. A. Bradshaw in police court here today. The charge arose out of an accident which occurred on Highway 28 about two miles south of Peterborough on the evening of January 1, when a car driven by William Anderson of Port Hope crashed into the rear of Smith's light pick-up truck. Approximately $200 damage was done to the front of Anderson's car.

Anderson said that he was driving towards Peterborough at about 40 miles an hour, and lost his vision temporarily when the lights of an approaching vehicle blinded him. He said that when he recovered his vision he saw Smith's truck parked about 250 feet ahead of him, and immediately applied his brakes, but was unable to prevent a collision.

Defence counsel W. B. Gordon denied that Smithh ad parked his truck and the Crown Attorney asked that the charge be withdrawn.

Realty Brokers' Course Starts To Last 3 Days

A three-day course for members of the Peterborough Real Estate board started this afternoon, following a dinenr meeting attended by almost all local members, in Hooper's dining-room on Tuesday evening.

Doug Stewart, salesman, and a member of the Ontario Real Estate Board, will be instructor. Outline of the course, and an address by both Stewart and President Bert Willoughby of Ontario Real Estate Brokers' Association, featured the program.

A brief business period preceded the program. It was decided the 1953 fees to members of the local board will be $25 for brokers and $15 for salesmen. These amounts are divided three ways—one-third to the Ontario association, another third to the Canadian association, and the remaining third as a Peterborough budget.

Mr. Stewart, who is also director of education for the Toronto association, stated that the actual length of the course would be some 12 hours, spread over a period of three days, in which those attending would have free hours.

Most of the time would be devoted to discussion periods, although subjects to be dealt with would include agency law, architecture and construction, heating and basic construction, appraisals, law and mortgages, laws governing offers to purchase, listings, offerings, selections, and showing of property.

An examination will be held at the conclusion, Mr. Stewart stated, and those successful would be granted a certificate by the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.

A question and answer period followed the evening meeting, devoted to internal real estate business matters.

President Ross Thompson of the local association introduced Mr. Stewart, who in turn introduced Mr. Willoughby.

During the year 1952, arrangements had been made to instal a new organ. This is expected to be installed during the early summer and the financing of it has progressed so favorably that it is hoped it will be completely paid for when it is dedicated.

Point system for events: First, 10 points; second, 7 points; third, 5 points; fourth, 3 points.

With the returns received during the past week of St. George's and St. James' the total groups registered now stands at nine. The secretary is still looking for returns from Sacred Heart, All Saints, George St., Murray St. and St. Albans.

BRONZE ARROW COURSE

This Patrol Leaders Training Course will be held in Trinity United Church School hall on February 20 and 21. Your patrol leaders should get their registrations in now.

UNIFORMS

This part of the Scout program has not quite taken hold yet. In one or two other cities it is a going concern. We would suggest that every reader dig down and find out if they have any part of Cub, Scout, Brownie or Guide uniform around the home they would like to donate, sell or exchange and then visit the uniform exchange on Thursday, Feb. 5 from 3 to 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Sunday school or phone Mrs. Gordon Minty 6704.

ST. JOHN'S

For the third week in succession the pack has marked up 100 per cent attendance which speaks for its leadership, and the program involved. We were sorry to learn today that Don Searles has given in his resignation as assistant leader of the pack and put out a special appeal to any member of St. John's Church, who is interested in boys' work to join with Stan Purser. Akela's talk this week was on the danger of playing on thin ice, reading to the pack the drowning of the 6-year-old lad in Lindsay. David Gunn was presented with his First Star and Leslie Crump received his Second Star badge. Les will be leaving shortly for the Troop and has now earned the right to wear the Leaping Wolf badge on his Scout uniform. Special guest at the meeting was Hugh Plowman, president of Peterborough Fish and Game Association who spoke to the pack on trees, pointing out the danger of fire and speaking of the wrong way to use the axe. Peter Ford was presented his white neckerchief in the pack of which his mother was former Akela, and his father is now Scoutmaster in the same unit. The father and son joint service being with Skipper G. and his son Les some years ago. The pack practiced "Skin the Snake" and also part of work being put on during the annual banquet dated for February 27. The Grey Six took the lead in the group competition with 67 points. Tests passed: Public telephone, Leslie Crump, Jerry Sedgwick, Don Sherk; growing things, Gary Hamilton; highway code, David Irwin, Jerry Sedgwick; thrift, observation and first aid, Leslie Crump; signalling, George Boucher.

ST. LUKE'S

The Pack: Troop Leader Bob Harvey was a visitor to the Pack on Tuesday and took active part in the meeting, reading the story at the Red Flower. One of the main items of the evening was the choosing of the boys for field day activities with a game "storm" giving added zip. A few tests were marked up when Jack Steen, Don Ebbs and Wayne Miller passed thrift; Mike Rafarel, growing.

ST. GEORGE'S

The Pack went last week on a hay ride, returning to the church to receive a feed of hot soup, soda crackers and hot chocolate prepared and served by Mesdames Wilson, Black, Reid and Ferguson, members of Mothers' Auxiliary. Scout Wayne Ferguson was recommended by his Scouter for his Cub instructor's badge and started working with the pack this week. We wish him good hunting.

SACRED HEART

Following opening and inspection, instructions were given concerning the delivery of advertising leaflets to earn money for the camp fund. The next fund-raising driver may be in the field of salvage—rags, old iron, etc. A.S.M. Garlin led the troop in a drill based on the Alert and At Ease position. Another point discussed at camp fire was the securing of a rink for a skating party.

ST. LUKE'S

The Pack: Getting prepared for field day was on the program for the evening following the opening Grand Howl by Gord Sanderson. Names were chosen for the various events and practice will go forward every week in preparation for the big day. We had as our guest, Troop Leader Bob Harvey who took active part in the work and told the story at the Red Flower. Two of the Cubs put on a skit entitled "Cleanliness." Some more stars went on the progress chart as Jack Steen, Don Ebbs and Wayne Miller passed thrift; M. Rafarel, growing things; John Reynolds, artist; Bill Bonney, collector; Don Ebbs, birds and trees, and Bob MacDonald, first aid.

The Troop: 25 members of the troop were in attendance at the last meeting to take part in both training and games, the latter taking the form of "initiation" and "floor hockey." The troop was reminded of the banquet to be held on Tuesday, February 17, and also some discussion was held regarding the annual trip to Toronto. Tests passed: Peter Sanderson; knots; Wayne Ross, woodcraft, signs and salute.

5th ALL SAINTS'

The blue six came through to win the honor pennant this week at the pack meeting, at which instruction centred on hopping, ball throwing and knots, under the guidance of Akela. A jungle dance was put over in good style and enjoyed by all.

ST. PAUL'S

Thirty cubs were present as we gathered around the council rock for another study of field day events and "up the cub ladder," a demonstration we are preparing for the annual banquet. Bill Turner was presented with his homecraft badge, and Bob Shimer with the gardener's badge. There will be a church parade at St. Andrew's on Feb. 22. Michael Philp took the closing grand howl.

MARK ST.

Sixer Mike Berardi of the blue six led in the opening exercise, following which Richard Hewitt and Douglas Dixon were make full members of the Brotherhood of Scouting as they were invested. Both of the boys' fathers witnessed the ceremony and assisted in presenting their sons with their badges. Following a program of games and instruction, the pack dismissed at the grand howl, led by Bruce Cullen.

TRINITY

At the last meeting some 25 scouts were gathered in the horseshoe formation to take part in the investiture ceremony of Don Gibson and Douglas Hardwicke. Then came a period of instruction on Junior St. John ambulance, given by Harry Ferguson. Upon completing five more periods the boys will be examined as to their knowledge by Dr. Leslie Calvert. The proposed toboggan and skiing party at Kemp's Hill was postponed due to lack of snow. The troop hike scheduled for Jan. 31 will be held if we have snow by that time. There is also the annual father and son banquet coming up in February at which we expect a "coming up" ceremony similar to that of last year.

The last hour was enjoyably spent watching three films selected by scouter. The names of three patrol leaders were announced to attend the bronze arrow course next month, these being Bill Hendry, Sonny Hutton and Peter Chown. Eagle patrol won the patrol competition concluded at the meeting before Christmas. A new competition will be starting next week. The den is coming along very well, and the boys are hard at work on their patrol corners. Knot boards are being made with the best one selected to be on display in the den.

The Pack: The pack had a busy time at the last meeting at which Mr. and Mrs. Archer were special guests to witness the advent of their son, Roddy, into scouting through the investiture ceremony. A knotting relay gave the boys the opportunity of exercising their legs and ability before settling down to work, the result of which showed some 22 extra stars on the progress chart for tests passed. Allan Jamieson and Earl Daynes passed first aid; Ernie Seabrook, Bob Jamieson, David Clarke, Bob Gardiner, Terry Johnston, Jack Woodgate, Roddy Archer, Richard Kemp and Bob Gibbons passed leap frog; David Clark Terry Johnston, Jack Woodgate, Roddy Archer, Richard Kemp and Bob Gibbons completed hopping; David Clarke and Edgar Scrutan passed somersault; Peter Metcalfe, skipping, and John Allen Smith passed time-telling. A group took semaphore signalling under A. C. M. Rolly Hood, whilst the new cubs were being shown the outline of cubbing under the guidance of Akela.

ROVER CREW

Last Sunday the crew held its regular monthly communion breakfast. This breakfast was not well attended. Last Monday the crew spent the first part of their meeting in playing table tennis, checkers, chess and cards. For the second part of the evening, the crew discussed to some length the Rover proficiency badge, which we intend to include as part of our program this year. The Rover proficiency badge is a comparatively new addition to rovering, and it sure looks very interesting.

The crew has set $600 as their goal to shoot at, in order to send their representative to the 5th World Rover Moot in Switzerland this summer. At the present time the crew has several jobs in mind to help toward raising this amount. We are looking for odd jobs to do, and delivering pamphlets as well. If anyone could provide us with such work, please phone 20665 (after 5:00) and ask for Art Rose.

Divorce Court Veteran Judge Warns Man Against Four Kinds Of Problem Women

PENZANCE, England— (AP)—Judge J Scobell Armstrong, 75-year-old divorce - court veteran, warned men Monday night against four kinds of women:

1. Cats. "Let him see whether her eyes are warm, bright and kind, or whether they are catty. If they are catty, let him sheer off."

2. Saintly women. "Saints are wonderful, but rather difficult for sinners to live with."

3. The fun-mad type. "The wife who is always wanting you to go to dances, however tired you are, can be very trying."

4. Stupid women. "Marriage with a fool, however sweet and lovely she may be, is a drab affair for the cleverer partner—and she will give him stupid children."

His qualifications?

Ottawa Talks Paving Way For Settling Railway Dispute

Demands Wilson Explain Raid Staged For Guests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Clare Hoffman (Rep.-Mich.) today asked the House of Representatives to demand a full explanation from Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson for an Allied combat raid staged in Korea last Sunday before invited guests. The attack, known as "Operation Smack," stalled under heavy fire near the top of Spud hill, north of Seoul. It was witnessed by army and air force generals and war correspondents who were provided with advance timetables.

Hoffman introduced a resolution asking the defence secretary to explain "whether this raid was actually for justifiable military purposes or whether it was a show staged for some as yet unknown purpose."

The resolution probably will be referred to a House committee which may summon Wilson for an explanation.

ASKED FULL REPORT

Defence department officials said they have requested a full report from the field. They said they had no information on "Operation Smack."

Another Republican House member, William Bray of Indiana, said Wednesday he had demanded an explanation from the defence department. Bray, an army reserve colonel with four years' service in the Pacific, said he was "mad as hell" and "never heard anything like it."

A spokesman for the division which took part in the attack last Sunday said in Korea today that "to call the operation a dress rehearsal is completely wrong."

The spokesman, who could not be identified for security reasons, said he considers Bray's criticism unfair and added: "There are no theatrical trappings. Not a single one. This is a deadly serious business and every one over here knows it."

LIKE GLADIATORS

In a statement, Hoffman said: "I am sure our people want to know whether these invited guests were witnessing a spectacle similar to that where gladiators performed for the entertainment of invited guests in the time of the Roman emperors."

Hoffman's statement also said: "It is bad enough to fight a purposeless, unending war where the men who are doing the fighting are sacrificing their lives, but it is wicked to use them as expendable cannon fodder for propaganda purposes."

The attack, planned since Jan. 19, moved along on schedule — planes, artillery, tanks — until the infantry ran into deadly Communist groundfire and hand grenades within 15 yards of Spud hill's crest.

The spectators watched from a forward observation bunker. They were provided with mimeographed seven-page time-tables, bound in

Abbott Plans Record Expenditures

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has decided on a "stand-pat" policy on expenditures for 1953-54.

This was disclosed Wednesday when Finance Minister Abbott tabled estimates for the new fiscal year. Mr. Abbott dropped no hints on possible tax changes. The estimates contained nothing to indicate an early election.

The estimates for the fiscal year starting April 1 next provide for record peacetime expenditures of $4,404,976,236 compared with $4,375,737,184, an increase of $29,235,052 over the year ending March 31.

Both totals may be increased by supplem tary estimates tabled later to cover specific projects The estimates are a forecast of what the government expects to spend. All the money sought will not necessarily be spent.

MAY NOT SPEND ALL

For instance, money earmarked for public works projects sometimes is not spent in full. It is then revoted in the following fiscal year.

In his 1953-54 budget, expected in March, Mr. Abbott will disclose how he plans to raise the revenue needed to meet his multi-billion dollar expenditures.

There has been some speculation that Mr. Abbott will make tax reductions. His surplus for the current year may total $100,000,000. This, coupled with a forecast increase in the gross national production, might provide some leeway for tax changes.

Defence once again will account for approximately half of the budget. Defence estimates were placed at $2,000,795,000, a decrease of $930,000. But another $250,000,000 available in a special fund from past appropriations also will be used in 1953-54 with the result that defence spending probably will reach a peak.

EXPECTED TO DROP

Expenditures on defence production are expected to drop to $73,354,934 from $123,452,992 as a result of a tapering-off of capital assistance for defence industry.

Approximately half of the defence expenditures will be earmarked for the RCAF. Nearly half the air force total in turn will go for hundreds of jet fighters and engines which will come into use roughly twice as fast as in the current year. The navy, too, will bring its rearmament to a crest

Queen Elizabeth Fire Investigated

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) A Scotland Yard expert joined detectives combing the British liner Queen Elizabeth today for clues to the cause of a fire that broke out Wednesday night in a main deck cabin of the world's biggest ship. It was quickly extinguished.

"It might have been accidental, it might have been wilful," said chief constable, Charles Box, after the mid-evening blaze.

Reporting the fire, the British press suggested sabotage.

Scotland Yard sent a specialist to examine charred wood which had been carefully preserved after the fire.

Reuters reported that 600 workmen and all crew members were quarantined aboard the liner. Scotland Yard snapped out this order: "no man must leave the ship until a full inquiry has been carried out."

$300,500,000 Given Provinces In Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—Payments to the provinces under federal-provincial taxation agreements are expected to total $300,500,000 in 1953-54 compared with $284,778,187 this year, an increase of $15,721,813.

The figures were contained in estimates tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Finance Minister Abbott.

All provinces except Quebec now have agreements with the federal government. The provinces give the federal government almost exclusive use of the major tax fields and receive payments based on the value of national production and on population.

The payment to Ontario in 1953-54 is estimated at $131,000,000 against $123,327,363 in the current year.

St. Laurent Reports "No Strike"

Rail Tieup Silly Prime Minister Tells Liberal MPs

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper says today in an Ottawa dispatch Prime Minister St. Laurent is reported to have told a meeting of Liberal members of Parliament Wednesday night there will be no railway strike.

"Mr. St, Laurent was reported as having said it was nonsense to think of having a railway strike in Canada in winter," the paper says. "He said the people expected the government to see no such strike took place and he intended that one would not take place.

TALKS TO LIBERALS

"Mr. St. Laurent's remarks were made to the members of the 'rump' group of Liberal members of the Commons, the group that sits to the left of the Speaker on the opposition side because there is not enough room on the Liberal side."

Negotiations between railway and union officials moved overnight to Ottawa.

Report Amendments To Liquor Act

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper says today amendments to the Liquor Act ordering beverage rooms to provide snacks, coffee and soft drinks for patrons will be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

Under existing regulations operators have the option of applying for the right to sell light lunches in their premises, but the liquor licence board says only a few operators have made such applications.

Col. Arthur Welsh, chief commissioner for the liquor control board, was not available for comment.

Canada Hopes Japan In UN

TOKYO (AP)—Robert W. Mayhew, Canadian ambassador to Japan, said today Canada hopes Japan's application for entry into the United Nations "will not be held up much longer by Soviet veto."

"This United Nations is not a perfect organization. But it is man's best hope for the peaceful co-existence of nations. And for that reason, the United Nations remains the first plank of Canada's foreign policy. We welcome Japan's co-operation with the United Nations and hope that her application for membership will not be held up much longer by Soviet veto."

Three Top Generals Arrive In Tokyo

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U.S. Army chief of staff, and Lt.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander-designate of the 8th army, flew in for conferences with Gen. Mark Clark, the U.S. Far East commander.

The meeting came amid continuing speculation that the war soon will take a new turn—either in a full-scale Allied offensive or in greater direct pressure against the Chinese Communist mainland.

Tax Collector Hits Jackpot

Revenues From Income Tax Reach Two Billion Peak

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal tax collector hit a record jackpot in the 1951-52 fiscal year.

Latest figures published by the revenue department today showed that revenues from income tax, profits and succession duties rose to a peak $2,204,046,302 in the taxation year ending March 31, 1952.

This was an increase of more than $600,000,000 from the $1,556,875,000 collected from similar sources in the previous year and for the first time in the post-war era passed the wartime high of $1,635,494,706 collected in 1943-44.

This was additional, of course, to other revenue sources, excise and sales taxes and customs duties which amounted roughly to another $2,000,000,000.

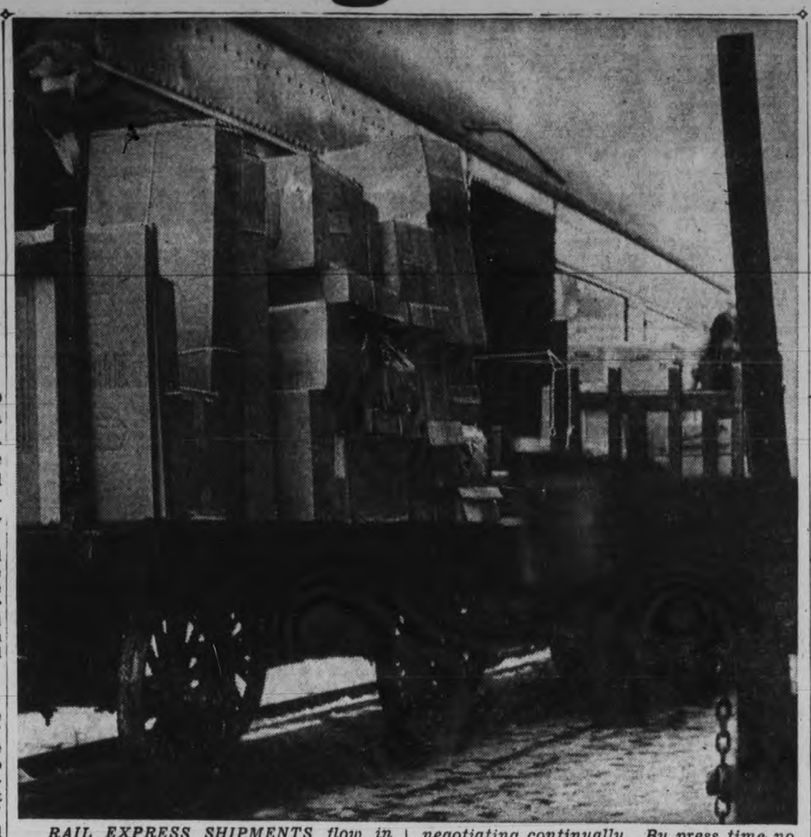
The shopkeeper, the lawyer, the baker and the big army of other Canadians contributed $975,776,320 in personal income tax. This record contribution, up from $652,328,680 in the previous year, exceeded the wartime peak of $813,435,128 in 1943-44.

CORPORATIONS SET RECORD

General income tax from corporations swept to a record $1,118,067,202, a jump of more than $400,000,000 from $711,576,735 in 1950-51, and almost four times the wartime high of $347,969,723 in 1942-43.

At the same time, the federal tax collector trimmed his collection costs to $21,873,960 from $25,174,064 in 1950-51 and from the record $28,103,621 in 1949-50.

Some $2,364,000 still came in from the excess profits tax which ended in 1948, but the yield from succession duties rose to a high of $38,207,985 from $33,599,000 in 1950-51.



BIG CONTRAST

The $2,204,046,302 collected in 1951-52 contrasted sharply with the $12,506,517 in 1916-17. The department estimated that in the 35 years since then — 1917-52 — the government got $17,846,565,797 from this group of taxes.

Ontario and Quebec contributed about three-quarters of the total.

Other provinces, with 1950-51 contributions in brackets, included: British Columbia, $239,463,705 ($149,064,858); Alberta, $91,030,280 ($71,411,626); Manitoba, $90,710,410 ($70,338,444); Saskatchewan, $34,397,747 ($31,139,066); Yukon, $1,564,123 ($1,058,101).

RAIL EXPRESS SHIPMENTS flow in more volume in and out of Peterborough as the proposed rail strike, that may become effective on Feb. 2 at 6 a.m., looms. Still striving to avert the strike cabinet ministers, heads of railroads and unions are negotiating continually. By press time no news of agreement had been received from Ottawa. The above photo was taken today at the C.P.R. station on the arrival of the train from Toronto.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Danes Receive Stern Note From Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government warned the Danes again today that it would regard the stationing of Western Allied troops in Denmark as a threat to the "security of the Soviet Union and other countries of the Baltic area."

In a stern note handed to the Danish charge d'affaires here, Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky said, "the Soviet government cannot overlook such actions of the Danish government." The note was the second Russian communication in an exchange on the subject with the Danes which began in October.

The note said the presence of foreign troops in Denmark would make the country a "direct participant in the war which is being prepared against the Soviet Union and the peoples democracies" by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which Denmark is a member.

It accused the Danish government of falsely claiming full support in Denmark for foreign garrisons "in order to try to conceal the danger such a policy holds for Denmark." The note contended that many Danish leaders and sections of the press there had openly warned against such a step.

In Copenhagen, the Danish foreign office said it had not yet received the latest Soviet note but the warning had been expected.

FBI Accepts Story About Rail

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (CP)—Federal bureau of investigation officials said Wednesday they believe the "almost unbelievable" story of a 13-year-old boy that he was responsible for putting an 800-pound piece of rail across a railway track near here Sunday.

But for the angle at which the rail was lying on the track the Montreal-bound express train, the Maple Leaf, which hit it while travelling 70 miles an hour, would have been derailed, officials said. The train had 125 passengers aboard.

Earlier police said it would have taken four or six men to lift the rail onto the tracks.

The unidentified boy said he was playing near the track when he accidentally tilted the 30-foot rail and it started to slide across the tracks.

Missing Plane Safe

OTTAWA (CP)—An RCAF plane missing on a flight to Trenton, returned to its base at nearby Rockcliffe airport today, apparently undamaged.

RCAF officials said the pilot, whose name was not released, has not yet reported what caused him to turn back on the 140-mile flight in a Norseman aircraft.

Study Minor Items In Currie Report

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons defence expenditures committee agreed unanimously today to concentrate on the less-controversial sections of the Currie report. In its study of the 74-page document, it decided to skip section one, the section whose general statements have provoked the hottest debate in the Commons. The members decided to call George S. Currie, the accountant who signed the report, on Tuesday and to concentrate on the last three sections—those which deal largely with his proposals for strengthening the army works services.

They accepted a sub-committee's proposal that they skip part one of the report. That is the section which refers in general terms to a breakdown in the control of the works services, to "serious" flaws in security and to an "indifference to administration" among defence "higher-ups."

The committee launched its studies by hearing the defence department's legal advisor, Brig. W. T. Lawson give the background of the RCMP Petawawa thefts, the spark which led to the Currie investigation and to a dozen convictions in the courts.

NO PROSECUTIONS PENDING

Brig. Lawson disclosed that Major F. G. Pumple was discharged from the army after a hearing by Maj.-Gen. Howard Graham, central command chief. He was one of the four top men in the army works detachment at Petawawa. The other three, Maj. A. R. Elmer, Capt. Boldock and Staff Sgt. J. M. Young all are in prison. The brigadier said no further prosecutions are pending.

He disclosed, too, that the army Provost Corps was the first to come up with the now-celebrated statement that horses got on the army payroll as non-existent laborers. (This statement was repeated in the Currie report and denied by the government).

Brig. Lawson said further investigation showed the Provost finding to be untrue.

He said the accounting system at the Petawawa detachment was under army investigation before an anonymous letter in 1951 set off a police investigation into irregularities.

However the accounting check had found no sign of the conspiracy. The police had found that.

Begin Fingerprinting Employees At UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—American employees of the United Nations lined up today for fingerprinting as the first step of a new loyalty check.

The fingerprinting began with a few women secretaries late Wednesday, shortly after the chief U.S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., arranged with U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie for the screening machinery. Today the process was to extend to the rest of the 1,681 American citizens on the UN payroll.

Next each American will fill out a questionnaire which asks among other questions: "Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist party or any Communist or Fascist organization?"

The findings will be given to Lie to act on. If he and his new three-man confidential advisory panel on subversion headed by Canada's Leonard W. Brockington, decide to fire someone marked suspicious, the employee can appeal to the UN joint staff board.

Charge 5,000 Sold Monthly

U.K. Investigates Slave Market Reports

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Britain is looking into charges that her African protectorates are shipping at least 5,000 Negroes each month for sale in the slave markets of Saudi Arabia and Yemen.

The British government doesn't think the charges are true, but it has begun an investigation. The inquiry is complicated by the fact that slave markets are legal in Saudi Arabia and Yemen and neither country so far has revealed its sources of supply.

Both countries, the UN's anti-slavery section said today, have ignored questionnaires sent them on slavery and forced labor.

Britain's UN delegation also revealed, in answer to a query from the UN, that slavery still is legal in the oil-rich sheikdom of Kuwait, on the northwest coast of the Persian Gulf, but that actual buying and selling of slaves now is prohibited there. Kuwait is under British protection.

PERMITTED BY LAW

Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Kuwait all are Moslem countries and Moslem law permits slavery and slave trading.

The charges of large-scale slave traffic between Britain's African possessions and the Arabian kingdoms originated with Jacques Alain who described himself in a communication to the UN commission on human rights as a French explorer living in North Africa

Both British authorities and UN officials said they knew nothing about Alain.

Alain said the slave trade worked like this:

Armed, whip-swinging raiders swoop down on native villages isolated around the fringes of the Sahara and in the central African jungles. Those captured are chained together and marched by secret trails to hidden "slave coves" on the Red sea where they are loaded on rickety ships and taken to Saudi Arabia for distribution.

New Conference Follows Cabinet Session

OTTAWA (CP)—A new conference between the railways and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen which has called a strike for Monday was arranged for 3 p.m. today at meetings between the disputants and cabinet members. Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the resumption of negotiations after individual meetings with union and company heads who had been called here overnight when discussions bogged down at Montreal. The Prime Minister said the new meeting is being held at the suggestion of the ministers, but he declined to give any details of the three-hour sessions.

Asked if the government had made any suggestions to the parties on settlement terms, the Prime Minister said the government "has had nothing to say to them in this respect."

A. J. Kelly, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said after the morning meeting that he hopes the possible afternoon session will "clear the air somewhat."

TAKE TURNS

"We are most anxious to do that if it is at all possible," he said.

Immediately after the union group left the Prime Minister's office at 11:50 a.m. EST, the presidents of the two major railways followed them into the conference room.

With Mr. St. Laurent were Labor Minister Gregg and Transport Minister Chevrier.

The morning conference Mr. Kelly said was devoted largely to explanation by the union men of points of difference between the Brotherhood and the railways.

He said these differences "have narrowed down materially" in the last day or so, but said this had not resulted from the meeting with the ministers.

Mr. Kelly said the government did not make any specific proposals for a settlement.

He said he is not sure who originated the suggestion for this afternoon's proposed meeting, adding it just developed out of a general discussion.

NEW CONFERENCES

The government boosted the stalled negotiators into a new series of conferences Wednesday and then—after doubt cropped up as to the outcome—Mr. Gregg summoned the negotiators to Ottawa. They came.

Top-level informants represented the government as being unwilling to let the dispute go to a strike. It was stated that the general view of cabinet—though no definite decision has been taken—is that the 1951 Emergency Powers Act should be invoked in advance of a tie-up.

Though Mr. St. Laurent has this backing of his ministers up his sleeve, it was not known whether he would actually place it before the union-company conferees.

The government's newest move was one of several swift developments during a long series of on-and-off negotiations between the

Total Moon Eclipse Expected Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Sky watchers will be able to see at least part of a total eclipse of the moon early tonight if weather conditions are right.

The moon rises here at 5:01 p.m. EST. But the eclipse will start seven minutes earlier, entering the umbra (the dark part) of the earth's shadow.

The eclipse will become total at 6:05 p.m., with the moon staying darkened until 7:30 p.m.

After the total eclipse is over, the moon will not be completely free of the earth's shadow until 9:55 p.m. EST.

Cardinal Owner Saigh Jailed, Must Sell Team

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A meteoric, sometimes turbulent rise to baseball success appeared at an end today for Fred Saigh, owner of St. Louis Cardinals, who was sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000 for federal income-tax evasion.

The dapper 48-year-old Saigh pleaded no defence in a five-count indictment Wednesday and threw himself on the mercy of the court. The government dropped three of the five counts.

Federal Judge Roy Harper sentenced Saigh to 15 months in prison on each count, the sentence to run concurrently. He also fined him $10,000 on one count and $5,000 on the second.

Maximum penalty on each count is up to five years' imprisonment or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

MUST SELL CARDS

Saigh had to control his voice as he rose to address the court.

"This means, of course, I will have to dispose of the Cardinals. There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Speaking as a lawyer, Saigh commented he had seen men receive lesser sentences for income-tax evasion.

"I think you have been too tough with me," he said.

Judge Harper sharply answered Saigh's observation:

"You plead that you are guilty to those essential elements and if you were not guilty you should have stood upon a plea of not guilty. Don't come in and plead before me and then ask me to say you are wrong."

COUNTS FACED

Specifically, the counts Saigh faced charged evasion of $19,299 in taxes in 1947 and 1949.

By his own statement, Saigh is through in baseball. Free on $2,000 bond, he has until May 4 to clear up business matters.

The prime portion of that business concerns his ball club, a $4,000,000-plus enterprise to which Saigh holds 90 per cent claim. He purchased the club from the late Sam Breadon in 1947 together with the late Bob Hannegan.

By what Saigh termed a loophole in the tax law, he and Hanne-

Fear 23 Die In 3 Crashes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Twenty-three persons may have died in a series of plane crashes in British Columbia and the adjacent state of Washington.

Three planes have been reported missing in a 24-hour period starting Tuesday. Wilderness and sea have surrendered proof of one death and 22 persons are unaccounted for. One is known to have survived.

James Siddle, a 38-year-old bush pilot, made a successful forced landing in the Pacific ocean, just 200 yards from the northern B. C. coast. With his six passengers, the pilot struck out for shore, but only he is known to have reached safety. Search parties have found one body

STILL UNREPORTED

Still unreported are an RCAF Dakota carrying seven men and a United States Navy patrol plane with 10 abroad.

The RCAF plane disappeared on a training flight through desolate country north of Vancouver to remote Puntzi lake, 216 miles away.

The U. S. craft vanished over Puget Sound on a flight from Alameda, Calif., to Whidbey Island, Wash., 50 miles north of Seattle. Both military craft were last heard from Wednesday.

Siddle was found and taken to hospital at the northern B C. fishing village of Butedale 20 hours after he brought down his 'Central British Columbia Airways amphibian in a heavy storm.

Frame Home Destroyed By Flames

Kitchen Fire Quickly Spreads Few Articles Saved

BETHANY —(ENS)— The home of Henry Monk, 4th concession of Manvers township, about a mile east of Manvers station, was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon.

Although the cause of the fire was undetermined, it apparently started in the kitchen. When Mr. Monk opened the kitchen door, he was met by a wall of flames which quickly spread through the rest of the frame dwelling.

There was no telephone in the building and so Mrs. Monk ran to the home of their nearest neighbor, George Godderison, who summoned a number of neighbors and villagers from Bethany. The portable fire pumper was brought from Bethany but the roof had collapsed by the time it arrived.

SOME SAVED

A few articles of furniture were saved but all of Mr. and Mrs. Monk's clothing, with the exception of what they were wearing, was consumed by the flames. A sum of money which had been kept upstairs in the house was also destroyed. There was some insurance on the building but none on the contents.

Mr. Monk bought the house last summer, coming from Toronto, where he was a major in the Salvation Army. The couple have two grown sons away from home.

Mr. and Mrs. Monk spent the night at their neighbors', George Gooderison's, but planned to go to Toronto this morning to their son's home at 29 Rockville Ave., Toronto, until they can make plans for the future.

The cabinet, which had met Tuesday night, held two more meetings Wednesday. During one of them, Mr. Gregg made a personal appeal to the disputants in Montreal to get together once more. They did.

Later, Mr. Gregg reported to the Commons that, while they adjourned indefinitely, "certain clarifications" had been made at the meeting.

Still later, when it became apparent to officials here that the Montreal talks might not be resumed Wednesday night, Mr. Gregg sent his call to the disputants there.

ENTERS DISPUTE

It brought the prime minister personally into the dispute directly for the first time, though he has been in touch with the situation for the last two days while presiding over emergency cabinet meetings. His last move of this kind was in August, 1950, when he tried unsuccessfully to avert the general rail strike that time by personal intervention.

At that time, there had never before been government legislation to end such a strike. This time, the prime minister has the precedent of the strike-ending "Maintenance of Railway Operations Act" passed by Parliament in an emergency session in 1951 also the subsequent powers given cabinet on the ground of a declared "international emergency."

Under the emergency powers, cabinet can do anything it considers advisable to protect the welfare of Canada on almost anything, including specifically transportation.

Charge Youth With Murder

KITCHENER (CP) — Kenneth Wiles, 21-year-old Kitchener carpenter, today was charged with the murder of Irene Marie Huras, 17.

The girl was shot early Tuesday and died the same day in General hospital, despite an emergency operation performed in an attempt to save her life. An autopsy showed a 22-calibre bullet pierced her brain.

Wiles was arrested at his home today. He had been questioned closely in connection with the girl's death previously but was not arrested.

Police released no details of the findings which led to Wiles' arrest, but they hinted it was due in part to work of Professor L Joslyn Rogers, provincial medico-legal expert.

Interest Picks Up On Mining Issues

TORONTO (CP) — Interest in speculative "penny" mining issues picked up in early afternoon stock market trading after relaxing slightly in mid-morning.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 5,944,000 shares — fewer than at the same time Wednesday but slightly more than on Tuesday. Both days set stock exchange records for trading volume.

The market generally showed little change. Industrials were slightly higher while base metals, golds and western oils slipped small amounts.

Trading in low-priced mining stocks spread to cover a fairly broad list. Most active was Villbona which adde 3½ cents in a turnover of 580,000 shares. Porcupine Pen moved 384,000 shares for the loss of 1½ cents and New Larder U broke even on a 244,000-share turnover. Losses balanced gains in the active penny stocks.

Banks, papers and refining oils showed small gains in industrials while steels and retail stores weakened. Canada Food Products Pr. adde $6.75 in light trading.

Higher-priced base metals weakened and Steep Rock and United Asbestos slipped. Gunnar added pennies.

Abbott Plans

by spending $92,000,000 on warships.

The army appropriation was cut to $533,000,000 from $549,000,000.

Mr. Abbott tabled his estimates before members launched a three-hour debate on a resolution by A. Wesley Stuart (L—Charlotte) urging that the fishing industry be given as much government assistance as agriculture.

SUPPORT REGULATION

Representatives of various fishing centres in the Maritimes, Newfoundland and British Columbia supported the resolution. Fisheries Minister Sinclair, rising to speak minutes before adjournment, promised to reply to questions raised when his estimates are being studied.

Before Mr. Abbott tabled the estimates, there was some speculation they would contain hints as to the government's election plans. A general election is expected this fall, although the life of Parliament does not expire until Aug. 25, 1954.

Public works estimates, sometimes a barometer of election plans, were only slightly higher than those for this year. No provision was made for resumption of the two-a-day residential mail deliveries, curtailed two years ago as an economy measure. No provision was made for elimination of the $2.50 annual licence fee on radio receiving sets.

Non-defence expenditures in 1953-54 were estimated at $2,324,000,000 compared with $2,244,000,000, an increase of $80,000,000 over the current year.

SOCIAL SECURITY

A large chunk of the non-defence expenditures will be for the social security program, including old-age pensions, health grants and family allowances. They will require about $748,900,000, up from $704,500,000.

In the fisheries debate, Mr. Stuart, a former commercial fisherman in the Maritimes, asked the government to investigate the economic condition of the fishing industry with a view to recommending legislation providing assistance comparable with that now given agriculture under various acts.

He withdrew his motion after it had won support from spokesmen for all parties and from Prairie farming points as well as coastal fishing areas.

Mr. Stuart said he did not wish to criticize assistance to agriculture. But when fishermen asked assistance they mostly got nothing. The gold mines received assistance, but fishermen had been "ignored" over the years.

A. M. Robichuad (PC—Gloucester) said the federal government should provide assistance for storm losses and sponsor a cheap form of contributory insurance to cover the lives of fishermen and their equipment.

APPROVE INQUIRY

William Bryce (CCF — Selkirk), retired Western farmer, supported the idea of an inquiry. He believed fishermen, including those on the Prairie lakes, should have floor prices such as farmers so they would get a "fair return."

Robert Fair (SC—Battle River), a farmer, said fishermen should be helped. He realized how much Prairie farmers appreciated assistance given them.

R. E. Anderson (L—Norfolk), urged that the problems of the freshwater fishermen be considered.

Flying Saucers No Joke To CP War Correspondent

VANCOUVER (CP)—Flying saucers no longer are a joke to Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent. Back from Korea, he said in an interview Wednesday that he is impressed with the reports of fighter-bomber pilots telling of flying saucers, disk clusters "or whatever they are called."

Boss told of reports from "seven independent" pilots on the same day, Jan. 9.

"There is more to this than we all thought," he said. "I think the story of the disks was the most significant to come out of Japan."

EVIDENCE STRONG

The evidence of the pilots, two of whom "locked" with the objects, "is too strong to be dismissed."

One disk kept its distance from the 700-mile an-hour jet in a straight line and then drew away.

"It must have had a multiple of the speed of sound to do that," said Boss.

The sky clusters were always reported out from the Russian-held island of Sakhalin or the Russian-held mainland.

"Possibly it is significant that saucer stories always appear over Western places of strategic interest, like northern Japan or Texas, but never where satellite forces are committed."

HAS 8 QUESTIONS

Hoffman's resolution listed eight detailed questions for the secretary to answer, including the purpose of the attack and the American and other Allied casualties resulting from it.

WANTS EXPLANATION

LONDON (AP)—Labor member Ernest Fernyhough said today that he will question Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on a recent attack by UN troops in Korea which was put on with all "the trappings of a theatrical performance."

The MP said he would ask Eden "to make representations to the United Nations over the levity displayed with regard to a battle in which United Nations forces suffered many casualties."

Honor Amundsen

OSLO (CP)—A Norwegian company is preparing a documentary film of Roald Amundsen's career as an Arctic and Antarctic explorer. The film will have its world premiere on June 18, the 25th anniversary of his death in the Arctic while searching for the Italian aviator Umberto Nobile.

For Invalids

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP) — A "halfway" hospital may be established as an experiment to deal with patients who need more care than provided by the usual home institution, but who are not sick enough for proper hospital treatment.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of three per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate was 96 15-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.73¼ against $2.73 5-16.

Flood Payments

REGINA (CP) — Rehabilitation payments covering flood damage in Saskatchewan last spring exceeded $150,000, reports John Probe provincial civil defence co-ordinator. The biggest share, more than $120,000, was to restore buildings damaged at Eastend.

Tank-Led Raiders Attack Red Position

SEOUL (AP) — Tank-led Allied raiders hit a Chinese position southwest of the Panmunjom truce conference site today and killed an estimated 27 Reds.

An 8th army spokesman said the raiders struck in sub-zero weather at daybreak, after Allied planes and artillery blasted the hill.

On the central front, a platoon of Chinese Reds attacked an Allied forward position but was driven off after an hour and 15 minute skirmish. Another platoon-sized Red attack northwest of Yonchon on the western front was beaten off after 10 minutes. Only patrol clashes were reported elsewhere.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force reported 50 fighter-bombers pounded a sprawling troop billeting area north of Sinchon, near the west coast. Pilots said they destroyed 55 buildings and damaged eight.

Frantic Trading Eases Some On Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative fever on the stock market cooled slightly today, but the patient was still far from normal.

Volume at noon stood at 3,694,000 shares, compared with yesterday's volume of almost 5,000,000 shares. Trading today was rapid but not record-breaking

But any new spurt of interest could quickly drive the market to another record.

A few of the "penny" mining stocks that have been the core of the active-trading boom, lost money today, contributing to a cooling of the speculative fever.

More penny stocks were traded today, however, and activity was not concentrated on a few leaders. Most of the active stocks showed small gains.

Porcupine Pen which shot up Wednesday on a volume of 150,000 shares in the first 15 minutes, today dropped two cents, selling at 21 cents. Its volume at noon was 445,000 shares — the highest individual turnover today.

New Larder U lost 15 cents, selling at $2.08, and at one time hit $1.80.

Public interest in base metal discoveries near Bathurst, N. B., drove the market forward to its record-breaking volumes of 12,000,000 shares Wednesday and 10,500,000 shares Tuesday.

Floods of "buy" orders Tuesday and Wednesday brought bedlam to the trading floor of the stock exchange. Speculators often bought shares in the active issues and sold them an hour later at a profit as eager buyers drove prices up.

Sellers outnumbered buyers in a few issues today as more stockholders decided to take their profits. Public interest in penny issues continued strong, however, and a majority of the active stocks continued to draw support.

Speculative mining issues normally trade more heavily than shares of established companies. Many speculators would rather buy 10,000 shares of a "penny" stock than, for the same money, five to 15 shares in an established company.

Estimates' Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of 1953-54 estimates tabled Wednesday in the Commons:

Main estimates provide for an increase in government spending in the new fiscal year, starting April 1.

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Denmark ended all rationing Wednesday when it discontinued controls on fuel.

Sterling Shortage In Brazil Causes British Trade Loss

LONDON (CP)—Britain's export credits guarantee department, which insures manufacturers against loss on certain overseas transactions, has submitted a supplementary estimate for nearly £20,000,000 to cover losses anticipated for 1952.

The bulk of the anticipated loss is caused by a shortage of sterling in Brazil, which owes British firms some£ 45,000,000. Substantial payments have also been made on Australian contracts, broken by emergency import restrictions.

A department spokesman said no major losses have been reported on its Canadian account.

The department was created in 1949. Its first head was Ottawa-born Herbert Somerville Smith, a Rhodes scholar who wanted to be a classics professor at Queen's University, Kingston, but eventually became a British civil servant with contacts around the world.

Smith called his job "Operation Columbus," describing it as a 20th-century crusade to recapture the North American markets Christopher Columbus opened to the world in 1492.

Now 62, Smith retired early this year. He was created a Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in the New Year's honors list. The new head of the export credits department is R. H. Owen, former senior United Kingdom trade commissioner in India.

Cold Lake Base For New Airport

Cold Lake has been chosen by the defence department as the base for a new $30,000,000 airport and bombing and rocket range which will straddle the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary.

Hundreds of people are moving in to take advantage of the district's new-found prosperity.

New hotels and hundreds of homes have been built and the Canadian National Railways are pushing a line into Cold Lake. An all-weather road has been completed and ample electric power is available.

The airport, five miles from the town, will include one of the largest hangars in Western Canada. Tenders estimated at $10,000,000 have been called for construction of 21 other buildings. They will house staff and residents unofficially estimated at between 3,000 and 4,000 persons.

Ask Provinces To Ban Use Vegetable Oils

TORONTO (CP)—The Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada asked provincial governments Wednesday to prohibit use of vegetable oils in dairy substitutes.

The association asked that legislation be passed in each province "preventing the adulteration of dairy products by the addition thereto of vegetable and other edible oils.

The Holstein men said they did not fear oleo as much as further substitutes for dairy products. They considered oleo has become established.

Macdonnell Raps Administration

COBOURG— (ENS) — The present Liberal administration at Ottawa was committing an act of barefaced effrontery by refusing to enlarge the scope of the Currie report, J. M. Macdonnell, financial critic in the Conservative Oppostion at Ottawa, told a banquet meeting of Conservative supporters of Northumberland County held here.

The speaker declared that the present government had been in power so long that they had begun to believe that they could do no wrong and that the country could not get along without them. He asserted the government at Ottawa was obviously trying to mend their fences and that the very people who had been responsible for the selection of Mr. Currie was trying to belittle him on one hand and at the same time were attempting to convince the people that his recommendations had been adopted.

Mr. Macdonnell charged that the Liberal administration had plenty of money to throw around and would be making tax concessions to the people in order to make the situation more palatable to the voters.

The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, member in the provincial house for Northumberland, spoke briefly to the gathering and pledged his support to Conservative candidate in the next federal election. Mr. Goodfellow praised the work of the women in organization and support of the party.

Chairman of the meeting was Mrs. Gordon Sherwin, president of the Cobourg Women's Progressive Association. The speaker was introduced by Major Earl Drope of Harwood and was thanked by Mrs. Nelson Usher.

Income Highest At Knox United

Annual congregational meeting of Knox United Church was held Wednesday evening. The Rev. H. G. Douglas was chairman, Arthur Pitchford, clerk of Session, was secretary.

Shirley Kelly for junior choirs reported 30 members. New gowns had been purchased during the year and the choir had won first place in its class at Kiwanis Musical Festival. Mrs. Ross Williamson was thanked for her work with the choir, as were also Mrs. Jackman and Miss Phyllis Kidd. Miss Kidd reported a successful year of CGIT work, with special camp activities.

Mr. Douglas for the session, reported as follows: Baptisms 42, marriages 19, funerals 17, new members 44. He outlined for the members some of his activities as head of the Presbytery, exposition and pageant work, with teaching and broadcasting in addition to his pastoral work.

Work of the senior WMS was outlined by Mrs. Mesley. The Helen-Roger Society had a successful year, reported Mrs. C. Ross and had been able to make an allocation to the church of $193. Mervin Wiliamson spoke of the boys' work, with special mention of the Trail Rangers and hockey teams.

Mrs. Clegg reported for the Explorers, and the meeting thanked June Drummond for her leadership there. The Mission Board of the church had a good year, reported Mrs. Hanscom, with a membership of 23. The Baby Band, with Mrs. A. Gertley in charge, had 38 on the roll, reported Mrs. Lang. Women's Association had a very successful year, said Mrs. C. Gertley, with an average attendance of 20 members, and with income from activities of $1,527, substantial contributions had been made to the church. A. Williams said the men's bowling club had prospered, and he presented a financial statement with income substantially increased.

Peter McCombe reported for Knox Theatre group, speaking of plays presented, festival work done, and also the United Church pageant. Freda Ross for the Married Couples, reported 42 members with average attendance of 30.

The Sunday School had completed its most successful year, said Harold Murduff, president, with 268 pupils and a cradle roll of 25. Income was highest ever at $1,224.

Fred Watson presented a treasurer's report. Missionary and Maintenance work was outlined by Tom Taylor, with income of $2,291 for the year. For the official board, Arthur Pitchford spoke of the church as healthy spiritually and financially. He expressed great satisfaction with the year's work. Mr. and Mrs. Wright were reappointed as Bible Society representatives. Representatives to Anson House are Susan Sumners and Freda Ross. Fred Watson, retiring treasurer, was appointed auditor. John Donaldson, moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Douglas, spoke of the service rendered by him both to church and community.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Drewes said the company sent $161,848 to China between January and November, 1951. Some of the money was forwarded by Chinese here to relatives behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Trinity Church Reports Progress

"Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong have endeared themselves in the hearts of Trinity congregation," asserted Clerk of Session, R. F. Downey, at the annual congregational meeting in Trinity United Church last night. "By the inspired leadership which Dr. Armstrong has given since coming here on December 1st last, this congregation is able to record a year of continued progress," Mr. Downey added in conveying to Dr. Armstrong a unanimously adopted vote of appreciation for his services.

Dr. A. E. Armstrong, acting minister, presided over the annual meeting held in the new Trinity Hall. Greetings from Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, former pastor, were read. The recording steward announced that the service of induction of the new pastor, Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell, now of Brockville, will be held on Feb. 6. Mr. Maxwell will begin his ministry at Trinity on Feb. 8.

Reports from each of the various organizations indicated a year of real achievement in many departments. R. M. Elliott, superintendent, and W. T. Fanjoy, treasurer of the Sunday school, spoke enthusiastically of the value of Trinity Hall in the operation of the Sunday school. "There has been an increase in annual average attendance of almost 20 per cent—most of it achieved since Trinity Hall was opened in September, 1952," reported Mr. Fanjoy.

For their part in the erection and completion of Trinity Hall, a motion was recorded expressing the congregation's appreciation to Charles Huffman, Robert Huffman, and to the architects, Horwood and White of Toronto. The building committee's report revealed that givings to the building fund during the year amounted to $11,703.25. Confidence in plans to retire the incurred indebtedness is reflected in the report.

The committee of stewards reported a small balance on hand at the end of the year. The general operating costs for 1952 totalled $18,357.83. The estimate for 1953 calls for an expenditure of $24,420.00. Missionary and Maintenance givings in 1952 amounted to $6,497.68.

During 1952, 42 persons—24 of them by profession of faith—were received into church membership. This represents a net gain of 27, bringing the total membership at the end of December to 1,102. Eighteen burial services were conducted, 11 marriage ceremonies were performed and 42 infants baptized during the year.

Vacancies on various boards, created chiefly by annual recurring retirements, were filled by the election of the following persons: Committee of Stewards (for five years)—H. S. Longhurst, C. H. Huffman, Dr. K. W. Milne, Dr. J. E. Howes; (for one year)—Ross W. Thompson, Dr. John Stewart. Session (for five years) — O. Jamieson, R. Dimma, A. L. Malby, R. N. Armstrong, G. Hill, J. Skitch, K. Kemp, N. Gell; elected for four years to complete the term of the late William Ovens—Dr. William Arnup.

A Strike For Power And Superiority?

The first thing to hold in mind when thinking glumly about the possibility of a railway strike is this: the strike would not be intolerable. Canadians can bear up under it; they can get along for a while without the railways. There would be serious disruptions to the national life and many personal annoyances, but we can get along somehow. The second thing to remember is this: a strike against the railways is a strike against the Canadian public more than against directors, management and shareholders. If the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has been unreasonable in its demands, or if the companies meet the demands at exorbitant costs just to get the wheels turning again—costs for which the Canadian public will have to pay—then the striking trainmen would forfeit any right to public support and sympathy.

* * *

The sequence of events, demands and counter-proposals leading up to the present impasse is complicated. This seems clear. The companies were willing to meet the wage scales and working-week recommendations of the majority report of the conciliation board. The minority report—that is, the views of the member of the board appointed by the union—called for greater concessions. The union rejected the majority report. In a later effort to settle the matter, the companies offered to join the union in referring the differences to a referee and agreed to be bound by his decision. The union rejected this.

* * *

The trainmen apparently want much more than a forty-hour week clause and a wage settlement to meet the rise in the cost of living. They want preferred rates of pay and working conditions, to put them in a superior position to other trained workers, even other workers on the railways. They want to increase their status above what it was relatively. And it seems that their union wants a strike, to demonstrate its power. There are indications, however, that the demonstration might not be as impressive as the Union might hope. Certainly the majority of railway men are opposed to a strike, and, as we said at the beginning, the Canadian people can get along without trains for a while.

* * *

It is to be hoped that agreement may still be reached, without injury to either the public service or the public purse. The majority of railway workers have negotiated new contracts during the last year—conductors and engineers among them. Why should the trainmen not be able to reach a settlement by negotiation instead of putting every railway worker into idleness? The reason may be that the trainmen want more than they deserve relative to other categories of railway employees; and their union leaders may want power.

A Breakdown In Language

Language is always changing, because it is a growing rather than a static thing. We do not like to see language breaking down, however, and in the last three or four years we have observed two new usages which we deplore.

The first is a confusion between the words "uninterested" and "disinterested". For instance, in a contemporary we read this sentence: "When Harry S. Truman hinted to J. Stalin that the U.S. had the atom bomb, Joe seemed disinterested." Now this is a possible usage, but a confusing one; the modern meaning of the word "disinterested" is "unbiased by personal interest." Thus we might say, "His kindly action was disinterested," meaning that it was done without thought of personal gain. The use of "disinterested" in this sense is a return to a seventeenth century usage which is now confusing.

The second confusion, which is indefensible on any ground, is the use of "flaunt" when "flout" is meant. Too often we have read, "He flaunted the rules," when what he actually did was to flout the rules. "Flaunt" means to parade or show off; a man might flaunt his tie or his scarf, but never a rule. "Flout" means to jeer, insult or show contempt, as a man might for a rule which he did not respect. The similarity of sound explains the error, but it is an error, nevertheless.

Usage makes changes in language, but we should guard against changes which are merely the result of ignorance or misunderstanding. Our concern for the purity of our language is disinterested; we flout its rules at our peril.

The Effortless Superiority Of Toronto And Ottawa

When the great Dr. Benjamin Jowett was Master of Balliol college in Oxford (1870-93) he said that a Balliol man could be distinguished anywhere by his "air of effortless superiority." Certainly such assurance would be a very fine thing to have, and we are delighted to see it blossoming, in journalistic circles at least, in the cities of Toronto and Ottawa.

Toronto is much abused. As we have said before, most of this abuse springs from jealousy. We are pleased that the Globe and Mail has summed up the situation thus:

"Toronto is thus much like a book, an art exhibition or a trip to Bali: one gets from it what one takes to it. If a visitor brings with him a taste for original prints by Durer he can find collections in the city. If he is in the habit of twisting his ankle in holes in the street, he can satisfy that penchant here as well as any place. And if he just likes grousing, no one in Toronto minds a bit, so long as he pays his hotel bill while here getting data."

Commenting on this passage, the Ottawa Journal weighs in with the comment of another much-envied city, in these words:

Ottawa can lend a sympathetic ear. We are not called "Hogtown" but we are told, and told again, that Ottawa is inhabited mainly by social climbers, that the tea-hour is our most esteemed institution, that —as indeed they say of Toronto's Yonge street—"you can shoot a cannonball down Sparks street at 1 a.m. without hitting anybody." We have no culture, say our critics, no drama, no civic pride, no industrial life—the city is denounced as a parasite on the nation, as a mere collection of individuals from the 10 provinces who come for the sake of getting on the government payroll and have no roots here.

We have heard all this so many times that nobody minds very much any more. A critic may write a sarcastic book about Ottawa—it has been done more than once —and it stirs Ottawa readers only to amusement.

That's the stuff, boys! Don't argue with 'em; laugh at 'em! Effortless superiority wins the day, every time! We are glad Toronto has given up boasting about the fact that it has two churches for every honest citizen, or whatever the statistic was. We rejoice that Ottawa has stopped declaring that a public job-holder is the noblest work of God. And we are glad that this improved attitude, this finer sense of civic dignity, has had its origins in the press. From the papers it will infect the citizens, and at last even the Mayors of Toronto and Ottawa will catch the idea that public monkey-shines and rampant virtue are not such good advertisements for a city as an air of effortless superiority. Toronto and Ottawa, onward and upward! We watch your soarings with a selfless, disinterested glee!

Hmm—No Rationing In Poland

The Polish Government decided to abolish rationing. It looks, therefore, as if Poland is swinging upwards and its Communist government is producing the goods. Not so. The abandonment of rationing there really spells a food crisis, and the victory of the Polish peasantry over the Communist bureaucrats.

More than a year ago the Polish government re-introduced rationing because of a scarcity of food. The peasants held their produce back, refused to deliver it to the State at State prices. They hoarded or filtered it into the black market. Thus there was not enough food on the legal markets for the Government to be able to honour even its limited rationing points.

A further defeat for the Polish government has been the double-price system, supported by subsidy and threats. By it rationed goods were sold at a lower price than in the free market. This has not worked out. So the government has been forced to surrender to the free market price.

The result of these changes is a free market at a free price. This came about just before Christmas, at a difficult time for consumers. How joyful they were —the one who have to buy the goods— may be judged from the following prices, now being charged in a country where wage rates are low: Beef $1.40 a pound for inferior cuts; the best are as high as $3.92 a pound. Pork (of which Poland is normally a large producer) $2.38-$4.08 a pound. Lard, $3.92 a pound. Sugar $1.55 a pound.

At the official rate of 11.26 zylotys to the pound sterling, a man's shirt costs about fourteen dollars, shoes $5.60 and ready-made suits in the co-operative shops $170.

People who hail the abandonment of rationing in Poland as a mark of the achievement of Communist government had better take a hard look at the prices.

NOTES AND COMMENT

"Suicide in Critical Condition"—headline. It is dangerous to commit suicide. We advise against it.

Somebody has observed that a 1942 calendar can be used for this year. Anybody who wants to get back to good old 1942, take note.

Hardly a week passes that we do not read of a baby being born in a car, but the motor death-rate still keeps ahead of the motor birth-rate.

A Frenchman has invented an attachment to a piano which makes the instrument sound like a bagpipe. Still, it seems an awfully complicated way of making a sound like a bagpipe.

Neguib Clears The Decks

By A Special Correspondent In Cairo

GENERAL MOHAMED NEGUIB has during recent days cleared the decks in Egypt for constructive action. This, in essence, is the significance of actions which have in effect cemented his dictatorship on Egypt for three years.

Opposition to his regime had taken the form of extreme nationalism which was difficult to distinguish in principle from the genuine policy of Neguib and his supporters. The latter demanded the evacuation of British forces from the Suez Canal Zone and a settlement in the Sudan favourable to Egypt as did their opponents; but the opponents were deliberately stepping-up the national fever to a point where any negotiated settlement would be impossible.

GENERAL NEGUIB is impatient with the British at the moment, but he still believes that it is within his power to obtain terms he can accept from Britain and achieve Egypt's national demands. He regarded the hyper-nationalist feeling which was being built up around him as deliberately organised sabotage.

The opposition is varied. There are discontented land-owners and disgruntled officers who feel there should be more pickings for them. There are politicians (many of them landowners) who were frustrated by the army movement which prevented their gaining power and trafficking in influence. There were large number of Egypt's black-coat officials and lawyers who, living as parasites on the top-heavy administrative system, felt their prospects of any money gone.

THESE elements fused onto the persistent ambition of the WAFD party and to a lesser extent on the nuclei of the other parties. General Neguib believes that the Communist movement, deliberately fostered from outside the country, had fastened itself like a leech on these political elements and particularly on the Wafd.

In his view, the Communists wanted to destroy the army regime and had chosen the Clash with Britain as the easiest form of subversive activity. The result was an uneasy alliance between the deliberate subversive elements and politicians who were merely pursuing their domestic political intrigues.

FURTHERMORE, both had, by accident, alliances with genuine nationalists whose patriotic feelings blinded them to the dangers of domestic disorders. "Fight the British if all else fails" was difficult to distinguish from plain "Fight the British" when wrapped in a cloud of patriotic sentiment.

There is no doubt that Army officers were among those who were by accident supporting movements directed at the destruction of their own regime and it was for long difficult for General Neguib and those who thought like him to make plain what was really going on below the surface.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ARMY began its reign with liberal ideas. It wanted a free press which would unite in a responsible manner to support the national cause. A free press, however, meant allowing many fellow-travelling newspapers, most of which were mushroom weeklies which grew up early in 1951, to resume publication.

THESE papers, the Wafdist Press and many well-meaning columnists were steadily building up an atmosphere reminiscent of that in the autumn of 1951 but that there was more than mere nationalism involved became clear when the Army Intelligence unearthed facts concerning the bribery of students and workers to cause disturbances and the re-emergence of Communist pamphlets directed against Neguib as an enemy of the nationalist cause.

It is clear that intelligence reports confirmed the view of General Neguib and from that time it became merely a question of taking the decision to enforce the army policy.

THE PATTERN of action was orderly and clear: (1) The ground was cut from beneath the feet of politicians by declaring 3 years of army rule; (2) The political parties were abolished; (3) Their funds were confiscated to prevent their use for incitement of disorders; (4) The left-wing newspapers, including the Wafdist Al-Nida, were closed down; (5) A number of army malcontents were interned; (6) Communists were rounded up.

IN OTHER WORDS, General Neguib swept the board from right to left, wherever dissident groups were congregating. It remains to be seen whether in the calmer atmosphere that he believes he will have created, General Neguib will push on for a settlement with Britain. It does not, however, mean that the Egyptian demands on Britain will be modified. On the contrary, General Neguib believes that he will keep the army firmly around him by a forthright nationalist policy. What he desires, however, is to be sure that when he sees a settlement in sight he will be free to seize it with both hands. No Egyptian Government has been in that position since the war.

Finally, General Neguib knows that open conflict with Britain would be a disaster for Egypt. He wants a friendly settlement if at all possible, for, in his opinion, the Communist east is an impossible ally and neutrality a near-myth.

Preserve Parliamentary Library

(Montreal Gazette)

Perhaps there is some danger that the plans being made to reconstruct the Library of Parliament at Ottawa may transform that fine old structure out of the very character that made it outstanding. Nobody appreciates the charm of the old Library more than Mr. F. A. Hardy, the Parliamentary Librarian. His life is spent in its mellow atmosphere and with great pride he has pointed out its charms. Mr. Hardy says that he will resist to the end any attempt to tear out the old panelling. He points out that the wood panelling in other parts of the House of Parliament Buildings has been treated to resist fire. Why not the panelling in the Library?

WAR AND POLITICS IN KOREA (1)

Bitter Fighting Has Settled Nothing

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN in Seoul

THE KOREAN WAR FRONT is now quieter than at any time since this running sore was opened almost three years ago. It looks as if some climax has been passed, another milestone on the road that leads nowhere. This phrase in the Korean fighting has lasted fourteen months. It has settled precisely nothing. The phase began on November 27, 1951, when the demarcation lines for a cease fire were set up by the Armistice Commission at Panmunjon. The truce never came, but the agreed lines created the pattern for the next year's fighting, which cost the enemy an estimated one hundred and fifty thousand casualties.

The front in Korea is only one hundred and fifty miles long and the advance and retreats have been measured in yards rather than miles. The fighting has been small in scale and the pattern of assault and defence has been monotonous and has resulted in no important changes. But it has been as tough for individual soldiers as other wars. Platoons in Korea have fought as hard and suffered as bitterly as any in Normandy. Local battles for bare hills, like White Horse Hill on the central front, have within a space the size of a few football fields been as fierce and bloody as any of the battles for south sea islands in the last war.

The disputed no man's land that lies between the two unchanging fortified lines must now be the world's best-known military terrain. Every overgrown track, each outcrop of rock, every hillock and grove of scarred and splintered trees, has been accurately registered by mortars and artillery and can be covered with fire at a few seconds' notice. Every square yard has been crept over by armed patrols at night.

THIS MURDEROUS CORRIDOR, varying in width from a mile and a half to five hundred yards, was first used for the bitter November fighting of 1951. In that month the enemy lost an estimated forty thousand casualties in an attempt to better his bargaining position at the conference table. But the peace never came and the two armies settled to the continuous business of digging in of fortifying their hilltops and of probing and skirmishing among the weed-grown rice fields and the bare tops of hills that lay between them.

By February, 1952, the pattern of a creeping offensive was apparent; it is an offensive that has never quite stopped and that has never shown any obvious signs of being affected by the heavy air attacks on the Chinese lines of communication. For most of this phase, it has been the Chinese who have begun the limited offensives, inching forward from one feature to another and fortifying each place as they occupied it, until the United Nations' forces have been compelled to counter-attack in self-defence.

To sustain their nibbling attacks, the Chinese concentrated huge quantities of ammunition in their forward positions, hidden in deep tunnels below their hills. In one small bunker, for example, an American raiding party found fifteeen thousand hand grenades and a thousand of the bangalore torpedoes that infantry use to destroy an enemy's barbed wire.

BUT if the Chinese continually reinforced their troops and seemed almost indifferent to casualties, the United Nations, too, were suddenly reinforced themselves. Early in March the ROK (Republic of Korea) Army made its first really successful counter-attacks. Early in this war the American and Commonwealth troops had learnt to expect little of the ROK forces. They broke disastrously many times before the enemy. The ROK Sixth Division won a rare reputation for uselessness. But in April, the ROKs were fighting as well as the Chinese —the result of good training, of new equipment and of a new certainty that their country had a chance of surviving. They now defend nearly three-quarters of the line.

They had to do the toughest and costliest fighting of the year. At the beginning of April, they were defending a hill on the central front. The order of the day from the Korean commander was "No Yogi Ikoura"—"Stay and Fight." When the Chinese attacked, their battalion lost almost all its officers and N. C. O.'s but the surviving ROKs drove the Chinese back with their bayonets and called the hill "No Yogi Ikoura."

April closed with a series of isolated battles which many thought were the first moves in all out-out Chinese offensive. The Communist had just asked for an indefinite recess in the truce talks and the names of hills like Old Baldy and Capitol Hill became famous for a little. The attacks on these places were almost continuous, and Old Baldy— which is no more than a brown and rounded hill on the eastern sector — changed hands several times. The Communists stepped up their artillery fire until on June 16 they fired 18,500 rounds.

But the worst fighting of all started in October, when the Chinese attacked more than thirty hill positions all along the line. On the day they fired ninety-three thousand rounds. Their main attack was in the centre on White Horse Hill. Five Chinese brigades were engaged and as one battalion was driven back, another took it turn to struggle towards the hill. It lasted ten days, but at the end the ROKs held White Horse and the Chinese 38th Army was all but destroyed. As in most of the battles, it is not easy to find a reason for these costly adventures that cannot change the course of the war. Probably this attack was no more than a strong reconnaisance, aimed at testing U. N. postions and demonstrating Chinese capabilities— and perhaps at improving their jumping-off position for some future offensive.

Soon after this the United Nations took the offensive, attacking a cluster of hills within sight of White Horse —hills with names like Pinpoint Ridge, Sniper Ridge, Triangle Hill. The fighting lasted until the middle of December. The result was not decisive, though enough ground was gained to deny the enemy observation of the U. N. line where it crossed the most logical route into South Korea. Here again, the ROKs accepted terrible casualties.

But around these main battles, there was a host of minor actions and nightly clashes between patrols. The Commonwealth Division held its sector of the front without any major actions, though there were frequent raids on their lines and they were shelled every day. It has been a drab and shapeless year; and today, the fight to survive the Korean winter is almost as urgent as the fight against the enemy. The soldiers here do not often discuss what comes next: but whenever they do, I have met none who thought it would be peace.

Britain To See White Bread Again

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

FOR THE first time in 14 years the people of Great Britain may look forward to having white bread on their tables. The Food Ministry has announced that after the next harvest the Government will terminate price and rationing controls on grains and animal feeds, and turn the import of grains back to private traders.

Quite naturally, controls will be continued over buying in the dollar market as a protection to Britain's dollar exchange. But savings of £10,000,000 annually are estimated from the ending of the subsidies on flour.

Quite disregarding the economic and political implications of this news, there is a human element involved which provides food for thought for those disposed to be hypercritical of Britons and the manner in which they conduct their affairs. Fourteen years without white bread! We should think of that, we who think nothing of consigning to the garbage a couple of slices of toast not done to the exact golden brownness of our liking. We should think of the many other items, including meat, eggs and fruit which Britons have been having to deny themselves.

We might wonder if we had to undergo all that for 14 years if our points of view on some things might not be quite generally affected. It seems rather certain that a lucid conclusion from such pondering might make us a bit more understanding and less ready to criticize. And this might have some weight in the highly vital matter of establishing and maintaining harmony among the nations of the world whose backs are against the wall, so to speak.

Of course Britons don't get their white bread right away; they have to wait until next fall for it. But now their anticipation is more than a mirage.

Not All Velvet

(Le Soleil, Quebec)

For most people the problem of milk producers are simple in the extreme: it resolves itself into the quart of milk paid for each morning. As the price of whole milk increased by six per cent. last year, the public concludes that everything is for the best in the best of all possible worlds on the farm. The other side of the medal is exhibited by the milk producers' association. Milk sent to the cities represents only 26 per cent. of milk production and it was only this part of the production that benefitted by a slight increase in price. On the rest of the product, prices have been steadily going down. In the result, the average price of milk at the farm decreased last year by 10.2 per cent. At the same time the price of beef and veal dropped 36 per cent. In these conditions the milk producers and cattle raisers estimate a revenue loss for last year of $50,000,000.

Same Old Toronto

(St. Catharines Standard)

E. C. S. Cox, chairman, the Toronto section, Ontario Association of Architects, is quoted: "It is only right and proper that Toronto architects should design their own city's public buildings and there is no justification to make the competition nation-wide."

It looks like the same old Toronto, only breaking out in a new spot. Quite properly, The Financial Post this week delivers a good homily to Mr. Cox. Torontonians would still be living in a wigwam if such a narrow policy had been followed by their forefathers. It was termed the "narrowest kind of absurdity," which is understating the case. In truth, without business from the rest of Canada, grass might conceivably start to grow right on Yonge Street in the Queen City.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes . . . As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread . . .

Jesus saith unto them, Come and Dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord . . . This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. (John 21: 2-6, 9, 12, 14, 15.)

The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing. (Zeph. 3: 17.)

Ottawa's Financial Aid to Universities

(Le Devoir)

If the universities had not been so hungry they would doubtless have refused to accept financial aid from Ottawa, fearing "the Greeks bearing gifts." But as one is justified in stealing to save one's life, our universities felt justified in taking the proffered money they needed. To overcome the financial problem for the universities would be to make their autonomy safe from overwhelming circumstances. To permit it to continue may postpone for a time fulfilment of centralization, but it is to make it certain in the end. Premier Duplessis is preparing to order a provincial inquiry into autonomy. Meanwhile it would be well for him to pay the universities a substantial subsidy to take the place of federal aid.

Rodgers Intends To Keep Writing Songs

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The millions that have loved the songs and shows of Richard Rodgers can rest assured that he will keep turning them out.

The composer was here to confer on "Main Street to Broadway," th efilm to raise funds for reviving the living theatre in the United States.

Unlike his partner, Oscar Hammerstein II, he has never yearned to be an actor.

I asked Rodgers if he harbored any ambitions to write more serious works, as George Gershwin did with his opera "Porgy and Bess" and symphonic compositions.

"No," he replied. "I am only interested in dramatic music; academic music doesn't interest me. I think it's a little late for me to start now, anyway. After all, I was 50 last June.

"As for opera, I think we have done some pretty serious work already. "Carousel" was as serious a subject as any that has been treated on the musical stage; the soliloquy in it was certainly solemn. And there are similar mo-'The King and I.'

"As a matter of fact, I think 'Porgy and Bess' is much better in the current version. It cuts out the operatic pretensions and welds the great songs into a good show."

The composer told about his one adventure into the longhair field. About 12 years ago, he wrote the music for a ballet about a mining town. His opinion of it: "Very bad."

The big news along Broadway is the new Rodgers and Hammerstein show, "Me and Juliet." It is a story about the people who work backstage in the theatre.

"The book is finished and a good many of the songs and lyrics are done," Rodgers remarked. "It will open in Cleveland in April."

Church Records 20 New Members

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield, was held in the school room of the church on Wednesday. The Rev. H. Kaye was welcomed back for the first time since his serious illness, and conducted the devotional period that opened the meeting. Mrs. A. H. Clark was appointed chairman and Mrs. T. W. Chaplin secretary for the meeting.

T. W. Chaplin, clerk, reported for the Session. He noted a year of progress, with increased attendance at the regular services, and a fine spirit of fellowship prevailing at all times. Three Communions were held, with 20 new members received. There was one baptism. Two members were called by death, Mrs. Thomas Martin and Mrs. Charles Bickell. The sympathy of the session was extended to the bereaved families.

Two retiring members of the Board of Managers, Harold Trude and Clarence Duff, were re-elected. Clarence Duff was also named Presbyterian Record secretary A. H. Clark and Miss Jean Clerk agreed to act as auditors for another year. Mrs. Chaplin accepted the office of secretary-treasurer.

After the benediction, pronounced by Mr. Kaye, a socail hour was enjoyed, with refreshments served by members of the Women's Association.

ONCE THEY FED BOILERS with this waste wood in Pacific Northwest lumber mills. Now it's ground into chips, loaded into barges like this and sold to pulp mills, thus saving trees.

Chips Once Fed Boilers Now Sold To Pulp Mills

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA) — Many Pacific lumber and plywood plants are in the chips—in both ways.

Chipping wood waste into usable, valuable chips is the latest move in an ever-increasing trend to utilize everything about a log. In 1941, it was estimated that 49 per cent of each Douglas fir log was wasted. Today, almost everything is used.

Listen to what chips mean to one big Oregon plywood plant: "Up to about a year ago," says an executive, "we used our green veneer trimmings and other leftovers in a steam boiler, to generate electricity. Then we found it was costing as much to make electricity as we could buy it. Now we grind the waste into chips and sell them to a pulp mill. It means about $100,000 a year extra revenue to us."

At least 100 sawmills and plywood plants now have installed chipping machines. Their output is estimated at one trainload daily. The chip-buying pulp mills produce about 2,740 tons of kraft paper each 24 hours and now half the raw material comes from chips. And it is forecast that within two years chips, once waste may account for 70 per cent of the raw material used by West Coast pulp mills.

SAVING TREES

Foresters claim this booming chip business is saving mature trees which otherwise would have been pulped for paper. They estimate that it means keeping for future years the equivalent of 8,000 acres of old-growth timber annually.

The West Coast's big paper maker, Crown Zellerbach Corp., uses many wood chips. At Camas, Wash., where the company has the world's largest specialty paper mill, turning out 250,000 tons yearly, 25 per cent of the raw material used is chips.

"That's about equivalent to 5,000,000 board feet of timber per month," reveals Frank Drumb, resident manager. "This chipping business is a tremendous contribution to forestry."

BUYING MACHINES

Chipping machines, depending on size, cost all the way from $15,000 to $75,000. In most operations, the de-barked scrap wood is carried by conveyor belt into the powerful chipping machine, which has a heavy disc to which are attached six to eight big knives. One Crown Zellerbach chipper, with a 153-inch disc and six knives, can chip up a log 34 inches in diameter.

The chips, about an inch square and a half-inch thick, then flow to screens where the oversize chips are screened out and returned for re-chipping. The right-size chips drop into a loading chute.

The quest for chips is so intense that in some lumber and plywood plants, the pulp mills buy and install the chipping machines. Profits from the sale of the chips pay for the machines.

Three college gridders, who formerly starred with PCVS senior squads, have been put on the Big Four list. Don Griffin of Queen's is tabbed by Argos, Jack Sisson of Queen's is on the Hamilton list, and the latter club has also laid claim to Blair Thomson of 1952 intercollegiate champion Western Mustangs. Quite a few good college footballers are on the four lists, though some of them won't ever see action in the Big Four, either because they're not interested or because they'll be crowded out by USA imports. In the Western Conference, Thomson also is on the slate of the Regina Roughriders. He was a fine plunging back when at PCVS.

Annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association will be held at the Royal York on April 18 and, as Bunny Morganson points out, the senior schedule will have to be shortened bit this year since the Mann Cup finals switch to Vancouver, commencing Sept. 14. Bun writes: "Change in playing rules brings back the centre spot for faceoffs, but it will be two feet in circumference instead of six feet, as formerly." Penalized players must return to the field as soon as their time is up, or face another minor penalty. Fergus and Owen Sound are coming back to senior "A" ranks, while Toronto Yorks may play in Weston. No word let on an Orillia "A" entry this year. Meantime, the Petes are going ahead quietly with rebuilding plans.

A Four-Point Junior Fray

Oshawa juniors meet the Oddfellows here Friday eve in a four-point OHA junior "B" joust. The Mortimer men did themselves a lot of good by yanking out a close victory last start in Kingston as the race is hot now and nearing the stretch drive. If the IOOF-ers can snatch four points from the Motor Citizens, the locals will be rolling along right merrily— though they can't afford any letup the rest of the route. Belleville took Lindsay night before last to lengthen their lead, Kingston being next with a game and a half on the Links. Lindsay follows closely, then Oshawa and Cobourg. Our juniors would like to settle snugly in the second slot at schedule's end.

Recent NHL and AHL bulletins show how well George (Red) Sullivan is going in pro hockey circles this season. He has climbed considerably in a short space in the National League with seven points so far. And, though he has been out of the AHL for several weeks, he is still tied with Ike Hildebrand for second place, both having 46 points. Lorne Ferguson leads now with 50. On top of that, the Ashburnham redhead still shows the way in AHL assists with 36, while Ike is top man on the scoring totem pole with 26 markers for Cleveland. Don Ashbee plays for Syracuse in the same loop, but we haven't his scoring marks at present.

Shore Must Be a Bit Sore

Elsewhere is a story we got yesterday from Norwood TVL officals stating that Ed Shore has waived on Bob Thorpe so that he can get his CAHA card again. However, Bob will get it too late for the TVL okay now, so he's out of hockey the rest of the winter, it appears. Shore also stipulated that Thorpe couldn't play for the Petes this season or next — apparently being sore at the Petes for boos received at the local rink, and press and radio criticism here when he wouldn't release Thorpe, Nip O'Hearn or Don Ashbee to play for the Petes this year. The Norwood club wants it known that they and Thorpe acted in good faith when he played briefly for the team in the TVL on permission pending his return to amateur ranks. This permission was withdrawn before they knew it, but they aren't blaming Lakefield for protesting nor the TVL for upholding it. They intend to carry on.

Quite a few grapple fans at the Brock Arena last p.m. came away with the impression that Referee Joe Golab is blinder than a barn of bats. He certainly didn't see too much of the villainy perpetrated by the Red Mask in gaining a doubtful decison o'er popular Yukon Eric in the main bout. Eric had the Mask heading for skid row— nearly ripping the hood off a few times, also— when the ref's dumbness coupled with the Mask's slippery stuff combined to turn the tide. Man Mountain Dean Jr. (all 350 pounds of his blubber) also had an assist in setting up Frank Taylor for the semi-final fall. At least, the prelim went on its merits, with Don Beitleman getting the win o'er Bill Stack after some sizzling action.

Marmora High Gets Verdict Over Madoc

MARMORA— (ENS) — Playing Madoc in the inter-school series in the home arena on Wednesday evening, the Marmora High School team put on a scoring spree in the second half of the third to beat their opponents by the goodly margin of 12-4. Brady and T. Brooks led the home scorers, each doing the hat trick, and Wright and O'Neill were each successful twice. M. Walker in goal for Marmora shaped well with less shots to cope with than McCann at the other end. The latter played pluckily and was not accountable for all of the goals registered, making good saves. The Burnside brothers, Fox, Bateman and McMurray turned in good work for the losers. This was Marmora's first win, the team having tied at Tweed 4-4 the previous evening and at Stirling 5-5 a week ago. The game was clean and interesting to watch.

Teams:

Madoc — Goal, McCann, defence, Davidson, Crawford; centre, Tufts; wings, Fox, Bateman. Alternates— Devolin, McMurray, Johnston, D. Burnside, E. Burnside.

Marmora — Goal, M. Walker; defence, T. Brooks, R. Walker; centre, Brady; wings, Wright, Darrah. Alternates— H. Brooks, Price Mawer, Belanger, Corrigan, Lynch, Van Heuklebhom, Clemens, O'Neill.

Hastings Takes TVL Win Over Marmora

HASTINGS — (ENS)—Hastings' leathernecks continued their winning ways last night in the Hastings Arena as they drubbed Marmora 15-7, in a regular TVL fixture. It was the fastest, cleanest home game of the year, on good ice with but one penalty handed out, a minor for tripping.

Hastings opened the scoring at the 3.50 mark, and never stopped and at the end of 20 minutes were out in front 5-0.

They started off the second to make it 6-0, when Marmora who up till then had done everything but score, finally found the mark, but the locals added two more while holding Marmora to a single.

The third period was the playoff, as play roared from end to end, with both goalies making some great saves, yet Hastings poured in seven more goals, while Marmora, who had finally got untracked, answered with five. Stevenson added to his total with four goals and an assist, followed by McGrath with three and one, Doris with two and and three, and J. West with four assists.

Hastings—Goal, J. O'Brien; defence, McGillen, Fennell; centre Stevenson; wings, Doris, Dodd; alternates, Ball, McGrath, Thompson, J. West, Cupoli, D. West, Morrow, Batley, Isaacs.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Up at Chatham late last week, F. Stenson's rink took first honors and the De Koning Trophy in the open mied rink bonspiel. Supporting him were Dr. M. McCartney, Mrs. M. McCartney, and Mrs. F. Stenson.

The Ontario Ladies' Tankard will be held at the local Curling Club, commencing at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Offhand, we believe it is about six years since this important event was last held here.

There are 16 rinks competing, and all are entered in the main event. Those who lost the first game automatically fall back into the second event, the Northey Trophy. It's a straight elimination series and a win by one shot is as good as a win by 10 shots.

The visiting curlers will be entertained by the local lady curlers. Mrs. J. Green is convener of the Tankard committee.

Six men's rinks from this club are going to Lindsay on Saturday evening for a friendly game.

EASY AS PIE.—Hooping a basket for Doug Galvin is just as easy as cutting a piece of pie. The St. Peter's High senior star has scored 78 points in three games for the Saints, nearly setting a Peterborough record with 39 against Port Perry High several weeks ago. Quintets in the Ontario Catholic Conference respect the slim cager and always assign a good checker to the task of holding Galvin away from the hoop. St. Michael's College will be keeping an eye on Galvin Friday night in OCC games in Toronto against the Saints. Galvin (number 7) hooks the ball up in a recent game although surrounded by the opposition.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Mask Gets Main Bout Against Yukon Eric With Assist From Referee

Yukon Eric found it too big a task to wrestle the Red Mask and Referee Joe Golab at the same time here last night, and he lost the decision in the main pro mat bout before a good-sized crowd at the Brock Arena. Te was slamming the villainous Mask around and had him in a full nelson grip by the ropes, when the hooded one stepped through the hemp. Referee Golab warned Eric to break and began counting—but the Mask slyly held firmly to one of Yukon's massive arms. Eric tried to tug free but couldn't in time to beat the count, and Golab awarded the bout to the Mask. The latter and Golab had to hustle with a police escort through an angry crowd afterward.

EVENED IT UP

Eric won the second and equalizing fall when he tired of the eye-gouging and other snide tricks of the mean Mask, and went to work on him. He used his great strength to flail him around with those beam-like arms to soften the red-hooded rival up and then Eric applied a punishing full nelson to gain the fall. The Alaskan ran out of patience at times with the referee, too, applying the odd gouge to tossing him lightly aside when he failed to wisen up to the illegal tactics used throughout by the Mask.

The opening fall went to the unknown one, who scaled 251 to Eric's 274 muscular pounds. It opened cleanly enough but, when the Mask found he could not depend on strength nor speed — bouncing off Yukon's huge chest —he resorted to his bottomless bag of mean mat tricks. He finally got working on one of Eric's legs, using the ropes illegally to help on the leverage, and this set Eric up for the fall with a stepover doubleleglock. The ref missed the earlier illegal softening-up process and was booed plenty.

A TUB OF LARD

A 350-pound tub of lard sporting the monicker of Man Mountain Dean Jr. won the semi-final in 18 minutes over 235-pound Frank Taylor. Two corner chest bumps and then a terrific slam on the prone Taylor did the trick, though Golab got in the way and interfered just before in trying to break a hold by Frank. This gave the Mountain his chance and he didn't miss. He went for hair-pulling, eye-rasps and choke holds, getting away with modfified murder, while Taylor was promptly warned when he threw a few fists in retaliation. It was an unpopular decision with the cash customers.

Don Beitleman, 230, took the prelim against Bill Stack, scaling 241, in 19 minutes with a flying leg scissors off the ropes. He borrowed this effective bit of open aerial work from Stack, who used it earlier. They staged a lot of wide-open grappling to please the fans. Both were fast and showed many good grips, generally playing it clean, though it was rugged in spots. Don almots got big Bill from up Bowmanville way once with a giant swing, but Stack flew right back at him and was holding his own till that sudden flying scissors off the hempen strands flattened Stack for the one-two-three count by Golab.

FAIN TRADED TO CHICAGO—Ferris Fain (left), two time American League batting champion, was traded to the Chicago White Sox by the Philadelphia Athletics. The deal involved five players. Biggest catch for the A's was Chisox star Eddie Robinson.

Racing Rules To Follow U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Trotting Association rules will be changed this year to conform with those of the United States Trotting Association, the CTA decided at its annual meeting Wednesday night.

The membership after voting in favor of the proposal, directed the CTA directors to appoint a committee to administer the rule changes.

The changes are designed to facilitate international competition by making racing in Canada easier for United States drivers

Included in the changes is one stating that standard breds 15 years old and over will be ineligible to compete. This will apply after 1953.

One American rule the Canadian group is not expected to adopt is one prohibiting racing on Sunday. This would curtail activities of Quebec tracks.

It was announced that Thorncliffe track in Toronto will run from July 4 to Aug. 12 and that Blue Bonnets in Montreal plans a 42-day harness meet in addition to its flat-racing program

H. E. Hatch of Toronto was re-elected association president.

Ed Shore Waives On Thorpe But Adds Stipulation He Must Not Play For Petes

Manager Eddie Shore of Syracuse in the American Hockey League has waived his claim on Bob Thorpe of Peterborough, paving the way for Thorpe's return to amateur hockey, but Shore stipulated that he was doing so on the understanding that Thorpe did not play for the Petes this season or next. This information was obtained Wednesday from officials of the TVL Norwood club, where Thorpe has been playing recently. President Rod Webb and Vice-President Dr. A. R. Atkinson of the Norwood club want it understood that Thorpe—who is under TVL suspension for the rest of this season for playing before getting his amateur card—acted in good faith, as did the Norwood team.

HAD PERMISSION

Dr. Atkinson explained yesterday: "Thorpe was granted permission by the NHL headquarters and by the CAHA to play for Norwood in the Trent Valley League, pending his clearance by all professional clubs, which was expected to be just a matter of form, since his last club, Buffalo, granted his release. However, in the process of waiving him out of pro hockey, Thorpe was claimed by Mr. Shore, and permission to play amateur then was withdrawn. We did not know this when we played him.

"Lakefield protested our playing this man and they had a valid complaint. The league executive upheld the protest, and we do not blame either the executive or Lakefield. It was just unfortunate that the player had been claimed by Mr. Shore. As it is too late now to send Bob's TVL card in, we cannot use him the rest of the season, and games he played for us are thrown out. But we want it made known that we played him in good faith, and Thorpe thought he was eligible for amateur play, also." He added that Norwood would finish out its schedule in order that the league would not be disrupted.

PHONED SHORE

When it was learned that Shore had refused to waive on Thorpe, Norwood officials contacted the Syracuse manager by phone and explained the situation. Shore then agreed to waive on the player — backing his statement up with a telegram— but said it was on condition that Thorpe didn't play for the Petes for two years. He intimated that this stipulation had nothing to do with Thorpe or Norwood, but was a matter between himself (Shore) and the Petes.

Norwood officials and Bob himself are in the dark as to why Shore made this stipulation. Shore was booed roundly at an exhibition game here late last fall and many thought it was due to unfavorable radio and press publicity he received here when he refused to grant releases to Thorpe, Don Ashbee and Nip O'Hearn to play amateur hockey with the Petes. Some also thought that older fans were recalling the time Shore seriously injured Irvin (Ace) Bailey— a former local star— in Boston back in the early 30s. In any case, Shore appears unwilling to help the Petes' in any way.

SENT TO PREXY

A copy of Shore's telegram waiving on Thorpe is being sent to President Clarence Campbell, of the NHL clearing office, and it is expected that he will shortly receive his amateur hockey card, even if he can't use it the rest of this winter. Norwood officials say they are sorry now they didn't go after Bob's release much sooner— as they could probably be playing him now — but they held back for a time while the Petes were seeking to get his release.

Some of the Petes' officals are of the opinion that once Thorpe receives his CAHA card again, Eddie Shore will have no further say on the matter of where he plays in amateur ranks. But they agree that it is unlikely he will see action for the Petes for the rest of the hockey season. Thorpe recently was again named playing coach for the Peterborough Timbermen for the 1953 lacrosse season.

CAHA CARD?—With Ed Shore waiving his claim on Bob Thorpe, it appears as if the Petes' lacrosse playing coach will get his CAHA card shortly to permit him to play amateur hockey again—though he may not see further ice action around here for the rest of this season. Bob played for a number of years in the AHL.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings find themselves in an embarrassing position. No longer are they riding herd on the National Hockey League. Despite Gordie Howe's league-leading marksmanship Detroit is trailing Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens nicked New York Rangers 2-1 Wednesday night to put them a half-game ahead of Detroit which has fronted the flock since Dec. 11. The manoeuvring sets the stage for tonight's games. A Detroit win against Chicago Black Hawks will put the Motor City outfit in front again provided Montreal drops its fixture with New York on home ice. But although Wednesday night's win was the season's first for Montreal in New York, the record is considerably better for the Canadiens at home and the odds are the Frenchmen will take the game to stay in front.

While the leaders are struggling, fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs take on the Bruins at Boston. The Leafs are only a point behind third-place Chicago and need a win to protect their five-point cushion over the fifth-place Bruins.

HAD BATTLE

Canadiens didn't take over the league leadership without a battle. The close-checking game was meagre with goals. Floyd Curry scored the winner for Montreal and the opener went to Kenny Mosdell. New York's marker was off the stick of Pete Babando.

The great Maurice Richard failed to appear in the scoring summary. The only goal he was remotely connected with was New York's which came when the Rocket was languishing in the penalty box for a minor infraction.

Jimmy Connelly, Billy McCreary, Birley Dimma and Irv Scott each scored twice for the Bilts and Billy Graham and Danny Blair scored the other two.

In Toronto, St. Michael's defeated the league-leading Marlboros 4-3. Jack Caffery, Butch Ratchford, Ed Plata and Jim Logan scored for the third-place Irish while Ron Ingram, Louis Eendo and Billy Harris got the Marlboros' goals.

Wood Memorial Raced Week Before Derby

NEW YORK (AP)—Officials of Jamaica race track announced Wednesday that the $100,000 Wood Memorial, major eastern Kentucky Derby prep, would be raced one week before the Derby and that a new race would replace the Experimental handicap No. 2.

The Wood Memorial, for three-year-olds over the mile and one-eighth route, usually is spotted two weeks in advance of the Derby, but must be raced this year April 25 The Derby in Louisville is May 2.

John Morris, president of the Metropolitan Jockey Club which operates Jamaica, said the Experimental Handicap No. 1, $20,000 added, at six furlongs, would be raced April 8. The Experimental No. 2, over a mile and 1-16, usually came a week before the Wood Memorial to give the three-year-olds a longer tuneup for the Wood, as well as the Derby, a mile and ¼.

NO ATTRACTION

In recent years, the second Experimental has failed to attract the top-weighted horses in handicapper John Campbell's ratings. This year Campbell placed 130 pounds on Native Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's brilliant two-year-old champion of 1952. Laffango and Tahitian King, the next horses in the list, are down for only 123 pounds, while the rating goes as low as 102. Native Dancer would have been an extremely doubtful starter under 130 pounds.

As a substitute, Jamaica came up with the $30,000 Gotham, also a mile and 1-16 for April 18. All horses will carry equal weight of 120 pounds.

It is likely that Native Dancer will appear in the Gotham as well as the Wood before taking off for Kentucky.

TCS First Team Defeats Lakefield

LAKEFIELD — TCS first team edged the Lakefield first team, 4-3, here Wednesday. Down two goals with about five minutes to go, the Lakefield team cut the margin to one and showered La Fleur, the TCS goalkeeper, from every angle for the remainder of the game without success.

Whittamore of Lakefield was the best player on the ice. The goal scores for TCS were Church with three; and Depencier, while for Lakefield, Ramsay, Ryder

Ken Watson's Curling

STOP PUSHING, PLEASE

The "pushing" disease is contagious among curlers. Its symptoms are easy to diagnose. High pulse rate, muscular contraction in the muscles of the right arm, followed by violent turns. When delirium tremens is noticeable in the actions of your skip, it is time to call for a quarantine to protect society from the effects of your disease.

The first instruction ever given a curler starts him off on the wrong foot. He is told the difference between an in-turn and an out-turn and is admonished to be sure to give the handle the correct turn. In his anxiety to please and at the same time protect himself from the wordy explosions of an irate skip, he concentrates his entire being on giving a twist to the handle that leaves no uncertainty in his or anybody else's mind as to what his intentions were. The idea of aiming at the broom is purely of secondary importance. So, after several games in this manner, it becomes a mighty miracle if he ever develops a smooth and effortless release of his stone.

In imparting that last lethal push, most curlers destroy the accuracy of a good backswing. The real secret is a pendulum swing with the handle of the stone hanging from the fingertips. Swing the rock out ahead. Do not set it down on the ice before releasing it. The handle should be turning as you let the stone go, so that no last-second push is necessary. Get the feeling that you are stretched out at full length, with your right leg stretched straight back behind you and your right arm reaching out at full length ahead of you. This, at the split second the rock leaves your hand.

A pusher's right arm bends at the elbow, and his hand tightens on the handle. A swinger's right arm is always straight—not rigid—and his hand and fingers are relaxed. Go back to the hack and swing!

Genereux Winner Of Marsh Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Big George Genereux, the brush-cut kid who cradled a scatter-gun at the age of 12 and later became a world champion, has won the Lou Marsh Memorial Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete of 1952, it was announced today.

The trophy was set up in 1936 to honor Marsh, for many years sports editor and columnist of the Toronto Daily Star, who died in March of that year. It is awarded annually to the Canadian athlete adjudged the best of the year.

The 18-year-old high school student from Saskatoon, practically a phenomenon in the sport world, vaulted from obscurity to become Canada's only gold medal winner of the 1952 Olympic Games with his trapshooting skill.

He won the trophy over 14 other notables from many sports, including football, baseball, hockey, swimming and water-skiing. Other placings were not announced.

HIGH ON LIST

High on the list were Carol Ann Duthie of Toronto, water-skiing champion in 1952, and Shirley Campbell, the 16-year-old stenographer from Fergus, Ont., who won the women's amateur and professional world swimming titles at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto last year

The award was another trophy added to the big collection gathered by Genereux, a six-foot, three-inch youth with an easy smile. Although comparatively unknown in Canada until his Olympic feat at Helsinki last summer, he has been winning shooting titles since he was 13, including the junior championship at the grand American trapshoot at Vandalia, O., centre of the sport in North America.

PLACED SECOND

George placed second to Maurice Richard, brilliant rightwinger with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, as top athlete for 1952 in a Canadian Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Miss Campbell won the three-mile professional swim by stroking through 65-degree Lake Ontario water in 1.21:41, 17 seconds short of the record set in 1937. She also collected $1,650 in prize money.

High in the judges' voting—the system and the points given each athlete were not announced—was Gordie Howe, high-scoring rightwinger with Detroit Red Wings of the NHL and a native of Floral, Sask.

Indian Jack Jacobs, the all-star quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, was also mentioned.

Others were Cliff Lumsden of Toronto, winner of the world swimming championship at the CNE last August for the third time, and Ulysses Curtis of Toronto Argonauts, winners of the Grey Cup last year.

GOLF OFFICIALS GATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Annual meeting of the Ontario Golf Association will be held in Toronto Saturday, Feb. 7. Delegates from clubs throughout the province will consider reports of last year's activities and elect officers for 1953.

Maroons Shade Redmen 3-1 In Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons shaded Brantford Redmen in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game Wednesday night that gave fans their money's worth in excitement.

The Maroons scored twice in overtime to defeat the fourth-place Redmen 3-1 and move into fifth-place tie with Sarnia Sailors.

Fritz Fraser of Brantford was chased from the game in the third period when he attacked referee Frank Slota.

Ernie Dick, George Edwards and Ed Didone scored for Chatham while Arn Dugan got Brantford's only goal.

HAVE INTERFERENCE

Penalized for interference, Fraser began disputing with Slota who promptly tacked on a misconduct penalty. Fraser then threw his gloves on the ice and started raining blows on Slota until other players intervened.

In Kitchener, a 6-2 loss to the third-place Dutchmen drove the Sailors nearer elimination from the playoff race. Jack McKenzie scored twice for the Dutchmen while Doug Verity, Al Buchanan, Don Bauer and Clare Martin added the others. Skip Frezell and Roly Beauchamp tallied for the Sailors.

On home ice, the second-place Stratford Indians drubbed Hamilton Tigers 17-2 for the tail-end Tabbies' 38th loss in 39 starts.

Frank Lisko and Hugh Bolzon scored the Tigers' goals in the first period. The Sailors tallied eight times in the first, three in the second and six more in the third.

Mickey Roth scored four, Ken Schultz three, Dinny Flanagan and Pat Wilson two each for the Indians. Ferguson, Burdett, Walker, Walsh, Dejordy and Aitken each scored once.

MOVE OVERTIME PLAY

Overtime play also featured Wednesday night's lone contest in the Northern Ontario Senior league as Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Indians potted two goals in extra time to edge the Sault, Ont., Greyhounds.

Goals by Gordie Kerr and Laurie Peterson gave the Indians the victory after they had come back to knot the count at 3-3 with a pair of markers in the third stanza.

Hawks Won't Accept Schedule Changes

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawk officials won't go along with any change of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoff schedules, set last fall.

Stafford Smythe of Toronto Marlboros and Hap Emms of Barrie Flyers have been reported to favor a change in the schedule now that it seems like the Dukes and the Flyers will finish one-two in the standings.

Galt president J. H. Bennett and coach Al Murray both said any change in playoff arrangements would be "over our dead bodies."

Eastern Delegates Want To Revise Wheat Board Act

By DAVE McINTOSH

VICTORIA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture moved on to its final convention business today after failing for the fourth straight year to resolve the sometimes bitter argument between eastern and western farmers over coarse grains.

Upshot of the latest skirmish, which came in a three-hour debate Wednesday, was that the East threatened to try to strip the coarse grains marketing powers from the Canadian wheat board when the Wheat Board Act comes up for renewal in Parliament July 31.

The statute gives the wheat board power to act as sole marketing agency for wheat, oats and barley for Prairie farmers. Eastern spokesmen said their farmers will try to persuade their members of Parliament to vote against renewal of the act for oats and barley, the two coarse grains used as livestock feed in the East. Approximately 35 per cent of the Prairie coarse grain crop is sold in Eastern Canada.

A resolution which said, in part, "Western producers have been ably protected on all matters of sale and stability but eastern feeders have received very little if any consideration" from the wheat board was finally withdrawn. Federation President H. H. Hannam said the organization's board of directors will again try to find a solution as soon as possible.

PRICE FLUCTUATES

Eastern farmers claim they cannot be assured of a steady supply of feed grains, particularly in all-rail winter months, and that the price sometimes fluctuates wildly. They said they figured that once the wheat board was established, the middleman speculator would be eliminated. That had not happened, and what made it more galling was that the East had helped the West set up the wheat board.

The West said no substitute in this case had been found for the speculator to set prices. The wheat board could sell to any party, who was entitled to make a profit if he could. Even if speculators were eliminated, prices would still fluctuate due to competitive world markets.

WRONG APPROACH

Westerners also said that if the East, by political power, stopped marketing of coarse grains by the board, Prairie farmers would do it themselves. Stripping some powers from the board was the "wrong approach" and "no solution" to the problem.

Suggestion that a grain bank be established in the East did not get far. There could be no guarantee that all eastern farmers would buy from the bank if they could get oats and barley cheaper elsewhere and unsold grain moved out of position in the West would leave Prairie producers at a disadvantage.

A. T. Baker of Lethbridge, representing the Alberta Wheat Pool, seemed to sum up the entire discussion when he said: "There's no sentiment in this business."

He said Prairie farmers had spent 50 years and millions of dollars to get the marketing agency they wanted and they wouldn't see it torn down. "It would be a tragedy if we did anything to jeopardize the wheat board," he said.

WILLING TO PAY

The East said it wasn't trying to beat the West down on prices. It was willing to pay a fair price but, said Jack Broderick, an Ontario delegate: "The East has been squeezed for two years and won't take it any longer."

Two resolutions dealing with the international wheat agreement were passed without debate or comment.

The CFA reaffirmed its support of the IWA but asked for higher floor and ceiling prices in the new agreement, to be negotiated soon.

The federation urged the federal government to continue efforts to reach a new agreement "providing a satisfactory price can be obtained." Higher floor and ceiling prices were necessary because of the "consistent" increase in farm production costs and living costs since the first agreement was signed in 1949.

Liberal M.P. Expelled From Assembly

QUEBEC (CP) — A stormy debate over proposed changes to the Quebec Election Act boiled over Wednesday night and resulted in the expulsion of a Liberal member from the Quebec Legislative Assembly.

The expulsion of Emilien Lafrance (L—Richmond) came in the midst of a verbal wrangle during a speech Premier Duplessis was making closing the two-day debate over principle of the bill, adopted by a vote of 53 to 20. The expulsion was for the remainder of the evening sitting.

Mr. Duplessis said he is convinced the bill is the best the government has ever introduced because it offers every guarantee for honest elections.

George Marler, Liberal House leader, said the bill "reduces to nil the natural and logical rights of the opposition."

TROUBLE BREWING

Trouble had been brewing ever since Mr. Lafrance was named by Speaker Alexandre Tache earlier in the day. This deprived him of the right to take any further part in proceedings for the rest of the day.

While Mr. Duplessis was speaking, a remark was made from opposition benches and Speaker Tache warned Mr. Lafrance he would ask the House to vote his expulsion. He had no right to speak as he had been named.

As Mr. Duplessis rose to move expulsion, cries of "get out" were heard from government benches.

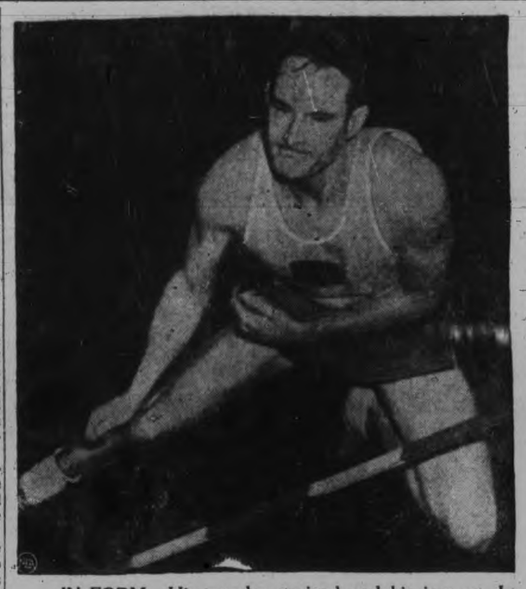
Mr. Lafrance picked up his brief case and walked out when Speaker Tache told him he had to leave while the House discussed the motion to expel him.

Mr. Marler said Mr. Lafrance had not made the remarks which could not be made out from press gallery seats at the rear of the assembly.

Speaker Tache said he "heard and saw" Mr. Lafrance speak.

The motion to expel was adopted by a vote of 53 to 20. Mr. Lafrance will be able to take his seat today.

Speeches of Mr. Duplessis and Mr. Marler closed one phase of a debate over the 48-page bill to amend the election act. The bill now will be studied in committee and then discussed again when third reading is called.



Mr. Duplessis said Liberal arguments that enumerators appointed by the government might be inclined to falsify electoral lists amounted to saying that 40,990 election officers were "rabble."

He said he had never seen an opposition party conduct a debate in such a way.

Mr. Duplessis said opposition members apparently did not understand the bill they were studying.

He denied it made election officers immune to court procedures as charged. The only change was that delaying court tactics would not be allowed because they could paralyze an election. The bill's aim was to make an election easier.

As far as a clause dealing with foreign-born Canadians was concerned, the provision requiring them to produce citizenship certificates on demand at the polls was a guarantee that no one could wrest their vote from them.

Baseball Meet Promises To Be Turbulent

NEW YORK (AP)—What promised to be a quiet meeting of the major baseball leagues here this weekend now figures to be a turbulent affair with the possible sale of St. Louis Cardinals high on the agenda of the National League owners.

[illegible] Cardinal was sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000 in St. Louis Wednesday after he had pleaded no defence to charges of income-tax evasion

There is nothing in the books that says Saigh must sell the club, but after sentence was imposed, he told the court:

"This means, of course, I will have to dispose of the Cardinals. There is no way I can stay in baseball."

NO COMMENNT

Most baseball officials, including Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles, declined comment.

A source high in the sport, however, pointed out there are two possible steps that can be taken by baseball.

1. The commissioner can invoke the rule that gives him power to bar anybody from baseball on the grounds that he is detrimental to baseball.

2. The National League executives can use a clause in their constitution to keep a person from owning a club.

BUYING CARDINALS?

The same high baseball authority said a Houston, Tex., group had made inquiries about buying the Cardinals. The Texas group was understood to have asked whether it should try to negotiate a deal directly with Saigh or talk business with the National League.

The source also said it would be practically impossible to move the franchise in 1953, if the club was sold to an outside group.

Saigh, in St. Louis, said he had made no plans as yet to dispose of his stock. He also said no deals are pending.

But in Houston, George W Starke multi-millionaire oilman, said he might still be interested "if it is a good business deal."

British Industrialist S. A. Courtauld Dies

HALSTEAD, England (AP) — Samuel Augustine Courtauld, 87, one of the first British industrialists to recognize the commercial possibilities of rayon, died today.

He was a great nephew of the founder of Courtauld's Ltd., a giant British textile firm, and served as a director of the company from 1894 to 1950.

Grove First Victors

TCS first edged Grove Firsts 4-3 in a close hockey game Wednesday in Lakefield. Ramsay scored first from Ryder, Depencier evening it up later, but Ryder again put Grove up. In the third, Uren from Ramsay was the only Grove counter, while TCS tallied three, Church getting a pair on passes from Mills, and Depencier winnig it on Yale's assist. Teams:

TCS: Lafleur, Higgins, Johnston, Osler, Depencier, Yale, Seagram, Burns, Brown, Scott, Arnold, Church, Donald, Mills, Griffin, Cumberland.

Grove: Hellyer, MacDonald, Whittmore, Uren, Ryder, Ramsay, Pearce, Little, Rashleigh, Staples, Caldwell, Oliver, VanBuskirk.

In Port Hope on Tuesday, TCS juniors won over Grove 6-3, with Arkell scoring two, as singles went to Cape, Stephenson, Spence and Wotherspoon. For Grove, Rainnie and Easten scored.

Warns Australia To Speed Olympic Plans

SYDNEY (AP)—The senior Australian representative of the International Olympic Committee said Wednesday that unless definite plans for the 1956 games in Melbourne are soon decided on he will recommend they be taken away from Australia.

H. R. Weir, senior representative made this statement in an interview which coincided with a definite decision of Melbourne Cricket Ground trustees to offer the site as an Olympic stadium.

Weir said the plan for the games would require a modern stadium and "not a makeshift converted cricket ground." Facilities of a standard at least equal to those last year at Helsinki would be required.

APRIL DEADLINE

"Let nobody have any doubt that the games cannot be taken away from us," Mr. Weir warned. "April 17 is the deadline when the international committee meets in Mexico City. I will have to advise president Avery Brundage well before then.

"There will have to be more than just vague promises. We have no time to spend in further negotiations."

It was stated unofficially in Melbourne that the cricket ground could be made suitable for a main Olympic stadium for less than $336,000.

Scientific Study Greatest Aid To Production

All aspects of industrial development operation and management were dealt with in fullest detail by Prof. A. E. Allcutt, head of the Department of Engineering, University of Toronto, in an address here Tuesday evening, before the Peterborough branch, Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants, and Peterborough branch of the Enginering Institute of Canada.

"Management is both a science and an art," Prof. Allcutt stated, "and reaches a given end economically." He stressed management should attempt to confine itself to a limited field, reducing varieties of products, with greater uniformity of quality and dimensions providing a lower costing and better product.

Turning to products, he outlined some of the means used by modern research laboratories in determining a product's qualities, of hardness, color and durability, through exhaustive tensile and other tests, and the use of spectographic analysis. "Instead of intuition and guesswork," he said, "we now have control specifications and suitable tests."

Determination of facts is a scientific process, the speaker stated, while the art involved consists of analyzing the results in the best way.

Turning to the human factor, he said, "The complexity of the relationship of management to labor, of labor to labor of different grades or skills, of all these to the finished product, and of the finished product to market quantities and prices, where the forces of competition are predominant, all introduce an element of considerable remoteness between individual effort and an accurate reward, or wages."

MAN ADAPTABLE

Referring to the workers, Prof. Allcutt added, "It must be recognized that man is the most adaptable creature in the universe; he can work with effectiveness within a wide range of temperature, humidity, foulness of atmosphere, in bright light or dim; he can adjust himself to awkward positions and movements; he can withstand noise, vibration, and other irritations; and with the crudest of implements he can perform operations of great delicacy and precision. But when measures of output are carefully made and efficiency is calculated, it is invariably found that all such distractions and their necessary adjustments are not without their costs. It was learned early by those making scientific studies that careful attention to the comfort of the worker was not only humane but profitable."

Eisenhower Holds Parley On Strategy

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower assembled his top military, foreign affairs and intelligence officers today for a full-dress review of the foreign situation and a discussion of cold war strategy.

Eisenhower called in Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, retiring chief of the central intelligence agency, and Allen Dulles, designated to succeed Smith as CIA boss.

Vice - president Richard Nixon, State Secretary John Foster Dulles, Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen are to attend the conference as members of the policy - making national security council. The president is chairman.

There were indications that both Western Europe and the Far East would be discussed.

LEAVE FOR TOUR

Dulles and Stassen leave tomorrow for a 10-day tour of Western Europe. Their itinerary calls for meetings in Italy, France, britain, Western Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

In a speech Tuesday night, Dulles said the plan for European defences, which includes a six-country European army, "now seems to be somewhat stalled" and Eisenhower has asked him to make a quick survey.

Dulles said that, should defence efforts fail in Western Europe, "it would be necessary to give a little re-thinking to America's own foreign policy in relation to Western Europe."

The question is closely tied in with appropriations for foreign aid, a subject on which some congressmen believe Eisenhower may encounter serious obstacles in congress. Former president Truman's budget earmarked $7,600,000,000 for such assistance.

HANDLES ALLOCATIONS

Stassen, as mutual security administrator, will be in charge of allocating a large portion of whatever is appropriated.

With respect to the Far East, Dulles said in his speech that the Communists feel they have an advantage in continuing the fighting in Korea and Indo-China.

"I believe Gen. Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace," Dulles said.

Central Atop Loop

Central seniors trimmed Queen Mary 6-1 in school hockey at Civic yesterday. Grills paced their attack with two goals and an assist, Armstrong counted two, Dinsdale aided on a pair, as Robbins and Lustic sank singles. Perritt scored for the losers, assisted by Haig. The win put Central in first place over Queen Mary with five wins and no losses. The game was tight enough till the last period when Central scored four. Hockey was good but fairly rugged, with some fine defensive work seen by Hendry and Tetlock.

QM: Reynolds, Drury, Dafoe, Jobbitt, Wilson, Haig, Stewart, Brown, Milne, Perritt, Jackson, Hendry, McArthur.

Central: Robbins, Lustic, Robinson, Gray, Tetlock, Biggs, Dinsdale, Armstrong, Grills, Sorrie, Simpson, McInroy, Barclay, Aulbrook, Taylor.

Referees, H. Curry and A. Hill.

Hornets Rout Cleveland 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets took a three-point lead over second-place Cleveland Wednesday night, routing the Barons 3-1. St. Louis Flyers defeated Buffalo Bisons by the same score.

Bob Solinger's second-period goal proved to be the winner at Pittsburgh. Andy Barbe got the first and Bill Ezinicki the insurance marker. Cleveland's tally came off the stick of Glen Sonmor.

The Barons also lost their goalie, Johnny Bower, late in the third when he was struck on the mouth by John McLellan's high shot. Roy Perrad, a standby goalie, replaced him.

At Buffalo, Gerry Ehman, moved up from a utility role because of Harry Taylor's broken arm, scored the key goal. With the teams locked at 1-1, Ehman got the winner with only 43 seconds of game-time remaining. Lou Jankowski scored the final marker at 19:59, after goalie Jacques Plante was removed in favor of another Buffalo forward. Steve Hrymnak completed the St. Louis scoring. Jim Conacher counted for the Bisons.

Life Easier In West Germany

By IAN FRASER

BONN (Reuters)—Life in West Germany is getting steadily better for the ordinary citizen, with employment at its highest and unemployment—about 1,000,000—at its lowest since the war.

"Ordinary citizen" does not, however, include the millions uprooted from their homes in former East German territories and now trying to settle down in the west.

The average West German is a hard worker and his main interest at present is getting on with his job and earning enough money to make both ends meet, with perhaps a little over to buy a few luxuries from some of the best stocked stores in Western Europe.

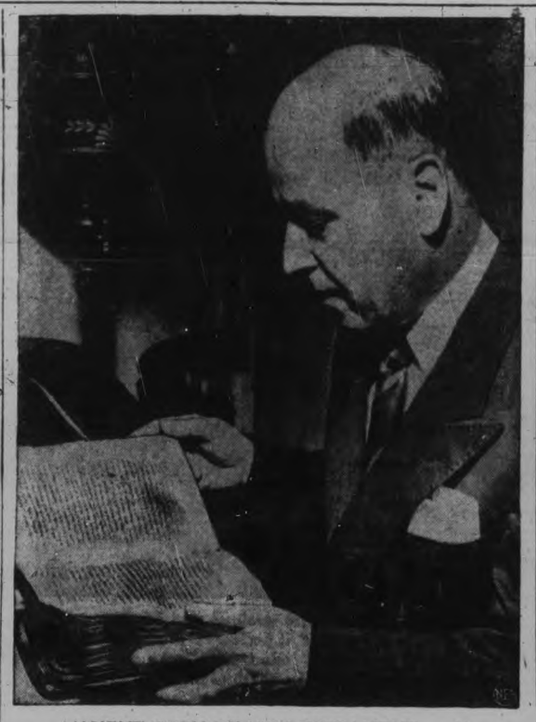
Expensive food and lack of housing are the two main grumbles of the man-in-the-street.

Visitors to West Germany are frequently impressed by the tremendous amount of rebuilding done since the war. But many Germans complain that too much capital and materials have been spent on building stores, restaurants, cinemas, banks, and blocks of offices and not enough on ordinary housing.

TOO EXPENSIVE

Those lucky enough to rent new apartments have to pay some of the building costs. Few of them can afford it, and thus overcrowding is widespread.

A former army general who owns a nine-room house at Frankfurt rents seven rooms to five former senior army officers and their wives on the basis of one room for each couple. One of the other two rooms is rented to a charwoman.



Germany today also is a land of new cars.

Pre-war cars are not seen on the roads now—they were either run to death by the Wehrmacht or requisitioned by the Allies in the early days of the occupation. The four big firms, Volkswagen, Opel, Ford and Mercedes, have put nearly 1,000,000 cars on German roads since 1945. Motor-scooters have had a huge success, as also have bicycles with auxiliary motors.

PEOPLE BETTER DRESSED

The people on the streets are better dressed than they were a few years ago, but their dress leaves much room for improvement.

The country's habits of leisure have undergone some changes since the war. Soccer has grown immensely in popularity and the occupation brought the football pool with it. Coca-Cola and cigarets packed American-style have also swept the field.

Short Of Funds London Club Admit Women

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Colonel Blimp wouldn't have tolerated for a minute some of the changes in London's clubs these post-war days.

Women members, bars, higher fees, less impeccable service—things that would have brought forth anguished Blimpian cries 15 years ago—are pretty well a familiar story in stately Clubland centred along Pall Mall and the north side of Piccadilly.

It's a matter of economics.

Despite bombs and austerity, there still are too many London clubs for the persons who can afford them. Amalgamations of old established clubs are not uncommon. Some have had to move to less dignified premises or areas.

WAGES BIG FACTOR

For all, it's a question of being businesslike while retaining as much as possible of the original aim of gracious living. Changing times have seen wages, more than anything else, add weight to the debit side of club operation although food, wines, fuel and most other club necessities are also up.

Twenty years ago bars would have been regarded as a rude intrusion. Today bars are money makers.

"We have installed a bar—a dignified one," explained the secretary of the Oriental Club in London's Hanover square.

"We are also one of the clubs now admitting women as associate members if they are widows of former members or wives or daughters of present members."

FOLLOWS TREND

The Oriental, social club founded in 1824 and boasting the Duke of Wellington as its first chairman, has followed the general trend of jacking up annual fees and doing away, at least temporarily, with entry fees. Boosting membership is another stratagem.

The Oriental has admitted 300 women to premises since the start of 1952. Membership then was 820 and it's 1,500 today.

The Savage Club, identified by members as the last of the honest-to-goodness Bohemian clubs in London, caters to musicians and artists and still bars women. It has boosted annual fees.

Some famous ones which have amalgamated recently to stay afloat include the United Services and the Junior United Services and the Sports and the East Indian.

Return Both Wardens At Marmora Church

MARMORA — (ENS) — Annual vestry meeting of St. Paul's Anglican Church held in its parish hall on Teusday evening brought to light the prosperity which 1952 held for its congregation and supporters.

This was first instanced in the report of G. Kerr, church treasurer for many years, who revealed receipts to strike the high mark of almost $5,000 for which two bequests one of $1,000 and another of $500 were largely accountable. The year finished with a small balance on hand.

Canon J. M. Brownlie, rector, presided over a limited attendance of parishioners.

The Canon expressed his appreciation of the work of the wardens and other church officers and the congregation as a whole and mentioned that there were 16 burials, 11 baptisms and 9 marriages in 1952. Due to no espiscopal visit there were none confirmed but the new Bishop of the diocese, Bishop Evans is to make his first visitation in April.

The Mission Fund report handled by D. Robertson, showed the apportionment of $371.25 had been met; $28 had been sent to the Moosonee Fund and a further $33.96 to the Emergency Appeal for the Obuse Hospital Rebuilding Fund in Japan.

The Ladies Guild report, by Mrs. W. D. Lavender showed that about $1,300 had been raised last year; $655 of this was transferred to the Building and Decorating Fund, $418 went into the general account. Mrs. Lavender next reported for the Building and Decorating Fund. Mrs. R. G. Winters handled the report of the Women's Auxiliary.

The Sunlay School report was given by Mrs. W. D. Lavender and showed it to be in a satisfactory condition financially.

Mrs. C. R. Whittemore presented the report of the Deloro Branch of the Ladies Guild. The years operation of the organ fund was detailed by G. Kerr. Mrs. R. G. Winters reported for the Guild Flower Fund. Mrs. J. M. Brownlie told of a successful years of the Girl's Auxiliary.

Canon J. M. Brownlie having announced his reapointment of D. Robertson as rector's warden, proceeded with the election of other officers which were as follows: people's warden, T. Pearce; treasurer, G. Kerr; mission secretary, Miss M. Savage; lay delegates to synod; 3 years, C. R. Whittemore; 2 years, W. J. Cottrell, 1 year, R. E. Bonter; vestry clerk, C. R. Whittemore; auditors, A. Pordham, W. Simmons; vestry council, rector's warden, lay delegates, G. Kerr, C. Heath, G. Jones, W. D. Lavender, A. Pordham, G. Brown, Mrs. W. D. Levender and Mrs. R. G. Winters.

Veteran CPR Telegrapher Owner Of $65,000 Violin

BROWNVILLE JUNCTION, Me. (CP)—A $65,000 violin that has knocked around country dances in rural Maine and New Brunswick is assuring Leonard Lyons a comfortable old age.

For 20 years the 62-year-old telegraph operator for the Canadian Pacific Railway here kept the valuable instrument tucked away in a clothes closet. Now it's locked in a Bangor, Me., bank vault, protected from fire and theft.

Lyons doesn't intend to sell the violin at present, saying he hasn't any particular need for $65,000 now.

"I'd just as soon keep on going as I am now. I'm just as well off working as doing something else. Sure, I could travel, but that would get tiresome."

DECLARED A "STRAD"

Not long ago, at the insistence of friends, the railroader placed the violin in a battered case and journeyed to Boston. There experts declared it a Stradivarius, made by the Italian master in 1771, and estimated its value at $65,000.

"I'd known that for 20 years," Lyons confided. "I had it appraised in New York once when I was working there."

Before 1932 the Stradivarius set the pace for many a jig and reel in Maine and neighboring New Brunswick. In those days it was played by Lyons' son, Robert, who died in 1932.

Neither father nor son realized then that a $65,000 fiddle was calling the tunes and no particular care was taken of it.

LONG IN FAMILY

Lyons said the instrument was handed down from his grandfather, Porter Lyons, born in Lee, Me. When Porter died the violin went to his son, Millard, father of the present owner. Lyons isn't sure how the Stradivarius came into Porter's possession.

After the New York experts had a look at the violin, Lyons popped it into a clothes press, keeping the revelation pretty much to himself. He hasn't any immediate plans for the fiddle.

"I guess I'll just keep it in the bank vault until I get too old to work," Lyons said.

He had travelled as far as Vancouver. He was reunited with his wife (right) and daughter, Mrs. Armand Laurin after he snapped out of his blackout when his daughter visited him at Sunnybrook.

St. Paul's Congregation Reviews Year Of Great Missionary Work

Marking the greatest year in their history in missionary endeavour the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met on Wednesday night for the annual meeting. The Rev. C. G. Boyd, minister of the congregation opened the meeting with short devotions and presided at the business session. A. S. Couper was elected secretary.

T. H. Taylor, chairman of the budget committee of the congregation, reported that $6,500 was contributed by the congregation of the church at large. This sum was $1,000 more than last year and surpassed the allocation by several hundred dollars. The four missionary societies, for the ladiels of the congregation, all reported their allocation met.

Another effort of missionary endeavour was the starting of the mission in the south-end of the city during the past year. Meeting in Confederation school and only organized in October the average attendance at the church services is 100 and the average Sunday School attendance since the first of the year 135. Bruce Johnston one of the assessor elders named by the session of St. Paul's to take charge of the work announced that plans were underway to build a church this year on the lots purchased by the Women's Missionary Society of the congregation on Park Street, just across from the Confederation School.

OUTREACH CAMPAIGN

In addition to the regular missionary giving of the congregation $8,320 was contributed to the Outreach Campaign staged early in the year to build churches.

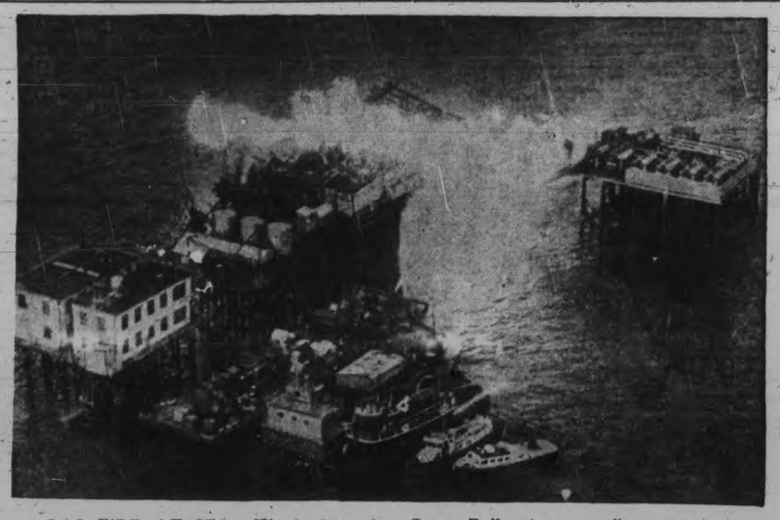
Stewart Lockington, treasurer of the congregation reported a successful year financially with a surplus of more than $3,000. Current receipts totalled $20,580 and expenditures $17,111.

The greatest missionary effort among the women was the St. Paul's WMS who sent an alltime high to the treasurer of the Women's Missionary Societies. The Fraser Auxiliary, which celebrated its 62nd year, Evening Auxiliairy of the WMS and the Young Women's Auxiliairy all reported successful years and allocations more than met.

AID THE CHURCH

The Ladies' Aid of the congregation reported on its many activities in the congregation. A fund has been established to furnish new cushions for the seats in the church, dinners were served various senior organizations and parties given junior organizations.

Flowers were provided for the sick and the junior boy's choir supplied with surplices and cassocks.



The choir reported the establishment of a fund to purchase a memorial window for the late Martin Chenhall, who for more than 25 years was a greatly revered musical leader in the city and organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's.

Scouts, Cubs, Explorers, YPS CGIT, MA Club and Young Married Club were other organizations reporting.

Report of the Sunday School showed that while a number of children had been lost to the southend congregation the average attendance was the same as one year ago.

A. E. Watkins and O. M. Steer were named as St. Paul's representatives to the Bible Society and John Buckley and Elwood Macdonald church auditors.

Elected to the Board of Managers for a term of three years were Robert Carley, William Saunders, John Buckley, John Turner and Gordon Hill.

GAS FIRE AT SEA—Wind-whipped flames, visible for 50 miles, are still raging from the stubborn fire engulfing five gas wells at an offshore oil drilling platform at Morgan City, La. Situated in the Gulf of Mexico the blaze was under fire from a team of anti-tank experts from nearby Camp Polk who were flown to the scene with a 75 millimeter rifle in an attempt to puncture the superstructure of the wells so the flames, shooting horizontally to the water in this aerial photograph, would turn skyward, relieve the danger to other wells, and enable standard fire-fighting efforts to be brought into play.

Railways, Firms Prepare Strike Plans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trains are rolling today along more than 40,000 miles of railway lines in Canada. But the day's big question is:

Will they run next Monday?

It depends on what happens in Ottawa where railway and union heads have been called to meet with the government because their wage talks lagged in Montreal.

The Ottawa meeting was fixed with only four fulls days left before a strike deadline set for 6 a. m. Monday.

While it was held neither the CPR, CNR nor the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen could afford to overlook preparations for a shutdown of Canada's 200,000-man railway organization.

GRADUAL RESTRICTION

The railways moved to restrict traffic gradually so that if the lines halt Monday no passenger and no perishable freight will be left stranded half-way to a destination.

The BRT studied plans for emergency operations to prevent such "tragic" consequences of a strike as the isolation of a remote community.

The businesses and commercial enterprises whose operations provide the prosperous flow of railway express and freight made their plans to move what traffic they could by other means of transport.

Airlines, bus and trucking systems got set to take over what they could of a great load of the mail, passengers and freight.

The air and road transport concerns studied priority systems for essential goods — goods, medicines and fuel — and methods of keeping emergency traffic in order.

The railways studied the effect of a strike on subsidiaries all across the country and disclosed that few would not be affected.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce went back to reports turned in by branch chambers throughout Canada during the nine-day summer rail strike of 1950.

SUFFERED MOST

These showed that the Maritime and Western provinces suffered the most.

Edward C. Wood, chairman of the CCC executive council, said a winter rail strike probably would be more serious than a summer strike.

Bad weather might interfere with trucking and the absence of lake shipping would mean loss of an important alternative service.

Agriculture department officials at Ottawa said most Canadian communities have enough food on hand to get by despite suspension of rail service on perishables.

The railways already have embargoed shipments of perishable foods and livestock that cannot reach their destinations by Monday.

But one department official made it clear adequate food supplies would depend on the length of any railway strike.

Ontario and Quebec automotive transport associations made plans to pool the 22,000 trucks of their member organizations into an emergency transport system.

But one official said truckers could only "do their best" since they aren't equipped to cope with all the traffic that would be available.

Man Charged With Robbery

TORONTO (CP)—One of three men arrested Tuesday night in a raid on a rooming house was charged Wednesday with the Jan. 21 armed robbery of the Regents Park housing project in which two men took $1,670.

Herbert Handy, alias Connery, 29, also is sought by United States authorities for escaping jail. He was arrested Tuesday night along with Louis Gallow, 50, of Hamilton, and Edwin McDonald, 33, of Toronto.

Randy and McDonald earlier Wednesday were remanded to Feb. 4 on charges of obstructing police. The three were arrested after a fierce, brief, struggle.

Gallow, sought in Hamilton, Brantford and St. Catharines on charges ranging from being a habitual criminal to jumping $20,000 bail, was taken to St. Catharines to face charges. He is also charged with shooting with intent to maim in a Brantford restaurant two weeks ago.

Con Man Jailed

LONDON (Reuters)—Charles Devine, "the prince of con men" was jailed for four years Wednesday for talking London jewelers out of £1,000 worth of merchandise in less than a week. Armed only with the blarney gift and an American accent over his brogue, the 33-year-old Irishman convinced jewelers he was an attache from the United States embassy.

Charged In Fire

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Hugh Walker, 19, was committed for trial Tuesday on charges of arson, following a $15,000 fire that destroyed a lodge in a Boy Scout camp near Palermo, 10 miles southeast of here. The court heard testimony that Walker admitted a grudge against the Boy Scouts, of which he was once a member.

3 Drowned In Crash

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Three men were drowned and two others escaped Wednesday night when their car plunged into the Humber river at a spot known as Devil's Dancing Point. Drowned when their car plunged over a 30-foot bank were Joseph Power, 18, Maurice Gushue, 45, and Patrick Brake, 22, all of Corner Brook.

Drivers May Strike

Stresses Speculative Markets Full Of Traps For Unwary

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The old slogan "investigate before you invest" seems to be taking a beating in the current hectic trading on the Toronto stock exchange.

The speculative buying and selling which has resulted from a base metal find in northern New Brunswick, insofar as the general public is concerned, seems to have in it more of wishful thinking than of investigation.

Doubtless many of those in the market know what they are doing, or are taking calculated risks. But those who are in on a hunch or on hearsay, especially if it is with money they can't afford to lose, need not be surprised if they get walloped.

Reports indicate the likelihood of a substantial zinc-lead-silver ore body in New Brunswick's Northumberland county. That is good news, and who knows what further good things may be found? The point is, no one knows, or will know, until much more exploratory work is done.

PRONE TO GET CAUGHT

Uninformed investors are prone to get caught on properties which "are near a property." They think that a find in one place means a treasure trove all round it.

But the earth didn't form itself that way. It had a habit, in its early, hot, pliable days, of shooting out the metals of the future in pinnacles, or along breaks (or faults) in its outer shell. Find such a buried pinnacle or fault and you may find riches. Look a few yards away and you may find nothing.

Canada would still be a poor country if there hadn't been speculators in her history. But there is a difference between intelligent speculation and just tossing one's money after a whisper in the wind.

Trading such as that of recent days has little to do with investment in anything and is of little help to northern New Brunswick. It is in large measure an attempt to get something for nothing—to buy at the bottom and sell at the top.

Henry Jakeman Heads Manvers Red Cross

BETHANY — (ENS)—Annual meeting of Manvers township branch of the Red Cross Society was held in Bethany on Tuesday, Henry Jakeman presiding. The treasurer, Mrs. Preston Neals, reported a balance of $446.81, and was instructed to remit $200 to Toronto.

Milton Wright was appointed campaign manager for 1953, with Mr. Jakeman and the Rev. T. S. Gault as assistants. It was decided to continue with the refresher caurse for the home nursing class begun last year with Mrs. Edgar Beer in charge.

Mr. Jakeman reported he had delivered 15,000 cod liver oil capsules to the schools of Manvers township.

Letters of thanks were read from Miss Lila Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McGill for groceries and bedding received from the local branch when their homes had been destroyed by fire.

The branch donated $50 towards cupboards being built in town hall basement which will house the Red Cross supplies.

The following officers were elected: The Rev. T. S. Gault, honorary president; H. M. Jakeman, president; Miss Laura Morton, first vice-president; Dr. G. McNeil, second vice-president; Hildon Johnston, third vice-president; Mrs. Preston Neals, treasurer; Mrs. Ross Carr, secretary; George Smith, chairman first aid committe; Mrs. Edgar Beer, home nursing instructor.

Check Drinking Water

COURTRIGHT, Ont. (CP)—Residents of this village of 580 persons near Sarnia have been asked to boil their drinking water and school fountains have been shut down. Dr. Gordon Anderson, director of the Lambeth county health unit, said the village's water supply is contaminated. The village gets its water from deep wells and has no purifying system.

GOING, GOING—At long last, Serge Rubenstein, above, wealthy New York draft dodger, is likely soon to be deported. The government has been trying to deport the Russian-born, so-called financial wizard since 1943. He was convicted of evading military service in World War II.

British Customs Returns At New High

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The British exchequer was enriched by a record income of $4,818,000,000 in customs and excise levies during the financial year which ended last March.

This colossal yield, disclosed in detail in a government report issued recently, not only tops all previous figures but is an increase of $335,500,000 over the 1950-51 revenue. It also represents more than 40 per cent of all central government taxation.

Most of the money came out of the pockets of the average man who contributed more than 50 per cent of the total, or approximately $2,735,000,000, for such luxuries as tobacco, beer, spirits and a fling at the football pools or the greyhound races.

TOBACCO TOPS LIST

Breakdown of these revenues alone was given as follows: Tobacco, $1,683,250,000; beer, $717,750,000 spirits, $265,250,000; greyhound and football pool betting, $68,750,000.

In addition, the purchase tax yielded roughly $930,000,000 while the levy on gasoline brought in about $550,000,000.

Outstanding feature of the year, says the report, was the rise in receipts under the Import Duties Act. Without any significant changes in the rate of duty, it produced slightly more than $255,000,000.

It reveals that Britons downed no less than 922,680,000 gallons of beer during the year, about 10,500,000 gallons of spirits and approximately the same quantity of wines.

A sidelight on the public's gambling habits shows a sharp boost in the volume of "investments" on football pools. Although the number of pools operating last year was reduced to 34 against 41 in the previous 12 months, the total wagered in the 38-week playing 000. This was more than $10,000,000 season 1951-52 soared to $160,800,above the 1950-51 figure.

SOCIALITE SLAIN — Mrs. Penny Coats Evans, 30, divorced wife of a New York and Philadelphia socialite, was found strangled with an electric appliance cord in her home at Westport, Conn. Police said she had been attacked and issued an alarm for her handyman. Mrs. Evans is shown as she posed with her son, Montgomery 3rd, in 1951.

Wounds Wife, Then Suicides

DETROIT (CP)—Thomas Martin, 43, was shot to death and his 29-year-old wife, Maynita, was seriously wounded Wednesday in what police said was an attempted murder and suicide.

Mrs. Martin, who suffered two bullet wounds in the chest, said her husband "went crazy and shot me."

Police said Mrs. Martin phoned her mother and said Martin had threatened her life. Her mother telephoned police but they were unable to get into the Martin apartment.

Later Mrs. Martin's brother broke into the apartment and found his sister wounded and Martin dead with a bullet wound in his head.

Junker Estates Now Collective Farms

By VINCENT BUIST

BERLIN (Reuters)—East Germany's vast Junker estates were split up by the Communists in 1946 to "give land to the peasants." Now they are being reassembled on the Soviet pattern as collective farms.

The government has announced that 1,100 collective farms—or kolhozes, as the Russians call them—have been formed.

East Germany, the last of the "people's democracies" to collectivize farming, needs Kolhoz farming to conserve its inadequate labor force and to improve food production.

Collectivization, when efficient, reduces the labor required and increases production by concentrating crop cultivation in most favorable regions.

NEED MORE HANDS

East Germany badly needs more hands in industry for her five-year plan, 1950-55, which aims at doubling industrial production. Labor is so scarce that West Germans estimate there are 200,000 acres lying idle in East Germany.

In November, the government announced details about one major collective project where a group of farmers pooled their land, to which the state added some, to form one large farm. Each farmer is left about one acre for his personal use.

A wide range of so-called "undesirable elements," such as merchants, the larger landowners, innkeepers, speculators, and employers of all kinds, are barred from the farming co-operatives. Their children, however provided they "renounce" their parents and do "socially useful work" stand a chance of being admitted.

Kolhoze farmers reap the following benefits: 25-per-cent tax reduction, 10-per-cent crop quota reduction, priority at state tractor-lending stations, priority for seeds, fertilizers, tools and breeding animals, special government loans and better prices for their products.

Firemen fight the blaze of the funeral pyre for the 13 U.S. servicemen and one Canadian soldier aboard. ADDRESSES STUDENTS

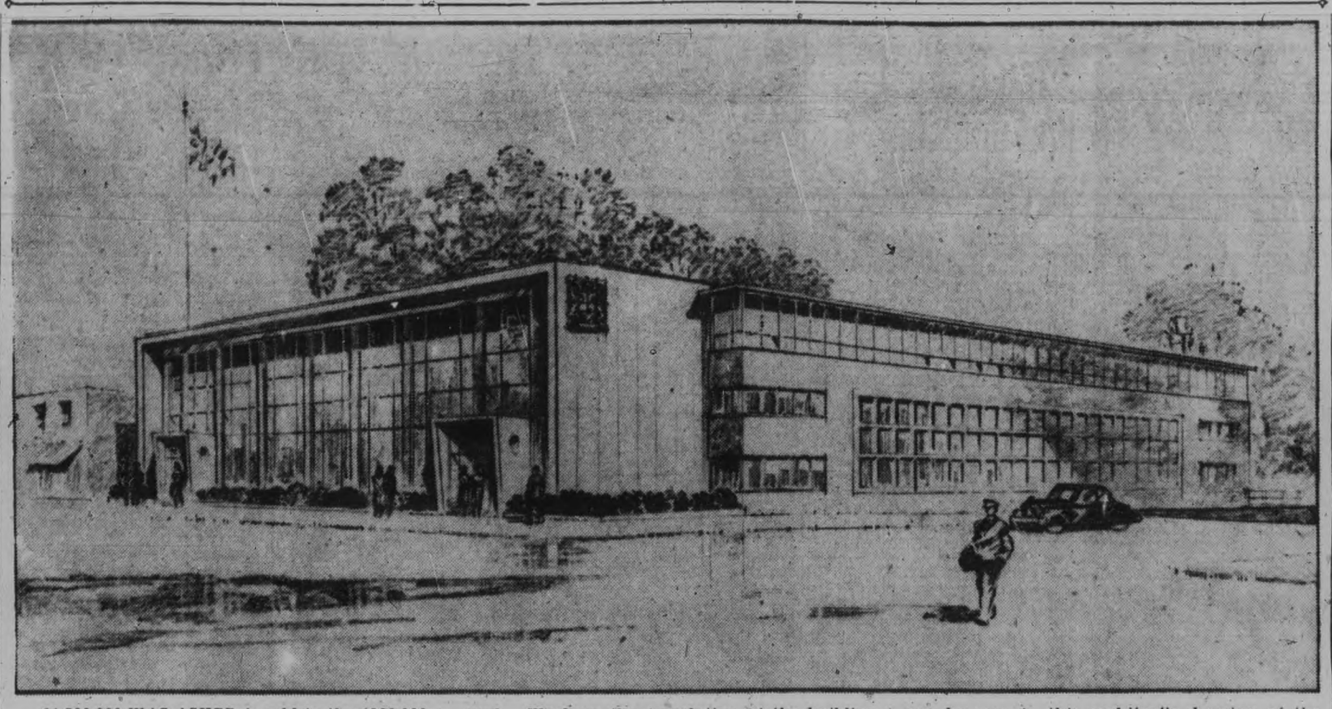
The Most Rev. Anthony Jordan, OMI, bishop of the diocese of Prince Rupert, who is visiting the Peterborough diocese, addressed the students of St. Peter's High School Wednesday.

TWO FIRE ALARMS



An overheated chimney and a strong smell of coal gas. Firemen made two runs Wednesday night to investigate these two hazards. The overheated chimney was at Eric Howard's, 220 Charlotte St., and the escaping gas fumes were reported from the home of Mrs. B. A. Harris, 207 Perry St.

GET CONTRACT

A contract amounting to $1,443,286, awarded to George Hardy Ltd., Toronto, to cover construction of ordnance warehouses at Cobourg, Ont., was one of a number of contracts announced by the defence department Wednesday. The Hardy company has just put finishing touches on St. Peter's High School here.

IN NEED OF WORK

Ald. Norman Graham as chairman of the welfare committee of the council had an appeal Wednesday from a comparatively young married man for help in trying to get a job. He is out of work, has young son coming home from a Toronto hospital, and is worried further by prospect of having to vacate one of the houses of the Hatton wartime group. "I think this is a deserving case, and will see what we can do, but there may be some help available from the public as this man says he doesn't want relief but a job to help him look after his family."

$1,200,000 WAS ASKED to add to the $300,000 previously made available by the House of Commons to build the Federal building in Peterborough. Work on the foundation of the building has been going ahead steadily since early fall. The open winter has helped the workmen. As can be seen in this architect's drawing of the building, most of the front which will face Charlotte St., is glass. The rest will be of reinforced concrete.

$1,200,00 More Needed To Complete New Federal Building

$300,000 To Be Revoted Will Bring Total To One And a Half Million To House Post Office, Other Departments

Public works appropriations estimates tabled in the Commons Wednesday included $1,200,000 for Peterborough's new federal building. With $300,000 to be revoted for the building, it will bring the estimated cost to $1,500,000 The Commons has not yet given its approval of these appropriations. Previous estimates of the cost have been in the close neighborhood of $1,300,000. That was the cost quoted last September when M. Sullivan & Son of Arnprior were awarded the contract to construct the building.

For preliminary work $300,000 has already been granted. Because it has not yet been spent, the amount is expected to be revoted. The additional $1,200,000 is for completion of the building.

The two-storey building, of reinforced concrete and stone construction, will have 150 feet frontage on Charlotte St., and will be 240 feet deep. It was designed by Peterborough architects Blackwell and Craig.

SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS

For the post office and postal training school, it will provide 34,000 square feet of floor space. Besides the post office, it will house other federal department offices: agriculture, labor, customs, transport (Trent canal).

The training school, first of its kind in Canada, is for headquarters personnel of the postal department. Peterborough was selected because it is large enough to offer a variety of work, and small enough not to make the training school unwieldy.

Other district appropriations tabled include: Belleville public building $100,000 (revote); Bowmanville post office $80,000 (revote $50,000); Cobourg pier construction $180,000 (revote); Port Hope extension to Queen's wharf $178,000 (revote); Trenton additional wharf facilities $15,000.

Hall Found Guilty Of Assault In Shooting

Donald C. Hall, 29, of Scarboro on Wednesday afternoon was found guilty in county court of common assault on Melvin Tripp, 32-year-old Burleigh township construction worker. He will be sentenced by Judge John de N. Kennedy on Feb. 6.

The charge was reduced from one of firing a shotgun with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Evidence was that Hall fired two shots while standing outside a one-room cabin, four miles southwest of Apsley, where Tripp lived with his wife and five children. One of the shots tore through the log wall of the cabin, a few inches from where Tripp was arguing with another couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Clinton.

The incident ocurred on a Saturday afternoon, Sept. 27. Clinton and Hall were both reported by Tripp to be the worse for alcohol.

Tripp said he seized his own shotgun after the second shot. He went to the doorway, and saw Hall 10 feet away, advancing with a semi-automatic shotgun at the ready. Tripp fired striking the tip of Hall's right shoulder.

After Mrs. Tripp had bathed Hall's wound Tripp drove the injured man to Lakefield.

As a result of the shooting both men were charged with shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm. Tripp was acquitted at the last session of the Supreme Court.

WRITTEN JUDGMENT

Judge Kennedy in a 35-minute written judgment dismissed the seven-point argument of Defence Counsel Robert Carley.

"I have come to the conclusion that the accused was guilty of assaulting Tripp when the second shot passed through the wall of the cabin near Tripp's head," said Judge Kennedy. "He was also guilty of assault when he followed this up by staggering to within 10 feet of the door of the cabin with the butt of his gun on his shoulder, his finger on the trigger, and the gun pointing at Tripp.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Hall caused Tripp to believe, on reasonable grounds . . . that Hall was threatening to apply force . . . and that he had the means of achieving his purpose."

Judge Kennedy also dismissed the argument that Hall was justified in his actions because he thought Tripp was going to shoot Clinton. There was no evidence to support this, he said.

The statement that Hall gave to the OPP would have been accepted by the court under ordinary circumstances, said the judge. "But as the accused had been shot four or five hours earlier and in the natural course of events would be in pain, and suffering in some degree from shock, I decided the statement should be deemed not voluntary and it was not admitted."

Hall was remanded on $2,000 bail and will appear for sentence 4:30 p.m. Feb. 6. Judge Kennedy will hear from character witnesses before giving sentence.

Fund For Corbin Family Climbs To Total Of $255

The Examiner's central fund to help Henry Corbin's widow and children now totals $255.75. Donations from city and district groups and people this week brought the total up $96 from the first week's receipts of $159.75. At the request of several city organizations and citizens, the fund was started by the Examiner nearly two weeks ago. Corbin was hit Christmas eve and left lying on Western Ave. by a hit-and-run motorist. He died 12 days later in the Civic hospital.

Neighbors and hospital employees with whom Corbin worked took up several collections after the accident, totalling about $400. But that was insufficient to keep Mrs. Corbin and her three children. Therefore the central fund was opened to help raise more money and give everyone an opportunity to donate.

SPECIAL NIGHT

Next week the Canadian Legion, Branch 52, will donate the proceeds from its weekly Wednesday night bingo to the Corbin fund. Ordinarily the bingo receipts enter the Legion's welfare fund, but for that one night all net receipts will be sent to the Examiner's fund.

Announcement of the decision to donate the receipts was greeted with enthusiasm at Wednesday night's bingo. Legion officials hope that the year's largest attendance will be recorded next week.

The largest donation this week was from the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, $50. The next largest was $20 from an anonymous source, and then third, $10 from the Catholic Women's League. The largest donation to date is $100 from D. A. McGillis.

Donations totalling $96 for this week are:

Anonymous	$2.00
Catholic Women's League	$10.00
Anonymous	$2.00
A. C. Boyle	$1.00
F. G. Graham	$5.00
Alvin Graham	$2.00
Mrs. Bruce Gould, Haliburton	$2.00
United Electrical Workers	$50.00
Anonymous	$20.00
Mrs. H. Scully	$2.00

H. Taylor Named PC Candidate

WARKWORTH— (ENS) — H. O. Taylor, a grocer in Cobourg for 25 years, was the unanimous choice of the Progressive-Conservatives of Northumberland at a nomination meeting Wednesday night to name a candidate for the next federal election.

Guest speaker was the P-C's financial critic in the commons, J. E. Macdonnel. He accused the Liberal administration of being arrogant and dictatorial, and criticized them for the waste laid bare by the Currie report.

Other speakers were the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario minister of welfare, Gordon K. Fraser, MP for Peterborough West, Major R. E. Drope, former MP for Northumberland, J. H. Lowery, United Counties Warden and Mr. Taylor, the new P-C candidate.

Mr. Taylor, presently secretary-manager of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the Cobourg Heavy Artillery battery in the First World War, and is a past president of both the Cobourg Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce.

The town hall at Workworth was filled for the meeting, and chairman was Major R. E. Drope. Mrs. Ruby Meggs was secretary.

Fishing Expedition

EMPOLI, Italy (AP) — Italian police plan a fishing expedition in Lake Como for some of Mussolini's secret documents. They said Emilio Burresi, operator of the late dictator's speedboat, told them he dumped three large metal cases of the papers into the lake on Mussolini's orders just before the end of the Second World War.

Crown Attorney Criticizes Use Of Green Officers

Use of rookie constables by provincial police in investigations of traffic accidents was criticized by Crown Attorney J. A. Bradshaw during an inquest at city hall on Wednesday afternoon.

In the course of an inquest into a highway fatality, an OPP constable was giving evidence as to skid marks which he had measured at the scene of the accident. Displeased with the manner in which the constable gave his evidence, Mr. Bradshaw asked him sharply how long he had been a member of the OPP.

"Four months, sir," was the reply.

"This is the third time in three months that I've had a constable in court who couldn't give evidence of measurements in the case of a fatal accident, and on each occasion a corporal took part in the investigation," Mr. Bradshaw charged.

DISTRICT RULE?

"Apparently there is a rule in some districts that a corporal must investigate all fatalities. When he gets there, he is supposed to supervise—see that an ambulance and doctor are provided and traffic directed.

"I think it's a vicious practice on the part of the provincial police It's not the fault of the young constable or the corporal. It's the fault of some headquarters ruling I suppose."

Corporal J. M. Munro of the Peterborough HQ of the OPP admitted that it was the duty of corporals to supervise investigations of fatalities and said that it was not their duty to take measurements unless to assist the constable who was taking them. He agreed with the crown attorney's claim that there were "quite a number of green officers" on the OPP.

Clouds May Obscure Moon's Total Eclipse

Amateur stargazers will likely have a tough time viewing the total eclipse of the moon that will occur tonight.

Astronomers say the eclipse will be total at 6.47 p.m., nearly two hours after the moon rises at 5 p.m. For a little more than an hour before, during and after the eclipse the moon will be in shadow, partly or altogether.

Despite this shadow, there will be enough refracted light to make the moon a copper color easily visible in any area where there are no clouds.

Slippery Road Blamed For Two-Car Crash

Slippery, snow-covered pavement was blamed for a collision which caused slight damage to two vehicles at the corner of Aylmer and King Sts., Wednesday afternoon.

Victor Bruce, 53, Toronto, was driving north on Aylmer St. when RCMP Constable David Carreau, 26, Cobourg, who was driving west on King St., stopped for the stop sign. Carreau was attempting to pull ahead to get a better look up and down Aylmer St. when the accident occurred.

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP)—Identical twins, 48 years old, who worked in the same mill, were drowned Wednesday on their way to work. Reider and Raymond Anderson were drowned when their car plunged into a flooded field.

Car Accident "Unavoidable" Killed 3 Persons

The death of Mrs. Stella Woodley, 47, of 60 Cannifton Rd., Belleville, on December 21, in a collision on Highway 7, about six miles east of Havelock, was caused by a car accident due to an unavoidable traffic situation, was the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest held at the city hall Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Woodley was one of three persons killed when a car driven by John F. Turner, 30, 105 Yeoman St., Belleville, was in collision with another car, driven by William Abbott, an RCAF officer stationed at Centralia.

Others killed were Mrs. Florence Day, 74, Turner's mother by a former marriage, and Mrs. Lillian Solmes, 49, a cousin of Turner.

SLIGHTLY INJURED

Turner himself was only slightly injured as were Abbott and H. J. King, 22, also of the Centralia RCAF station, a passenger in Abbott's car. Mrs. Woodley's granddaughter, Darlene Dobie, age two, was sitting on her grandmother's knee but was not seriously injured, although the impact tore the shoes from her feet.

The jury attached a rider to its verdict suggesting that any car making a turn on a highway pull off to the shoulder of the road and make sure traffic is clear before making the turn and make the necessary signals. Coroner Dr. Herbert Young agreed with the verdict.

Evidence given by Turner at the inquest was that he had left Belleville at about 9:45 a.m. to drive to Lindsay. He said that he stopped at Marmora to feed the baby and on resuming his journey was approaching a car in front of him when it turned crosswise about three or four car lengths ahead of him, obstructing his view.

"I applied my brakes to avoid running into him and my car turned sideways and proceeded across the highway," Turner said. "To avoid a collision, I kept going across the other car at all until just before the impact."

OUT OF CONTROL

Abbott gave evidence that he was driving to Montreal when he saw the Turner car about 125 feet away begin to cut across the centre line. He said it appeared to be out of control and so he pulled over slightly to the right before applying his brakes. He said that at the moment of impact the Turner car was completely on the wrong side of the road.

"Most of the right front portion of my car was in collision with the front third and centre third of the left front portion of Turner's car," Abbott said.

Garnet Hill, RR 8, Belleville, said that he was driving along the highway and saw the Abbott vehicle pass him just before he heard the noise of the impact but had not been aware that there was a vehicle behind him. He said that the road was slippery.

Evidence of OPP Corporal J. M. Munro was that there was slush on the highway caused by the effect of calcium chloride on the icy surface.

Members of the jury were Lloyd Sucee, 210 Braidwood Ave.; Gordon Adams, 531 Aylmer St.; Horace Coon, 740 Brookdale St.; C. A. Gallagher, 571 Park St., and J. J. O'Keefe, 79 Lansdowne Ave., who was selected foreman.

Report Shown To Departments Before Tabled

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent read in the Commons Wednesday a statement by Auditor-General Watson Sellar that parts of his 1952 report were shown to a number of government departments before the report was tabled Jan. 12.

Mr. Sellar reported to the prime minister that selected paragraphs in draft form were brought to the notice of officers of agriculture, crown assets corporation, external affairs, finance, national defence, the national gallery, the national research council and the treasury between Aug. 25 and Oct. 27, 1952.

The auditor-general said these references were on a verbal direction given by him. Audit supervisors were told to make certain, through discussions with accounting and administrative officers, that facts were actually and fairly stated and "for that purpose they may show drafts of selected paragraphs to treasury and departmental officers."

Mr. Sellar reported the check had caught an error. He said he was grateful to officers of national defence that a figure of $7,225,000 in a certain part of the report should in fact be $1,225,000:

Mr. Sellar's statement was read by the prime minister in reply to an order-paper question by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre).

Deniss Pitchblende Makes Him Radioactive

TORONTO (CP)—Wilfred Haemmell of Toronto said Wednesday he isn't particularly radioactive because he carries pitchblende in his pockets.

He said a geiger counter at the University of Toronto established the low level of the radioactivity in the pitchblend. He was commenting on an earlier statement by officials of the university's school of applied science that a man identified only as "Wilf" was roaming Toronto streets carrying a radioactive substance.

Mr. Haemmell said he used the pitchblende in his amateur laboratory to try to establish a simpler way for prospectors to test ore samples.

Fire At Barracks Levels Part Of Hut

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A fire at Wolseley military barracks Wednesday night levelled two-thirds of a large hut in a spectacular blaze. Sparks showered down on nearby homes.

Several householders, aided by soldiers with ladders and fire extinguishers, scrambled to roof tops to stamp out large burning embers.

The fire was believed due to defective wiring or an overheated stove. The hut was unoccupied at the time.

WHO'S SUPERSTITIOUS? After nearly eight years of coping with the nation's toughest problems, a little thing like walking under a ladder apparently fails to bother ex-President Truman. He defied the ancient ladder jinx while en route to his new office in The Federal Reserve Bank Building at Kansas City, Mo.

See Old Rivalries Falling In E. Mediterranean Talks

By PAUL HURMUSES

ATHENS (AP)—Can the Greeks, Yugoslavs and Turks swallow their old rivalries in exchange for military unity?

If the results of their recent mutual-defence talks are any indication, it appears the answer is "yes."

This wasn't the case a generation ago. Even the precarious postwar years failed to encourage co-operation.

The reason today is the common danger from Russia and her satellites, hanging over the three countries like a dagger aimed at the strategic Mediterranean and Middle East.

The gradual burying of national hatchets has been a by-product of military negotiations drawing Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia into close alliance.

Prime Minister Alexander Papagos of Greece, after one of the recent Yugoslav-Greek talks in Athens, warned that none of the three countries alone could survive an attack from the north.

"I believe that the co-operation of Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey is a necessity," he said.

MANY OBSTACLES

Co-operation hasn't been easy.

Local leaders recognize the turbulent backgrounds of the three countries. They know Greece was held under Turkish domination for 350 years, and that only 30 years ago 1,500,000 living in Turkey were thrown out of that country

Relations between Turkey and Yugoslavia haven't always been of the best either. The Turks have had a deep-rooted distrust of the Yugoslavs for their now-defunct alliance with Moscow.

It is felt here, however, that the change of the last few months has been a dynamic one.

Discussions behind locked doors in the three capitals are still secret, but spokesmen have described them as "profitable and conducted in a spirit of close friendship and understanding."

Engineer Testifies On Highway Accident

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Harold Pollard, a Toronto automotive engineer, testified Wednesday at the hearing of a claim and counter-claim in connection with a highway accident near here last June which claimed the life of Paul Steffler, 24, of Guelph.

Steffler died after a car he was driving collided with a truck owned by the Automobile Transport Company and driven by Leo Wentzell, 24, of London, Ont.

Mr. Pollard said he examined both vehicles following the crash and visited the accident scene. It was his belief that Staffler's car was well over on its own side of the highway at the time of the crash.

Michael Staffler, brother of the victim and owner of the car, seeks damages against the transport company. The company, in a counter-claim, seeks damages against Michael Staffler as owner of the car.

Men Trained In Surviving Arctic Weather

EDMONTON (CP)—Ever since Canadians started flying they have flown the northland—a hostile land, which until a few years ago, took a steady toll of lives either through crashes, starvation or death by freezing.

The RCAF, through its survival training school, is seeing to it that its men have a fighting chance for life if forced down in the Arctic.

Heading the school is Sqdn. Ldr. Scott Alexander, a former member of the RCMP and one of Canada's top experts on the north. Chief instructor is Flt. Lt. Reg Goodey, also a former RCMP officer and veteran of many years in the Arctic.

The school was started in January, 1949, and now handles about 2,000 students a year.

Survival training is divided into two phases: The bush phase which is operated year-round near Lake Obed, Alta., 160 miles west of Edmonton, and the arctic phase conducted near Cambridge Bay, 1,000 miles northeast.

TOUGH TRAINING

Students for arctic training are flown into Cambridge Bay in mid-winter and landed on an ice strip. They then trek five miles into the barrens to the camp site. Each man carries a survival kit, a "must" for crew members flying over the Arctic. They learn to build igloos, windbreaks and snow-blocks.

They also are taught to live off the land through fishing and hunting to supplement their emergency rations. One of the top items on the curriculum is how to attract attention of search parties The men remain a week and then are flown out.

The RCAF is determined to eliminate any possibility of recurrence of an incident early in the war when a seven-man crew died of starvation and exposure within six miles of an Eskimo settlement.

Sing Happy Birthday For Woman MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Commons joined Wednesday in a short rendition of "Happy Birthday" for its only woman member.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, who represents Hamilton West for the Progressive Conservatives, found a huge basket of red roses on her desk when she took her seat.

Her age: 47.

WHICH FINN HAS THE PLANE?—Los Angeles Federal Court is trying to solve the Finn twin mystery. The twins bought a surplus C-46 airplane. But Uncle Sam said "Nix" and sued them for illegal ownership. In court, the above twin (either Charles or George) refused to identify himself and was held for contempt. Missing was the other twin (either Charles or George) and one neatly hidden airplane. With the Finn twin above is Patricia Lynn, who claimed she didn't know which twin he was.

World Revolting Over Conditions

VICTORIA (CP)—Time is running out for Western civilization unless it acts quickly and strongly, says Dr. Hugh Keenleyside.

The director of the technical assistance program for the United Nations told the Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention Wednesday that two-thirds of the people of the world are in revolt against their condition of life.

Of these about 800,000,000 had already gone over to communism; another 800,000,000 might be lost within the present generation unless the Western world could prove that it means what it says when it talks of Christian and democratic principles offering everyone the best chance for a good life.

Said Dr. Keenleyside: "unless communism can be stopped by peaceful measures, which means in effect, by building a better life in our own lands and helping the still free but underdeveloped natives of the world to do the same, we shall be faced with the choice between an armed conflict in which we may all be destroyed, and abject surrender to totalitarian rule."

Minor Shocks

VICTORIA (CP)—On the average there are 20 earth tremors every month within 100 miles of Vancouver, but few of them are ever felt. W. G. Milne, federal seismologist here, said most of the quakes are slight underwater shocks around the Gulf of Georgia.

Truce In U.K. Labor Party Breaks Down Under Sniping

LONDON (Reuters)—The left and right wings of Britain's Labor party are swinging at each other in earnest again, ending a truce which seemed to have patched up the long-standing feud.

The right wing—the orthodox trade-union leadership—is landing most of the haymakers on the faction led by rebel Welshman Aneurin Bevan.

The gong which set off the current round was a knighthood awarded to the Steel Workers' Union chief by Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative administration in the New Year's Honors list.

Lincoln Evans became Sir Lincoln "in recognition of public services." Churchill apparently calculated the move to improve his relations with the workers in the steel industry, which he proposes soon to hand back to private enterprise from the previous Labor government's nationalization.

SHARP CRITICISM

The Leftist Weekly Tribune, which reflects Bevan's policy, jumped on the knighthood as "surely one of the strangest events in the history of the Labor movement" and rapped Evans for accepting it.

The Tribune contended it was a "Tory trick" to gain Evans' support for steel denationalization.

His reply to the Tribune article: "Political smart alecs."

The general council of the Trade-Union Congress demanded of the Labor party Wednesday: "Can nothing be done to stop this sniping at the unions?"

DEPRECATE ATTACKS

The party executive committee replied immediately with a resolution deprecating attacks on union chiefs.

The unions form the main body of the Labor party and control most of the party fund-raising program. Union chiefs resent Bevan and his policy of "more socialism and less truck with the U.S."

A truce had reigned since last fall when the party voted to ban Bevan's party-within-a-party and in return accepted some of his points for the official party policy.

A Treat For The High-Chair Set . . . Cream of Wheat, the hot cereal for quick starts! It's a nourishing, wholesome food for babies every mother should know about. Babies just gobble it up. And Quick CREAM OF WHEAT is so good for them . . . rich in quick-starting food energy . . . iron for good red blood, and calcium and phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. And it's so easy to prepare. Just five minutes of boiling and Enriched Quick Cream of Wheat is cooked to baby-ready digestibility—smo-o-oth and tempting. Everybody enjoys it—from Baby to Grandpop!

Lemons On My Shopping List . . . they're on it regularly. Because you see, I use lemons constantly in my cooking . . . and now, during January's cold-catching days, lemons are "sure-fire" cold chasers, as well. Here's how:—Drink the juice of one lemon in a glass of water with a half teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda . . . added very slowly. Do this every 2 to 3 hours the first day . . . then 3 or 5 times a day thereafter, if necessary. See how quickly lemons alkalinize your system and you feel better. And do be sure to use SUNKIST LEMONS . . . they're the finest, juiciest grown.

All Those People Can't Be Wrong. Of course, I've been a Heinz Soup "fan" for a long time. So I agree with the folks who, in dozens of taste tests, voted them "tops". Yes, dieticians, young folks and groups of average housewives were overwhelmingly in favour of Heinz Condensed Soups. Why not make a taste test yourself? And, as a starter, have HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP for dinner tomorrow. Made of rosy-red, "Aristocrat" tomatoes—spiced and seasoned to perfection . . . it's a real delight. And here's something you might not know about it. The cream has been put in it by the Heinz' chefs . . . all you do is add water for the richest, creamiest cream of tomato soup you've ever tasted.

You Know, In This Coronation Year my thoughts just naturally turn to England, and if, like me, you have ever had to find your way around London by bus, you'll know how well that system of using different coloured buses to identify the various routes works out. Well, here's a colour system you can use in buying tissue handkerchiefs. For the strongest, softest 2-PLY tissues ever, get FACE-ELLE in the green box. For the extra cushioned thickness of 3-PLY tissues, get Face-Elle in the pink box. You can also get 3-PLY Face-Elle in Man-size and in Pastels . . . but in regular white tissues, the green box means 2-PLY and the pink box means 3-PLY . . . and believe me, either box contains Canada's finest tissue handkerchiefs.

Take A Tip From Barbara Ann's Mother. Mrs. Scott invites you to compare BLUE BONNET MARGARINE with any spread at any price. And like this famous Canadian mother, I'm sure you'll love its delicate, sunny-sweet flavour . . . delicious served fresh from the refrigerator—or melting hot on meat and vegetables. You'll appreciate Blue Bonnet's nutrition, too. And you'll welcome its real economy. So buy Blue Bonnet and get all three—flavour, nutrition and economy. Use Blue Bonnet in cooking, on vegetables, as a spread for bread. It's so handy to use in its famous Yellow Quik bag for fast, easy colouring.

The true Saltine. Thin as a wafer delightfully crisp . . . specially blended for lightness and fresh, fine flavor. Extra tempting with soups, cheese and spreads.

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda's latest portrait of life in the Soviet Union depicts the woes of a gastritis-suffering miner who tangled in red tape.

Pravda called for wiping out "every manifestation of a formal bureaucratic attitude" in telling the story of Georgi Burkal of Sakhalin Island on the Pacific coast. He travelled across the continent seeking treatment for his stomach troubles. He was refused admission to a sanatorium because his admission papers had expired the day after he was given them.

No allowance was made for the fact it took him 16 days to reach the hospital. It took him three days to ski to a railway station. Then he travelled by rail 24 hours as far as South Sakhalinsk. There he boarded a plane and hopped across Siberia.

Twelve days later he arrived at Yessentuki sanatorium in the northern Caucasus. The chief doctor told him his documents were not in order, and nothing was done for the patient.

GIVEN PASS

He decided to come to Moscow. Downcast and without funds, he telephoned Pravda, which in turn got in touch with the mine union headquarters. Finally he was provided with an up-to-date pass which the hospital authorities honored.

Pravda also had a critical look at one J. Shapiro, "one of the most prolific literary hacks to come along in a long time." Shapiro's "versatility" was uncovered in a veterinary encyclopedic dictionary, as witnesses these titles:

Veterinary science by Shapiro; horse grippe by Koliakov and Shapiro; teeth by Glagoliev, Shapiro and Sinev; bone by Glasgioev and Shapiro; surgery by Olovkov and Shapiro.

Pravda said Shapiro displayed a breadth of scientific knowledge unprecedented in veterinary science but actually was an editor for a publishing house specializing in agricultural literature, and had done no scientific work.

Yugoslavia Doffs More Irksome Forms Of Communism

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The muck and silt left behind by the "Red tide" which flowed over Yugoslavia before the break between Tito and Stalin in 1948 is being cleared away and gradually the country is coming to look more civilized.

Yugoslavs still have a one-party government, high prices and a straightened way of life, but at least the supply of goods is improving, the more annoying vestiges of Red regimentation are being done away with, and Yugoslavs can relax more than they could under the Kremlin brand of communism.

Visitors walking down the main street of Belgrade four years ago saw shop windows empty save for portraits of Tito and Stalin side by side, every third man and many women wearing British battle dress issued by the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration for clothing, all poorly shod, some barefoot, and everywhere, slogans glorifying the Communist party and its leaders.

CRAMMED WITH GOODS

Today, the stores are crammed with a large variety of consumer goods. Except for food and drink prices are high, indeed almost prohibitive, and quality, though improving, is still low by Western standards.

But the goods are there for anyone to buy who has the money. That, together with the abolition of rationing, has had a cheering effect on the country.

Greatly reduced, if not entirely abandoned, is the organized hero worship of Tito and the display in public places of slogans and banners and other paraphernalia of communist indoctrination.

Leaders of the Yugoslav Communist League now oppose anything akin to the extravagant hero worship Stalin receives in Russia.

NEED NOT FEAR

Ordinary non-communist citizens no longer fear to be seen talking to a foreigner, except Russians, and no longer start up in the middle of the night when they hear a car stop outside their front door for fear it is the secret police.

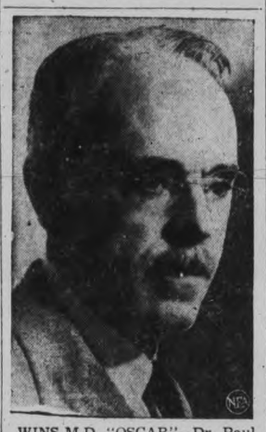
The local press, which has long since abandoned Soviet models, gives a good idea of what is going on in the world.

For those bored with politics, there are the familiar comic strips featuring Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse and other leading animal personalities.

Listening to foreign broadcasts is allowed and widely indulged in and the movies show films from America, Britain, France and other Western countries.

President Re-elected After Hot Battle

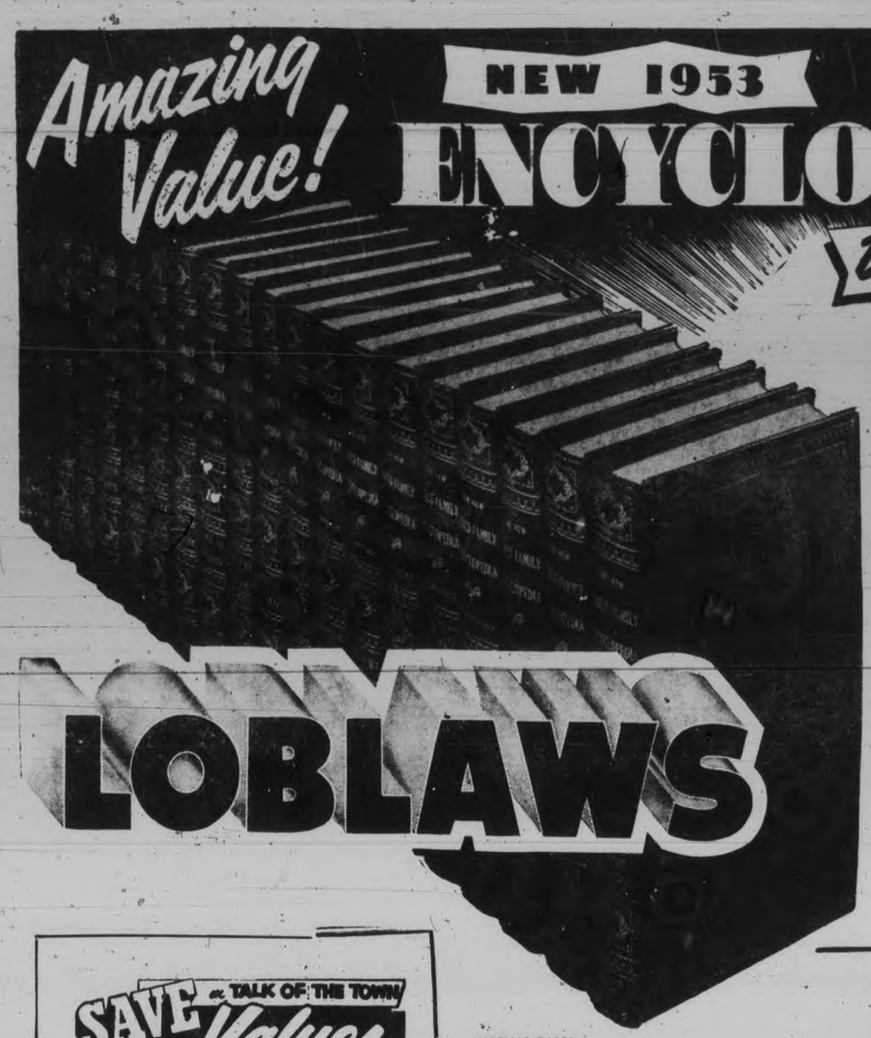
BURLINGTON, (CP) — Murry Smith of Aylmer, Ont., was re-elected president of the Ontario Turkey Growers' Association Wednesday after a lengthy and hot fight.



He defeated last year's first vice-president John Colvin of Konoka. Len Meyers of Hanover was also nominated but withdrew.

A large part of the meeting's agenda had to be scrapped due to the time taken up by the election.

Other officers: first vice-president, Albert Pond, Jarvis; second vice-president, Robert Wallace, Blyth; secretary-manager, Ken Samis, St. Thomas; directors for one year: George Land, Belle River; Roy Patterson, Conlachie; Max Tingen, Harrow; directors for two years; Harold Martyn, Sparta; C. S. Deebank, Dixon Landing; Len Meyer, Hanover; directors for three years: William Secord, Streetsville; Mrs. Fred Deeks, Morrisburg, Max Cudy, Strathroy.



NEW ODM CHIEF?—President Eisenhower is reported to be considering the appointment of Harold S. Vance, above, as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. Vance, who is president and board chairman of the Studebaker Corporation, is head of ODM's advisory committee on production equipment.

PEACE TENT—UN troops in Korea find a few welcome moment of peace in this tent chapel, part of a new rest centre near the front.

Dr. Jordan Says

Fourteen Parts Of Vitamin B All Act On Body Differently

One of the early vitamins to be discovered was called vitamin B. But now it is recognized that this is by no means a single substance, and what was originally known as vitamin B consists of a considerable number of different chemical compounds having different actions.

Approximately fourteen separate parts to what was originally known as vitamin B have now come to be recognized. Most of these can be obtained in crystal-like form and their chemical structure is therefore known.

One of the most important of these is known as thiamine. Some foods are particularly rich in thiamine, including peas, beans, whole wheat, oatmeal, enriched flour and bread made from it, peanuts, and lean pork.

In human beings who are deprived of enough thiamine in the diet, there is a tendency to become irritable, depressed, quarrelsome, uncooperative and fearful (but not all of us can claim this excuse!). Serious deficiency of this vitamin produces a disease known as beriberi, one indication of which is damage to the heart and nervous system.

Another part of the vitamin B complex is called riboflavin. An insufficient amount of this vitamin in the diet will slow the growth of young animals and produce skin inflammation and cataracts in rats

The symptoms in man include inflammation of the lips, inflammation and reddening of the tongue, cracks at the corners of the mouth, inflammation of the skin and a particular kind of inflammation of the eyes. Liver, milk and cream and leafy vegetables are considered the best sources for this substance in the human diet.

Nicotinic acid (not to be confused with the nicotine in tobacco) is another important part of this complex. Absence of this substance produces a condition known as black tongue in dogs.

PELLAGRA IS RESULT

In human beings deficiency of this vitamin results in pellagra, a condition characterized by weakness, loss of appetite and indigestion, loss of energy, and, in the later stages, soreness and ulcerations in the mouth, together with diarrhea. A typical skin lesion is common. The best sources of nicotinic acid are yeast, lean meats and liver.

Although those part of the vitamin B complex mentioned are perhaps the best known, there are a number of others. They include vitamin B6 (pantothenic acid which seems to restore normal hair color to some animals which have white hair, but not to human beings) choline, biotin and folic acid.

Another known as vitamin B12 is most important in the treatment of pernicious anemia. It is probably this substance which is the active portion of liver used so successfully for many years in the treatment of that disease.

Stock Market Breaks Records Second Day

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's stock market, booming on a tide of get-rich-quick speculation, surged again Wednesday to record-breaking levels, this time 12,264,000 shares.

For the second consecutive day daily trading exceeded 10,000,000 shares. The previous record, set in the fall of 1951, was 7,774,000 shares.

The elements that fused for Wednesday's record-shattering session were a company with stock valued in pennies, a base metal find in New Brunswick and speculators with a now-or-never determination to plunge.

The "little investor"—the workingman, clerk and housewife—with a few hundred dollars to invest and dreams of a winter in Florida, flooded the market with orders for Porcupine Peninsula. "Porc. Pen." a virtually unknown gold prospect a month ago and selling at less than 10 cents, traded more than 3,300,000 shares, a record for any one stock, gained 10 cents and closed at 23 cents.

Bullet In Brain Kills Girl, 17

KITCHENER (CP)—Irene Marie Huras, 17-year-old Kitchener girl, died from a .22 bullet in the brain, an autopsy showed Wednesday. She apparently was fatally wounded in a boy friend's car.

The girl died in Toronto after being taken there for an emergency brain operation early Tuesday. Dr. Chester McLean, who performed the post-mortem, said findings will be turned over to Kitchener police.

Crown Attorney H. L. Daufman said investigation is continuing into the girl's death.

He said Kenneth Wiles, 21-year-old friend of the victim, told police he was driving the girl to work. "Lying between them against the front seat was a rifle Wiles used the previous day while hunting. When he jolted the car backing up, the rifle discharged, the bullet striking the girl in the head."

Dogs Damage Sheep Flocks

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Sheep Breeders' Association considered dog damage to flocks Wednesday and generally agreed drastic methods will have to be adopted.

Dick White of Meaford gave his method for handling the dog problem. He shoots every dog he sees on his land and buries it. This, he said, has cut down his losses and he has had no trouble.

Other breeders didn't find the solution so simple. One told of shooting three hounds as they cut through his flock, only to be sued. He lost the case because the judge found the animals were under control since they were hunting under the guidance of men.

The association passed a motion asking municipalities to increase dog taxes so that there would be enough money to pay for losses in sheep flocks.

Industrial Centre

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg was Western Canada's most heavily industrialized city in 1952, according to the industrial development board of Greater Winnipeg. A total of 34,539 persons were employed in manufacturing here, equal to 9.7 per cent of the population.

Warkworth United Congregational Meet

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Congregational meeting of St. Paul's United Church was held Friday evening in the basement of the church.

The Rev. A. L. Sisco presided at the business period.

Mrs. George Bowen reported for the Women's Missionary Society and Margaret Thompson for the Mission Band.

Mrs. A. E. Harwood reported for the Norham Group. Mrs. Alton Hutchinson gave the report for the Dorcas Group. The Willing Workers' Group report was given by Mrs. Wm. Taylor.

The Sunday School report was given by W. Grant Allen. Miss Eleanor Calder reported for the YPU. Glen Hancock, church treasurer, reported a favorable balance. He stated that the M. and M. allocation was exceeded.

Bruce Birney, clerk of the session, reported a change of ministers during the year, the Rev. H. G. Lester leaving for his new pastorate in Shawville, Que., after serving this charge for eight years, and the Rev. A. L. Sisco, formerly of Tweed, succeeded as pastor of St. Paul's.

W. Grant Allen was re-elected Sunday School superintendent and Bruce Birney assistant superintendent; William Bowen, secretary-treasurer, with Gordon Hutchinson assistant; and Garth Allen, pianist; all teachers were re-elected.

Charles Bull and George Bound were elected elders of the session. C. D. Boyce, F. W. Bowen, Howard Evans and Gordon Hutchinson were elected stewards. C. D. Boyce was re-elected secretary of the congregation.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Douglas Knight, church organist, and to the choir; also to Jesse Mitchell, caretaker.

Thanks were also extended to the Rev. A. L. Sisco for the way in which he had taken over work of the church.

The official board of Warkworth charge, composed of St. Paul's, Dartford and Oak Heights, is called to meet in St. Paul's United Church next Thursday.

At the Sunday morning service in St. Paul's, George Bound and Charles Bull were ordained elders by the Rev. A. L. Sisco.

HARVESTING ICE—Use of a modern conveyor belt has increased speed of handling ice taken from Lake Ramsay, near Sudbury, for shipment to various parts of Ontario. Ice is floated to the base of the wooden and metal conveyor which is powered by a gasoline motor. Cleats on the moving belt catch the individual cakes and pull them up to the loading platform. A record crop is expected by Art Jodouin whose family has cut ice on the lake for 60 years.

Consider Two Plans For Special Schools

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government is considering two plans to assist operation of schools for retarded children, Education Minister Dunlop said Wednesday.

Whether the new plan operates directly through a special agency of the government or through the existing school boards, parents will likely still have to pay some fees for their children's education.

Mr. Dunlop said he is confident a policy can be established which will take some of the load off parents' shoulders.

Hong Kong Turns From Grocery To Bargain Shop

By GRAHAM JENKINS

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Hong Kong, which used to be China's grocery shop, has become the Far East's bargain basement.

The change is the result of the Korean war and the fact that the colony has 500,000 tons of surplus goods originally destined for China cluttering up some 200 warehouses.

Today almost all Hong Kong's 59,000 merchants are trying to sell something quickly at cut prices. In many cases, prices have been slashed to below cost.

Merchants are hoping thus to ease the colony's post-war trade recession by unloading stockpiles and getting the money they need to drag Hong Kong back out of the trade doldrums.

In 1950, trade with China was booming. Hong Kong's warehouses were crammed with 700,000 tons of goods.

Then came the Korean war, and in December, 1950, the United Nations embargoes on trade with Communist China in strategic goods.

Most of the goods in the warehouses were classed as strategic materials. Another $405,608,000 worth was on order from Britain and other parts of the world. In the last two years, these additional goods have arrived.

Bankers are still holding the bills of lading for 25 per cent of these shipments because importers have never been able to meet their commitments.

IMPORTERS SUFFER

Because the outlet for goods on order has dried up, some local retailers and manufacturers found excuses to delay deliveries. Disputes arose. Trade stagnated.

In one case a shipment of Indian sugar deteriorated 40 per cent while the importers argued with their clients. Importers of industrial chemicals suffered similarly.

Importers, caught between overseas suppliers and their local clients, had insufficient funds to redeem their bills of lading from banks financing their imports. As a result, nearly 500 importing firms have had to close in the last two years.

To try to make enough money to meet their import obligations, Hong Kong merchants are still striving to increase export trade, particularly with Far Eastern neighbors such as Indonesia and Japan.

So far, the export drive has been worthwhile, merchants say. Though bankers are still burdened with 25 per cent of Hong Kong's unwanted stockpile, latest figures indicate that failures to meet documentary obligations have dropped 75 per cent since last July.

Wants Carnivals

MONTREAL (CP)—Impressed by the attractions he saw in Florida at New Year's, councillor Emile Pigeon returned to propose that Montreal organizations co-operate to bring a carnival atmosphere to the city during the tourist season. He said spors evens particularly He said sports events particularly were a "natural" to aid tourist trade here.

Of Interest to Women

MOTHER SAVES CHILD.

LANCASTER, N.B. (CP)—Mrs. Fred Cashwell saved her nine-year-old son, Roger, from strangulation Wednesday by sawing through a thick cord with a dull paring knife after finding him hanging from a beam in the cellar. The boy was playing the villain in a game of cowboys and Indians. A doctor said his condition is serious.

What's Right?

WRONG: The passengers get out of the car and start walking down the street while the woman who is driving parks the car.

RIGHT: The passengers stay with the driver, and it would be thoughtful for one passenger to take care of the parking meter.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Lemon Meringue Claimed As The Aristocrat Of Pies

If you ever want the citrus fruits that you serve to your family to do their optimum good—now is the time.

Citrus fruits contain — among other wonderful things like flavor-plus-Vitamin C—a vitamin found too seldom in Canadian-grown fruits and vegetables. (Surprisingly enough raw turnip has it—though cooking destroys it, sad to say).

So feature lemons, oranges, tangerines, grapefruits, and limes and pomegranates if you can lay your hands on them.

I'm giving you my super de luxe, collossal, stupendous lemon meringue pie recipe today, to entice you, like mice to a trap, to this citrus fruit program. I'm right in the middle of making two of them for a dessert party tonight. So, you see, I practice what I preach.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

Mix dry in top of double boiler 1 1-3 cups sugar (those with a very sweet tooth may want to increase this to 1½ cups), 5 2-3 tablespoons cornstarch, then add 1 1-3 tablespoon grated lemon rind. Stir in 1½ cups boiling water until smooth. Now stir over boiling water until thick, cover and cook at least 25 minutes, stirring twice during that time. Beat the yolks of 3 eggs, and stir a little of the hot mixture into them. Stir the yolk-mixture into the hot mixture and cook over boiling water 1 minute longer. Remove from heat and cool a little stirring. Add 2 or 3 tablespoons butter and 4 tablespoons lemon juice—preferably fresh. Pour into baked pie shell. Make meringue by beating until foamy 3 egg whites with ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, then slowly begin to add 6 tablespoons sugar while beating constantly until meringue is stiff and glossy and all sugar is added. Arrange meringue on top of warm filling starting at the edges to seal the meringue to the crust to prevent it shrinking away. Swirl the remaining meringue in centre to completely cover filling to prevent any "weeping." To make a fluffy meringue that cuts through easily bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes or until delicately coated with gold. Cool the pie gradually out of drafts. Never make lemon pie in a hurry—it must stand to cool gradually, so that when you cut it the filling does not run at all.

✧ ✧ ✧

One sisterly reader complained: "Mary you usually tell us to make our best pastry in a baked pie shell." "I know you have given us pastry recipes before but would you mind repeating once in a while? How do you make pastry?"

EMEM'S PASTRY FOR PASTRY SHELL

One cup sifted pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening (But if hydrogenated shortening is used add an extra tablespoon), 2 tablespoons ice cold water. Add salt to flour, cut shortening into them with a pastry blender until mixture is as fine as coarse oatmeal. Sprinkle the water over it and with a knife cut the water into the dough. Gather dough together with your fingers and form into a ball. Place on lightly floured board. Give it a couple of rolls, turn over roll to size of pie plate—this is for a 9-inch plate. Now on one-half of dough put dots of firm butter—using one tablespoon in all. Fold over other half and seal the edges together to enclose the air. Fold sides to centre and make 4 layers, then fold again to make 8 layers. Roll out to fit pie plate. Line pie plate, make edge even by tucking under or cutting off, flute edges with thumb and finger, prick crust all over at about 1-inch intervals to prevent puffing when baked. Bake at 475 deg. Fahr. for about 8 minutes. If you have time, make the pastry day before, chill in refrigerator overnight covered with wax paper and carry directly from refrigerator to 475 deg. oven. This makes the pastry puffier and flakier.

Expense Fund Tea At St. Paul's Notably Friendly

A tea that is notable for its friendly atmosphere is the Expense Fund Tea, held annually by the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church. On Wednesday afternoon this group of ladies entertained in such manner and were rewarded with a substantial amount for the fund.

As a missionary organization the work is carried out from voluntary givings, which total more than $1,000 each year now, but there are certain expenses which must be met as well. The tea has been instituted for this purpose and not as a money-making project. Miss Margaret Lees was at the door to receive the donations.

The tea was convened by Mrs. Robert Abbott and she was assisted in serving the guests by Mrs. W. A. Burrell, Mrs. Fred Hills, Mrs. Dickson Davidson, Miss Annie Little, Mrs. E. H. Howson and Mrs. D. T. Diplock.

As some membership assistance was prevented by illness, president Mrs. J. Hubert Eastwood and Mrs. Burrell presided at the tea table for the first hour. Mrs. R. R. Hall and Mrs. S. Dickson Hall replaced them at four o'clock.

Mrs. Eastwood then took her place in the receiving line which had been filled by first vice-president Mrs. J. J. Craig. Mrs. C. G. Boyd also received.

Decorating for the tea was done by Mrs. Hills and Mrs. Diplock. They had a beautiful tea cloth hand-painted in pastel floral design and they centred the table with a tasteful arrangement of flowers, using pansies, marguerites and pink 'mums with bougainvillea. There were also some spring flowers and plants in the background.

A table of home baking was operated by WMS ladies Mrs. Victor Tully, Mrs. W. A. Cochrane, Mrs. W. J. Hancock, Mrs. R. F. Raines, Mrs. T. J. Carley and Mrs. O. M. Steer.

The Explorers Group was given the candy table concession and it was attended by Misses Jean Smith, Patsy Morrow and Gayle Smillie with Mrs. J. A. Smith and Mrs. H. L. Estabrook supervising.

Jewish Council Makes Resolutions Of Wide Scope

TORONTO (CP)—The National Council of Jewish Women of Canada adopted a resolution Wednesday urging that the federal government remove recently-enacted restrictions keeping worthwhile refugees from entering Canada. At its seventh biennial conference here the organization asked that the government consider the individual case rather than the quota situation.

At present no special consideration is given to a refugee. He is treated as a national of the country in which he has been living for a few years, and can be admitted to Canada only on the quota of that country, it was indicated by Mrs. Solomon Vineberg, of Montreal. "The Jewish people are particularly affected by this condition. They fled to any haven while awaiting entry into Canada," she added.

Strong opposition to legislation enforcing religious education in public schools was voiced by the meeting. Charging that such legislation violates the principle of the separation of church and state, delegates said such measures work a hardship on parents, children and teacers who cannot, for reasons of conscience, accept such regulations, not withstanding provisions made to secure exemption.

It was suggested that wherever possible council will strive to influence provincial departments of education to impart instead, along with social studies, knowledge of the religions of the world.

It was resolved that council attempt to ameliorate the situation by working toward representation from all religious denominations on committees which select courses of study.

Havelock WA Holds Tea, Baking Sale

HAVELOCK — (ENS) — The Women's Association of Havelock United Church held an afternoon tea and sale of home cooking in the sunday school auditorium from which the proceeds amounted to $65.

Guests were received by the president, Mrs. Harry Agnew, and Mrs. R. G. Newman. An archway of pine boughs made an attractive entrance to the tea room which was under the supervision of Mrs. Randal Vansickle with the secretary, Mrs. A. Russell, receiving the fees at the entrance. Serving were Mrs. George Hubbel, Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr., Mrs. W. Nobes, Jr., Mrs. James Wilde, Mrs. R. Brown. The social committee with a group of helpers were in charge of arranging the plates. Pouring tea were Mrs. H. Hoard and Mrs. H. R. Haacke at a prettily arranged table centred with a snowman and crystal candelabra with green candles. The guests were served at quartette tables centred with a small snowman. There was a display of home baking on sale with Mrs. J. Chatterton and Mrs. Wesley Johnston in charge of this department.

Miss M. Riel Gives Good Illustration

Evening Branch of the WA at All Saints' Anglican Church held a devotional and missionary meeting Tuesday. Fourteen members and two visitors were present. President Miss Edna Lee opened with prayers and Mrs. E. J. Searight gave the scripture reading.

Mrs. J. Howard spoke on "thoughts for prayer partners" reminding that every member is an individual prayer partner to the missionary. Treasurer Miss Ethel Allen then gave a thorough and interesting account of the various WA funds and their uses.

Introduction to the mission study book was presented by the education secretary Miss Margaret Riel. In planning for future meetings Miss Riel asked for volunteers to give a five-minute talk on some subject with a spiritual background. Miss Riel likened the WA work to an archway, the foundation stones being personal prayer life and the standing for prayers for the group and financial assistance, meeting at the top in the keystone of knowledge. This last reminded that all should learn more about the various offices in WA work. She then read part of the study book, "Thine is the glory," the story of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, which awakened great interest. "Each one of us is associated in the MSCC personally and can never know when a word or small gesture from us will influence another to enter into service for the Master's work" she concluded.

In expressing thanks for the interesting and inspiring talk Mrs. Howard urged each member to find out more for themselves about WA work. Miss Riel had literature available for those wishing to read up on it.

Miss Lee also voiced appreciation to the speaker. She volunteered to represent the group on the advisory council.

Importance Of Civil Defence Stressed In Talk To Nation

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—In a pep talk to the nation, Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe has called for rekindling of initiative and enthusiasm in building up and consolidating Britain's civil defence services.

Before an assembly of more than 2,000 civic heads, chairmen of organizing committees and regional officers, the minister said nothing had occurred to give new importance or urgency to the problem. The defence services had already recruited more than 400,000 volunteers in the United Kingdom. But even that, he said, was not good enough.

What had to be recognized, no matter how reluctantly, was that maintenance of a civil defence organization had come to be part of the permanent structure of the country's machine of central and local government.

SWIFT ATTACKS

Sir David said that immediately on the outbreak of any future war, Britain likely would be subjected to swift, violent attacks designed to destroy the country as a base for its fighting services. To safeguard that base a fourth, and strong civilian arm of the services, would be required.

Britain's recent atom bomb test at Monte Bello Island, off the Australian coast had proved no important changes were needed in civil defence training and equipment.

Until these tests were made the United Kingdom had been dependent on official reports of the Japanese bombings and American publications for information on which to base plans for civil defence against atom bomb attack.

"With the explosion of the first British bomb we enter on a new era in which we can supplement this knowledge with first-hand observations and practical experience," Sir David said. "the importance of this can hardly be over-rated."

INSTRUMENTS SATISFACTORY

The Monte Bello tests had also shown that radiation measuring instruments, developed by British industry for civil defence, were highly satisfactory.

The minister admitted production of reserves, equipment and other expenditures for the physical expansion of the services would of necessity be limited by the call of priority armament demands.

A start, however, had been made in setting up protected control centres to serve as civil defence headquarters in key areas.

In a direct appeal to his listeners, Sir David concluded:

"You at your end have got to treat the civil defence task as part of your normal functions. You must organize yourselves to discharge those functions in peace just as continuously and efficiently as you discharge your many other functions of local government."

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL.

"Fresh Variable Winds," the second in a series of parent education plays by Nora Stirling, was presented to an audience of 300 or more at Prince of Wales school Monday evening by the Home and School Association. Mrs. A. W. Pooley, parent education convener, gave an introduction, outlining the purpose and problems of the play.

Interest stimulated by the excellent and convincing performance of the cast provoked a forthright and lively open discussion afterward with Dr. Robert Bell, child speciailist, guiding and directing the flow of questions. The play conveyed the climate of the home produced by two 10 year old children and the influence of parents on the children, especially fathers.

Dr. Bell stressed the necessity of a well-balanced home in which love, religion, work and play are the guide posts in raising a family.

The cast included parents and children of the school, Mrs. Charles Huffman, Mrs. Ralph Clark, Mr. Al Drynan, Mary Allin and Hugh Owens.

Association president Mrs. W. E. Baggs welcomed the many guest to this meeting. She especially invited the fathers to the school on February 17th for "father's night." She also urged all members to pay attention to the forthcoming election of new officers and advised that nomination papers will be ready at the "open school" in March.

Attendance prize was won by Miss D. Burgess' class.

In thanking Dr. Bell, the cast and all associated with the play, Mr. John Donaldson aptly expressed the keen enjoyment and appreciation of the audience.

Mrs. W. Pakenham and her committee served refrshments at the close.

Pottery Firms Marking Coronation Year

LONDON (CP)—Famous English pottery firms are marking the Coronation by producing "special edition" pieces.

A Dorsetshire firm that produces ware known as Poole pottery is making special pieces finished in matt white glaze with broad areas of lupin blue and bearing the royal cipher and date in deep brown. Other touches of color are in lilac and yellow.

The decorations were designed by A. B. Read, associate of Britain's Royal College of Art and designer for industry of the Royal Society of Arts.

Made in a fine semi-porcelain body, Poole ware is finished either in the well-known two-color eggshell glaze effect or in matt white glaze with hand-painted decorations. Another type of ware developed in Poole during recent years is finished with a colored-clay facing under the glaze with white interiors and trim.

Ontario's Algonquin Park has 2,740 square miles of forests and small lakes.

Fears Many Synthetic Fibres Menace To Wool Industry

SYDNEY (AP)—Professor T. G. Hunter of the University of Sydney says that synthetic fibres have been developed so alarmingly that within 10 years, the United States will probably not need to buy any natural wool.

Dr. Hunter, professor of chemical engineering, was discussing a recent warning by woolbrokers that synthetic fibres may soon confront the Australian wool industry with a serious crisis.

Prof. Hunter said: "Australian wool-marketing methods are mediaeval, and our national policy on the wool industry is suicidal.

"We are completely neglecting to take the most elementary precautions to protect the wool industry, although it is gravely threatened and though it represents more than half our overseas trade.

THREAT GROWS

"The threat of synthetic fibres to the wool industry has grown alarmingly. . ."

In America, the Textile Economics Bureau, Inc., has called attention to the fact that despite the recent recession in the U.S. textile trade, production of the synthetic fibres, nylon, orlon, dacron, dynel, and others, rose from 63,900,000 pounds in the first quarter to a new high of 65,600,000 in the third quarter of 1952.

"It is a significant fact that with the exception of nylon, all the synthetic fibres mentioned are wool-substitute fibres."

As he spoke, Prof. Hunter flicked his ciragette lighter. It lit instantly. "This wick is glass fibre," he said.

A moment later, he wiped some ink from his fingers on his nylon shirt. "It'll come out when I wash it tonight," he said.

As the reporters were leaving, he remarked: "Nice flannels, these, aren't they?" They were. But not flannels, he assured reporters. "Early synthetic fibre. Much inferior to the stuff they make nowadays."

DOROTHY DIX

Membership in Group High School Girl Refused

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in my second year of high school. When I was younger, I was very self-conscious and, as a result, was left out of the gang. Now I want very much to join the crowd, but I find it isn't as simple as it appears. I am not popular with either the boys or girls. I am fairly attractive, neat in appearance, have good manners, but have found that I need more than that to win friendship. I went to a summer camp this year and made friends very easily; why can't I do it at home. I go to school parties and compete in sports, but feel rather foolish when I see my classmates do s omuch better than I.

SALLY:

ANSWER: There is nothing more impregnable than a closed group of schoolmates; Buckingham Palace itself would be easier to crash. So, naturally the corollary is that nothing is more desirable to a teen-ager than to break into such a group. There is an encouraging aspect, too; it can be done! Patience is needed, friendliness, a desire to be helpful; add them all up and they usually total an entering wedge.

So don't be discouraged, Sally. Just rally your forces, plan a campaign, and get into the fray. The fact that you have made friends easily at camp is the big point in your favor. Apparently, then, you aren't hard to get along with. Your trouble seems to be that you are so eager to get into the gang at school that your very ardor holds you back. Relax a little and don't make it too obvious that you long to get into a particular group. It's much better to make them seek you than for you to take the initiative all the time.

Continue attending parties, and keep up your participation in sports. Don't be downhearted if your efforts aren't as successful as those of your friends. Keep on trying.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

STUDY MAKING FRIENDS

There are many little short cuts to making friends among your schoolmates. Be quick to pay a compliment. Notice a girl's new dress or hair-do. Congratulate a fellow student on some particular success. Is there anyone who wouldn't respond graciously to a comment along these lines? Remember to send birthday greetings or get-well cards on appropriate occasions. Don't be gushy about your attentions, but let your friends know that you think of them and remember them on special occasions. Enroll Mom's aid, and invite the gang to your house for an evening. Good refreshments and a few amusing games will act as wonderful ice-breakers, and let the crowd know that you are a good hostess, a thoughtful friend and would make a considerate ally.

I'm sure, if you stop worrying about the situation and put a few of these maxims to use, you'll make your schoolmates more conscious of you and cognizant of the fact that you'd be an asset to any group.

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was 6 I had an affair and had to get married as a consequence. While it's true that many marriages like mine don't work out, ours has been fairly successful. However, my parents don't like my husband, and I don't like his people. Neither set of parents will come to visit us. I visit my folks, and my husband sees his, but there the association ceases.

S. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Both sets of in-laws are acting like children. Since you are a happy little family now, your people should forget the past and be willing to visit you. Your husband should get over his sulkiness and agree to stay home when they call and be a pleasant host. Perhaps on a forthcoming occasion, such as a birthday or anniversary, you could have a special dinner and coax your folks to come. If it works, do the same with his people and perhaps you may eventually form a family group.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am going with a very nice boy and like him a lot. The trouble is that when he says he will phone, or come up to see me, he never does.

S. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly have a queer pal, but perhaps he is too shy to follow through with his own suggestion of phoning or calling. Then, too, he may not be sufficiently interested, but I think the former explanation is more probable. Try pinning him down to a definite date at your house and see if he responds.

Millbrook People Bid Goodbye To Anglican Minister

MILLBROOK (ENS) —The parish Hall of St. Thomas' Anglican Church was filled Monday evening with people saying "good-bye" to the Rev and Mrs. A. A. Chote and their five-year-old son, Paul, before they left Tuesday for their new parish of Richmond Hill.

G. A. Spicer, people's warden, acted as chairman for the evening. He called on the Rev. W. H. Heustin of Grace Presbyterian Church to read the scripture and the Rev. A. M. Butler of St. Andrew's United to lead in prayer. Mr. Spicer welcomed the gathering and expressed his own regrets at losing the Chote family from the community. He announced the following program: a vocal duet by Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. James Larmer, accompanied at the piano by J. O. Medd, a piano solo by Miss Helen Wright and a group of readings by Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Chote and Paul were brought to the front and an address was read by David R. Fowler, rector's warden. In it was paid tribute to the fine messages Mr. Chote had brought to the congregations each Sunday, to the leadership he had given and to the time he had given to the sick and shut in. Mention was made also of the beautiful decoration of the church under Mr. Chote's leadership. Miss Muriel Smith made the presentations of purses of money to Mr. and Mrs. Chote and of a book to Paul.

The Rev. Walter Patterson, retired minister of Grace Church, and the other three ministers of the village paid tribute to Mr. Chote and to their happy associations with him in the ministerial association. After the benediction pronounced by Mr. Chote a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the ladies of the church.

Other presentations to Mr. and Mrs. Chote included a purse of money from the congregation of St. John's Church, Ida, a purse of money and a radio from Christ Church, Bailieboro, gloves to Mr. Chote from the pupils of the high school, a Bible from Cavan public school, cuff links from Whitfield's School. In all four schools he has given religious instruction. The local Lions' Club presented an aluminum tray. Mrs. Chote received a hand-painted cake plate from the Women's Guild of St. Thomas and a satin bound blanket and a cup and saucer from the WA. The junior WA, whose leader she was, presented matching ear-rings and pin.

6—In Memoriam

BRINKLOW—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Charles Brinklow, who passed away January 29th, 1949.
Silent thought a secret tear,
Keeps her memory ever dear,
Time take away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and family.

POOLEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Samuel A. Pooley, who passed away three years ago today.
Time speeds on, three years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there is none can fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we meet again.
—Ever remembered by his dear wife and daughter Renee, son-in-law Jim and Nancy.

WRIGHT—In loving memory of a dear brother, Wesley, who passed away January 29, 1952.
His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Always remembered by sister and brother-in-law, Dora and Everet Godfrey.

Horns Nuisance On Cows, Say Western Farmers

REGINA (CP)—A cow's horns once served a useful purpose but western farmers, concerned with shipping and other problems, now regard them as a nuisance. Hornless cattle are gaining in favor.

Now horned animals are penalized. In Saskatchewan a fund has been built up by docking $2 from the sale price of each horned animal put through the stockyards. In Alberta the penalty is $1.

A delegation representing farmers of the province recently discussed with the Alberta government possible measures aimed at reducing the number of horned cattle.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta money obtained from penalties is used by the provincial governments for livestock improvement such as assistance to purchasers of commercial bulls and in artificial breeding work.

Horned cattle, in shipping and in stockyards, use their horns to bruise and tear other cattle. The penalties are designed to encourage stockmen to dehorn their animals.

DONE IN CALFHOOD

Dehorning can be done in calfhood by rubbing a chemical preparation over the budding horns or "buttons." Saws and similar dehorning instruments are used on adult cattle with horns.

Some cattle, such as the Aberdeen-Angus, have been bred hornless for generations. And the time may come when most cattle are born hornless. The trend toward "polled" animals is spreading. But at present the majority of breeders of dairy cattle still bring out their animals with horns.

Foreign Makers Of Pipes Grab Market

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's pipe makers sniff trouble in those mellow clouds of smoke curling up from your favorite briar.

The business of making pipes, dating back to Sir Walter Raleigh's day, has been in the doldrums for years. The encroachments of cigaret manufacturers in the last half-century have reduced the proportion of pipe lovers in the smoking population to a negligible percentage.

Now pipe manufacturers have been assailed from another quarter. Foreign manufacturers, aided by proximity to the best sources of briar and favorable import regulations, are grabbing off a large chunk of the market.

But the manufacturers have come up with two resourceful answers to the problem: Teach the ladies to smoke pipes, and get the cigaret smokers back to the briar.

Roy Brigham, founder of a pipe firm in Toronto in 1906 which he still operates, said these two methods are having encouraging success.

A pipe is still a pipe, as Mr. Brigham pointed out but the feminine version is slimmed down considerably and might even be called dainty. It would easily slip into a small handbag, with room left over for a pouch of tobacco.

Before he retired 12 years ago Mr. McIlmoyle lived at Young's Point and was known throughout the district as a river-driver. He was a lumberman for 44 years.

Mr. McIlmoyle was born in Smith township, son of the late John McIlmoyle and Margaret Jewell. He was educated in Smith township.

Left are his wife, the former Annie Shadbolt; eight sons — Charles of Young's Point, Royden of Cobourg, Russel of Lakefield, Burley of Owen Sound, and Ivan, William, Sheldon and Ronald of Peterborough; two daughters — Mrs. Clifford Sutton (Myrtle) of Peterborough, and Mrs. Harold Killen (Margaret) of Peterborough; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Godfrey of Young's Point, and a brother, Marshal of Young's Point.

Mr. McIlmoyle was a member of the Gospel Hall, Lakefield. And he was a member of the LOL Lodge, North Dummer, and the True Blue Lodge, Young's Point.

The funeral will be 2 p.m. Saturday at the Nisbett funeral home, the Rev. J. H. Blackwood of the Gospell Hall officiating, assisted by the Rev. Willard Day of the Church on the Rock, Burleigh Falls. Burial will be in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Nine Soldiers Home From Germany

TORONTO (CP)—Hobbling on a cast-encased right leg, Pte. Gerald Sheff of Wallaceburg was one of nine Ontario service men who arrived here today after service with the 27th brigade in Germany.

"Got hit by a car in Hanover," he explained.

Others who arrived included: E. J. Cote, Guelph; J. W. Anderson, Brantford; F. R. Osborne, Kincardine; B. M. Anderson, Osweken, and A. J. Fraser, Port Colborne.

First Store In Years To Open On Reserve

ROSENEATH (ENS). — The residents of the Alderville Reserve will soon have the convenience of a store in their village. It is some years since there has been even a small grocery store here.

Robert Marsden, 74, a native son, has returned to the reserve after spending 50 years on Christian Island on Georgian Bay, and is having the store built on the corner across from the Cenotaph, where five roads meet on Highway 45. The two-storey building is 36 feet by 24 feet, of concrete and brick, with basement, and will be a service station, general store and residence. Flex McMillan, Roseneath, contractor, is in charge of the work.

Robert Marsden opened and operated a general store on Christian Island for 30 years, was postmaster there for 40 years, and bandmaster of the Christian Island Brass Band for 20 years. He also served 14 years as Chief of the Christian Island Indians.

Interested in the work of the United Church, he was the choir leader for 30 years and his wife and son Percy Marsden were the organists.

Mr. Marsden is a brother of Chief Norman Marsden, and will be assisted in the new business venture by his son Percy Marsden. He hopes to have his membership soon transferred back into the Alderville Reserve, as he had it transferred to Christian Island 47 years ago.

Sponsor Bills To Authorize Niagara Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.) and Edward Martin (Rep. Pa.) joined with Representative William Miller (Rep. N.Y.) today in sponsoring bills to authorize private re-development of the hydro-electric potential of Niagara Falls.

The House of Representatives and Senate bills are identical to those introduced in the last Congress by Capehart and Miller. Martin is the new chairman of the Senate public works committee which considered the measures last year.

The last Congress also had before it other measures to authorize the Niagara re-development by the federal government and by the state of New York. None was passed.

The power commission, in a study made public several years ago, estimated that through installation of new facilities the power output from Niagara Falls could be tripled.

Authority to utilize additional volumes of Niagara river water for the power generation is granted to both Canada and the United States under the terms of a treaty ratified by the Senate in August, 1950.

NEARLY COMPLETED

Canada already has undertaken, and nearly completed, its portion of the Niagara re-development.

The identical bills state as their purposes: to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls; to further the national security; and to assure the development of low-cost electric power under the private-enterprise system:

They would authorize the power commission to issue a licence to construct the power works "as soon as practicable" to private citizens, any association of citizens, or to any corporation.

They would further provide that after March 2, 1971, any agency of the United States government or any such agency created by New York state may take over and thereafter maintain and operate the project. Two years' written notice would be required.

In that event, the private-enterprise operators would receive their net investment as defined in the federal power act.

Suspect Lake Wanted In Several Centres

LINDSAY (ENS)—Chief Constable John Hunter said today information from several Ontario centres is being sent to Lindsay following the arrest on a vagrancy charge on Tuesday night of a man known as Jack Ross Lake. He gave his address as Hamilton. Following the arrest and the laying of a charge of false pretenses in connection with the passing of an allegedly worthless $25 cheque on a Lindsay feed dealer, Lake appeared in court and gave his address as Toronto. He was remanded on the charge of false pretenses.

Provincial Corporal Dennis recognized Lake as a man wanted by Brockville, Prescott and several other police departments on similar charges.

Fined $25 and Costs

Arthur McGrath, 27, 580 King St., was fined $25 and $2.50 costs in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Alternative sentence imposed by Magistrate W. R. Philp was 20 days in jail.

Canada Wants 2 Sailors Given To RCN

HONG KONG (AP) — British spokesmen said today Canada has not yet asked for government intervention in behalf of two of its sailors, imprisoned here last week for attempted sale of a pistol to a rickshaw puller.

But Canadian and Hong Kong officials said while no formal petition has been received, "discussions have been held."

A Tokyo report said Canada wanted the two sailors, Norman Robin, 26, Welland, Ont., and Steve Hlasney, 19, Drumheller, Alta., turned over to the Canadian Navy for punishment.

If the case remained in the jurisdiction of Hong Kong's civil courts, it is believed Canada's current negotiations with the Japanese government might be endangered. Canada wants its servicemen in Japan exempt from the civil courts and subject only to its own court martial proceedings.

SIMILAR NEGOTIATIONS

The Canadian negotiations in Japan somewhat parallel the British government's fight last summer to retain rights over two of its sailors, jailed by a civil court in Osaka after holding up a local taxi driver.

The Canadian high commissioner here and the foreign office said that should petition be filed it would be sent by the British embassy in Tokyo, where the request apparently originated, to London. Then it would be passed on to Hong Kong.

Both sailors were found guilty of illegal possession of a .45-calibre pistol. They were sentenced to 18 months in prison, but in Hlasney's case, the term was reduced to a year because it was not his gun.

Justice R. W. S. Winter refused to substitute the sentence with fines, despite the plea by Robin that he needed the money from sale of the gun for his sick wife in Canada.

PLEAD IGNORANCE

The Canadians also pleaded ignorance of the Hong Kong laws and strict enforcement against illegally carrying weapons. Because of the various Chinese underground factions here, which always attempts to collect firearms, heavy sentences are levied against violators.

The two men have appealed their convictions. No hearing date has been set. Meantime, they have been removed to prison to begin serving their sentences.

GETS "A" FOR EFFORT — Armed with a glass of water and some castor oil if required, David Aufmuth, 14, of Cleveland, Ohio, starts in an a super-duper ice cream sundae. The amazing concoction is made up of half a gallon of ice cream, three scoops of hot fudge, half a cup of chopped nuts, a can of whipping cream plus the usual trimmings. No one has yet finished the $2.25 sundae at one sitting.

Two Missing Airmen From Eastern Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two of the seven airmen missing aboard a Dakota transport in northern British Columbia are from Eastern Canada, the RCAF said today in releasing names of the five-man crew and two passengers.

Missing include: navigator, FO. W. L. MacKenzie, Galt, Ont.; PO. J. A. Pollock, Noranda, Que.

The four others are from Vancouver. They are: co-pilot, FO. A. Turenne; FO. Couchman; Cpl. S.C. Herman; and Cpl. G. F. Vickers. Couchman and Vickers were passengers aboard the plane.

Model Planes On Display For Contest

Model plane hobbyists in Peterborough have turned the Paramount theatre's lobby into a miniature airdrome in preparation for the Peterborough model plane contest. There are models of early plans and right up to the present-day jet fighters gliding on strings throughout the lobby.

The contest is sponsored by Millard's sporting goods store, aerial photographer Harry Oakman and the Paramount theatre in conjunction with the films, One Minute to Zero and Hawks in the Sun.

Most of the entrants are members of the Plymouth Arrow League Club, but other hobbyists, not club members, have entered models. The builders range in age from nine-years-old to 40 years.

TWO AGE GROUPS

The contest is divided into two age groups, under 15 years and over 15, each of these groups having sections for flying and solid models. To each winner will be presented a month's pass to the Paramount, an airplane ride, and a model building kit.

Since Sunday the club members have been placing the models in the lobby. There are First World War two-wing and three-wing planes, Second War planes, such as Spitfires, Mustangs and Mitchell bombers, and ultra-modern jet fighters.

Every model represents hours of work to patiently cut out each part and gradually assemble the plane. In most cases, except the solid models, all the planes can fly, powered by a gas engine motor or by heavy elastics.

The centre attraction so far in the contest is a modern-designed Westland Whirlwind, a twin-engine gas model. It resembles the two-engine jets of today in many of its features, and was built by a newcomer to Peterborough, Don Skinner.

All the planes will be judged by Harry Oakman, George Hutchison and James Gillespie, honorary president of the league club, and prizes awarded between shows at the theatre on Saturday night.

Toronto Pays Biggest Income Tax

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal is Canada's biggest city, but Toronto yields the biggest income tax.

The revenue department, in its annual "Green Book" on tax statistics, estimated today that Toronto taxpayers paid $106,100,000 in income tax in 1950.

Toronto is second in population to Montreal, which produced $92,900,000 in income tax.

Of 46 communities with more than 5,000 taxpayers, Hull, Que., across the river from Ottawa, produced the smallest income tax—$900,000.

OTHER CITIES

Yields from other cities ranged from $35,800,000 in Vancouver to $2,000,000 in Lethbridge, Alta.; from $25,000,000 in Winnipeg to $1,400,000 in Moncton, N. B.

Taxpayers' incomes averaged the highest in Lethbridge — $3,312 a year — and the lowest in Hull — $2,490.

Montreal yielded only 313,980 taxpayers, compared with 370,690 in Toronto. Average incomes were higher in Montreal with $3,158 a year, compared to Toronto's $3,043.

Court Hears Of Amorous Antics In Play

By PETER MURRAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Was it sex or turnips that inspired Ellie May's amorous antics in "Tobacco Road?"

A number of leading Vancouver citizens tackled this teaser Wednesday as witnesses in the trial of eight persons charged with staging or taking part in an obscene performance of the Erskine Caldwell play.

The final answer probably won't be known until next Tuesday when Magistrate W. W. B. McInnes is scheduled to hand down his decision in the case.

Ellie May, portrayed by 25-year-old Tamara Dlugo, was the chief offender in the eyes of morality squad detectives who walked on stage at the Avon theatre 13 days ago and stopped the play.

EXHIBIT A

Her garb, a thigh-revealing red dress which arrived in court in the pocket of a burly detective, was introduced as exhibit A.

In giving his account of the play, Detective Alan Baynes said Ellie "whimpered and wiggled on her buttocks along the ground."

These antics took place during the first act while Ellie May was trying to lure a feed of turnips away from another member of the cast.

Most of the witnesses agreed that, while sex may have played a part, it was really just turnips that were uppermost in Ellie's thoughts.

They decided Ellie had eyes only for Love Bensey's sack of turnips, which she wanted to distribute among other members of the destitute Jeeter Lester clan.

NOT IMMORAL

Author Caldwell himself testified that in his considered opinion none of the actions of the principal characters — including those of Ellie May — could be termed immoral.

Aside from his appearance the highlight of Wednesday's testimony was a 33-minute synopsis of the play given by Detective Baynes.

The detective described the love scenes in great detail, to the delight of the audience that packed the courtroom.

IN ANOTHER LIGHT

Many of the 21 citizens called to the stand by defence counsel Thomas Dohm saw the play in another light.

They said they felt it to be an "honest and sincere" depiction of conditions in the southern states in the late 1920s.

Rabbi David C. Kogen said it was a "serious play which left plenty of room for thought."

Want To Use Poison To Kill Wolves

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The Ontario government should permit supervised use of poison for killing wolves, the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association said Wednesday in a resolution adopted at the concluding meeting of its annual convention.

The meeting decided the provincial bounty on wolves should be $75 for animals of all ages, instead of the present $25 for adult wolves and $15 for cubs. Presentation of the head only should be required for payment, instead of the whole skin as at present.

The association recommended licences be granted to responsible persons for trapping wolves on game preserves. Action should be taken to have the same bounty provided by Ontario and Manitoba governments.

One delegate said there is no danger in upsetting wild life cycles by killing predators such as wolves. "Human beings have already upset the cycles," he said.

Other resolutions:

The moose season should be opened Oct. 1 for 14 days north of the Canadian National Railways trans-Canada line, and south of the line Oct. 15 for 14 days, in areas where branch associations favor the plan.

The Ontario government should consider payment of a $5 bounty on bobcats.

The duck season in Northern Ontario should open Sept. 15.

Youths Get Liquor Jailed For Month

Two Peterborough youths were sentenced to one month in jail and a third was fined in police court today for committing offences against the Liquor Control Act. The charges arose out of a party which took place on December 22.

Rodney Jarvis Bowen, 21, 1221 Grandview Ave., and William Bruce, 18, 634 Union St., were each sentenced to one month in jail when they pleaded guilty to charges of supplying liquor to minors. Dorion Hotts, 21, 675 Donegal St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of consuming liquor in a place other than a residence.

Group Condemns Sickening Interviews

TORONTO (CP) —A church organization Wednesday condemned what it termed the "sickening" manner in which newspapers publicized the hanging of Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson.

The Toronto diocesan council for social service of the Church of England at its annual meeting sent a request to Reforms Minister Foote asking that newspapers be prevented from interviewing and photographing persons charged with crimes.

"We are very shocked at the publicity given to the principals in this crime and to their relatives," the council said.

"The sickening interviews have aroused widespread disgust and resentment."

Won't Be Co-Author Of Seaway Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Edward Thye (Rep.-Minn.) said Wednesday he declined to join as co-author of legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway because of its limited scope.

He said he is drafting an amendment which would authorize an ocean-going channel all the way into Lake Superior, similar to measures proposed in previous years.

The legislation introduced this year by Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep.-Wis.) and 16 other senators would authorize a deep-sea channel only through the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

"If Congress once authorizes the present legislation you can imagine the chance that we would have to get approval later to complete the work to permit ocean-going ships to go all the way into Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron," Thye said.

Protest Persecution

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Council of Churches Wednesday urged Christians everywhere to use all their might — human and divine — to resist "assaults upon the Jewish community" in Red-dominated Eastern Europe. "The lives of 2,500,000 Jews are in jeopardy," the council said in a statement. The council represents 30 denominations with 34,000,000 members.

Claims Truck Crowded From Highway By Car

A 15-year-old Pontypool driver told provincial police that Wednesday night his truck had been crowded off the highway into a heap of stones by an oncoming car. The undercarriage and transmission of the truck received about $200 damage.

James Neil Curtis said the car forced him into the east ditch, five miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28. He told OPP Constable Ken Barber that he was coming to Peterborough about 11:30 p.m. when he met the car.

The unknown driver continued on without stopping, he said.

Neither Curtis nor his passenger, Gerald Laforte, also of Pontypool, was injured. But the half-ton pickup veered 10 feet off the highway and received the undercarriage and transmission damage when it ran into the stones.

Sound Price Control Program Suggested

VICTORIA (CP)—A recommendation for a sound agricultural price control program was made Wednesday by E. C. Hope, Economist for the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Hope, speaking at the federation's convention here, said a control program would safeguard producers from a collapse in prices of farm products.

Mr. Hope's recommendation will be submitted as a resolution to the convention.

Given Big Welcome

MAYSVILLE, KY. (AP)—A little girl who once sang barefooted in the streets here for pennies and nickels returned Wednesday in mink to the plaudits of thousands of her homefolk. Rosemary Clooney, who skyrocketed to fame with the singing of such songs as "Come On-a My House," was back home for the world premiere of her first motion picture, Paramount's "The Stars Are Singing."

Church Gets Millions

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP)—The owner of the Harris Pine Mills, Inc., gave his multi-million-dollar business to the Seventh Day Adventist Church Wednesday. Clyde H. Harris, one of the biggest producers in the U.S. of unfinished furniture, in announcing the gift, said "we did right by the Lord and the Lord did right by us."

Youth Is Sentenced To Eight Months

A 23-year-old Indian, Elmer Jacobs of Burleigh Falls, who has recently been living at 402 Wellington St., Peterborough, was sentenced to eight months definite and two months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of committing an act of gross indecency with a six-year-old Burleigh Falls boy.

Evidence, taken in camera, was given by provincial police who said that they had arrested Jacobs after receiving a complaint from the victim's mother. The accused was said to have been drinking at the time and was seen taking the lad into the bush behind Burleigh Falls by the boy's brother and sister.

Jacobs was convicted of indecent assault on July 28, 1948, and was given suspended sentence.

Hourly Pay Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The average hourly pay of production workers in U.S. manufacturing industry increased from $1.54 in December 1950 to $1.73 last December, the bureau of labor statistics reports. This 12 per cent increase compares with an estimated seven per cent increase in the cost of living during the same period.

Expel 3 Leaders

JERUSALEM (AP)—The council of the leftist Mapam party Wednesday night expelled three leaders of a faction propdsing an outright alliance with Israel's Communist party. The expulsion vote was 228 to 22. The party split started with Communist attacks on Zionism in the Czechoslovakian and Soviet purge actions.

Engineers And Architects Best-Paying Occupations

OTTAWA (CP) — The revenue department doesn't name them, but it estimates that 1,340 Canadians earned more than $50,000 in 1950.

On the other hand, 7,700 Canadians earned less than $1,000 that year and paid taxes.

From income tax returns for the 1950 year, the department today came up with these other significant facts in its annual "Green Book" on taxation statistics:

1. On the average, consulting engineers and architects are the best-paying occupations. But in 1950 they paid the highest tax.

2. The average lawyer makes more money than a dentist

3. The biggest group of taxpayers in 1950 earned between $3,000 and $3,500 a year.

The figures showed that of some 2,374,420 taxpayers, 288,490 were in the $3,000-$3,500-a-year class; 145,710 formed the second largest group, earning between $3,500 and $4,000; and 101,180 formed the third largest, earning between $2,600 and

PAY BIG TAX

Of the $575,000,000 total income tax paid that year, $55,300,000 came from those earning between $25,000 and $50,000 a year—5,050 Canadians.

Those earning between $3,000-$3,500 paid a total of $47,700,000, while those with an income of over $50,000—the lucky 1,340 Canadians—paid a total of $45,000,000

Canadians with income of less than $1,000 a year paid $300,000 in taxes.

Consulting engineers and architects showed the peak average income of all occupation groups, with annual average income of $10,955, but they paid the highest average tax—$2,641.

Doctors and surgeons showed an average income of $9,881; lawyers, $9,641; dentists, $6,202; chiropractors, $5,120; fishermen, $3,824; farmers, $3,697; entertainers, $3,129.

Wounded With Rake

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)—John Plumbe, 20, told police Wednesday he wounded himself with a rake. Plumbe was raking rubbish into a bonfire when there was a loud explosion. Pointing to wounds in his hip, thigh and arm, Plumbe theorized: "I must have raked up a shot gun shell."

Spine-Chilling Effects Provided By Canadian In British Thriller

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—In "Street of Shadows," a British thriller to be released later this year, Tommy Reilly, a Canadian, provides much of the spine-chilling effect.

Throughout the film, the six-foot-two musician from Guelph and St. Thomas, Ont., plays a harmonica theme that heightens suspense in much the same way as the zither added drama to "The Third Man."

IN THRILLER — Tommy Reilly, six-foot-two musician from Guelph and St. Thomas, Ont., plays a harmonica theme as background music for the British thriller "Street of Shadows." It is the first time the harmonica has been used as background to a movie and film people are predicting the music may become as popular as the zither accompaniment to the drama "The Third Man."

The screen story tells of London's Soho district underworld, a limping man and the girl he murders. Stars are Hollywood's Cesar Romero and Yorkshire's Kay Kendall, granddaughter of celebrated Edwardian star Marie Kendall.

PLAYS TWO THEMES

Reilly's contribution is two harmonica themes called "Limping Man" and "Street of Shadows." Film people are already predicting that "Limping Man," with its life-like tempo suggesting the murderer's uneven steps, will rise to popularity with the same speed as the "Harry Lime Theme."

This is the first time a harmonica has been used as background for a film. Eric Spear, composer of the hit tune in the British play "Meet Mr. Callaghan," wrote the score and picked Reilly for his ability to read harmonica music.

Reilly, 33, fought his way to recognition here and on the continent after five years in wartime concentration camps. While most harmonica men prefer street-corner jazz, he plays Bach, Beethoven and other classical music in concert halls and radio.

SPECIAL CONCERT

In Festival of Britain year, a concerto was specially written for Reilly to play as part of a symphony concert called "London Rhapsody." He is believed the first harmonica player ever to "solo" with a symphony orchestra.

Reilly first came to Britain with his father and mother in 1935. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Reilly, returned to Canada this year to spend their retirement on home ground.

Mrs. George Wood of Windsor, Ont., is a daughter.

REFUGEES FROM the Soviet-dominated section of East Berlin jam emergency housing quarters in the democratic western sector of the city, as an increasing flow of persons seeking political asylum poses a growing problem for authorities. British Artificial Arm Better—U.S. Vet

NATICK, Mass. (A)—Handless Harold J. Russell, Second World War veterans leader, says he thinks the British artificial arm with a replaceable "hook" is 25 per cent "more useful and efficient" than the American type.

Russell, 38, has used the metal prongs since he lost both hands in 1943 while serving as a United States Army demolition instructor.

A native of North Sydney, N.S., he was brought to Cambridge, Mass., as a small boy. A former movie actor, Russell won an academy award for his role in "Best Years of Our Lives."

He recently wrote his autobiography—"Victory in My Hands."

The British "hook" is quickly interchangeable with "108 different tools and devices," he said.

BASIC TOOL

"Our hook is designed as a basic tool," he explained. "It screws into the artificial arm and can't be readily exchanged."

The British type fits into a slot and is locked in place with a lever at the base of the arm.

"It takes only a second or two to pull out," Russell said.

PATENT DIFFICULTY

"The great difficulty would be the matter of patents," he said.

When Britain's Labor party came into office, it took over all patent rights on artificial arms, he said.

He told of seeing a British amputee replacing the hook with a paint spray gun. The tool at once "became part of his arm," Russell said. His American counterpart would have to handle the heavy implement with his hook.

He also reported seeing a handless woodturner in England speedily switching to a variety of chisels to complete a job in record time.

"The main purpose of rehabilitation is to put a handicapped man on a par with a non-handicapped man," Russell said.

Shades of Past

BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP)—Council members brought their own baby shapshots to the New Year's party here and cameras and reporters were barred while they tried identifying one another's pictures. Only half the 76 councillors would submit their youthful likenesses.

Soldiers In Korea Require Inexpensive Bunker Stoves

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—A Canadian colonel says he thinks he's found the answer to one of Korea's few equipment lacks—an inexpensive, safe bunker stove for the soldier manning the front-line positions.

Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau, officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, wants Ottawa to invite Canadian industry to produce it for the army.

HOME-MADE STOVES

The army gets them discarded ammunition boxes or shell casings, lengths of rubber and copper tubing and screw-taps, and tells them to make their own.

There are a variety of designs, some authorized, others not. All give heat, with more or less safety.

(The 25th Canadian field dressing station receives an average of more than one severe case of burn injury daily. Other lesser cases are treated at regimental aid posts and at the 37th Canadian field ambulance.)

Trudeau says he thinks a British-issue stove the Canadians used in Italy during the winters of 1944 and 1945 is the answer. A few are available here.

For tents and messes behind the actual front the army provides United States-made gasoline stoves pot-bellied after the old Quebec heater-type wood stoves.

And another U.S.-made kerosene stove is being experimented with by Capt. Stan Campbell of London, Ont., the brigade ordnance officer.

But the soldier at the front still gets his warmth from his own home-made contraption. Trudeau says it belches a sooty smoke, gets too hot or too cold, and is a constant fire and explosion hazard.

Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, says:

"From any forward hilltop position you see a low, black cloud of sooty smoke, like a great big black snake outlining the whole United Nations position."

Trudeau says a good bunker stove must give no smoke, minimize fire hazard, be easy to control, be economical to produce and to maintain, and if possible, serve other purposes besides heating.

He says the British "valor" stove meets that and more.

The valor is a kerosene stove made of thin sheet metal and resembles a thickish stove pipe set on end, with four legs and a grille top.

The issue now is 10 to a battalion. He says there should be at least 400.

The British Army lists them at $5 each. A Japan-made imitation sells for $3.20. Trudeau says they could be mass-produced in Canada for the army at about $1.50.

Prison Tuition

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 29-year-old shopbreaker asked the magistrate in police court at St. Boniface if he could have nine months added to his 15-month sentence, so he could complete a welding course at Stony Mountain penitentiary. The magistrate agreed. The prisoner said he had started a welding course but had been unable to finish it.

Expert Amateur

MONTREAL (CP)—Thomas Cunningham was awarded membership in the "Century Club" of amateur radio operators who have made two-way short-wave radio contacts with at least 100 countries. Some of his acknowledgments were from hard-to-reach places like Iceland and New Guinea.

Steelworkers Certified In Marmora

Five-Month Fight Ended By Ruling Of Labor Board

A five-month fight between two international unions in the Marmora district was climaxed Thursday with the announcement that the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) have been certified as the bargaining agents for some 160 ironworkers.

The ironworkers are employed by the Marmora-Bethlehem Mines, a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., now engaged in mining ore near the village.

Last September the Steelworkers and their bitter rivals the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Indep.), began battling it out for the allegiance of the ironworkers. The campaign coincided with a strike at Deloro where some 400 smelter workers walked off the job.

For a few weeks the village of Marmora was the centre of one of Ontario's hottest labor disputes.

MINE-MILL ATTEMPT

First move was made by Mine-Mill who applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board asking for certification. The left-wing union filed 102 cards, claiming to represent 157 workers at the plant.

At the same hearing a group of 56 other employees said they didn't want to belong to Mine-Mill. The Steelworkers did not actively intervene but their counsel, David Lewis, represented the dissenting group.

They claimed intimidation by Mine-Mill.

As a result of the hearing the OLRB ordered a vote at the Marmora-Bethlehem plant. The workers voted on Oct. 31 and decided 107 to 54 to reject Mine-Mill. Six workers didn't vote.

Immediately after Mine-Mill were turned down the Steelworkers intensified their efforts to sign up the ironworkers. They filed an application for certification and on Thursday it was granted by the OLRB.

Union Accepts 12% Raise, 40-Hour Week To Be Effective October 1

OTTAWA (CP)—The railway strike is off. The trains will keep rolling beyond a Monday morning strike deadline, under a settlement worked out Thursday night beneath the eye of the government and under some compulsion from the cabinet. The tie-up that could have crippled Canadian rail transport was called off at a meeting here of railway and union chiefs who had been summoned to Ottawa from Montreal and had been admonished earlier by Prime Minister St. Laurent. Armed with emergency powers not in the hands of the goernment at the time of the 1950 general rail strike, Mr. St. Laurent was understood to have hinted to the disputants that a strike would be averted by law.

A few hours later, they wrung out a settlement around a table in the centre block of the Parliament building, taking only about 2½ hours to do it after four series of periodically-collapsing sessions in Montreal during the past week.

SETTLEMENT TERMS

Major terms of the settlement, announced simultaneously by Mr. St Laurent in the Commons and by the disputants:

1. The 22,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which had called a strike for Monday morning, gets a 12-per-cent raise for its members with the retroactive date—a major point at issue—to be settled later.

2. The 40-hour work week for yard employees is to become effective Oct. 1, 1953, with a referee to be appointed to work out details. This had been one of the toughest points of the negotiations.

3. Changes in operating rules—which affect pay and which the companies originally wanted as contingent to the 12-per-cent increase — are to be subject to further negotiation without standing in the way of a settlement.

4. The new contract will not include any "escalator" clause hitched to the cost of living index as the union had sought.

There were compromises by both sides in the agreement.

ORIGINAL DEMAND

On wages, the union originally demanded a 35-per-cent boost but later agreed to negotiate from a minority conciliation board recommendation of 20 per cent.

The companies originally stood by a majority conciliation board recommendation of 12 per cent—dependent on rule changes—but retreated from holding to the rule changes when the settlement finally was worked out.

While the whole situation on the 40-hour week was not fully clear, both sides appeared to have given some ground.

From the best available information, they had been given a definite indication from the cabinet that one or another had better yield on various points to reach a settlement or the Emergency Powers Act of 1951 would be invoked to stop a strike.

Informants said the cabinet had been ready to take this action and

Commissioner W. H. Stringer Dies In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—William H. Stringer, 66, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police and credited with building the finest police radio network in North America, died Thursday night.

Commissioner Stringer, who returned to work last summer after a six-month illness with a heart ailment, became ill with bronchitis several days ago.

Responsible for all security arrangements in Ontario during the Second World War, he was appointed commissioner in September, 1939.

Born in County Dublin he came to Canada in 1903 and joined the Toronto police department in 1909. The next year he transferred to the newly-formed Ontario provincial police.

WON WIDE RECOGNITION

In 1933 he succeeded deputy commissioner Alfred Cuddy as chief inspector of the criminal investigation branch. In 1935 he was appointed deputy fire marshal of the province.

His ability as a criminal investigator won him wide recognition. The late Charles Bell, outstanding criminal lawyer of several decades ago, referred to him as the ace of Canadian detectives.

He inaugurated the system of highway patrol cars, now a major feature of the police operation, and established the police radio network which authorities regard as the finest on the continent.

STRENGTHENED MORALE

He did much to strengthen the morale of the provincial force. He fought for better salaries for his men and for a larger force.

One of his biggest problems as head of the provincial force was illegal gambling. He opposed legalization of bookmaking, contending it would be a backward step.

Tall, quiet-voiced, he was popular with those who worked under him.

His widow, the former Gladys McKinley of Bethany, a son and daughter survive.

RCAF Bomber Missing In B.C. Area

VANCOUVER—(CP)— An RCAF bomber known to have come within 25 miles of completing its Saskatchewan - to - Vancouver training flight is the third plane in three days to meet apparent disaster in British Columbia skies.

With the disappearance late Thursday of the Mitchell bomber, which carried five men, the possible death toll in the black 72 hours stands at 18.

The RCAF search armada grew today to 14 planes and the air force said, if necessary, additional aircraft will be brought in from Edmonton and Saskatoon.

There was no hint of trouble when the Mitchell made its last radio report, although rain and icing conditions were being encountered.

JUST SILENCE

The plane radioed that it was over the Maple Ridge region, making its scheduled landing time only 14 minutes away. After that, there was nothing but silence.

There was a report later of "strange lights" being sighted on 5,560-foot Mount Blanshard, in the approximate area, but a veteran search-and-rescue pilot returned from a night flight over the peak and said he had sighted nothing.

Because by B.C. standards, the area between Maple Ridge and Vancouver is heavily populated—any crash in the area could hardly escape notice—the RCAF said there was a strong possibility the plane overshot its destination and plunged into the Gulf of Georgia.

Starting in darkness, four Lancaster bombers based on Vancouver Island criss-crossed the gulf waters to spearhead the search.

Jailed 20 Years For Slaying

HULL, Que. (CP)—Roland Charbonenau, 24, was sentenced today to 20 years in penitentiary for the rifle slaying last Nov. 9 of his infant son.

He had been found guilty Jan. 15 of manslaughter in connection with the death of 15-months-old Michel Charbonneau.

Claxton Refuses Any Details On Radar Ring

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Thursday, after consultation with the United States government, that no details will be given in Parliament about the joint U.S. - Canadian radar network—"Operation Pinetree"—because it could only help a potential enemy.

He declined to answer questions by opposition members about stations which the members identified as being at St. Margarets, N.B., near Newcastle, and in the Upica-Lake St. John district of Quebec's Laurentide national park.

He said answers could only help a potential enemy and was promptly criticized by Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) for giving away secrets himself because he identified "Operation Pinetree" as being the radar program.

VALUE NULLIFIED

Mr. Claxton, in referring to a question by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, (PC—Nanaimo) about the over-all cost of "Operation Pinetree," had included it with two others about specific stations in saying that no answers would be given to such questions.

To Mr. Graydon's assertion, he replied that the code name has been used by the press to an extent which nullifies the value of any official secrecy, so he wasn't breaking any secrets.

The minister said publicity about details of the radar network could help a potential enemy to know where to send his planes, where to direct bombing and sabotage, and could help him check his own sources of intelligence. It could also lead him to conclusions about numbers of stations, the extent of the network and how far advanced the work is.

Man Answers Door Shot In Stomach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police today charged Earl Dave Haworth, 65-year-old fisherman, with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of another man Thursday night.

Peter Albertson, about 45, was shot in the stomach while answering a knock at his door. He died three hours later.

Police said Haworth was overpowered by neighbors after Mrs. Albertson grappled with him in front of the family's Dunbar district home.

Mrs. Albertson said the last words her husband heard after opening the door were: "I'm going to shoot you."

Detectives, without elaborating, said an "old grudge" was thought to be the reason behind the shooting.

Snag Citizens Shiver In 60 Below Zero

EDMONTON (CP) — Temperatures reared and plunged today in Western Canada.

At Lethbridge where a warm chinook wind brought the temperature to 41 above early today, it later dived 29 degrees in one hour to near the zero mark.

In Edmonton 17 inches of snow covered the ground after the second three-inch fall in as many days.

Fire Co-operates, Gives Council Members Chance To See Department In Action

Members of the fire, water and light committee of city council toured the fire hall on Thursday night and had an unscheduled opportuntiy to see members of the department in action.

At 8:12 one alarm bell rang. The visitors were inspecting the recreation room on the third floor at the time. Four bridge-playing firemen slid out of sight in seconds down the poles and within half a minute the siren was sounding on the small pumper driving down Aylmer Street.

Six minutes later the driver radioed the hall that he had reached the address—712 Gillespie Street, a run of about two miles. Firemen found a chimney fire and quickly doused it.

The committee members — Mayor Waddell, Aldermen Harold Rehill, S. J. Black, Douglas Miller, and Gordon Farquharson — were impressed, both by the speed of the run, and by the usefulness of the two-way radio.

Ald. Miller, who came early, reminisced with Chief Ralph Leonard for a few minutes about the "old days" in the Peterborough Department.

He had been a member of the brigade when horse-drawn trucks were used, and had driven the city's second fire engine on its first run.

The committee members, along with Aldermen Arthur Burrows and Stanley Longhurst were also impressed with the shortage of space in the hall, and certain work that would be needed in the near future.

Relieve Officer After Raid Flop

SEOUL (AP)—The army today relieved the public information officer of the U.S. 7th division—which participated in controversial "Operation Smack"—and said the full story of the attack will win "only praise" when it is told. The army didn't say when it would disclose the full story. Capt. Clair M. Wolfe said he had been replaced as PIO. Sunday's operation on Spud hill, on the western Korean front, has sparked an outburst of U.S. congressional anger.

Criticism developed over the distribution of operational plans of the raid to generals and correspondents invited to watch the action. The plan—a secret document—had a three-color cardboard cover and carried the emblem of the 7th division.

"If you can show me how I am responsible for the criticism, you are a better man than I am," Wolfe commented.

CO-ORDINATED ATTACK

The UN command in Tokyo said troops of the U. S. 7th division carried out the planned attack in co-ordination with artillery, tanks and planes.

Invited generals and correspondents watched while the infantrymen, following up heavy bombardment and fire-bomb attack on the hill, slugged to within 15 yards of the crest, then were stopped cold by deadly Red cross-fire and hand grenades.

AP correspondent Forrest Edwards, one of those who watched the fight, said three Americans were killed and a few were wounded seriously. The army would announce no casualty figures but said at least 60 per cent of those wounded returned to duty the next day.

A U. S. 1st corps spokesman said the "prime mission" of the operation "was that of capturing Chinese prisoners."

WELL-CONCEIVED OPERATION

None was captured.

The spokesman added: "When the full story is told about the carefully co-ordinated plans only praise will be forthcoming for this well-conceived operation.

"The observation of the actual attack from points of vantage along the front line provided commanders at all levels with valuable information on which to base future combat operations.

Pickpocket Gets $6,000 Gems

TORONTO (CP) — A diamond merchant Thursday night was robbed of $6,000 in gems and $500 cash when his pocket was picked on a street-car, police said today.

Max D. Eisen said he believed a man who bumped him on a crowded tram took from his trousers pocket a wallet containing diamonds and cash.

Police said the theft was the largest for a pickpocket in the city for 20 years and was probably as much a surprise to the thief as to Mr. Eisen.

The diamond merchant was able to give a good description of the man who jolted him.

Question Crew In Liner Fire

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Twelve detectives questioned workmen and crew members of the Queen Elizabeth today about two fires aboard the 83,673-ton liner in less than 24 hours.

Suspicions of sabotage touched off the investigation aboard the giant vessel, now in drydock undergoing a sprucing up for the Coronation rush.

About one-third of the 2,400 men working in the ship or signed on as crew members already have explained their movements to the detectives. The rest will do so today and Saturday.

The first fire occurred Wednesday night in cabin M93. A second and smaller blaze broke out Thursday afternoon in cabin C93. Workmen assigned near the two staterooms are undergoing particularly close questioning.

Fire Sweeps Port Of Pusan, 60,000 Homeless

PUSAN, South Korea (Reuters) A fire which swept through Pusan, chief Allied supply port for the Korean war, was brought under control today after destroying a large part of the city. About 60,000 persons were reported homeless.

The fire raged within 80 yards of the United States embassy, which was saved when bulldozers flattened buildings in the area to check the spread of the flames.

Only a few casualties were reported although about one-seventh of the city was destroyed. Firemen, short of water, dynamited buildings in the path of the flames.

Gasoline dumps and paint stores exploded in the heat of the fire which broke out in the teeming black market area in downtown Pusan.

Pusan, which lies 200 miles southeast of Seoul, is the largest port in Korea and an important rail and industrial centre.

It has a population of 473,600. Its port first opened to big-scale trade with Japan in 1876, and a few years later developed trade with other lands.

When the communists drove United Nations forces into the extreme south eastern tip of Korea, Pusan remained in possession of the Allies — the last toe-hold and bridgehead for the UN counter-offensive.

Saigh Pulls Out Of Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)— Fred Saigh, St. Louis Cardinals' owner facing a 15-month prison term for evasion of income tax, pulled out of baseball today and announced he will sell his stock in the club as soon as possible.

After a 90-minute meeting with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles, Saigh announced a special trustees' committee will be set up to run the club until he can sell his stock.

He said he himself will appoint the committee Feb. 22. It would be made up of "civic minded St. Louisians, acceptable to the commissioner and the National League."

Pending this appointment, he added he would continue to operate the club and look after necessary business but that "as of this day" he would remove himself from all active participation in league meetings.

The major leagues opened a series of business meetings here today. It was assumed that William Walsingham Jr., vice president of the St. Louis club and nephew of the late Sam Breadon from whom Saigh and Bob Hannegan bought the club, would be the official Cardinal representative.

Find Mountain Peak Very Busy Place

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The loftiest peak in the Andes, Mt. Aconcagua, was also the busiest this week.

Three different expeditions of mountain climbers—Japanese, Argentine and Brazilian—said they had reached the 23,080-foot summit of the mountain. Their excursions were spaced far enough apart, however, that nobody was crowded off the towering pinnacle.

Dulles Plans To Get Tough

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles leaves for Europe today, packing a threat to "re-think" United States policies toward allies there unless they go through with unification and defence programs.

Dulles and Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower administration, was to take off in President Eisenhower's plane. They go first to Rome, then to Paris and London and successively on to Bonn, West German capital; The Hague, Brussels and Luxembourg. They are due back in Washington Feb. 9.

The trip is being made at the direction of Eisenhower, earlier announcements said, to gather information on political trends, "particularly those connected with the defence build-up and related economic factors."

Dulles injected a more specific purpose into the trip in a broadcast talk Tuesday night. He said it seemed that some of the French people and some Germans want to go their separate ways and that was one reason why Eisenhower had asked Stassen and him to go to Europe — to find out first-hand what the situation was.

U.S. Jets Down Russian Bomber

SEOUL (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets shot down a twin-engined Russian-type bomber off North Korea's west coast today and capped their patrols by destroying one MiG jet fighter and damaging another.

The Fifth Air Force said it was the second time in the Korean war that Allied fighters had clashed with Red bombers. Pilots reported it was a lone, Russian-built TU-2.

Sabre jets destroyed seven TU-2s off the west coast Nov. 30, 1951. The TU-2 has a wing span of about 60 feet, a cruising speed of about 200 miles an hour and became operational in 1944.

The air force said the MiG claims were racked up near Sinanju in far northwest Korea when a flight of 26 MiGs jumped four Sabres escorting one unarmed photo reconnaissance plane.

Fear Sabotage On U.K. Carrier

DEVONPORT, England (AP) — Suspected sabotage aboard a British light aircraft carrier was disclosed today in the latest of a series of ship mishaps that have alarmed Britain.

The Mount Wise naval headquarters announced in a terse communique:

"Minor damage to an electrical cable has been discovered in HMS Warrior. The case is being investigated and no further information is available."

The 13,350-ton Warrior, one of six light fleet carriers of the Glory class, is berthed here for refitting after serving as a troopship in Far East waters.

Damage was believed slight but the navy launched an immediate investigation. Scores of workmen have been questioned.

The carrier has been largely under jurisdiction of naval dockyard employees with free access to all parts of the ship. Only a small ship's company has been standing by.

Trio Steals $8,000 From RCAF Station

NORTH BAY (CP)—Three air force men today pleaded guilty to stealing $8,000 from the accounts section of the RCAF station here Nov. 25.

When arrested the three had $418 left. They told police that during a two-months spending spree they bought an $1,800 automobile, binoculars, a camera, a wrist watch and a rifle.

In statements to police the men said they came upon the $8,000 accidentally. "We opened a safe by absently twisting dials," one said. "It contained stacks and stacks of bills."

Attempt To Poison Minister's Family

HOBART, Okla. (AP) — A Baptist minister said today he was baffled over a mysterious attempt to poison his entire family with arsenic placed in flour which made them violently ill.

The Rev. C. Meadows and a seven-year-old daughter, Linda, have recovered from eating pie and muffins containing the poison, but Mrs. Meadows remained in critical condition and their other child, David, 6, was ill also.

A federal food and drug inspector, T. R. Loveridge, said the quantity of arsenic swallowed by the family probably saved their lives Thursday because it made them sick.

Navy Has Role At Coronation

Canada Sending 6 Warships To Review

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will dispatch three big warships and three smaller ones to participate in the giant Coronation naval review at Spithead, England, June 15, the navy announced today. They will represent the biggest concentration of Canadian naval power since the war.

Two of the navy's four squadrons of aircraft will also take part in the brilliant ceremony that will unfold before Queen Elizabeth and her sailor husband off England's south coast 13 days after the Coronation itself.

Three thousand officers and men will be aboard the warships—the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Magnificent, the 8,000-ton cruisers Ontario and Quebec, the destroyer Sioux and the frigates La Hulloise and Swansea.

By day, the ships will be decked from stem to stern with flags. At night they will be outlined in electric lights and be bathed in the glare of rockets and searchlights.

Beside them will be warships from the other Commonwealth countries.

Of the 3,000 men, 78 will go ashore early to participate in the 736-man Canadian Coronation contingent which will also include 461 soldiers and 116 airmen from Canada and overseas detachments. They will be in the great Coronation parade in London June 2. Other sailors will line the route near Canada House in central London.

This will be the second occasion on which Canada's navy has been represented at a Spithead review. In 1937, the destroyers Skeena and Saguenay took part in the review which followed the Coronation of King George VI.

GIVEN TRAINING

Plans for the review have been fitted into the navy's training program. Sailing of the Swansea and La Hulloise will be delayed until after the close of university year to permit more than 100 officer cadets to make the journey.

Ontario and Sioux will sail from Esquimalt, B.C., to arrive in Halifax April 27. They will leave Halifax with the Magnificent and Quebec May 7, disembarking the navy Coronation contingent at Spithead May 15.

The La Hulloise and Swansea will sail from Halifax May 18 and will rendezvous with the other four ships in the Solent, off Portsmouth May 30.

Better Deal Promised Rural Carriers

OTTAWA (CP) — A new deal appears in store for Canada's rural mail carriers, the men who battle the elements to carry the mail to country folk from coast to coast.

It was promised in the Commons Thursday as Postmaster-General Cote introduced a bill that will give him power to increase payments for mail delivery contracts. If the bill is approved, the minister said, he will use the new powers to ensure the rural carriers get a better deal.

At the same time the minister sponsored a resolution to establish a special Commons committee to study the "general administration and operation of the rural mail delivery service"—something many members have sought for years.

The postmaster-general's twin moves won general approval from all sides of the House. In the debate members of all parties came up with suggestions, including a pensions scheme, civil service recognition and better contracts for delivery of rural mail.

WOULD DROP PATRONAGE

Some asked elimination of "political patronage" they said had been rampant in giving rural mail contracts.

As the committee resolution was adopted, Mr. Cote said the many speeches—more than a score of members entered the debate—indicated the complexity of the problem. He was confident that the committee would find a solution.

As the House arose Prime Minister St. Laurent dramatically announced settlement of a union-railway deadlock which had threatened a national rail strike starting Feb. 2. The prime minister said the fact settlement had been reached by collective bargaining would go down as "a bright page to be written."

Postmaster - General Cote said there would be no discrimination or unjust patronage in the awarding of contracts. He would renew contracts with rural carriers who were giving good service.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) said the committee should hear evidence from representatives of rural mail carriers. These representatives should have their expenses paid by the government travelling to and from Ottawa to appear before the committee.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) said the tender system of letting contracts is unfair ir that it provides no security. A man who had diligently delivered rural mail for years might find himself cast out for someone who bid just slightly lower.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East), F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) and John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) spoke out against "patronage" in awarding rural mail contracts. Mr. Diefenbaker said the new legislation would give the minister a "juicy melon." William Bryce (CCF-Selkirk) also thought the legislation opened the way for political patronage.

Walter Dinsdale (PC-Brandon) said in his area rural mail is being discontinued in some areas because people are moving to the cities. Elimination of mail deliveries could only speed up the movement to urban areas.

Earl Catherwood (PC - Haldimand) hoped the committee would study the possibility of bringing rural mail carriers into the civil service and providing them with some form of pension.

FACTORS CONSIDERED

George Fulford (L-Leeds) believed length of routes, number of boxes and condition of the roads should be factors considered in granting contracts.

C. W. Hodgson (PC-Victoria, Ont) got a nod from Postmaster-General Cote when he suggested that where a rural mail carrier had proved he could give satisfactory service, he should get a renewal of his contract providing he was not asking more money. That had not been done and there had been cases of patronage.

Mr. Hodgson suggested mail contracts be handled by the civil service commission rather than the postmaster-general.

Frank S. Follwell (L-Hastings South) urged the construction of new post offices in Belleville, Ont., and Tweed, Ont., to facilitate the handling of rural mail deliveries.

Veley Sentenced To Be Hanged

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Edgar Veley, 46-year-old farmhand, was sentenced Thursday to be hanged April 28 for the fatal shooting New Year's Day of his former employer, Wilfred Miller, 59. The jury recommended mercy.

A 12-man jury deliberated nearly four hours before convicting Veley. Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson said he will pass the jury's recommendation along to the proper authorities.

Miller was found lying on the kitchen floor of his home at Murillo, 15 miles west of here. The bullet wound was hardly noticeable and at first the cause of death was diagnosed as a heart attack. It was not until the body was taken to a funeral home that the wound was discovered behind the ear.

Police said the shooting occurred as a result of a dispute between Miller and Veley about back wages owing the farmhand.

The plane, piloted by FO L. J. Denman of Toronto, was on a cross-country training flight when it ran into the storm. Shortly after it lost radio communication with Trenton and Rockcliffe, the RCAF at Trenton launched a search.

As a precaution, FO Denman decided to turn back.

"The effectiveness of an attack provides lessons for all concerned."

Maj.-Gen. Wayne C. Smith, commander of the 7th division, said the raid was never aimed at taking the hill. It was only a strong probe, he said, to show the type of fighting and casualties the UN forces might face if they launched an all-out frontal offensive against dug-in Chinese and Korean Communists.

Correspondent Edwards said he watched Allied planes, artillery and tank guns blast Spud hill for hours, turning it "into a volcano of erupting explosions."

"This was Operation Smack," he said. ". . .I knew why it had been so named—Spud hill was getting smacked and smacked hard."

had armed the prime minister to talk turkey to the antagonists when he met them separately Thursday morning after they had been summoned from Montreal.

VEILED THREAT

There was no official statement on what the prime minister said to the rail and union chiefs, but government quarters said he hinted to them—and particularly to the union heads—of the possible use of order-in-council action in advance of a strike, though he did not become specific on it.

In the Commons after the original meeting but before the settlement session, he gave a non-committal answer when asked by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) if the 1951 Emergency Powers Act was being considered by the cabinet for use to end or halt a strike.

Speaking for his party, Mr. Knowles made it clear the CCF would oppose using order-in-council action to end a strike instead of passing necessary legislation through Parliament. Other opposition groups did not take part in the short debate.

On the other side of the centre block from the Commons—while it was in its night session—rail negotiators and aides scurried in and out of the Senate railway committee room under a glare of CBC television lights.

NEGOTIATE DIRECTLY

The disputants were negotiating directly, with the doors locked on them, but Labor Minister Gregg bustled in a couple of times, once near the start and again as they were finishing up.

MOVE TO OFFICE

Later, apparently having reached a decision, the union-railway group all headed for Mr. Gregg's office and then moved on to the prime minister's office just outside the Commons which was still in session. A statement was agreed upon in the prime minister's office, and then the negotiators went back to their committee room where the announcement was made by Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. St. Laurent later called the settlement a "bright page" in the history of Canadian labor relations. He said it showed that "collective bargaining is still a good instrument to deal with labor relations in this country."

Company Official Shot On Street

EDMONTON (CP) — Obert Haugen, 35-year-old secretary - treasurer of American Petroleum Canada Limited, was shot to death on a downtown street today as he walked to work.

Eyewitnesses told police that the assailant, a blond, young hatless man in a station wagon coat, escaped in a new model automobile.

Stock Market Settles Back Toward Normal

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market settled back today toward a more normal session as the peak of recent hectic speculative trading seemed past.

Trading volume at noon stood at 2,434,000 shares—about half Wednesday's noon volume. By 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, 12,264,000 shares had changed hands—a 100-year record.

But traders and brokers, weary from three days of unprecedented business, were not ready to concede that the speculative boom was finished.

They pointed out that shares in companies interested in new base metal finds in New Brunswick weakened at today's opening but started to rise again later. Investors also started turning their attention to the stocks of companies holding property in the uranium area of northern Saskatchewan.

Losses and Porcupine Pen New Larder U recovered 18 cents added 2½ cents in a turnover of 231,000 shares. Gunnar, a uranium issue, gained 20 cents in a turnover of 32,000 shares.

And across Canada, lunch-hour speculators watched the ticker-tape in scores of offices, wondering which way the "penny dogs" would jump.

Trading Slower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Trading continued slower in early afternoon stock market dealings today as the speculative fever in low - priced mining issues abated slightly.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 3,699,000 shares — half the number traded in the same period Wednesday when more than 12,000,000 shares were recorded in the complete session.

Most of the penny stocks continued to show small advances but the rest of the market was mixed. Industrials and western oils held firm while base metals dropped more than half a point on the exchange index. Golds were mixed.

In the active issues, uranium stocks began to draw support after recent public interest in New Brunswick base metals. Rix gained 24 cents and Gunnar, Chimo and Nesbitt-Labine gained. New Larder U added 34 cents and Porcupine Pen gained pennies.

Industrials held firm on gains in refining oils where International Pete added $2 and in foods. Papers and banks weakened.

Senior golds gained while secondary issues slipped. East Malartic weakened.

Higher priced base metals weakened and most others followed Cassiar, International Nickel and Ontario Pyrites slipped.

Husky, Britalta and Agnlo-Can-Husky, Britalta and Angli-Can-but a majority of other issues gained. New Continental rose.

GOOD PILOT

The officer commanding the RCAF station in Saskatoon, Group Capt. R. S. Turnbull, said the pilot of the plane was one of the best on the base.

He said names of the men will not be released pending further developments and notification of next-of-kin.

There was nothing but negative news in the hunt for the RCAF Dakota that disappeared Wednesday with seven men after taking off from Vancouver for a flight northward to remote Puntzi lake. Murky weather grounded search planes during the afternoon.

Fishboats and ground parties continued the search for bodies of five passengers missing from a Central B.C. Airways plane which ditched Tuesday about 400 miles up-coast from Vancouver on a flight to Kemano.

Daughter's Coat Saves Father In Assault Case

STRATFORD (CP)—The difference between chastising and assaulting a child formed the main point of argument in an assault case which wound up here Thursday afternoon.

Magistrate A. F. Cook ruled that Arthur Kendall, Elma Township farmer who lives at RR 1, Monkton, was not guilty of assault, but he said the "only thing that saved Kendall was the fact that the girl was wearing a heavy winter coat."

Kendall was charged with whipping his 11-year-old daughter Margaret on Jan. 6 when she visited a neighbor's farm en route home from school after he had forbidden the visit.

The girl, called by defense counsel after an argument that she should be called as a Crown witness, said she barely felt the whipping her father gave her as he followed her around the farmyard of Clarence Ronnenberg where she and two other girls had stopped on the way home.

Two Crown witnesses, Mrs. Florence Ronnenberg and Ronnenberg's hired man, Gordon Neabel, said they saw Kendall whip the girl with a leather whip about four feet long. Kendall and his daughter said the whipping was with a gad from a maple tree.

Duplessis Says Elections Not Court's Affairs

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Thursday night elections come under the jurisdiction of the administrative and legislative branches of civil authority and are not the concern of the courts.

He was speaking while the legislative assembly studied clauses of a government bill to amend the Quebec Election Act.

Liberals objected to a clause making election officers immune to injunction writs. They said the only recourse left electors to right an injustice was being eliminated in this clause.

Mr. Duplessis said it is generally admitted civil authority is divided into three branches, administrative, legislative and judicial.

An election was not the concern of court authorities. They should not decide when an election was to be held or who was qualified to vote.

SOME REDRESS

This did not mean there could be no redress if an election officer committed wrong since charges of a criminal nature could still be laid.

The existing right to take out an injunction or other type of writ was being eliminated because it could result in the holding up of an election.

Liberal House leader George Marler said recourse to criminal court was of little significance as the wrong could hardly be redressed by a penalty after the election was over.

Mr. Marler said he wondered why the government insisted on sheltering election officers from these writs when, in effect, none of the 24 general elections in Quebec since Confederation had been halted by such a procedure.

The fact was that under the bill an elector whose name was omitted from or crossed off an electoral list had no more recourse to obtain justice.

Discussion will continue today.

Sudbury Blue Baby Taken To Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A Sudbury district blue baby was brought to the Hospital for Sick Children here today under police escort in a car driven by her mother.

The baby, daughter of Mrs. Re. Hexton of RR 1, Chelmsford, is suffering from a heart condition and had been in an incubator at Sudbury hospital. The baby's condition worsened today and doctors decided only the special facilities at the Sick Children's Hospital could save it.

The baby was reported in satisfactory condition by hospital officials.

The father and a neighbor also helped drive in the long trip from Sudbury which took most of the night because of a blinding snow storm. At some points along the way they encountered snow 10 inches deep.

Early today they stopped at Barrie so the baby could be fed but had to leave shortly afterward as the baby began to turn blue again. They picked up a provincial police escort at Barrie.

High Exports Boost Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—Peak exports during 1952 turned a foreign trade deficit into a $325,000,000 surplus—highest in four years—the bureau of statistics reports.

Exports climbed to an all-time high of $4,355,900,000, a jump of almost $400,000,000 from the previous record of $3,963,400,000 in 1951, the bureau said.

Imports slipped $54,000,000 to $4,030,900,000 from the record $4,084,900,000 during 1951.

The bureau's report was based on completed figures for the first 11 months of 1952 and preliminary figures for December.

It showed:

Both exports and imports increased during December, with a resulting $48,400,000 surplus in monthly trade pushing the 12-month total to $325,000,000. This was the highest since the $473,000,000 surplus in 1948 and compared with the deficit of $121,000,000 in 1951.

Feed Problem Taken To Board

VICTORIA (CP)—The feed grain problem of Eastern Canada farmers, a burning issue for four years, will be taken to wheat board officials by a special committee of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The federation's board of directors hopes meetings between the committee and the wheat board will solve the problem, thus healing a rift between East and West in the CFA.

Directors outlined their plan of action Thursday night after eastern delegates refused, at the closing public session of the federation's convention, to endorse renewal of the Wheat Board Act.

The act, which comes before Parliament again when it expires July 31, empowers the Canadian wheat board to act as marketing agency for Prairie farmers' wheat and the coarse grains, oats and barley.

The board of directors unanimously urged renewal of the act in announcing they will appoint a nine-man committee to meet with the wheat board.

The committee will comprise four members from the East and four from the West with Federation President H. H. Hannam as president.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of three per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, unchanged from $2.73 7-16 against $2.73¼.

Pulp Industry Needs More Graduates

MONTREAL (CP) — A major problem facing research projects in the pulp and paper industry is the lack of graduate student.

That was the concensus reached Thursday at a discussion during the annual meeting of the technical section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. The discussion was headed by Dr. R. R. McLaughlin and Dr. W. H. Rapson, both of the University of Toronto.

Dr. Rapson was appointed three weeks ago to head a new research program for pulp and paper at the university.

But one difficulty encountered was in the trend being followed by industry in luring graduates into well-paying jobs at $300 to $350 a month while scholarships and bursaries offer as little as $1,000 to $1,200 a year.

CONSIDERED RESEARCH

Dr. McLaughlin said the university has been considering pulp research for the last seven years.

But, the industry was cutting its own throat. Not only was it luring away students who might be post graduate possibilities but also others who might become instructors.

In an address to the meeting, P. R. Sandwell, Vancouver consulting architect, said the industry needs moderately sized mills using light, automatic equipment.

He said progress in the industry since the turn of the century has been precarious. While the industry has "gone to giganticism to hold its own," he said, cost of construction and operation and other factors point to the expediency of the smaller, mechanical, outdoor operation.

In two separate reports, F. F. Arnoldi said production of paperboard in Canada was 10 per cent less in 1952 than in 1951 because demand did not develop as expected, though it had been heavier since last September, and R. B. Hall said wrapping paper mills were operating at 87 per cent of capacity due to a reduced domestic demand.

Won't Raise Price On Butter—McCubbin

OTTAWA (CP)—Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said Thursday consumers "can rest assured" that the price of butter will not be increased as the result of a recent "freeze order" on selling of government butter stocks.

Mr. McCubbin indicated the order was issued to permit stock taking.

In Toronto, grocery chain store officials said Thursday they have learned Agriculture Minister Gardiner will probably remove his butter stock freezing order next Monday.

Officials quoted their Ottawa representatives as saying rescinding of the order which went into effect Tuesday is expected.

Chased 23 Miles, Before Youth Caught

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Edgar Lebert, 20, was arrested Thursday after police chased him at 80 miles an hour for 23 miles over icy roads.

Later the youth pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was remanded to today for sentence.

Five cars were forced off the highway during the chase and some 25 children had to scamper to safety as they walked along the highway.

Constable Neil Lester, driver of the police car, said Lebert raced through two red lights and a stop sign during the race which began on nearby Walker road and ended at New Canaan, about 20 miles south of here.

St. James' YPU Presents Three-Act Play

St. James' Young Peoples' Union last night drew back the curtain on their three-act mystery farce "The Clock Struck Twelve" before a near capacity audience in the Wesley Hall of their church. With over half the cast newcomers to the art of acting, this group did a commendable job.

The audience was very responsive although possibly more to the farce than the mystery which was due on doubt to the stronger emphasis towards the lighter side of the play.

Kae Staples carried off the part of matronly housekeeper Elizabeth convincingly while her charge, John D. Asterfeller, played by Bob Tamblin, an obvious mental case, convulsed the audience with his antics. Ron Davis played strongly, at times, the sinister part of Dick Thomas. The acting of Sheila Robinson stood out although her presence on the stage was all too short. Her act of fainting was a standout. As a "hick constable," Bob Pullyblank was quite at home and appeared to enjoy the part.

Wilbert Cunningham in the role of Randy Hendrix, appeared too cool and unemotional but was very clear in his speaking. The three singing sisters who get involved in the affairs of all the rest of the characters are Marion Davis, giving a real lift to the farce angle, Muriel Hall, impressing everyone with the role of a determined young lady and Dawn Gabrielson settled into the part of enjoying the gruesome.

Ron Davis was director, with Sylvia McIntosh as business manager while the stage was managed by Ron Sargent, assisted by Frank Lundy.

Schedules Concluded For The PMHA Clubs

The Peterborough Minor Hockey Association schedules wound up at Civic Arena last evening. Aces blanked Shamrocks 8-0 in the only juvenile game played. Havelock previously defaulting to Marines. In midget play, Aces downed the Wolves 10-1, while Shamrocks took a 7-2 victory over Norwood. The bantam shamrocks rolled to a 19-0 verdict over the Aces in the only bantam tilt on tap to wind things up.

PMHA playoffs are due to commence at the arena next Thursday evening, but the setup of games has not been announced officially yet. There is some dispute at the moment whether group playoffs will be sudden-death affairs or two-game series with goals to count. The winners will enter provincial playdowns before the middle of Feburary as the local minor hockey association is again affiliated with the OMHA.

Face Execution Unless Spy On Other Jews

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP) — Communist secret police are threatening some of East Germany's hapless Jews with execution unless they agree to spy on other Jews, refugees who have just fled to freedom in the West claimed today.

These refugees, all Jews, said some of their faith even have been warned that their children will be killed if the parents refuse to give information about friends to the Russian-trained secret police.

Terror and tragedy are the lot of the 2,300 Jews left in East Germany as Communist authorities step up the anti-Semitic campaign remote - controlled from Moscow, according to these sources.

Many are forbidden to leave their homes. Police interrogation lasts for hours. Mail is intercepted. Telephone lines are tapped. Personal documents are confiscated.

CUT OFF PENSIONS

Sixty-five per cent of the East German Jews are aged and live on pensions. These are being lopped off as many Jews resist the demands of Communist police that they become spies.

More than eight per cent of the East German Jewish population has fled to the west since the purge of Jewish leaders in Prague late last year. The crackdown on the East German Jews began at the same time.

The West Berlin Jewish community is urging those who are left in East Germany to come to the West. Twenty-five to 30 a day are eluding Communist patrols and reaching Berlin.

All East German Jews are being asked by the Reds to sign a five-point statement admitting that the American joint distribution committee is an American spy centre, that Zionism is identical with fascism, that Israel's Premier David Ben-Gurion is an agent of American imperialism, that the American judiciary is criminal because it sentenced atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to death, and that the proposed payment by West Germany of reparations for Nazi persecution of the Jews exploits the German people.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Jewish refugees from East Germany believe Moscow has unleashed the new anti-Semitic campaign for strictly political reasons in contrast with Hitler's objective of exterminating their race. As they see it, these are Russia's motives:

First, to gain sympathy among Arab countries. Secondly, Moscow wants to disrupt relations between Germans and Jews in West Germany. Furthermore, the Communists are looking for scapegoats to excuse the critical food and supply situation in East Germany and the other satellites.

Assault Charged Against Son-In-Law

Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed an assault charge preferred against Ralph Moore, North Monaghan, by his mother-in-law, in police court today.

The case had appeared from a previous adjournment. Moore denied the charge, and stated in his defence a glancing blow which struck the woman's face was accidental.

The magistrate, in summing up, stated that the possibility of the blow being accidental must be entertained, and that in any event the complainant had suffered no visible or apparent injury.

More testified that while standing on a city street he had been engaged in an altercation with his wife, when his mother-in-law approached. He stated the mother-in-law had ignored a warning to "keep out of this," and that she had grappled with him.

Moore's wife also testified in his behalf.

French Make Big Landing

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP) — The French today announced their most powerful amphibious landing of the Indo-China war against communist-led rebels and said they had captured the South Annam (central Viet Nam) port of Quinhon as a base for further attacks.

A French announcement said several thousand troops stormed ashore at dawn Thursday in a move to ease pressure of the Communist-led Vietminh on the plateau fortress of Ankhe, 36 miles northwest of Quinhon and 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

A headquarters spokesman said the French bridgehead had been solidly established and "excellent conditions are offered for future exploitation" of the assault.

The port of Quinhon was occupied several hours after the landing, he said. Two Vietminh companies which sought to oppose the landing were "crushed" and withdrew, leaving 30 dead behind.

No Room For WI Available At Spring Show

Peterborough directors of the Central Ontario Spring Show had to admit to their associates in their business meeting here Thursday that accommodation for a Women's Institute section would have to be makeshift and probably uncomfortable.

In that uncertainty, Melville H. Johnston suggested that the basement of St. James Church might be obtained for the women. St. George's Church was also mentioned as being near. Apparently the Institute branch, proposed as a development in this second year of the show, may have to be left out of planning for lack of suitable meeting place.

10 COUNTIES

Most of the ten counties of Central Ontario were represented here Thursday by men who have been coming here to meetings for the promotion of a district agricultural enterprise on a permanent basis, and comparable at least proportionately to the London seed fair for the counties of western Ontario. The area of the district is from Ontario to Prince Edward and Frontenac, inclusive.

Facilities of a community centre at Morrow Park have been mentioned from time to time as a substantial asset in the sound establishment of the Central Ontario Spring Show.

The Divorce Reform Association

We learn with interest that a group of Ontario citizens has formed a body called the Divorce Reform Association; it is made up of men and women, some of whom have been unable to secure divorces, and others who are happily married but are interested in social reform. (The members of the Association who have been unable to secure divorces are in that position, we may point out, because they will not lend themselves to the collusion and false witness which are now necessary to secure a divorce in cases where there has been no adultery.) The Association seeks recognition of five grounds for divorce, as well as the present sole valid cause of adultery. The five grounds are: desertion, after three years; dangerous cruelty; insanity after five years; rape or other sexual crime; presumption of death, after a disappearance of seven years.

* * *

As our readers know, this newspaper favours extension of the present divorce laws. We disagree with those who feel that there is some special virtue in enduring a marriage which has met with serious injury. We are opposed to easy divorce on trivial grounds, but we think that the temper of the people of Canada is such that divorce mills would not be tolerated here. But we feel that there are many people in this country who suffer unjustly because our divorce laws permit divorce only when there is proof of adultery; this means that adultery must be faked, or committed unwillingly, if a divorce is to be secured. Many people have too much respect for themselves, and too much respect for the law, to indulge in any such immoral nonsense.

* * *

The extended grounds for divorce which the Association supports all seem good to us, except that relating to insanity. Is it correct to assume that anyone who has been insane for five years is past hope of cure? And if a man or woman is cured and released from a hospital after five years, to find home and mate gone, what is his position? We think that this clause needs careful examination, and would always have to be treated with special care by the courts if these reforms were to be adopted by law.

* * *

Citizens who are jealous of the good name of our legal system do not like a divorce law which drives many people to deceit and perjury, and others to a faked or unwilling adultery. We wish the Association well in its campaign to correct this situation, which tends to bring the law into disrepute.

Children Starved For Love

One of the encouraging signs of advance in our civilization is the increasing number of laws framed for the protection of children, and the recognition of children as individuals with rights, and not the chattels of parents. At present a special Child Welfare committee of the Ontario Legislature is considering an amendment to the Children's Protection Act which would make it possible for courts to take children from parents who "are guilty of emotional neglect." Broadly, we suppose that this phrase means "who do not love them." Anybody who reads the daily news sees reports of cases in which children are illused and sometimes killed by neglect; there are also cases, known to social workers, of children who suffer real injury because they are starved for affection, though they are fed and clothed.

"Starved for affection" is not a phrase which means much to people who have not seen what it covers in fact. It means: abused and sworn at; told that they are unwanted and nuisances; subjected to harsh and capricious beatings and other forms of discipline; told to get out of the house and keep away, except at mealtimes and bedtime; used as third persons who are involved in quarrels between parents. It means all forms of inhumane treatment which do not involve bodily harm or obvious bodily neglect. Any social worker, or any schoolteacher of ten years' experience can provide depressing and pitiful instances of such treatment and tell what it does to a child.

Children who are made to suffer in this fashion sometimes turn out badly in spectacular ways; they may rob, or kill or become enemies of society. But more often they simply grow up to be warped, miserable human beings, with a bad attitude toward life, who spread their own unhappiness to their mates and their own children, and to anyone who comes near them.

We hope the special Child Welfare committee decides to recommend that courts be allowed to take such children from obviously bad homes. But what happens then? Is it possible, in a public institution, to repair the damage that has been done? Social workers and public employees cannot love all the children who come under their care; the best they can be asked to do is to treat children justly and with kindness. There is no substitute for a good home.

Children who have had a happy childhood do not necessarily grow up to be spectacular adults. But they have an attitude toward life, and a capacity for happiness, which marks them as the real salt of the earth. They can meet the pressures of ordinary life with fortitude; they can marry with a good expectation of happiness for themselves, their mates and their children; they have qualities of spirit which infect those who know them, and make them better. Anything which promotes the happiness of children—affection, kindly discipline and the security which love gives and which money alone cannot give—is promoting the good of the state and the good of mankind. But most important of all, it is creating good, mentally stable, decent, happy people.

Another Two Billion Up The Spout

Our Canadian Press reports yesterday of the Government's estimates of the money it intends spending from April 1st to March 31st, 1954, was sufficiently detailed not to require a rehearsal of the figures here. In recent years the Government had adopted the policy of tabling its Estimates well before Budget day, and not at the same time that it brings down the Budget itself, that is, the accounting of past expenditures and the way it proposes to raise the money to meet estimated future expenses. The Government estimates that it needs about $4,405,000,000 during the next fiscal year. We know now that the citizens of Canada will have to provide the money through taxes; how they will have to do it will be told in the Budget, which is expected in March.

When a bomb is dropped into the open mouth of a mortar, ready for lobbing over a hill against an unseen enemy, the bomb is said to be "up the spout." Up the spout—a similar preparation should enemy be massed beyond the crest—are another two billion dollars. This great sum for defence, half the Government's estimated needs, duplicates the last fiscal year's figures. A quarter of a billion additional dollars left over from last year's unexpended total, will take the defence estimates far beyond any previous peacetime spending for what is called national protection.

From an ideal point of view these vast amounts seem as wasteful of manpower, material and even human life as the mortar bomb crashing into a suspected enemy position. Yet so unstable are international conditions now that no other secure way seems to exist than to arm this country and her allies at an annual cost of two billion dollars to Canadian taxpayers.

It is interesting that half the defence expenditures are allotted to the Air Force, particularly for jet fighters. The Army, the most numerous and active Canadian force in actual combat and on a wartime footing in Europe, is to have the spending of some five hundred million dollars.

A Trite Remark?

Our old friend the Brantford Expositor must have been cross-eyed when it looked this week at the Minister of Finance's New Year's message. Mr. Abbott had said that Canadians can face the future with confidence. The Expositor calls this "a trite remark."

When a Minister of Finance, experienced in the office, accustomed to weigh Canada's financial and economic health, responsible to Parliament and people, and supported by the advice of deputy ministers, the Governor of the Bank of Canada and a score of brilliant experts, when such a Minister says that Canada can face the future with confidence, how dare anybody label it a "trite remark"? It may sound platitudinous to the Expositor, but it is a good sort of platitude from such an authoritative quarter. Mr. Abbott has the knowledge and position to make a platitude important. Can it be the Expositor who is trite, and not Mr. Abbott?

However, we forgive the Expositor; it usually does better. Perhaps it had cramps in the stomach or needles in the brain the day it found Mr. Abbott so trite, insolent, unobservant and wishful-thinking—adjectives it tossed off with sore recklessness. The date on which its strictures on Mr. Abbott and his New Year's message appeared—January 28th—suggests that the Expositor has had a long holiday hangover.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The report that frogs in Queensland, Australia, have lost the ability to hop may be in error. It could be they have decided there was little or no future in hopping.

The Toronto Star grades blondes as "ash", "honey", "beeswax", "dizzy", and "dishwater", but is rebuked by the Ottawa Citizen for omitting "big, fat", the most numerous of them all. In Ottawa, at least, chivalry is dead.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: East on Number 7 Highway young evergreen trees have been planted at each end of every restraining wire fence. That seems to me rather silly, to have the trees right at the edge of the pavement and so close to the posts. Ordinarily the highway people seem to be very sensible in what they do, and I have nothing but praise for their snow-clearing and the speed with which they tackle icy surfaces.

ANSWER— I fear you observed these evergreens over your shoulder at a high speed. The are not planted. They are tied to the first and last post of each fence. You must have noticed that they stick up above the fence, about twice its height. They are markers. Should there be a heavy snowfall and heavy drifting which might hide the fence, the young cedar markers will show where the fences are so that the big snow-clearing machines will not knock them down.

West of Peterborough on Highway 7 the markers are striped sticks.

TORTURE IN CANADA, 300 years ago: Canadian history in my school days was pretty dull stuff, compared with British history or Old Testament history. They had blood and thunder and pageantry; as taught to me Canadian history was lifeless. What might have been vivid details were blanched by dates and prissiness. And of course, way back in Alpha's school days, Canadian historical scholarship had not uncovered the gore and flamboyant colour which our pioneers and explorers and early politicians had; or writers of text books discreetly hid it. This is wrong. Children thrive on blood and thunder; and that is why cruel nursery rhymes—like the Big Bad Wolf— are popular and memorable.

Take Pierre Radisson. We learned that he was a notable explorer of the west—little else to make him come to life. But Radisson really did live, dangerously, colourfully, intrepidly. When he was no more than fifteen years old he was captured by the Mohawks. (That was three hundred years ago). He was put to the torture, somewhat ameliorated through the importunities of the Indian family who had adopted him.

The Mohawks let Raddisson watch the slow roasting of his fellow captives, and to personalize the drama pulled out four of his fingernails. A squaw brought her four-year old son to cut off one of his fingers but the child was not strong enough to perform the amputation and had to be content with swallowing blood from the wound. When it was the old folk's turn, one of them enjoyed holding Radisson's thumb in the bowl of his pipe while he smoked. He could meanwhile watch the performance.

◇ ◇ ◇

HERE IS HIS ACCOUNT of part of it: "They burned a frenchwoman; they pulled out her breasts and took a child out of her belly, which they broiled and made the mother eat of it; so in short she died." That evening "they burned the scales of my feet and leggs. A Mohawk soldier run through by foot a swoor red out of the fire and plucked several of my nails." A little boy came and tried to chew off one of his fingers.

Raddison wrote his account in French, but it was very soon thereafter translated into English on order of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Raddison relates that when a fingernail had been pulled out, "They putt a redd coale of fire upon it and when it is swollen bite it out with their teeth." From this stump the veins would be pulled out as far as possible and seared. Sinews exposed at the wrist would be wound round a stick and pulled out by windlass action. When a scalp was removed— the victim was still alive— it was enjoyable to dump a kettleful of glowing embers on the wound. Bullets were melted and the liquid lead poured into wounds, or for greater sport gunpowder which was then ignited.

SUCH VIVID DETAILS of our history are related in the American Bernard de Voto's newly-published history: "The Course of Empire" (the American empire). The year when Raddison was victim and witness to these tortures was after the death of Queen Elizabeth I, of glorious, civilized and cultured memory. These things were happening in Canada only three centuries ago. If pupils get details of their country's history as vivid as these, can they believe that Canadian history is tame stuff?

De Voto remarks that torture became an instrument of international policy on this continuent. "This is an ecstasy of the primitive mind, though our generation has learned that the membrance with which civilization has covered it breaks easily." (A reference to German practice during the last war.)

"You could always reanimate a slackening ally by giving him some prisoners to burn .... In compliance with a recent treaty the Hurons were about to liberate a captured Iroquois, but the resident Jesuit told them that France 'premptorily ordered them to put the Iroquios in the kettle.' They did so; the danger of peace and commercial competition vanished."

◇ ◇ ◇

WARM DAY: I have been passed a letter sent to the Examiner from Norwood asking why January 15th could have been the mildest January 15th in 112 years, if the temperature on January 15th, 1950, was equally high. The answer is that the Toronto reading for January 15th of this year was a high of 49 degrees, and on January 15th, 1950, the high point was 45.

DEAR ALPHA: The 1945 nickel with a big V on the reverse side has what looks to me like dots and dashes, very small, just inside the milled edge. Is there anything to this, or am I just seeing spots in front of my eyes?

ANSWER: The reverse side of the 1945 five-cent piece has indeed dots and dashes around the edges. It was a wartime coin as its big V (for Victory) indicates. The Master of the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa, Mr. W. C. Ronson, tells me that the dots and dashes are in Morse code, and if you can read Morse and had a magnifying glass, you would read the message as "We win when we work willingly."

Incidentally, there is another cipher on that coin, same side: the initials TS. They are those of Mr. Tom Shingles, chief engraver at the Mint who executed the coin.

COUNTRY NOTE: Alpha's scare of having spring lambs at Bellee Acres in January was unfounded. The ewes seem to be big only from good living and wool. To ensure that lambs of some sort will be available sometime, Alpha's partner in the enterprise —the knowledgeable school-boy — has introduced a borrowed ram into the flock for two weeks. Just in case the visiting ram in December was not affectionately received by all eight of the placid dames. Wednesday's snow cast a lovely mantle over the drab acres. Despite clouds obscuring the full moon, the hill and valley beyond to the lake were luminous, enchanting in the stillness. Next morning saw rabbit tracks as big as horses' hoofs. That fellow should go into the pot, had I a gun and could aim, and knew how to transform a rabbit in the flesh to a rabbit on the plate.

WAR AND POLITICS IN KOREA (2)

Syngman Rhee, A Faded Legend

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN in Seoul

(This is the second of two articles).

ALL THE BLUNDERS and corruptions that lie in wait for new and threatened democracies now appear attendant on the internal politics of South Korea. It is a slow drab story with few incidents in it; yet it has a significance for the future far beyond its local importance.

For the South Korea the United Nations have made their boldest attempt to foster democracy in an Eastern country that knew nothing of such things. One of the reasons they came to fight here was to allow South Korea to develop freely the parliamentary institutions her leaders seemed to have chosen. And since the start of the fighting, which has ruined the country, some 600 million dollars have been spent on the civilian economy in order to preserve South Korea as a nation. Except that 21 million South Koreans are still alive, that the country still remains technically sovereign, that physically the Asian Communist Party has not yet laid its icy hand on the southern end of the peninsula, there is little to show for it all. —certainly not the makings of the new democracy we came to help and foster.

South Korean politics are still dominated by the gay and fabulously wrinkled figure of President Syngman Rhee. He is an indomitable old man, who, unfortunately identifies his country's good with his own retention of power; he is ruthless, intolerant and unreasonable— yet it is never suggested that he is dishonest. And he is still vigorous and single minded in his desire to see the Korean peninsula reunited— at any cost to anyone —and with himself as its ruler.

TODAY he is in open conflict with the Assembly in Pusan. Together they have brought legislative business almost to a standstill. It was in June last year that Rhee insisted on changing the constitution in his favour, on stripping the Assembly of its power to select the President and on giving this power to the whole electorate. Had he not done so, he would not have been re-elected. The result was a constitutional crisis. Martial law was declared and the Assembly members were terrorised into voting away their powers— the Prime Minister took refuge in an American military hospital.

The representatives of the United Nations in Korea charged with advising the Government politically— the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea— took no action, except unofficially to deplore the President's action. It is now clear that this was the last chance the United Nations had of constructive interference: Rhee has been confirmed since in his line of action by the almost fulsome flattery accorded him by American generals in public.

The opposition, who were a clear majority, only gave way when it was obvious that no support was coming from the United Nations. As a grudging concession, however, Rhee allowed it to be written into the constitution that the Assembly should have the right to approve or reject his choice of Prime Minister and also the power to remove the Prime Minister after a year in office.

AS A RESULT, there has been no Prime Minister in Korea for three months; Rhee rules with the help of insignificant and obsequious ministers who are changed frequently, while he concentrates more and more on the source of authority in his own hands. The best men, the men on whom a healthy parliament system might depend, are now excluded from office and most of them are outside the Assembly. Rhee, in addition, controls the police, all the instruments of propaganda, and the aggressive youth corps which is now made to play a decisive role in local elections.

Rhee owes his unique position to the fact that he is a spiritual symbol, the only one, of the independence and identity of Korea. His history is the history of Korean nationalism. It is a genuinely heroic one. His place in history is with Kossuth and Wolfe Tone and Weizmann. The tragedy is that he has chosen to use the heroic legend as a weapon in a squalid political right for power. There are ample signs that the legend is already dimming among those South Koreans who are the natural leaders of a slowly developing public opinion.

THE SOUTH KOREAN ARMY, now the best infantry in attack at the disposal of the U. N. command, is virtually indifferent to his person and often contemptuous of his policies and of the behaviour of his Government. The poor, smudged newspapers of South Korean are almost all as open in their hostility to him as they dare to be. Intellectuals not in his service speak of him with a rueful sadness as another of Korea's unavoidable burdens.

Slowly emerging is a situation similar to that of pre-Communist China, where Chiang Kai-shek ruled unchallenged but without any hold on the hearts of his people. The South Korean Government is unlikely to attract the loyalty of a young man learning to question and challenge authority. Rhee, in addtion, has made sure that there are no natural successors to his postion.

In theory, at least, this country will one day be free to choose any sort of Government. Just now, Rhee's Government, fighting its meaningless ante-room battles, which have nothing to do with the real fighting on the 39th Parallel, twiddling its thumbs in the face of astronomical inflation, which has reduced the won to less than one per cent. of its 1947 value, winking at corruption that is almost as prevalent as taxation, offers an uncertain electorate few inducements to choose democracy. It is significant that the many honest intellectuals in South Korea who have committed themselves hopelessly to the fight against Communism live in a state of mind not far from despair.

Success of a Toll Road

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE NEW JERSEY Turnpike was opened a year ago —a 118-mile stretch of toll road running north and south through the state. For most of the distance it has two traffic lanes in each direction separated by a centre strip.

The toll highway was designed for the future, but it was felt that the original facilities would meet all needs until 1960. Already it is over-crowded, however, and the four lanes are to be made six.

The road is taking in money at a rate it was not expected to reach until 1968. Toll revenue for last year was expected to be $7,150,000; instead it was more than double that sum. To date some 20,000,000 vehicles have used the highway, nine-tenths of them passenger cars.

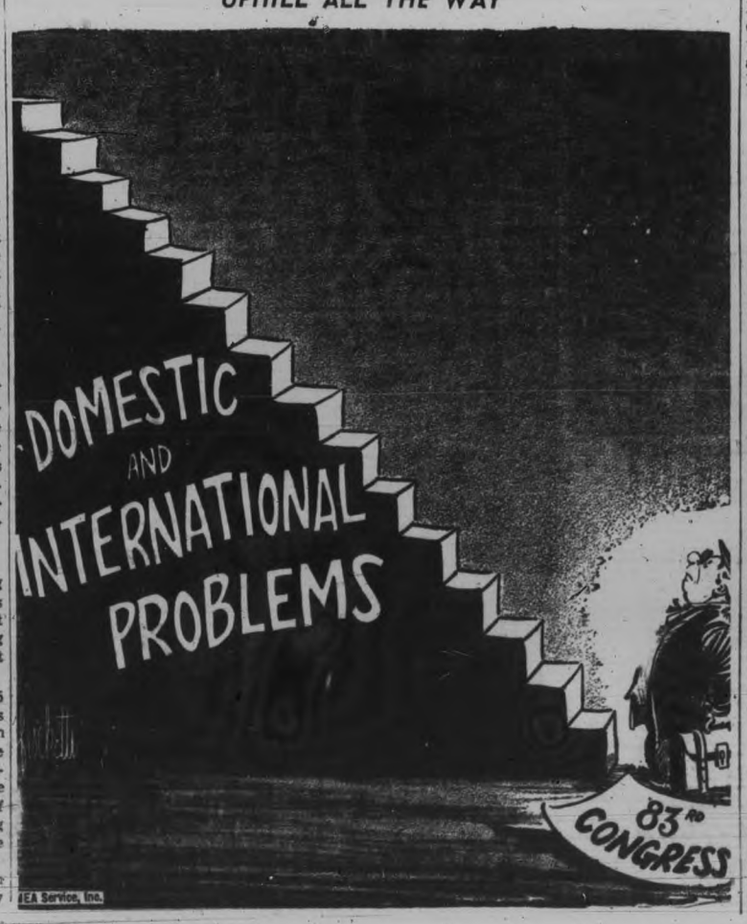
The problem of accidents has not been solved by the toll highway but the statistics do give some encouragement. There were 47 fatalities on the pike last year, which represents a rate of 6.1 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles, and this compares favourably with the national rate of 7.6. The speed limit is 60 miles per hour, and turnpike officials consider this safe under good driving conditions— but agree it can be too high on a wet or slippery pavement.

There are a number of such toll highways in the Eastern United States, and it appears the common experience that the motoring public take to them at once, are willing to pay a moderate fee for the service and convenience they offer. The rate for a passenger car is about a cent a mile, but persons living alongside the road can get annual tickets at a lower rate, and truckers pay substantially more by the weight of vehicle and load.

The principle is exactly that of the old toll road (Ottawa was completely trapped by them) which disappeared amid universal acclaim about the time the automobile came in— except that the typical dirt toll road of the old days was short and the fee was a nickel or a dime. The modern highway has become so expensive to build and to maintain that reversion to tolls is something rather more than an interesting experiment.

Letter To The Editor

A WARNING TO HOUSEWIVES.



Sir: I would appreciate you printing the following warning to all housewives of the city. Please do not put out money for your milk. Even if it means getting up an hour or half hour earlier it will be worth it. Last Friday night I put out a five dollar bill for tickets and it was stolen by a sneak thief. As he had to open a storm door to get at it this will give you an idea who is going around the streets taking the money.

As we were not the only family that this happened to I decided to write and warn others. I hope whoever this sneak thief is he will rejoice in the knowledge that he has deprived my children of their milk for the next two weeks. One thing I can say for him he has taught me a lesson and I now have made arrangements to pay my milk driver during the week.

Sincerely,

D. S. T.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Beautiful for situation, the joy of the earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King. (Ps. 48:2.)

And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof. And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it . . . And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life. (Rev. 21: 2-4, 23, 24, 27.)

Enriched Bread

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Canadians from coast to coast will soon be able to buy vitamin enriched white bread. We should thank Newfoundland, our newest province, for this contribution to better health. Newfoundland housewives have been buying such bread since 1942. The idea of spreading this boon literally rose like the sun in the east to shed its beneficial rays across the country.

For those interested in the vitamins used in the enriched bread, Marjorie Thompson Flint, writing in Saturday Night, lists them thus:

THIAMINE or B1—Helps build and maintain physical and mental health. Essential for normal appetite, intestinal activity, and sound nerves.

RIBOFLAVIN or B2—Essential for growth and to keep body tissues healthy. Each living cell must have its quota of riboflavin to function properly.

NIACIN—Also part of the B vitamin complex. It works with B1 and B2 in various cell functions. Extreme deficiencies of this vitamin will result in pellagra, a disease quite common in the southern United States until recently.

IRON—The only mineral used. It is essential for good red blood and the prevention of nutritional anaemia.

Tourist Note

It is during the tourist season that hooked rugs make their appearance, but now is the time that industrious housewives give thought to the coming demand and start transforming the family's unguarded clothes into works of art.

Private Service For Murdered Child

ELMIRA (CP)—Private funeral service for four-year-old Glennice Paepcke whose parents, Henry and Sheila Paepcke, have been charged with her murder, was held here Thursday with burial in Elmira Union cemetery. Rev. H.W. Baetz, St. James Lutheran Church, officiated.

R. A. Youngson of Kitchener, counsel for the accused couple, being held in Kitchener, was unable to have the parents released under police escort to attend the service.

Among the small number of mourners was the dead child's 68-year-old grandfather, Samuel Campling, of nearby St. Jacobs.

Rail Revenues May Reach Half Billion

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway official forecast Thursday that the company's railway operating revenues may rise almost to the half-billion-dollar mark in 1953, but said expenses also are expected to jump.

S. J. W. Liddy, CPR assistant comptroller, made the forecast before the board of transport commissioners as the railways began argument on a request for a seven-per-cent increase in freight rates.

George Buckingham, CPR general traffic manager, estimated that the company would get about $36,500,000 in additional revenue a year if the seven-per-cent request and a separate application for a nine-per-cent boost is approved by the board.

PROTEST REQUEST

The provinces—all but Ontario and Quebec—opened fire on the seven-per-cent request and vigorously opposed references to the nine-per-cent application in documents submitted Thursday as evidence.

Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney, the board's chief commissioner, ruled that the documents be filed "subject to objections."

In giving evidence, Mr Liddy forecast the CPR's railway operating revenues may climb in 1953 by almost $35,000,000 to $492,268,000 from $457,809,000 in 1952.

But railway operating expenses were likely to increase to $461,170,000 from $426,986,000, with the result that net railway operating income was forecast at $31,098,000 in 1953, only slightly higher than the $30,823,000 in 1952.

Quality Of Crops Said To Need Improvement

CHATHAM (CP)—Forty per cent of Ontario canning crop growers would be better off if they grew no crop at all and too many growers do not produce a quality product, Andrew Fulton, secretary of the Ontario vegetable growers marketing board, said Thursday.

Mr. Fulton addressed some 250 Kent county growers at their first annual convention.

Outlining the manner of operation of the Ontario marketing for processing scheme, Mr. Fulton described it as a growers' scheme designed to put canning crop production in Ontario on a business basis.

IMMIGRANT SUCCEEDS.—John Kreutzer, a recent German immigrant, has built a thriving business as a landscape gardener at Brandon, Man., although a year ago he had only 50 cents. After completing his contract year on a Manitoba farm — a condition of entry to Canada — Mr. Kreutzer with his wife and family moved to Brandon where his experience in landscaping in Germany helped him get a start. This spring he estimates he will use 15 helpers in his business.

Canada Land Of Opportunity For Man Willing To Work

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—John Kreutzer, German immigrant who came to Canada as a farm laborer and ended up as a business man, says the country has abundant opportunities for the man willing to work.

Just last spring he had only 50 cents. His family of three had

Now he is established in a landscaping business. In the busy seasons of spring and summer he estimates he will need 15 helpers to keep pace with orders.

HERE TO STAY

"We wouldn't go back for all the money in the world," he said in an interview.

Last spring he came to Brandon from a district farm. He had worked there a year, one of the conditions of entry.

Besides his 50 cents, he had a thorough knowledge of landscape gardening gained in a German school and a tremendous urge to get ahead. He realized there was a future for a landscape gardener here and he found a place to get plenty of sod, the basic need for the job.

But he had no money to buy a truck. A bank, without asking security or references, granted him a loan to make the down payment.

For the next six weeks, John, his wife, Ann, and their two small children headed for the nearby Carberry hills to haul sod for the Camp Shilo army base. They worked from 3 a.m. until dusk.

BUSINESS BOOMED

By the end of six weeks, he was far enough ahead to buy a sod cutter and began taking orders in Brandon. From sodding he went to grass seeding and tree planting. As the season shortened he began top-dressing lawns.

John's greatest worry was the winter season when there would be no landscaping. The sale of Christmas trees provided a partial answer. Now he keeps busy cutting and pruning trees.

Mrs. Kreutzer for more than six months has been able to devote her full time to her home and children, Manfred, 4, and Norma, 3.

The Kreutzers still have language problems to overcome but they are making headway. John's greatest desire is to receive his Canadian citizenship papers.

East Germans Flee Homes, Escape Terror

BERLIN (AP)Stark fear alone is driving many East Germans from their homes of a lifetime to the restricted freedom of West Berlin. Thousands mill anxiously in the refugee camps.

No pogroms have begun in the Communist-ruled East. The Red government's purges so far have not struck deeply and directly among the people. No mass measures have yet been taken

But fear lives with the people. It sharpened this year to a bright edge and swelled the flow of men, women and children running from what may happen.

22,000 IN MONTH

This month alone, 22,000 have fled to West Berlin, an Allied island inside the Soviet zone. Five hundred of them are Jews, wide-eyed with the fear of renewed savagery against them.

Most of the refugees tell the same story.

Take the little, bald-headed man in the refugee office:

"A friend called me on the phone and said I had been denounced by the secret police. I was afraid."

His story can be multiplied a thousand times.

Hint Tourists May Be Fleeced

LONDON (AP)—The government Thursday sidestepped suggestions that the record number of tourists expected here for the June 2 Coronation might get fleeced by hotels.

Brigadier H. R. Mackeson, secretary for overseas trade, refused under questioning by Labor members of Parliament to make public what rates will be asked during Coronation week.

But he admitted he was wrong when he said last month that no hotel would raise its prices more than 50 per cent.

The Coronation of the young Queen and the round of festivities that go with it are expected to be the biggest tourist draw in Britain's history.

Sir Alexander Maxwell, chairman of the British Travel and Holidays Association, forecast a record influx of 800,000 overseas visitors in 1953 bringing £125,000,000 to the country's hard-pressed coffers.

Guernsey Breeders Protest Use Of Oils

TORONTO (CP) — Guernsey breeders Thursday joined other dairy groups in asking for legislation against further use of vegetable oils as a substitute for butter fat.

The resolution passed by the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Association at its annual meeting asked provincial legislatures to ban use of such oils as butterfat substitutes.

The resolution passed Thursday and similar ones endorsed by other farm groups are not aimed so much at oleo—which they now consider established—but at use of vegetable oils in place of butterfat in such products as milk and ice cream.

Bus Strike Ends After 29 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—The last of eight strike-crippled private bus lines agreed to arbitration Thursday, and the biggest bus strike in New York's history came to an end. It lasted 29 days.

Some buses began rolling Thursday.

The 8,200 drivers and maintenance men went on strike Jan. 1, making idle buses that carry 2,300,000 fares a day in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens. City-owned buses and subways took up the slack without much difficulty.

The strike ended in an agreement to arbitrate, with the strikers winning their basic 40-hour week demand.

Premier Frost To Open Memorial Centre In Apsley

The big night for Aspley and the district for miles around is Saturday night when the Burleigh and Anstruther Community Centre will be officially opened by Ontario's Premier Leslie Frost.

The community centre has a large natural ice surface, dressing rooms and a refreshment booth.

The centre was built with a large share of volunteer work and contributed material. Men went out in the bush and cut their own lumber for the job and then helped build it.

CORRUGATED METAL

The sides are of corrugated metal sheeting with a curved metal roof. It follows the pattern of the Warkworth arena.

Hockey teams have been using the ice surface for some games lately but the official opening was delayed until the last detail was completed and all the arrangements could be made.

Time of the ceremony is 9 p.m. Besides the premier of Ontario, Harold Scott, minister without port-folio in the provincial legislature and Gordon K. Fraser, member of parliament for Peterborough West will be on hand.

Prize winners' names for a deep freeze unit, a washing machine as well as a door prize will be drawn.

Two hockey games will be played, the first at 7:30 a junior game between Apsley and Lakefield and the second at 9:30 a senior game between Apsley and Bancroft.

Jays Bow To Bees Referee Wins Three Decisions

COBOURG — Cobourg junior Jays were wondering Thursday who won from them here Wednesday night in a two-edged duel.

The Jays lost a 7-4 decision to Lindsay junior Bees in an OHA district junior B game and lost three decisions to Referee Dick Ouimet of Peterborough as well.

Ouimet won the first round as the second period closed when he ejected Cobourg coach Clarke Sommerville from the game and ordered him to refrain from directing the team from anywhere in the rink.

Round number two went to Ouimet when he ordered Cobourg goalie Stu Lingard from the game in the third period at 10:05. Round number three was won by Ouimet when he declined to allow sub goalie Morley Simpson to take Lingard's place in Cobourg goal. Ouimet declared that the OHA rule book said a goalie ejected from the game must be replaced by a player dressed for the game. Finally, Jack Church, a defenceman, took over the Cobourg goal tending duties and held Lindsay goalless for the balance of the contest.

TENSE MOMENT

At the height of the excitement with the arbiter, Sommerville, who had been ordered out previously, went back on the ice and was joined by players there. He finally left the ice with Lingard. There was a moment when several Cobourg fans and at least one executive were in favor of taking the team from the ice.

The Cobourg crew were rolling in the first period and took a 3-0 lead but in the second session Lindsay came back with a rush to sink six goals and clinch the affair.

The winners were led by Chidley with two goals and an assist, and Hutton with two counters. Single tallies went to H. Williams, Gibson and G. Teal.

Dotzko with a goal and three assists led the losers, Bowen getting two counters while Neil Cane got a goal and an assist.

SITTING IT OUT—Doug Hunter, speedy Petes' forward, is sitting it out these days while awaiting a decision by the OHA subcommittee following a match penalty he received here last week in a senior "B" mixup he had with Al Marshall of Orillia. The Petes will miss him tonight in Belleville. Hunter's case comes up Feb. 6.

City Rink Bows 11-5 In Bonspiel

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—A Toronto Granite rink and a team of curlers from Country Club, Brookline, Mass., were leading here Thursday with highest plus score of eight points in first-round play in the 22nd annual women's curling bonspiel for the Sewell Trophy.

Mrs. O. H. Croker's Brookline rink scored a first-round 17-9 victory over Mrs. A. Wilson, Vankleek Hill, Ont., and Toronto Granites' Mrs. A. P. Hart defeated Mrs. R.F. Dettmers' Outremont, Que., rink 13-5 to lead the 38 rinks thus far in first-round play in the four-day spiel.

A Montebello, Que., rink skipped by Mrs. C. Chapman defeated Mrs. J. E. Christensen's Morrisburg, Ont., team 12-5 for a seven-point credit. Mrs. N. H. Chalmers' Montreal West quartette took a lead of six points by defeating Mrs. C. Westbrook, Peterborough, 11-5.

Mrs. C. T. Cook, Ottawa Glebe, defeated Mrs. V. Selkirk, Peterborough, 11-8. Miss H. Shaw, Perth, Ont., defeated Mrs. J. T. Preston, Royal Montreal, 7-5.

Lindsay Moves Up Defeating Cobourg

LINDSAY (ENS). — Lindsay Juniors moved a point ahead of the fourth place Peterborough Links, and within three points of second-place Kingston with a 7-4 four-point win over the Cobourg Jays in Cobourg. The home club took a 3-0 lead in the first period, when the second line of Bowen, Cane and Doztko turned on the power, scoring twice while Hutton of Lindsay was off the ice.

Each of the linemen scored once. In the second period, the visitors came out to win, and scored six goals to one by the losers as the Cobourg defence fell apart, and the Lindsay players began to click. Hutton scored twice and the other goals went to Gar Teel, Gibson, Hal Williams, and Ron Teel. Bowen scored his second goal for the final Cobourg tally. In the third period, Eric Chidley scored the final goal of the game, just before the fireworks began.

Cobourg coach Clark Sommerville had been chased from the bench at the end of the second period by Referee Dick Ouimet of Peterborough, and at the halfway mark of the period, his goaltender, Stu Lingard, got the gate on a match misconduct 13 seconds after he had received a misconduct for protesting a penalty to one of his teammates. The Jays dressed Stuart, a defenceman, to take his place for the last half of the period, and he shut the Lindsays out. Coach Sommerville threatened to take his team off the bench after the fracas, but didn't do so. Bill Williams of the visitors was the only one penalized after the incident, drawing three minors in the final five minutes of the game. A total of 56 minutes in penalties were called throughout the game.

Alf Pink calls to say that Jim Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce will be chairman of a meeting in the YMCA on Feb. 16 to organize a water ski club here. Open to anyone interested with officers elected and plans outlined to hold the Ontario open water skiing championships on Little Lake one weekend this coming summer. Ski movies will be shown at the meeting in the "Y". As mentioned a space back, the Canadian Water Ski Association is interested in the Peterborough application to hold this meet here either Aug. 1-2 or Aug. 8-9, with winners taking part in the world competition at the CNE. Such an event in the heart of the city this summer should prove quite interesting alike to citizens and tourists.

A timely sport at the moment is basketball, and again a lot of cage play looms for the weekend around these parts. SPS senior and junior boys' team are off today to play St. Mike's in OCC contests in Toronto. At the YW this e'en, CGE meets Civic, and Lindsay lasses take on Collis. This part of the schedule ends Feb. 6. Hoop play on two local fronts Saturday p.m., Orillia vs. Marines in an exhibition in the YM, and a twin bill at the Collegiate. First fray has Lindsay vs. PCVS juniors, followed by St. Catharines vs. the senior PCI-ers. Nearly all the basketball schedules up this way conclude ere the end of February, with playoffs following.

Heavy Hockey Action

Peering through the periscope, we note where Petes have a senior "B" puck fixture in Bella Villa tonight, with the Quinte crew back here Monday in most important melees for the Ellis outfit. Our junior "B" Oddfellows tackle Oshawa at Civic Arena tonight in an OHA four-point tussle, and the IOOF lads have to keep hustling to stay up with the pack in the playoff hunt, and also to keep the ambitious Motor Citizens at a respectable distance behind 'em. Best place for the Peterborough juniors to finish the race would be in second slot, but a few reverses might drop them into third or fourth positions. Ought to be a warmish scrap this eve.

* * * * * * *

Petes will be minus Doug Hunter until after Feb. 6, the date he faces the OHA sub-committee for getting a match penalty here a week ago. It's not fair to the Petes to have his hearing postponed that long in the midst of a hot race— he was supposed to appear last Tuesday. The offence occurred when Orillia played here. Al Marshall slashed Hunter and was penalized. He was in the sin bin when Hunter made some crack at him, and Marshall came tearing out after Doug. The latter got his stick up for protection and Al tore right into it—losing four teeth and getting part of his jaw dislocated, according to the Orillia paper Yet Marshall wasn't given a further penalty for coming out of the penalty box and starting the new fracas. But why is the OHA so long in dealing with the case? Hunter will have missed four important games by February 6.

Changing The Faceoff

In international hockey matches played in Europe, Canadian teams are always grumbling about cheap penalties— claiming they're thrown off for bodychecking and other tactics quite legal in Canada. But it is a fact that European hockeyists don't go in for the rugged style we're used to here. Not even in England, where Canadians are in the majority among players. We notice where Bunny Ahearne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, has suggested a new faceoff rule. The plan would have centre players face each other some four feet apart and jockey for the dropped puck, with no bodying permitted, under pain of penalty. This departure from the time-honored Canuck method of facing off isn't likely to prove popular with Canadian players.

* * * * * * *

Two years ago, Ahearne banned the red line in English hockey and he reports attendance at games has climbed since. He argues that the English fan, practically raised on soccer, prefers a game with less bodily contact and more short passing, good stickhandling and fast, fancy skating. Well, when in Rome do as the Romans do, one supposes, but we prefer a certain amount of rugged hockey so long as it's kept clean with undue roughing halted smartly. But it's no wonder that touring Canadian teams in Europe —including the Olympic Games — find officials, rival players and fans down on them for their hard-hiting tactics. USA players over there are in the same boat as the Canucks.

See Vancouver In Western Football League

By JIM PEACOCK

EDMONTON (CP)—The odds are better than even that Vancouver's proposed big-time football team will become a reality this weekend or shortly after.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union moguls meet in Regina Saturday and Sunday in their annual huddle and the reports are that Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Eskimos favor a coast city entry while Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers need only a little encouragement.

Vancouver's bid for entry to the Western Conference in 1952 was turned down, Calgary and Edmonton voting for and the others against. But that was a year ago. Since then the coast grid group has come up with a new deal.

First, Vancouver expects to have a 36,000-seat stadium by 1954. Secondly, it doesn't want in until 1954, thus giving itself 1½ years in which to build a club.

MAJOR POINT

Vancouver wants unconditional entry—"a firm 100 per cent franchise," said Art Mercer, president of the proposed club.

Calgary and Edmonton have indicated they are prepared to give them that. So has Saskatchewan, for that matter, if certain "voting power" conditions are met.

Donald McLaws, president of the Stampeders, admits flatly:

"This club is in favor of admitting Vancouver."

Edmonton officials haven't been quite so bold. Ken Montgomery, president, said Edmonton favors the coast entry, providing they fulfill their promises to have a new stadium, coach, manager and so on for 1954.

"If they do that, then they're in," he said.

From the Regina camp, a report says the Riders are waiting to talk with Winnipeg's delegation before making any out-and-out statements regarding their feelings. But Roughies have indicated they have no objections to the coast entry, provided the conference guarantees that any move for increased imports will need a unanimous vote.

Winnipeg seems to have the same feeling. One official said Bombers are afraid Vancouver would be given an equal vote, thus throwing league control to the three far-western clubs. The official said this might mean the westerners would go for unlimited imports, and this would "ruin the game."

In Guelph, Galt rinks defeated Fergus and Wingham 37-18 and 44-23 respectively to qualify for the Governor-General's finals.

Fergus, although defeated by Galt, will compete in the Globe and Mail semi-finals because of Southampton's default in eliminations.

Howe Scores Three As Red Wings Trip Chicago 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two biggest drawing cards in the National Hockey League are Maurice Rocket Richard and Gordie Howe. Richard, the idol of Montreal, and Howe of Detroit both have a good following in other league stops. They showed why Thursday night. Howe scored three goals in one period as Detroit defeated the Black Hawks 5-2 in Chicago while the Rocket notched a pair as the Canadiens maintained their league leadership with a 5-2 win over the tail-end New York Rangers in Montreal. At Boston, Toronto Maple Leafs and the Bruins played to a 2-2 tie.

Howe's scoring spree boosted his season's output to 61 points on 34 goals and 27 assists—tops for the league in both departments. With 24 games left in the 70-game schedule, he is 16 goals short of Richard's record of 50, and 5 away from his own point-scoring record of 86.

LOST GROUND

New York's little Wally Hergesheimer lost ground in the scoring parade as Richard and Detroit's Ted Lindsay vaulted past him into second and third places respectively.

Richard's two goals and an assist planted him in second spot with 47 points and Lindsay's pair of assists hoisted him into sole possession of the third slot with 46 points.

Hergesheimer, held scoreless Thursday night, dropped back to fourth place with 45 points.

Detroit's victory kept them only one point off the pace set by Montreal, who moved into first place Wednesday night. The Hawks jumped into an early lead with a first period goal by Jim Peters. In the second period, Howe scored three times and Johnny Wilson once.

14,000 FANS

In the final stanza Jim McFadden scored for Chicago and Metro Prystai scored the final goal of the game for Detroit with assists by Howe and Red Kelly.

More than 14,000 fans turned out in Montreal to witness the Canadiens victory—the second in as many nights over the Rangers. Dick Gamble, Bernie Geoffrion and Elmer Lach were the other Montreal scorers. Nick Mickoski and Jack Stoddard scored for the Rangers.

Rookie Gordie Hannigan scored the goal that gave Toronto its tie with Boston and moved the Leafs into a third-place tie with Chicago. Joe Klukay and Real Chevrefils scored for Boston in the first session. In the next period Tod Sloan and Hannigan scored to tie the game, ending a six-game losing streak for the Leafs on Boston ice.

Weight Assigned For Gruelling Grand National

The weights for the four-mile, 856-yard race over 30 hazardous fence and water obstacles range down from 173 to 140 pounds.

Teal, the 1952 winner of the jumping classic, will carry 166 pounds, 14 more than he toted in beating Legal Joy and Wot No Sun last year. The aged Wot No Sun was not among the 73 entries for this year's grind.

In the last 25 years only two horses have won the Grand National carrying more than 168 pounds. They were Golden Miller in 1934 and Reynoldstown in 1936.

HAVE TWO WEEKS

Owners and trainers of the 1953 contenders have two weeks in which to study the weights allotted their horses before the first acceptance stage. It is probable that at least 20 entries will be dropped before then.

The Grand National is the second "leg" of the big betting spring double. The first leg is the one-mile Lincolnshire Handicap, scheduled for March 25.

Three five-year old horses have been given the heaviest weights for this. Signal Box tops the list with 133 pounds followed by Aristophanes, 129, and Reversa Charge, 127.

RALPH KINER, who says he won't stand still for the 25 per cent salary cut Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates wants him to take, talks over the situation with his wife, the former Nancy Chaffee, at their home in Palm Springs, California. The home run king's 1952 salary was $90,000 and Kiner says he expects a cut, but not 25 per cent. His batting and home run hitting dropped off last year, slumping to .247 and 34 homers.

ASK MORE PRIZE MONEY

TORONTO (CP)—Executives of the Ontario Horse Breeders Association decided Thursday to ask the Royal Winter Fair to increase prize money awarded in the heavy horse, harness and standard breeder open classes.

George Browne of Leaside, returned for a second year as president, said it costs about $50 to transport a horse to the fair. The prize money is $50.

Allan Dickinson was elected vice-president at the combined meeting of the breeders association and the Canadian Horse Shows Association.

Election of L. S. Livingston of Woodbridge as president of the Ontario Percheron club and of R. B. Ness of Kingston as president of the Ontario Clydesdale Club was announced at the meeting.

Among recipients were C. L. Robbins Stable of Welland, Dufferin Stock Farms, Hugh Millar of Brantford, Heather McLean Stables, H. L. Cousines and Sons, and ABC Farms, Brampton.

DWYER WINS MILE

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Dwyer, 1953's invincible miler, won the famed Wanamaker mile in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in 4:08.2 Thursday night but he had to fight off a last-lap challenge by Walter Mollineaux, an outsider from Brown University. Fred Wilt of the New York Athletic Club was third, and Don Gehrmann, winner for the last four years, fourth.

Blueprint Nearly Completed For Welding African Territories

LONDON (Reuters)—The blueprint for welding together three British African territories with nearly 7,000,000 persons was completed Thursday.

If approved, it would create another British dominion of 500,000 square miles and make one country of Nyasaland and Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

The British government and white delegates from the three central African territories threshed out the details at secret sessions here during the month.

African chiefs from Nyasaland and other African spokesmen have protested that Africans in the three territories are against the plan. Their protests have been swelled by warnings from leaders in Asia and Africa—and by Liberals and Labor party leaders in Britain—that federation is not feasible at this time.

The proposed constitution will be published next week.

If it is approved by the three territories involved, it will face the final stage in the British House of Commons.

If the plan passes it will create a single, rich dominion of 500,000 square miles between the Belgian Congo and the Union of South Africa.

Many Southern Rhodesians have openly said they fear uniting with the two northern protectorates because they fear being engulfed by the "black north."

The African chiefs from Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, on the other hand, fear they might be dominated by Southern Rhodesia, where white leaders enforce racial segregation.

Sports Officials Consider Saigh's Future

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Saigh's baseball future today was in the hands of two of the sport's top officials — Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles.

The owner of St. Louis Cardinals, sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000 for income tax evasion, is to confer this morning with Frick and Giles regarding the sale of his Cardinal holdings.

A few hours before the crucial conference, Saigh said:

"I don't want to sell but I will not do anything that will embarrass baseball."

Even before Saigh arrived in New York, several undisclosed offers were made for Saigh's stock which amounts to practically 100 per cent. And Bill Walsingham Jr., vice-president of the Cardinals, had expressed an interest in buying the club.

"I definitely would be interested in purchasing the club if and when Mr. Saigh decided to dispose of his holdings," said Walsingham, a nephew of the late Sam Breadon from whom Saigh and the late Bob Hannegan bought the Cards.

Barons Register Seventh Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons registered their seventh straight victory over Providence Reds in the American Hockey League by winning a 6-3 decision Thursday night at Providence.

The combination of Steve Wochy, Jackie Gordon and Eddie Olson paced Cleveland's attack with four goals, three in the last five minutes. Wochy, veteran right winger, tallied three.

The Reds' Zellio Toppazzini scored two goals and moved into a tie with Cleveland's Ike Hildebrand in the league's goal-scoring race. Each has 26 tallies. Hildebrand was held scoreless.

It was 2-2 after the first two periods. But Ray Ceresino started Cleveland's victory on its way by scoring early in the finale while the Reds were shorthanded. The Wochy-Gordon-Olson line then took over with Olson notching one.

Dutch Delmonte scored for Cleveland in the first period and Paul Gladu got one for Providence late in the third.

Stirling Triumphs

STIRLING (ENS).—In a nifty TVL game here, Stirling won 3-1 against Trenton. Robson scored early for the homesters and Jones tied it up later in a clean, speedy period. Robson put Stirling ahead in the second period, while Wright added one more in the close third stanza, the visitors battling desperately in a vain attempt to tie it up.

Trenton: Hill, Turland, Black, Beale, Jones, Scott, McDonnell, Barr, Demille, Lelong, Wannamaker.

Jones Unimpressed By Golf "Grand Slam"

NEW YORK (AP)—The feat that astounded the golf world 23 years ago—the "grand slam"—left the least impression perhaps on the man who achieved it, Robert Tyre Jones, Jr.

"It takes a lot of luck and a combination of circumstances to do it because golf is such an uncertain game," the one-time boy wonder of Atlanta said Thursday.

"But I don't think it's fantastic. In fact, I thought I should have won the four big tournaments in 1926, too. I'm convinced others will do it—perhaps in not too many years."

The four tournaments are the U.S. Open and amateur and the British Open and amateur. Jones climaxed a spectacular career by capturing these four titles in 1930. No one else has come close.

Rated in numerous polls as the greatest golfer of the age, Jones is here to see a portrait of himself hung in Golf House Saturday.

Barbara Ann Loves To Cook

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada's Barbara Ann Scott is as much at home in the kitchen as on the ice.

The blonde star of the Hollywood Ice Revue, now playing at New York's Madison Square Garden is also a musician, a golfer and a horsewoman but, she told interviewers, her daily preoccupation is with cooking.

Wherever she goes two trunks go with her. One carries her personal wardrobe and skating equipment. The other holds an electric oven, toaster, coffeemaker, plus pots, pans and jars of preserves.

"I don't care about the other hotel accommodations," said Barbara Ann. "But I always insist that the suite must have a kitchen.

"It's silly, but I love home so much and in the life I lead I'm never home, so I take it along with me."

Dr. Jordan Says

Patients With Heart Disease Can Usually Do Useful Work

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, MD.

Every February is considered National Heart Month, and this coincides with the drive of the American Heart Association for funds to support its splendid programs of research and help for the patient with heart disease. It is consequently appropriate at this time to discuss a few of the many aspects of heart trouble.

One of the most important problems of heart disease is the question of work and employment for those who are afflicted with some heart difficulty.

The highest hurdle for the heart patient to surmount is fear. In most cases this fear is not justified by the facts, since a high proportion of patients with heart disease can and should be actively employed in some occupation outside or inside the home.

It has been shown beyond question that when work is suitably adjusted to the ability of the heart, useful occupation is all to the good.

How can one tell what work is suitable for the person with some heart ailment? There are ample measures available today for the doctor to test the patient and find out quite exactly the amount of work that can safely be done.

Sometimes restrictions are not necessary at all, but in many cases the heart patient can perform useful functions in industry with only slightly reduced activity.

Once this has been determined by the physician in charge, the next problem is to find an occupation which fits the health needs of the individual. In this task the American Heart Association, the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and many other organizations are of great help.

What about the employers' view on work for those who have some heart trouble? This has undergone a remarkable change over the past years.

Formerly, many employers were afraid to allow any victim of heart disease to work for them for fear of what might happen. Now, most of them realize that when the job is adjusted to the person, they can safely hire many of those who have some form of heart disease and many become particularly valued employees.

NOT ALL CAN WORK

Furthermore, a study of the work done by a group of persons who had heart disease in comparison with a group of those who did not, showed very little difference in work done. In fact, such differences as there were favored the group with heart trouble.

This does not mean, of course, that all victims of heart disease can work, but it does mean that the mere presence of heart disease by no means implies the end of useful occupation for a great many of those involved. Suitable work is useful, economically and psychologically, not only for those who have heart trouble, but also for the country as a whole. It represents a great step forward.

Quebec Edges Spitfires 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Camille Henri netted both goals as Quebec Citadelles edged Windsor Spitfires of the Ontario Hockey Association 2-1 Thursday night.

The victory advanced the Citadelles to within three points of the league-leading Montreal Canadiens in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

The game, played under the interlocking schedule, was the first for the Spitfires on the Quebec circuit. They are eighth in the nine-team Ontario loop.

After a scoreless first period, Henri gave the Citadelles a 1-0 lead early in a penalty-ridden second frame. Seven penalties were handed out by referee Ken Mullins, with six majors evenly distributed.

Henri got his second goal at 6:03 of the third. Windsor's Louttit robbed goalie Marcel Paille of a shutout with less than two minutes remaining.

$200,000,000 Cost In 1952 To Market Pulp

MONTREAL (CP)—It cost $200,000,000 to bring Canadian pulp and paper to the market last year, W B. Daley, transport chairman of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said here Thursday.

Addressing the association's annual meeting, Mr. Daley said that although rail shipments were less in 1952 than the previous year increased freight charges kept the industry's transportation bill at the same level.

Robinson L. Fraser, Toronto, was elected chairman of the executive council for 1953, succeeding H. C. Lee, Montreal. J. B. Jones, Thorold, Ont., was elected vice-chairman.

WIN SAFETY AWARDS

Awards for "the safest mills in Canada" went to Gaspesia Sulphite Co., Ltd., Chandler, Que., and Abitibi Power and Paper Company's mill at Fort William.

More effort, both fundamental and applied, went into research in the industry last year than ever before, R. M. Fowler, president of the association, told delegates.

The industry spent $200,000,000 in 1952, $130,000,000 on capital and the rest on maintenance for the greatest spending in its history, he said.

However, over-all output of the mills declined by 3½ per cent from the all-time 1951 high, although it exceeded by six per cent 1950 output.

Father's Preferences Influence Children

TORONTO (CP) — It's what father likes that counts when it comes to making up the family menu.

That's the word from Dr. E. W. McHenry, Toronto nutritionist, who said Thursday this situation often induces children to turn against the foods dad doesn't like. That means they are likely to develop a lifelong aversion to some of the most nutritious items of diet.

Dr. McHenry addressed the Associated Milk Foundation.

Officers elected included: President, W. G. Toner, Guelph; first vice-president, N. R. Martin, St. Thomas;; secretary-manager, Robert W. Morrison, Long Branch.

Frost Denies Change In Liquor Laws

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost denied Thursday there will be any change in the liquor laws allowing cities between 25,000 and 50,000 population to obtain cocktail bars.

He was commenting on a Sarnia report that an amendment was forthcoming to eliminate the necessity for a public plebiscite in cities of less than 50,000 persons.

"There is absolutely no truth in it," the premier said.

Committed For Trial

SIMCOE (CP)—Carl Church, 17, of Tillsonburg was committed Thursday for trial on a charge of manslaughter, arising from a Christmas Eve traffic accident which claimed two lives. Church was the driver of a car which crashed into another driven by Murray Overbaugh. Overbaugh and his infant son, Bryan, were killed.

Dismiss Traffic Case

CHATHAM (CP)—A charge of dangerous driving against Murray Grant Ball, 18, of Turnerville district, was dismissed by Magistrate I. B. Craig Thursday at the end of a preliminary hearing. He was charged following a fatal accident Dec. 20 on No. 40 Highway, north of Chatham, when his car struck and killed Mrs. Maurice Toulouse, 27.

Bill To Make Gov't Liable

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson outlined to the Commons Thursday night a bill that would make the Canadian government fully liable for the wrongdoings of its agents and employees.

He described the bill as the "final step in making the crown liable to the full extent it would be liable if it were a private person."

On passage of the bill the government would be liable for all torts committed by its agents or servants in the course of their duties.

He said torts include negligence, nuisance, trespassing, assault, false imprisonment, libel and slander, deceit, interference with contract rights and infringements of patents.

Mr. Garson said the financial liability of the government probably will not be greatly increased. It has been making payments out of a sense of "moral responsibility" in cases where it was not actually liable under the law.

Retirement At 65 Unsatisfactory Answer

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said Thursday compulsory retirement at 65 is an unsatisfactory answer to the problem of employment for older persons.

The association's executive council said enforced retirement is not good either from the viewpoint of the employee or the nation.

The council said it is making a study of employment for older workers. It is seeking answers to whether it is wise to set a retirement age, how many employees over 65 now are working, how their productivity compares with that of younger workers, and whether certain "light work" jobs can be retained for older workers.

Ask Death Duty Laws Eased In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Chamber of Commerce urged Premier Frost Thursday to ease death duty laws so that $50,000 may be fully exempt from taxation.

A five-man delegation said that, although the exemption limit now is $50,000, the province taxes the entire amount when an estate exceeds $50,000 by even $1.

The delegation also asked the premier to consider setting up a network of provincial parks within easy reach of urban centres.

Market Gardener Dies

STRATFORD (CP)—John M. Litt, 96, well known in this district as a farmer and marget gardener, died Thursday. He began farming at the age of 14 and was engaged in farming and market gardening until his retirement in 1934. He was well known in harness racing circles throughout Western Ontario and at one time was a prominent breeder and trainer of standard breds.

Lift Embargo As Rail Strike Threat Ended

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians relaxed today as the shadow of a threatening and disruptive mid-winter railway strike lifted.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen accepted a compromise settlement with the railways in Ottawa Thursday night after a series of government-sponsored meetings and cancelled the strike call it had set for Monday morning.

Minutes later, the Railway Association of Canada announced the lifting of an embargo it had placed at midnight Tuesday on shipment of freight and express in the face of the threatened walkout.

OTHER CANCELLATIONS

There was a similar cancellation across the country in the many steps taken by government and private organizations to gird the country for what could have been a crippling siege.

With the cancellation of the strike order, railway warnings to passengers not to travel lost their effect. So did the federal government's plans to curtail mail service and the other measures it had invoked, or planned to invoke, to meet the walkout.

Airlines, bus and trucking systems had laid plans to take over what they could of the mail, passengers and freight that would have been deprived of railway transportation.

Preparations had been made, too, for priority systems for shipment of essential goods such as food, medicine and fuel. In Ontario and Quebec, automotive transport associations had proposed to pool the 22,000 trucks of their member organizations into an emergency transport system.

AIRLINERS READY

The airlines were ready to increase their handling of cargo and passengers. Government - operated Trans-Canada Air Lines looked over its capacity and said it could increase the loads on its domestic services by 30 per cent.

As in the case of the 1950 railway walkout, this strike—had it materialized—would have brought rail transportation in Canada to a virtual standstill. As a mid-winter walkout, it would have been more severe because inland water transport, available in 1950, was shut down by the winter freeze.

Name John L. Zoller Financial Comptroller

TORONTO (C)—Premier Frost announced Thursday that John L. Zoller has been appointed to the new position of financial comptroller of the highways department. He has been assistant to the deputy minister of highways.

Appointment of James Band as deputy minister of public welfare was also confirmed. Mr. Band has been executive assistant to the minister for several years and acting deputy minister for more than a year.

Hopes Hospital Grants Will Be Raised Soon

SMITH FALLS (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario said Thursday he hopes provincial grants for hospital construction will soon be increased beyond the $44,000,000 paid last year.

Dr. Phillips added that he felt these grants should be based on the amount of floor space, rather than the number of beds to be provided in new hospitals.

He spoke at the official opening of a $200,000 wing of the St. Francis General Hospital here.

Carroll Appointed President Of Plowmen

TORONTO (CP)—John A. Carroll of Brampton, Ontario's assistant deputy minister of agriculture, has been appointed president of the governing body of the World Plowmen's Organization, it was announced Thursday.

Move Locomotive From Basement Tough Job For Salvage Experts

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railroad salvage experts have completed what they think is the toughest job they've ever tackled: getting a 467,000-pound locomotive out of the basement at Washington's Union station.

The last piece of old No. 4876, which came to a spectacular end Jan. 15, was removed Jan. 27.

Today those responsible for getting her out—J. D. Morris, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Sidney Kerl, manager of the Washington Terminal Co., and John F. Swafford, assistant master mechanic for the PRR—told how it was done.

First, let's set the stage.

WENT THROUGH FLOOR

The Federal Express from Boston, out of control, roared off the rails at a speed estimated at from 35 to 40 miles an hour. It tore down a steel fence, smashed a news stand, and the engine crossed the crumbling floor of the huge concourse. The floor gave way. Old 4876 had her nose poked through the door into the waiting room when she halted. Her rear end was in the basement.

No one was killed, although more than 40 were injured.

President Eisenhower's inauguration—just five days off—made the job much harder.

The railroaders tidied up the best they could and pulled the wrecked cars out of the station. The engine was dumped completely into the basement and the hole was boarded over.

Then they had to cut the monster to pieces in incredibly cramped quarters.

HAD TO BE CAREFUL

"There was exactly two inches between the top of the locomotive and the new flooring," Morris said.

"The thing is," Swafford said, "we had to be so careful. If we made a bad move we were liable to knock down a support, and the whole thing would cave in again."

The salvage operation began Jan. 23. By working around the clock the job was done in 4½ days.

No. 4876 was 79 feet, four inches long. The posts in the basement were placed so that nothing wider than 12 feet could be taken out.

Kerl figures the total damage will run well over a $1,000,000. The locomotive's cost is $450,000, and $300,000 worth of equipment was salvaged.

Quebec Denies Acute Social Problem

QUEBEC (CP)—Labor Minister Barrette said Thursday night there is no "acute social problem" in Quebec province.

"Our economic development is promising but could be hindered by the belief that Quebec is in the midst of a social crisis," he said.

The minister, in a speech prepared for a meeting of Quebec Chamber of Commerce, urged employers and employees who have exhausted means of agreement to "place their grievances before an impartial arbitrator and accept his decisions."

FALSE PUBLICITY

"While 90 per cent of labor agreements in this province are renewed each year through direct negotiations, eight per cent result from arbitration and less than two per cent degenerate into disputes. Because of false publicity by persons who wish to belittle us, it is the impression of many in the United States, Europe and other Canadian provinces that industrial relations in Quebec are corrupt.

"During a prolonged strike, I received numerous phone calls from Ontario and the United States from business men who wanted to know just what the dispute was all about—they were under the impression that we in Quebec were on the threshold of a revolution."

Sues Lanza For Rent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mario Lanza, Hollywood tenor, was sued by his landlady Thursday for $19,801 in back rent and damages to his leased home. The complaint, filed by Mrs. Kathryn Guston, said Lanza has occupied the Beverly Hills property for two years. The suit alleged he is $1,100 arrears in rent and has caused considerable damage to the property.

Operation Of Safety Patrols Boys Work Bd. Outlined

The new goal for the school safety leaders this year is: "Not one child accident," said Donald S. Mackay, constable in charge of the school patrols, guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis, Thursday, at the Empress Hotel.

Also guest speaker on the program was Bob Peebles, who spoke on the newly revised "Peterborough Boys Work Board." Supported and run by 15 churches in Peterborough and derives its funds from a yearly "Bond Drive."

If provides a recreational program for boys, 9 to 17, setting up recreational centres and boys' clubs, and sends them to summer camps. There they are taught swimming, crafts and, most of all, the practice of good living.

"For a man never stands so straight, as when he stoops to help a boy," he said.

Constable Mackay described how successfully the School Safety Patrols were operating in Peterborough. In the next two months he hoped to have all the schools using the patrol system.

The system of school safety patrols is developing in the city's children today a sense of leadership and making them realize responsibility. All this, he said, leads to making good citizens.

Constable Mackay was introduced by James Lillico and thanked by Jack Lewis.

Henderson Now Heads List Of Wanted Men

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP added a new man to their list of Canada's most-sought criminals Thursday, rounding the list out to 10 following the shooting Jan. 8 in Salt Lake City of the No. 1 man.

Harry Duguid, 45-year-old Toronto manufacturer wanted for two Toronto bank robberies and for escaping custody, becomes No. 10 on the list. Duguid escaped from the Welland county jail the night of Aug. 4, 1947, by sawing the bars of his cell.

The others on the list all move up one place. This puts Donald Winslow Henderson, 36, of Calgary, wanted on a charge of murdering Yvonne Levesque Aug. 11, 1949, in the No. 1 spot.

Henderson occupies the spot held by Hugh Kennedy, alias Hugh McIntosh, 35, of Winnipeg and Toronto. Kennedy, wanted for escaping from police Nov. 27, 1948, while on his way to Kingston penitentiary to serve eight years for forgery, was shot in Salt Lake City while fleeing from police.

Refuse To Scrap Treaty For Austria

LONDON (AP)—Britain, the United States and France refused Thursday night to scrap their proposed short-form treaty for Austria.

Russia had demanded abandonment of the short treaty as a condition for resuming Big Four negotiations on the treaty of independence promised Austria during the war.

In similar notes dispatched to Moscow Thursday night, the three western powers reaffirmed their readiness to sit down with Russia at any time to "discuss without prior conditions any and all matters relevant to the speedy conclusion of a treaty."

Technicians Use Mirrors To Help Unload Cobalt

DETROIT (CP)—Technicians at the University of Michigan Wednesday night worked with mirrors, a crane and a lowly fish hook to unload 100 rods of cobalt 60.

The highly radioactive rods, packed in what looked like an old-fashioned milk can, were brought here from Canada's atomic furnace at Chalk River, Ont., by truck. They arrived Tuesday after Canadian and United States customs officials completed arrangements to have them taken across the international border without trouble.

It took two hours for technicians, working outside the room with four-foot thick walls where the cobalt 60 will be kept, to take the rods from their three-ton container and lower them down a well into 16 feet of water.

Professor Lloyd E. Brownell, director of fission products laboratory at the university, said it now has the most powerful "radioactive gamma ray source for experiment in the world."

Fire Death Accidental

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death at an inquest Thursday night on George Hall, 39, who was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes at a fire at Toronto Pharmacal Company Limited Nov. 28. Hall, trapped near the front door of the building, was carried unconscious from the building by fireman Orval Gillespie and died before reaching a hospital.

All Livestock Receipts Down During Week

TORONTO (CP) — Hog prices dropped to the government's new support price this week at the Ontario stockyards, after surging as high as $28 earlier this month. The floor price of $23 went into effect Jan. 1.

All livestock receipts were down from last week and prices were steady on dull trading. The holdover at the close was 250 cattle.

Cattle receipts were 6,281 head. Choice weighty steers sold at $23.50-25 with good steers, all weights, at $22.50-23.50 and mediums at $20-22.50. Good heifers were at $21-22 with plain light steers and heifers downward to $16. Stockers sold at $18-21.50 and choice fed yearlings at $23-26. Good cows brought $13-14 with canners and cutters at $9-11. Good bulls were at $14-15.50 and plain light bulls downward to $12.

Calf receipts totalled 1,086 head. Choice veal calves were unchanged at $28-32 with common to medium at $15-27 and grassers at $13-14.

Hog receipts totalled 3,557. Grade A hogs sold locally at $23 and to Montreal buyers at $24. Dressed sows were at $18-19.

ELIZABETH I SCARVES—A model wears one of the Elizabeth the First headscarves which have been manufactured under the sponsorship of the Scottish Covenant Association. The scarf is adorned with the Lion of Scotland and the Cross of St. Andrew, and bears the inscription "Elizabeth I, Queen of Scots." Contention of the Association is that Queen Elizabeth I (1563-1603) was not the Queen of Scotland, therefore the title Queen Elizabeth II for the present Queen would not be justified.

Court Adjourns Wet-Dry Case For Teeswater

TORONTO (CP)—The wet-dry issue that split the Bruce county village of Teeswater reacned the Ontario Appeal Court Thursday and the case was adjourned to an undetermined date.

Teeswater, which has only one hotel, last September voted 329 to 202 for men's beverage rooms, and 323 to 212 for women's beverage rooms.

The results were appealed before Judge J. F. P. Berney at Walkerton, early in December, confirmed the "yes" vote for men's beverage rooms and ordered a new vote on the women's question.

The case was appealed by the "dry" group led by Rev. David J. Proctor. The group asks the "yes" vote for men's beverage rooms be set aside on grounds that a number of voters lacked proper residence qualifications.

The group also asks the order for a new vote on women's beverage rooms be set aside since, under the Liquor Licence Act, another vote is prohibited for three years.

Growing Cities Treading On Farm Community Toes

VICTORIA (CP)—Growing cities are treading on the toes of surrounding farm communities, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was told Thursday.

Several Ontario delegates said expanding cities and towns are grabbing the best sites and forcing farm-related industries, such as canneries, to move farther away from their markets. Related to this problem was one of education costs.

V. S. Milburn, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said the Ontario education department is constructing rural schools so magnificent they seem to be edifices built as monuments to the department.

It was high time, he said, that the federal government got into the education field, despite the fact the provinces now have jurisdiction. Provincial and federal governments should bear more of the education costs.

NOT PAYING SHARE

Mr. Milburn said suburbanites who own small lots and whose income is derived from city jobs are paying a much less proportion of their income for school costs than farmers with, say, 100-acre lots in the same municipality.

Jack Broderick of the Ontario Federation cited a case near Guelph where an industry bought a piece of the most productive land in Wellington county on which to build a plant. Less productive land was helping to bear the education costs of children of workers in that plant.

President H. H. Hannam said: "We must take action to protect our farm people." He mentioned the case of a neighbor whose house and barns had been separated by the new Ottawa-Montreal highway and another of a farmer whose land had been expropriated though no price was settled or date fixed for the farmer to vacate.

SMALL BUSINESS

A roast that was cooking in the oven at the home of Adam Sands, 484 Gilmour St., caught fire Thursday and was ruined. Firemen had to use an extinguisher to put out the smouldering ruins. Later in the afternoon an extinguisher was used to snuff out a flooded oil burner fire at the home of Cecil Johnson, 978 Monaghan Rd. A handpump was used to put out a chimney fire that broke out at 8.13 p.m. at the home of Joseph Hanson, 712 Gillespie St. And shortly after midnight an overheated refrigerator motor brought firemen to the Parklan Groceteria, 192 Park St. S. Smoke was issuing from the refrigerator but there was no damage.

Fire Department To Enlist Eight New Men

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard's request for eight additional firemen got approval Thursday night from the fire, water and light committee.

Approval came over the opposition, recorded in a vote, of Ald. Douglas Miller. He felt the hiring of additional men should wait until a substation was added. This was because the present fire hall was overcrowded.

In addition, he felt that there were other expenses to be considered besides the hiring of more men. There would be requests for equipment from the chief. He did admit that the additional men were necessary.

"That means we would be doing without the protection we should have, if we admit that the extra protection is needed," Ald. Harold Rehill, committee chairman, replied.

RISKING DISASTER

The chairman's argument boiled down to this: would the city not be increasing risk of a major fire disaster if the additional men were not hired?

Mayor Hugh Waddell spoke in support of Ald. Rehill. "If you do it this way," he said, "you will have a greater variety of experienced men to draw from when and if a substation is built."

The mayor pointed out that equipment was going out undermanned under the present conditions. City Clerk Outram said that no new men had been added to the department since the firement went on the 56-hour week five or six years ago.

SETTLE FOR SIX?

Ald. Miller wondered if the chief couldn't see his way to cutting his request down to six men. Chief Leonard said that would give him no leeway at all if days off and holidays were considered.

With the additional eight men, said the chief, only two— three at the most— would be added to a shift.

Mayor Waddell moved that the chief's request for eight additional men be recommended for approval by the council. Ald. S. J. Black seconded the motion.

Man Arrested In Laundry By City Police

A break and entry into Fanning's Laundry and Cleaners, 171 King Street, early Thursday evening, had a sequel in magistrate's court today when Volney Woodcock, 405 Wellington St., was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering with intent.

He pleaded innocent, elected summary trial before Magistrate W. R. Philp, and was remanded for hearing, at request of the Crown, to February 2.

City Constables Edward Patterson and Eldon McDonald, while on patrol about 7:30 Thursday evening, noted a broken pane of glass in the rear of the laundry. They stood guard while the proprietor, J. D. Fanning, was contacted by phone.

The constables noticed a man crouched in a rear corner of the building, and on arrival of Mr. Fanning, entered the premises by a door.

A man rose from a crouching position behind a table. He was quickly placed under arrest and taken to police station and held overnight.

20 Real Estate Brokers Take Three-Day Course

First sessions of a three-day real estate brokers' course started Thursday in what were formerly the Belmont Club rooms. Lecturer for the three-day course on fundamentals of real estate brokerage is Hud Stewart, director of education of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.

Object of the course is to give brokers a better grasp of their vocation by explaining fundamentals of real estate law, methods of appraisal, and other points.

It is part of a scheme to set a definite standard of ethics for brokers and to provide the buying public with experienced and well informed men.

The course being held here is sponsored by the Peterborough Real Estate Board, and about 20 members of the board are attending the lectures.

Mr. Stewart said he expected two more courses would be offered here later this year. These would be on appraisals and on salesmanship and law. The present course will end Saturday when an examination will be held. Those successful will be granted certificates by the Ontario Association.

One Assessment Reduced, Three Confirmed

One assesment was reduced, three were confirmed and judgment was reserved on one appeal in the court of revision at city hall on Thursday. Three vacancy appeals on taxes were granted, one was turned down and 13 adjustments were made to business taxes on premises occupied for part of 1952 or by more than one tenant during the year.

Business assessment on property at 187 London St., of George W. Carpin was reduced from $830 to $625 on the recommendation of City Assessor J. E. Davis. Mr. Carpin explained that, while he was using less than 30 per cent of part of the premises, he had been assessed for 40 per cent of the entire premises.

Assessment of $11,100 on Rae F. McWilliams' garage at 786 Stewart St. was confirmed. Mr. McWilliams argued that an increase of $5,690 on the building since an addition had been built, was too high in comparison to similar buildings.

Chairman John A. Harstone told Mr. McWilliams that the city was gradually "catching up" with under - assessed buildings and there was a possibility that that was what had occurred in this case. Mr. Davis said that he had compared the McWilliams garage with similar properties.

CONFIRMED

Assessments were confirmed in hearings of two appeals by Principal Investments Ltd. An increase of $3,350 in the assessment of their property at 343 George St., occupied by People's Credit Jewellers, was confirmed, as was the assessment of $66,163 on their property at 389-391 George St., occupied by Metropolitan Stores.

Judgment was reserved on the appeal of Frederick M. Stephens against the assessment on his house at 671 Rogers St. Stephens said that, although he and his wife had been occupying the house for four months, it was not yet completed. He is building the house himself.

The assessor said that Stephens had not been charged for the basement or the floors and that he had allowed a reduction of 10 per cent on the remainder on the basis that it was unfinished. Stephens said that the house was only 60 to 65 per cent complete.

An appeal against taxes by Martin Holland on a third floor apartment at 426½ George St. on the grounds that it was vacant was turned down.

FAILED REQUIREMENTS

The assessor pointed out that the apartment did not meet the requirements for occupancy as required by the assesment regulations in that it lacked access to a fire escape.

Appeals by Mason and Rishor, realtors, against taxes on the grounds of vacancy, were granted on the following premises: 129½ Hunter St., Room 4; 383 Water St., ground floor and part of second floor, large store; 169 Charlotte St., offices one and two. Noel Rishor, representing the appellants said that the premises had been unoccupied and met the requirements for occupancy.

On the recommendation of the assessor, adjustments were made in the taxes on 13 properties which had been partially occupied or occupied by more than one tenant in 1952. Included was that of Buehler Bros., Ltd., at 174 Charlotte St., destroyed by fire on April 3.

Adjust Bylaw To Fit Facts

A question of two illegalities came up at the meeting Thursday night of the fire, water and light committee.

A city bylaw names the fire chief as inspector of oil units—burners, space heaters—and the chief has not been the man making such inspection.

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard asked the committee to recommend a change in the bylaw so that either the chief or an inspector appointed by the chief make inspections of oil units.

In that way, said the chief, the present system would be legal. He questioned whether the system were legal under the old clause of the bylaw. City Clerk Outram supported this point, and said if it were continued, and a court case came up, the city would not be in an enviable position.

Second point was the clause referring to automatic dampers on oil furnaces. Two popular makes of oil furnace do not have them, and their makers claim the automatic dampers aren't needed.

Both types have approval from testing laboratories. The chief asked that the bylaw be amended to make legal these two models of oil burner.

He said that many had already been installed in the city and that nothing had been done about them.

Hope 7-Cent Offer To Avert Transit Strike

EDMONTON (CP) — City commissioners will present Edmonton transit system employees a renewed offer of a seven-cent hourly increase today in the hope of averting a threatened strike, which a union spokesman says may be called Monday.

City council Thursday night voted 6-3 to stand by an arbitration board award of a seven-cent-an-hour boost, retroactive to July 1, 1952 and effective to July 1, 1953.

Earlier, the union had agreed to accept the seven-cent hourly increase, provided an additional two cents an hour were granted for the first six months of 1953 and one-cent increase on top of that for the last six months.

Council rejected the union offer.

REJECTS OFFER

A strike by the 540 bus drivers would tie up the city's 190 trolley, gasoline and propane buses which carry a daily average of 134,000 passengers. It would halt all bus service to Edmonton's 178,000 population, spread over an area of 42½ square miles.

The bus drivers, members of the Amalgamted Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (AFL) voted 8 to 1 in favor of strike action, but union officials said the vote was held to carry out formalities in wage disputes outlined in provincial legislation.

Board Adopts New Schedule For Teachers And Staff; Salary Problems Settled

Extra Cost Including Annual Increments To Ratepayers Will Be $60,870; Cost-of-Living Bonus Will Be Continued

Salary and wage changes and regular increments for 241 employees—including teachers, caretakers and maintenance men, office and administrative staffs—will cost the Board of Education an extra $60,870 this year. That was the estimated figure given Thursday night at a special meeting of the Board to consider changes in salary schedules.

INCREMENT $39,200

The biggest chunk of the increase was caused by the automatic raise of $200 received each year by the teachers and most of the other employees. This annual increment for 196 teachers alone came to $39,200.

Balance of the increase estimated for this year is $20,690. This includes additions (apart from the annual increment of $200) to teachers' salaries amounting to $15,390; and $5,300 in salary and wage increases to the remaining 45 of the Board's employees—caretakers, maintenance men, office and administrative staffs.

Salaries and wages paid to all employees account for an estimated 83 per cent of the Board's budget.

Increases in staff in September will require an expenditure in salaries, exceeding the $60,870 figure.

On the favorable side is the extra assessment from the city on which to levy, and the prospect of larger provincial grants, said W. B. Gordon, chairman of the appointments committee.

Mr. Gordon, reporting on the revised schedule, said that in general it continued the cost of living bonus, granted a more liberal allowance for experience in hiring teachers, and established a probationary period for new teachers.

PROTEST LODGED

The Peterborough branch of the Ontario Secondary School-teachers Association protested that the new schedule, raising the maximum salaries of all secondary school teachers by $200 a year, was not enough.

New catergories are: head of department $5,200, vocational director $5,700, commercial direc-

Street Lighting To Cost City $51,925 In '53

To pay for the cost of street lighting in the city this year the Peterborough Utilities Commission are billing city council for $51,925.

The deficit in 1952 has not yet been calculated by the Hydro Electric Power Commission so a provisional figure—the $5,721 deficit in 1951—has been added, making a probable operating cost of street lighting for the year $57,646.

RATES RAISED

This does not include another item of $11,226, caused by the rates for street lighting being raised during 1952.

Last September the HEPC told the PUC that their street lighting rates were too low and suggested a new set of rates. The PUC then billed city council back to the beginning of the year but as council had already made up their estimates the extra charge was deferred to the beginning of 1953.

The $11,226 will be paid in a lump sum by March 1, city council have said.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Farm Forums To Discuss Public Relations February 2 . . . Junior Farmers Begin Choral Practices . . . Jersey Cattle Breeders To Meet February 11 . . . Forum-Federation Dinner at Lakefield February 13.

The February series of Forum broadcists opens Monday night on the question of public relations entitled: The Farmer and the Public. It will be followed on the 9th by "How To Use Farm Credit" and on the 16th: "What Will the St. Lawrenee Seaway Mean To Us?"

Outlining the Feb. 2 topic, the Forum Guide proposes an overall question: "Full understanding between farm and city: How." It suggests misconceptions on both sides of the broad territorial line between urban and rural communities, and proposes secondary questions as to methods "which would help to improve understanding in your area between farmers and townspeople."

The Guide quotes from an article by Frank Chamberlain, prominent Canadian publicist, one paragraph of which simplifies the cultivation of goodwill and appreciation of the problems of separate interests. "Many people are confused about the words "public relations" and "publicity." Actually, there is no difference. Public relations are more concerned with what an organization does. It is also concerned with the development of attitudes. Publicity is what you say about the things you do."

NEW RURAL CONCERN

Accepting both terms and their Chamberlain definitions, farmers may agree that until recent years they did not devote much attention to either and both of them.

Public relations were something taken for granted, and publicity did not enter deeply into rural thinking. Inclusion of the subject in this season's Forum series evidently recognizes that farmers should take both its phases into account. Organization during the last 15 years has gradually emphasized the necessity of recognizing advantages which should accrue from factual understanding of the problems and general situations of the two communities which comprise the country's whole population.

The Federation of Agriculture affirms that it has received friendly hearings from both federal and provincial governments, that there is always a departmental welcome for them whatever may subsequently be accomplished. Probably, the reason for that official goodwill on the one side is the transparent goodwill on the other, in the evidence of reasonable petition and attitude. At any rate there is understanding on that level of communication, and reciprocal respect, resulting from direct publicity which in such hearings and conversations is an actual statement of the cases presented.

INDUSTRIAL REPORTS

Getting down to general public relations, the problem vastly widens in scope. Forum groups will have an opportunity Monday night to arrive at their own conclusions. Reverting to Mr. Chamberlain's dictum that publicity is what you say about the things you do, it is worth noting that such business firms as Canada Packers Ltd. and Massey-Harris publish annually their financial statements for all to read. That's one way of telling the public what you do, total sales for the year, profits, dividends, assets, liabilities and so on, generally where their money comes from and how it is distributed.

That is something beyond the possibility of farmers doing because they have no comparable means of presenting precise financial details of their business, particularly in the important matter of costs and profits. However, that is only part of the broad phases of publicity. Farmers have an opportunity of setting forth their own views after listening to Monday night's broadcast.

The panel of speakers as announced from Forum headquarters is composed of Kingsley Brown, editor of the St. John Telegraph-Journal; O. J. W. Shugg, publicity director, Dairy Farmers of Canada; Mrs. W. R. Walton, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers; and the chairman, Ralph Marven, agricultural writer and commentator.

Junior Choir Meets

Twenty Junior Farmers joined their voices in unison and harmony in the proposed mixed choir which met for the first time at Normal School Monday night.

In their first vocal attuning they discovered a rather surprising nicety of balance with five tenors, four or five sopranos, about the same number of altos and five base baritones. So, there was considerable promise and assurance in their first response to their director Charles E. Allen who is organist and choir leader at George St. United Church.

The next assembly will be Wednesday night in the basement at George St. Church, arranged for convenience, and from then on practices will be Monday night at Normal School.

"It was an encouraging turnout for the first effort," said Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, who has been active in the planning of this project in music. "We expect at least another ten members, and there may be others who decide to come in and add their presence and voices to the choir."

Mr. Best has found himself with a new problem of how to get enough money to buy music for the choir. It sounds like the essential of acquiring a library. The Junior Farmers are looking forward to making their appearance at the Central Ontario Spring Show, and beyond that date to the prospect of a permanent place as an enduring cultural association in Peterborough county.

Light Horses Omitted

At the Stratford Agricultural Society meeting James Monteith, past president, protested the elimination of a light horse show at Stratford fair last fall. He said it was the first time in 112 years that "we didnt' see a horse and buggy at the fair." The society took no immediate action on his proposal to reinstate light horses.

The light horse show was dropped because of lack of entries and spectator interest.

Farmers Must Cut Costs F. Cohoe Says

Cheaper production of milk, and the marketing of better dairy products, were recommended as practical means of m[illegible] the t[illegible] eat[illegible] vegetable oil [illegible] ed by Fr[illegible] Cohoe of Burgessvill[illegible] at a meeting last week of Elgin County Holstein Breeders Association.

As an approach to the problem of cheap vegetable oil substitutes, Mr. Cohoe said his proposal probably would not be popular with some dairy interests advocating bans on oil imports.

"But, if dairy substitutes are to come, they will come despite all the legislation that may be enacted."

"Our best way of meeting the threat is to produce dairy products at less cost and to market them in more attractive form. We should do everything possible to cut production costs. Two major items in production costs are feed and labor."

GROW OWN PROTEINS

"We think on our farm that one of the means of producing cheaper quality milk is to raise the proteins right on our farm rather than to buy them. We can't see the point in helping to make a living for the fellows who prepare or handle the proteins you buy. We may not develop any 1,500 pounds of butterfat cows like the new Carnation company record, but we do pretty well.

"We have 12 cows on production tests that will average 12,835 pounds of milk. We are producing milk in quantity without buying proteins."

Sketching his own experience, Mr. Cohoe recommended dairy units of 25 cows per man. Pastures should not be considered as something not quite good enough for hay. Pastures were entitled to manure and commercial fertilizers the same as other crops, and they paid off handsomely.

LIKES LADINO CLOVER

Last summer during the dry period, a 10-acre field of Ladino clover with some orchard grass mixture, properly fertilized and maintained, produced $1,000 worth of milk to July 1, with a lot of pasture in the field after that.

Mr. Cohoe declared that there was no crop on the farm that would give better returns.

Farmers should not waste their pasture, he said, but should try to distribute grazing over the pasture season. They should protect themselves against drought by having a pasture acreage over and above minimum requirements. Pastures should not be over-grazed or under-grazed. Mr. Cohoe said he did not think it was good business to revive old pastures for years and years. Even with consistent management, he favored laying down areas more often.

Another point he stressed was proportioning pastures to other crops on a farm. The farmer who gave his entire farm over to pasture would soon fail in business in Mr. Cohoe's opinion.

"In production of low cost milk to meet the cheap vegetable oil threat, we should try to produce right on our farms all the crops that a cow needs. And we must remember the program on a dairy farm is not all hay and pasture."

USE SOME ALFALFA

Mr. Cohoe said he favored some alfalfa in pasture mixtures. It might die out in two or three years, but it was a deep-rooting legume whose roots have a tendency to open up and aerate the subsoil.

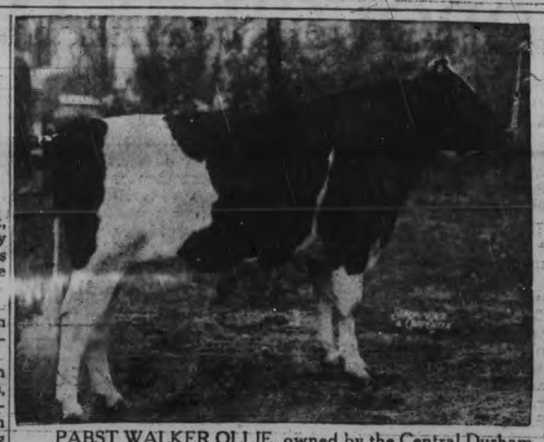
The barn meeting at the farm of Don Shore was attended by 160 farmers, and attracted a great deal of interest. Mr. Cohoe is past president of Oxford County Crop Improvement Association.

Farmers were present from Oxford, Lambton, Middlesex, Elgin and Norfolk Counties.

One other item of advice Mr. Cohoe pased on to his audience was that "we get the benefit of home-grown protein by mow-dried hay and grass silage." He approved both, and as to extra costs of mow drying he said: "I think the additional feed we get pays for the mow drying. We get four to six per cent proteins."

"Every farmer should study his soils and their needs, and should put up proper hay and pasture mixtures. We favor a generous mixture of legumes, especially Ladino clover, because we have found it to be one of the best pasture plants, easily digested."

Lakefield Dinner Feb. 13



A Forum-Federation dinner at Lakefield Friday evening, February 13, is likely to be the first of a series in the county similar to the successful ending of last winter's rural activities around the county.

Harold Lewis, Federation fieldman, said he had heard reports from Norwood and Ennismore that dinner meetings may be arranged in those communities. There is nothing definite yet beyond the Lakefield announcement.

Malcolm Robb of Belleville will be the speaker at the dinner in the Sunday School quarters of Lakefield United Church. His subject will be "Farmers' Markets." Henry Sharp will be the chairman.

32 At Springville

Thirty-two members of Springville Forum met Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBain. The last of the January series, the subject paved the way for a general discussion on such extending from grass vs. corn silage to erosion and conservation. Ernie McWilliam of Dewart Milling was a guest of the Forum.

PABST WALKER OLLIE, owned by the Central Durham Bull Club at Orono, has received honorable mention for All-Canadian in the senior yearling Holstein bull class. He was junior champion at Peterborough Championship Show; Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, and junior and reserve grand champion at Peterborough Exhibition and Durham County Black and White Day. He was also third at the Royal Winter Fair.

Lakefield Forestry Club Enrolls Fifty Members

Fifty boys and girls of Lakefield High School have formed a Forestry Club with the encouragement of three teachers of the staff: J. S. Stephens, principal, Clair Sisson and Gordon Hunt.

Planning proceeded into organization Monday afternoon, and the young people elected their own officers:

President: Harry Hamilton; vice-president: Mary Ann Guthrie; secretary: Ann Wilson.

Forty of the 50 members are from farms in the Lakefield district and the ten others live in the village. Hugh Plowman of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association told them their undertaking was of real importance, although they would miss the immediate sense of achievement and gains garnered by the other 4-H Club members who engage in calf club projects.

The young people were assigned the preparation of maps of their own farms on the basis of land use. That is a beginning, and immediately leads to the question of whether better planning for use could be proposed. That is a general subject into which reforestation enters are as a part of the whole.

Half the group intend to plant trees on their farms, and a Club project is being aimed at the property on the west side of the river, north of Nassau bridge. More will be said about that later. Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, reports that final consent of the owners has not yet been received. Mr. Best ran off the "Land In Trust" film for the club. Its next meeting will be at Lakefield on the last Monday of February.

Mr. Best comments that some of these boys and girls will eventually be farmers, and if they become aware now in their school age of the importance of land use, trees, reforestation, they will carry into their practical adulthood an outlook and attitude that will be of value to themselves and the country.

Jersey Club Annual

The annual meeting of the Peterborough District Jersey Breeders' Club will be Thursday, Feb. 11 in the office of the Department of Agriculture at 8 p.m. The speaker will be Arthur McKeown, who is manager and herd director at Don Head Farms, Richmond Hill. His subject will be the feeding of cattle from calfhood to mature years. Farmers owning breeds other than Jerseys are invited to hear Mr. McKeown.

Holstein Men Reach 12,420 For New High

More than 1,200 members of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada at its annual meeting in Toronto Wednesday supported a resolution asking that legislation be enacted to prevent the adulteration of dairy products by the addition of vegetable oils.

Co-operation was pledged for all efforts to protect the identity and integrity of dairy foods.

Resolutions also asked for improved service in the production testing of dairy cattle on Record of Performance and for the establishment of a committee representing the Departments of Agriculture and the various cattle breed associations to conduct research on problems posed by the rapid increase of artificial breeding.

Harold Shaw, Sanford, Maine, president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, speaking on the impact of the artificial breeding units on the pure-bred business, said that breed associations must keep their policies flexible enough to permit adapting them to the trend toward artificial breeding, and must offer assistance to the breeding units in solving their problems.

J. W. Hosford, South Edmonton, Alta., was elected president, succeeding George W. Henry of Todmorden, Ont.

James T. Brown of Newcastle and George McLaughlin, Oshawa, were returned to the board of directors. Others from Central Ontario elected were: C. H. Campbell, Beeton, and B. G. Clark, Kingston.

Secretary George M. Clemons, Brantford, reported an increase of 211 in membership, to a new high of 12,420.

Bull registrations were down 51%, but these were offset by an increase in the number of females registered, with the net result that the total of 67,400 was just four more than in 1951. Transfers of ownership reflecting an effect of the export ban were down by 34% to 33,399. This was an effect of the loss of the U.S. market last year following the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the west.

Artificial breeding is on the increase, Mr. Clemons said. Forty-four per cent of the calves registered were conceived by this means, as against 40% in 1951 and 31% in 1950.

Master Breeder shields were presented by Hon. Fletcher Thomas, Minister of Agriculture, to F. C. Eligh of Finch, Ont.; Harold Bingham & Son, Georgetown, and Maison St. Joseph, Pointe aux Trembles, Que.

Spring Show Directors Plan Panel Discussions

Some 20 directors of the Central Ontario Spring Show (March 17-20) cleared up a lot of detail business in morning and afternoon sessions Thursday. Robert Armstrong of Cavan presided.

Subjects ranged from an estimate of financial prospects by Wilson Gemmell through a program of entertainmetn to panel discussion assignments for the Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

If either panel feature, and preferably both, are as interesting and practical as that of last year's Show, the directors intimated that they will have something worthh while for visiting farmers from the constituent 10 counties from Ontario on the west to Frontenac on the east.

For Wednesday afternoon the subject will be "The Business of Farming," and will be introduced in short addresses by Prof. D. N. Huntley, head of the field husbandry department of OAC, and Dr. A. R Campbell, head of the department of economics, also from the college.

Chairman of the panel will be Dr. H. L. Patterson, head of the farm economics branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and associated with him will be: John Dryden, George R. McLaughlin, Dr. Campbell, A. M. Barr, principal of Kemptville Agricultural School, and R. H. Graham of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department.

James T. Brown of Newcastle, 1st vice-president of the show, will be afternoon chairman.

The Thursday afternoon panel will deal with "Land Use." Introducing it will be Prof. N. R. Richards, head of the soils department of OAC, and Prof. R. G. Knox of the animal husbandry department.

Watson H. Porter, editor of Farmer's Advocate and Countryman, will be panel chairman, and with him will be Tom Dickenson, manager of Ottawa Dairy; James R. Henderson of Frontenac county; Doug Parks, field husbandman at Kemptville; Jim Brown, Prof. Knox and Prof. Richards.

Panels may be subject to some revision, but directors have lined up an array of experience in their panel personnel, with others available.

These are discussion panels, and directors are hoping that questions from the floor will be as lively as this same feature which was confined to only one day last March.

Junior farmers seed judging competition will be held in the market hall uptown, and it was proposed Thursday that a Womens' Institute feature might find accommodation in the basement of St. James' United Church.

Lynn Fair of Uxbridge, agricultural representative in Ontario county, assumed the job of trying to arrange for nutriment tests at OAC of samples of grass and corn silage from each of the ten counties. This would be an enlargement of the grass silage display of a year ago.

Hon. F. S. Thomas, Ontario's new Minister of Agriculture, has promised to come to Peterborough to open the show. More information on that engagement and visit of the new minister will be published later.

Directors of the show have been holding meetings since late last fall, and obviously have put primary importance on the main seed show, continuing the purpose of the Quinte District Seed Fair, forerunner of the Central Ontario Spring Show.

LACE HAS LOST ITS FRAGILITY, is no longer confined to company occasions in the home. There are laces for ever decor, including a stiff, coarse lace that makes a handsome wall covering. Here, we show lace (left) that's actually an all-nylon fishnet used over durable pink cotton. It makes a dressing-table skirt of seeming fragility but really, of great durability. Cotton fishnet lace (right) makes yellow cafe curtains used in this Provincial setting. The fishnet is completely washable, is sunfast and colorfast, lets in both light and air. It's budget-priced.

Barcelonia Beauties Stranded Aboard United States Midway

BARCELONA, Spain — The ears of the belles of Barcelona are still ringing from the bawling out their mothers gave them for the way they entertained the U.S. Navy.

Actually, it wasn't as bad as it sounds. But it was funnier.

The incident occurred during the first part of the friendship visit of units of the US 6th Fleet to Barcelona and seven other Spanish ports.

Officers of the giant aircraft carrier Midway invited 300 of Barcelona's loveliest, together with chaperons, to be guests the other night at a big dance on the carrier.

Since all Barcelona is taking the U.S. Navy to heart in true Spanish fashion, the girls of course accepted. So, luckily, did the chaperons.

The dance was going fine and no one bothered much with the fact the wind was rising. When somebody did notice it, it was too late. The waves were rolling so high the big motor launches couldn't safely take the guests from the Midway a mile or so in to shore.

So the carrier loudspeaker system announced that "in the interest of safety" the lovely guests would have to spend the night aboard the Midway. A message was sent from the ship to the Barcelona radio station to broadcast the news that the 300 girls would not be home that night but not to worry.

Meantime, out on the Midway, the dance was long over and the 300 girls, their chaperons, and the officers had just sat through one movie and were determinedly preparing to sit through another.

The officers had gallantly offered to give up their staterooms to the girls and the chaperons, but Barcelona ladies have a reluctance for sleeping on strange ships. Hence everybody sat up all night in the big area where the dance was held.

By 8.30 a.m. the sea had calmed enough and the exhausted guests were taken to shore.

Luckily, the people of Barcelona accepted the incident good humoredly as just one of those things you have to expect when the fleet's in.

The reason for this attitude is that seldom, certainly have a poor city and a visiting fleet been so delighted with each other.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you please send me the amount for recipes for enough for 500 or 600 people . . . we have cottape rolls, ham, roast beef, ham sausage, summer sausage, and bologna, potatoes, salad. How many pounds of lettuce, radishes, celery, carrots raw, beets and pickles, cakes and pies. How much coffee for between 500 and 60 people. We always give a supper.—Mrs. L. H.

ANSWER:

To serve 500 approximately.

Ham (boneless) or Cottage Roll (3 oz. cooked weight per serving) 170 to 175 lbs. raw weight. Roast Beef (4 oz. cooked weight per serving) 200 lbs. raw weight (roasted "rare"). Sausage two 2-oz. (cooked weight) patties each 160 lbs. Bologna (3 oz. cooked weight per serving) 140 lbs. Potatoes (1 medium each) 180 to 200 lbs. Salads fruit and vegetable (½ cup per serving) 66 quarts; Lettuce (1-5 head per serving) 100 medium heads; Carrots (¼ cup raw per serving) 60 lbs. Celery (½ cup raw per serving) 120 lbs. cleaned and trimmed weight; Radishes, same as carrots. Beets (pickled) and relishes (⅛ cup per serving) 15 quarts. Cake: Layer, 3 layers 10-inch (1 slice per serving, 18 slices per cake), 30 cakes. Pies (1 wedge cut from 9-inch pie cut into 7 wedges) about 75 pies. Coffee (1 6-oz. cup per serving) 10 to 12 lbs. (1 lb. will make 2½ gallons).

ATTENTION READERS: These figures were hard to assemble, so if you have any idea that you are going to need quantity recipes in the future I would be grateful if readers would clip this now.

QUESTION: Every recipe I have tried so far has turned out just swell. Would you have a recipe called Golden Nut Bars . . . they are chewy and have cocoanut and nuts . . . also please send calorie chart.—Mrs. Florence B.

ANSWER: I am getting a new printing of the calorie chart and will fill all requests for it when they are delivered.

GOLDEN NUT BARS

Two-thirds cup shortening, two cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoanut, ¼ cup chopped walnuts (or use all cocoanut or all walnuts), 1½ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt. Melt the shortening in a saucepan in which batter can be mixed. Remove from heat the instant it is melted. Sift the sifted flour with the baking powder and salt. Add sugar to melted fat, then add all remaining ingredients and mix well. Line a shallow pan 12 x 8 x 1 inches with greased waxed paper. Spread cookie dought in it. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes, or until surface will spring back when lightly pressed. Cool. Cut into bars 1x3 inches with a sharp knife.

DEAR EMEM: Every good wish for the success of your column. I am a regular reader and clipper . . . I agree with D.E.M. that you should publish a cookbook. D. E.M. asks for a cake mix to save time. If she will write to Martha Logan, Home Economics Dept., Swfit Canadian Co., Toronto, for booklets using their shortening she may get what she is looking for . . . I find it is a losing battle to try to lose 10 pounds. Will you please send calorie chart?—Glenna M. C.

ANSWER: Thanks for the cake mix tip for D.E.M. I hope she sees your letter today. Calorie chart forwarded as soon as I get new printing.

QUESTION: You wanted to know if we readers wanted more recipes on skim milk powder. Here is one reader that does. We are all very fond of ice-cream desserts . . . your Christmas cake was another success this year. — Mrs. Joe.

ANSWER: I shortened your letter, but loved the story of your two-year-old son.

MILK SHERBET

One and one-half to 2 cups of skim milk powder, 4½ cups water, 2 cups sugar, ½ cup lemon juice. Half the water should be lukewarm and measured into a bowl. Sprinkle milk powder and beat with rotary beater until perfectly smooth. Add remaining water. Add sugar to fresh lemon juice and stir until sugar dissolves. Add the milk gradually to the sugar-lemon mix—it may take on a curdled appearance, but this disappears when frozen. Pour intertegirfrtoa ySSSR THM ESC R to refrigerator tray and freeze. Stir if you like when it is a mush, but it isn't necessary.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

Making Movies In 2 Languages At Same Time

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now they're making movies in English and German at the same time.

The bilingual epic is "The Moon is Blue," from the successful stage play.

On the first day of shooting, however, they were filming a scene in an international language—starlet Dawn Addams was taking a bath.

She is the only player who appears in both versions. Since most of her dialogue is on the telephone, it can easily be dubbed into German.

Your reporter watched Otto Preminger direct a scene in English wherein David Niven offers Maggie McNamara a gift of $600.

"Cut! Print!" he said. "Now the German version."

Miss McNamara moved out of the set. Her place was taken by Johanna Matz, a buxom young Viennese star. Niven was replaced by Johannes Heesters, one of the top romantic actors in Germany.

Now Preminger switched to German and gave the players instructions.

CHANGE PLACES

"Los!" commanded the director, uttering the German equivalent of 'action!' The players went through the same scene as before, but only Preminger and his assistant could understand them. When the scene was satisfactory, a still picture was taken.

Then Miss McNamara and Niven replaced the Germans, posed for a still and resumed rehearsing the next scene. Just like clockwork.

For 10 days prior to shooting, Preminger rehearsed the American cast for eight hours, then the Germans for eight.

"The German market is very big for films," he explained. "I figure that by doing the picture in German with top German stars, I can add 85 per cent to the gross. And the publicity value of doing a bilingual version is worth the expense."

He calculated that the double shooting would add about eight days to the schedule or about 10-per-cent additional expense. His partner in the venture is F. Hugh Hubert, who wrote the play.

Selwyn News

The Star Class of George St. United Church presented their play, "Sister Susie Swings It," in the church hall on Tuesday evening. The evening was sponsored by the Women's Association of the Selwyn United Church and the ladies sold home-made candy between acts.

Dave Irwin of Lakehurst is spending some time with his sister, Mrs. Walter Mooney while Mr. Mooney is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough where he underwent an operation Tuesday.

A number of the ladies of this district are taking advantage of the short course in Lakefield Memorial Hall, sponsored by the ladies of the Lakefield Women's Institute.

Mrs. Grace McIlmoyle of Peterborough spent the past weekend with relatives here.

Plan Scholarship For W.I. Founder

TORONTO (CP)—A scholarship in memory of Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, founder of the Women's Institutes, is to be set up for students in the home economics department at Macdonald Institute in Guelph.

A start toward it has been made through a $6,710 bequest from the estate of her son, Joseph Bernard Hoodless.

Mrs. Hoodless, who died in 1910, also is credited with helping to introduce household science instruction and manual training in Ontario schools and in bringing about the establishment of Macdonald Institute.

IS THIS KICKED GOAL ALLOWED?

An attacking player, in a scramble around the net, is unable to get his stick on the puck. So he kicks it towards the goalie's cage. It bounces off an opponent's skate into the net. Would you allow this goal?

Yes, the goal counts. Only when a "kicked" shot goes directly into the net, is the "kicked" goal not allowed.

Travelog Gives New View Of Unity Of World

Soroptimists widened their vision and their knowledge of the far east through the illustrated travelouge given by Mrs. A. E. Armstrong at their dinner meeting Thursday evening. Mrs. Armstrong has been twice around the world with her husband, the Rev. Dr. Armstrong —once in 1922 and the last time to spend Christmas 1951 with their son Donald, Trade Commissioner of Canada in Singapore.

The address and pictures had a hominess that appealed as Mrs. Armstrong frequently referred to family and frieinds but her overall point was to show the "oneness" of the world today. "Air travel is breaking down the barriers of race,' 'she said, "and I'm afraid many of us here are still thinking too much about ourselves."

She had driven into the jungle of Malaya and seen young British men coming out after days of guerilla fighting and been extremely moved. She reminded that there are smore British men fighting over there than Americans in Korea— a fact it would seem that America has forgotten, she remarked.

Mrs. Armstrong also reminded that all of these wars in the east are communist inspired and that even when warfare dies down the communists continue kindling wars by means of words.

A few of her pictures were taken during several days spent with friends in Ceylon and they also depicted terrain, and homes and gardens.

The travellers spent some time in India and Mrs. Armstrong a very good photographer, took very colorful and interesting pictures there. She saw that the country seemed more in need of doctors and nurses than anything and was considerably interested in the Vellore medical school and hospital.

Possibly an exclusive picture in Canadian amateur collections is one she took of a young Indian Maharani to whose apartment she was invited for tea. Mrs. Armstrong received permission to take the picture of this lovely woman of 18 who lives in "purdah" and must never show herself to other men than her husband and immediate family. She explained that a great many women still live in purdah though it is true that the caste system is gradually breaking down.

She was particularly struck by the feeling of India toward the British Crown which was so evident at the time of her visit just after the death of King George VI. When she had visited India in 1922 the people were struggling to get free of British rule and a visit by the Prince of Wales was meeting with many obstacles. Now, she said, their cry is "Things were not like this when we had the British."

Mrs. Armstrong wondered though why the people of India term Canada "a friend" when Canadians are storing millions of bushels of wheat and India's people are starving.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Grace Sargent who also operated the projector, and she was thanked by Mrs. Enith Scott.

President Miss Gene Clark presided at head table in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room with 26 members being present. Mrs. Alma Belleghem, courtesy convener, had made unique favors for each plate and a tiny candle on each was lighted at the beginning of the meal. This was to mark the start of a new year.

Sea Cadets' Band At Naval Ball

This year's Naval Ball—tonight at the Club Aragon—will be highlighted by a strictly naval ceremony by the Sea Cadet's Band. It is the first time a display of this kind has been arranged for the annual dance of the Peterborough Naval Association members and friends. The cadets will "muster on deck" and promptly at 2200 hours (10 o'clock to landlubbers) they will "pipe the colors to the mast-head." A display of regular naval band procedure will follow and this too will be new to many of the guests. Among those attending will be some USA naval officers who are at present working in the city, also members of the City Council and government representatives. They will be table guests of Mr. Ron Teasdale, Association president, and Mrs. Teasdale.

Plan "India Night"

Weekly meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church was held Tuesday in the parish hall. The Rev. J. A. Purser conducted the third class in churchmanship. Mrs. W. C. Boate held the second class in Mission Study.

This year the GA is studying India very thoroughly with letters from a missionary in Kangua read at each meeting. The first letter was read by Eleanor Biddle, assisted in the worship service by Carol Calhoun. This week Carol Calhoun read the second letter with Ann Hutchinson conducting the worship service. Dianne McNamee read scripture and Sherry Hope the prayers. The girls are all collecting material for scrap books of India.

Plans are underway to hold an "India Night" Tuesday, February 17. Films on India will be shown with Mrs. C. M. Scott the guest speaker. It is hoped also to have here Mrs. E. R. Bagley of Willowdale, secretary of the girls' department of the Toronto Diocese. Both the WA and the GA are collecting curios for display.

Now It's Brownies As Double Deckers

Mayoe a London bus started it. But nowadays a lot of things are going double decker. Little boys clamber into double decker beds. Father travels in a double decker observation car, on the railroad. And mother goes double in the kitchen!

For a long time she's been making double decker sandwiches— and a good idea, too. For the layers can be spread to give variety, and the whole structure, its precarious height securely anchored with toothpicks, is pretty impressive.

But here's a new idea for double decker in the kitchen. This is for Double Decker Brownies. A little on the chewy side, a little on the crunchy side, and 100 per cent on the yummy side. And really no trick at all to make, with this recipe.

DOUBLE DECKER BROWNIES

(Yield: 16 2 in. x 2 in brownies.)

1-3 cup shortening or butter.
1 cup sugar.
2 eggs.
½ cup teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup chopped nutmeats.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1-½ square melted baking chocolate.

Melt the shortening and add sugar and eggs, mixing well. Mix flour, baking powder, and salt; add to the first mixture. Add nuts and vanilla.

Divide the dough in half and to one part add the melted chocolate. Spread chocolate mixture in an 8" x 8" x 2" pan which has been greased. Spread remaining half of dough on top. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

These cookies keep extraordinarily well. That is, if they get a chance!

I.O.D.E. Learns About India First-Hand From Speaker

At the open meeting of the Peterborough Municipal Chapter, IODE, held in the YWCA Wednesday night, guest speaker Mrs. A. E. Armstrong spoke on India.

Mrs. C. M. Scott, executive member of the National Chapter, IODE, introduced the speaker, commenting on her talents as a trained nurse, an artist of note and photographer. Mrs. Armstrong accompanied her husband twice to the East, and before returning to Canada last year they travelled for six weeks in India.

Of interest to IODE members were the colored "stills" of Vellore Christian Medical College, situated in a valley, one mile from Vellore and the Vellore Hospital in the village.

The National IODE Commonwealth and Empire committee, of which Mrs. C. M. Scott is convenor, has voted $4,500 to be spent in the next two years to give financial assistance to Vellore Medical College and to bring a student nurse from India to Canada for a post-graduate course. The IODE is active in support of the Columbo Plan; also has given substantial financial aid for a school, hospital and has given $1,200.00 for the translation from English to Hindu and the printing of text books for student nurses.

Mrs. Armstrong said there is a great deal of illness in India and medical service is much needed, particularly women doctors. Truck clinics tour the country and villages carrying facilities for all kinds of cases, even operations. Through ignorance of cleanliness a great number of children became blind while very young, she said.

Pictures were shown of the Khyber Pass connecting India with Afghanistan the road across the mountains over which travelled the Aryans the first invaders of India and pictures of the Taj Mahal, temples and palace of Maharajahs in all their magnificence.

Everywhere natives sit on the ground or floor, and craftsmen, fruit and vegetable sellers abound in open-air market, she explained. A[illegible] are considered sacred and roam everywhere at random.

Mrs. Armstrong left with her audience the thought that more should be done to help the poor and hungry people of India. "Through help these people will not continue to be preys to hunger, political strife and Communist propaganda," she pointed out.

Miss Mary Medd, municipal regent, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Armstrong.

DOROTHY DIX:

Husband, Father of Five Wants to Wed Young Siren

DEAR MISS DIX: A few months ago I met a girl some fifteen years younger than myself; we fell in love at first sight. It was the wrong thing to do as I have five small children whom I love dearly, and a wife who is a good mother and housekeeper. This girl, however, is beautiful and gives me companionship beyond description, never being gloomy, tired or dull. We want to be married but my wife refuses to give me a divorce. We all realize we cannot go on this way as our children will suffer. To be away from the girl is torment, but to run two homes or give up my children is impossible, too.

A MISERABLE 35

HE WANTS WHAT HE WANTS

ANSWER: I think I know exactly what you want! Your wife should fade into a nebulous background from whence she will never emerge to bother you at all; your children should take up an abode somewhere in the clouds, where they will be available for occasional paternal interest from you, yet never be sufficiently in evidence to be troublesome, and you and the young lady can embark on a fine, romantic life together. Charming picture, isn't it?

While faithless husbands (or wives, too, for that matter) are certainly never deserving of accolades, there are occasions on which they do elicit pity; sometimes unpredictable and unsought circumstances propagate love between two people who are in no position to take advantage of it. Decent conduct, at such a time, can evoke nothing but admiration.

The philanderer who inspires contempt is the one who seeks the companionship of beautiful, gay females, solely because his wife is too busy with the cares of a large family to do any gallivanting. Having accepted the privilege of fathering five children, our "Miserable 35" (and miserable sure is the right word) decides he has done his duty to posterity and has no further responsibility to his brood beyond worrying vaguely that they might "suffer."

A mother of five small children—and even her reckless spouse concedes she is a good mother and housekeeper—has enough work and worry to make her tired. Added to the problems of everyday life, she has the heartache of a husband who wants a divorce simply because he loves a beautiful, carefree girl almost young enough to be his daughter. What a reward for devotion!

If Mr. 35 would spend less time pursuing a carefree existence, and give more time to sharing the burden of raising five children, he would be much happier, and would have the blessing of a clear conscience. Thirty-five is not the age for chasing a chimera of happiness; it's the time for rearing a family and establishing a happy home. Spend a few evenings at home, sir, and watch the gloom lift from your wife's brow. Assume some of the work and responsibility she has been shouldering alone and the dull look will leave her eyes. The beauty of a happy, contented wife and mother will never be equaled in a 20-year-old girl seeking to break up another woman's home.

You should have been ashamed even to ask your wife for that divorce; forget the whole business and try to redeem yourself to her and the children.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do with a boy friend who looks at other girls? Sometimes when he and I are walking down the street he looks at a pretty girl, then turns to look at her again. Whenever this happens, I make catty remarks. He doesn't go out with other girls, and aside from this one failing is very kind and considerate.

IVY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Practically every boy does glance at pretty girls, and if you can't take it with good humor, you'd better give boys up. Nagging won't help the situation, nor will petty jealousy. Face the fact that human nature can't be changed overnight and try a little kidding instead of making catty remarks.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My marriage has been broken up three times in 12 years through my husband's drinking. Each time I have gone back to him in the hope that things would change, but they never have. I have done everything to make our life a success, but know now that I've lost all love for my husband. I feel it's useless to try again, but my family insists that I go back with him as they say it's not right for a husband and wife to be separated.

GWEN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have to live with the man and you should be the one to make the decision about it. While it isn't the best thing, naturally, for a husband and wife to be separated, certainly it isn't a good thing for a man to drink to excess and ruin the peace of his home. Better make this separation stick, at least until you have some pretty good assurance that your husband has reformed.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Stuff Pork Chops With Bread Dressing; Pie Magic

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's more than one way to cook almost anything—even pork chops. Home economists suggest stuffing them for a change.

Ask the butcher to slit the chops along the side, cutting into the meat almost to the bone—to make a pocket. Stuff with bread dressing and then place in greased pan and bake in an oven of 325 degrees Fahrenheit from 30 to 40 minutes.

When done, the meat should be greyish-white in color, with no trace of pink.

Baked potatoes are particularly good with pork chops. Scalloped corn also might go well as the second vegetable—and there you have a complete oven dinner.

Incidentally, apple pie with cheese—or whipped cream—will give the meal a party touch that is hard to beat.

PIE MAGIC

The home economists recommend deep dish apple pie. Arrange six to eight sliced apples in a greased casserole, dot with butter and add a cup of maple syrup. Cover with pastry which has been pricked to allow steam to escape. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 25 minutes or until apples are tender.

Something different for dessert might be apple pie with cheese crust.

Line a pie-plate with pastry and cover with a layer of thinly sliced apples. Allow about two tablespoons of sugar to each apple, sprinkle sugar mixed with a little cinnamon or nutmeg over layer of apples. Dot with butter. Repeat until pie plate is well heaped. Roll one-half cup grated cheese into pastry for upper crust. Cover apples with cheese crust and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 20 to 30 minutes longer, or until apples are tender.

ENRICHED BREAD

Come Feb. 2 something new will be added to most bread you buy. That's when "enrichment" begins.

A release from the national council of the baking industry explains enrichment means that four things have gone into white flour which weren't there before: the three principal vitamins of the B group—thiamine, riboflavin and niacin—and a mineral, iron.

"Food experts place the enrichment of flour and bread as one of the most significant developments in the improvement of diet and propagation of correct nutrition in many years," says the council.

Board Adopts New Schedule

tor $5,500, specialist (academic and vocational) $5,000, graduate non-specialist $4,900, and vocational non-specialist $4,500.

The OSSTA accepted the lifting of the maximum salaries by $200 but said they were opposed to it.

Chief arugments of the OSSTA were:

1. A higher maximum salary would put the Board in a more favorable position to attract and retain high-calibre teachers.

2. There is no additional burden on the taxpayers.

However, the Board turned down this request as contrary to policy.

"Nobody will suffer this year or next year by having reached the maximum," explained Mr. Gordon. He said it was true that the Board would not have to pay out extra money this year because the highest teachers were still two years away from their maximums.

"But nobody knows about the future," he said. "We don't want to commit future Boards."

Arthur Prithford agreed that it was a wise policy not to keep too big a gap between the present earnings of teachers and their possible maximum salaries.

Charles Huffman asked if it was true that other Boards offered higher maximums and therefore attractied better teachers. After hearing some statistics on comparable cities from K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, he said he was satisfied that Peterborough was "in line."

The cost of living bonus to all full-time employees is being continued in 1953. It is being computed at the annual rate of $32.50 a point of the revised consumer price index from the base of 108.5.

The computation will be based on the preceding month and payments will be divided into tenths, as are teachers' salaries.

An allowance of $200 a year for teaching experience before coming to Peterborough is given each new teacher, either elementary or secondary. But the newcomer is limited in that he cannot get more than at present employee in the same category and with the same experience and qualifications.

All new teachers will be on a probationary basis. The probationary period will be two years for teachers with less than three years of previous experience, and one year for teachers with three or more years of previous experience.

IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Minimum salary for experienced teachers is $2,700 for non-specialists and $2,800 for specialists.

First annual increment of $200 begins on the January following employment and continues annually until maximum salary reached.

An additional $100 to the 1953 rate of all specialists—academic and vocational—who came on the staff before the minimum salary rate for specialists differed from that for non-specialists.

Heads of departments receive a $100 increase on appointment and another $100 after a year's experience.

Men and women teachers in the same category and with the same experience get the same salary.

When a non-specialist reaches his maximum salary and his work is approved as above average, he continues to get annual increments until he reaches the specialist's maximum.

IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Minimum salaries for both men and women without experience is $2,000; at present women get $1,800.

Basic maximum salaries remain the same—$3,600 for women and $4,000 for men with permanent certificates, plus allowance for qualifications. Further study will permit teachers to qualify for increases ranging from $50 to $200. There will be payment for certificates obtained at summer school and for Arts degrees.

Maximum salary of Supervisors of Art and Music increased to $4,200; Primary Supervisor $4,400; home economics $4,000 and manual training teachers $4,400.

Auxiliary class teachers' allowance increased to $200, giving them a total of $300 above grade salaries. Credit given for additional courses.

CARETAKERS

Maximum salaries increased by $200 giving this schedule: Chief caretaker at PCVS $3,400; head caretaker at public schools where more than one man employed, head caretaker at Kenner Collegiate and public school caretakers in charge of a school of 10 rooms or less $3,000; assistant caretakers at the two collegiates and the public schools, and public school caretakers in charge of schools of less than 10 rooms $2,900.

Better Use Of Land Urged For Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Western Canada's cattle carrying capacity could be greatly increased by better use of millions of acres in the northern parts of the Prairie provinces, L. B. Thomson, of Regina, Prairie farm rehabilitation administration director, said Thursday.

He was speaking at the annual meeting of the Alberta Provincial Cattle Breeders' Association, which elected Alfred Elleth of Edmonton president for 1953.

Mr. Thomson said he could see no reason why Alberta can not double the cattle population within the next 10 years.

Irrigation was doing much to improve the situation, he said. Much abandoned land was being turned over to grass. Every irrigated acre made useful the 40 that surrounded it.

Frugal Noble Tries To Borrow Robes

LONDON (AP)—An unidentified Scottish noble, lucky but frugal, advertised in The Times today as follows:

"Scottish peer, fortunate in ballot; would be most grateful for loan of baron's robes."

The "ballot" was a drawing held to decide which peers would be given places in Westminster Abbey for the Coronation June 2.

Canada Can Absorb 10,000,000 More Folk

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Immigration Minister Harris said Thursday Canada can absorb 10,000,000 persons by immigration in the next 20 years.

He said in a talk to collegiate students that, with such a population increase, there will be even greater opportunities for everyone than at present.

Mr. Harris said it is untrue that the influx of new Canadians is undermining the security of citizens born in this country as some persons suggest.

"I have yet to find one instance of an immigrant taking a Canadian's job," he said.

To Lift Suspension Of Student Paper

WINNIPEG (CP) — Suspension of the Manitoban, student newspapers at the University of Manitoba, will be lifted Sunday, editor Clair Irwin said Thursday night.

The publication was suspended Jan. 20 by the university's board of governors for what it termed "indecencies" in an issue by medical students Jan. 16.

The board decided to lift the ban after Mr. Irwin and students' union officials presented a letter undertaking to maintain a high moral standard in the paper.

Laws Eased For Yacht Crews

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator George Smathers (Dem. Fla.) said today he was informed by immigration officials that Canadian yacht crew members coming into the United States will be permitted entry on visitors' visas.

He said under a strict interpretation of the McCarran,Walter Immigration Act the crew members had been allowed to remain only 29 days. On a tourist visa, they may remain for three months.

Smathers said that since the act went into effect he has received complaints from harbor masters, travel agencies and many others.

"They complain," he said in a statement, "that strict application of the immigration act makes it impractical for people in Canada and surrounding territories to bring their yachts into Florida waters for the winter season."

He added that this would be a blow to "our tourist trade and hurt the whole state of Florida."

Smathers said he was advised of the change in regulations today after he and Joseph Savoretti, district immigration director at Miami, discussed it with immigration officials here.

Permanent Trust For Memorial Fund

LONDON (Reuters) — A permanent trust has been set up to administer part of the King George VI Memorial Fund, to which more than $2,870,000 has been donated for "the physical, mental and spiritual needs of young and old people."

A small proportion of the fund will be reserved for a statue of the late King, to be erected in a "noble setting in London," it was announced yesterday. Part of the remainder will probably be spent on a training college for Commonwealth students.

The work of the trust, to be known as the King George VI Foundation, will be carried out by a 20-member executive committee, whose members range from a movie star to a Labor MP.

Wants Understanding Of Free Enterprise

WINNIPEG (CP) — F. S. Auger, publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune, says that one of the biggest jobs for advertising today and in the future is to make sure Canadians understand the free enterprise economic system.

In an address to the 63rd annual convention of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, Mr. Auger said one of the strange things about the last two decades was the suspicion and hostility some people showed toward "commerical bigness."

"They seem always ready to smear something they call big business—the big corporation with no soul to damn and nobody to kick."

He said the same people would be most reluctant to relinquish the consumer goods, the comforts and conveniences that come from mass production.

Canada Has Opportunity In Fight On Communism

"A half-a-dozen steamers loaded with Canadian wheat would do wonders in the fight against Communism in India," Dr. A. E. Armstrong of Trinity United Church said in an address at the meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the United Nations Association Thursday night.

Communism and the eastern world with particular reference to Korea and India was the main theme of Dr. Armstrong's address. Relating what he had observed in a recent tour of this part of the world, the speaker outlined problems as he saw them and suggested what might be done towards solving them.

"The only way to beat Communism in the far east is to beat them to it," he said. "We can do a great deal in a practical way to show these people that we are better friends of theirs than Communism."

One way of beating Communism to it, the speaker continued, would be to help ship Canada's surplus wheat to India to help feed the 100 million people near starvation in that country. He also said that more should be done to help India help itself by encouraging the replacement of obsolete tools and methods of farming with modern equipment and systems.

Dr. Armstrong warned against false optimism based on the favorable results of the country's last election. The western world should start worrying now about what is going to take place at the next election in four years and act accordingly, he said.

Shipments of clothing is the most important aid Canadians at home can give Korea right now. But when the war is over in Korea, the United Nations should carry out a reconstruction program that will make this country "a show window of what the UN can do," the speaker said.

"We definitely should help Korea not only for humantitarian reasons, but because they are suffering on our behalf."

In a more general discussion of what the United Nations is doing and can do to meet the situations in the world today, Dr. Armstrong said that it should not be forgotten that this is the first generation of humanity to live in a time when the world is a neighborhood.

"The world has shrunk through science," he said. "Before, the world was made up of compartments. Now it is a unit. We live next door to one another."

He went on to say that the obvious thing to do in this new situation is for everyone to get acquainted with their neighbors. If this were done it would be found that the world is a friendly place and that it's not the common people that want aggression. Aggression is promoted by the totalitarian groups that get into power as was the case in Germany.

"The situation is hopeful," Dr. Armstrong said. "The United Nations may well have faith in humanity if freedom can be spread so people can speak their minds. This is the importance of the war in Korea."

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United Church and thanked by Selby Rickards.

More Customers Needed For Water Main

Seven more residents on Bennett St. must agree to take the city water services before the Peterborough Utilities Commission will lay a water main along it.

At a meeting of the PUC on Thursday the commissioners heard a report on a petition from 14 Bennett St. residents. The street, north of Wolsley St., is part of the recently annexed area of Smith township.

Howard Powell, assistant general manager of the PUC, said the estimated cost of laying some 1,200 feet of six-inch water main and putting in the services would be $7,667.45. The estimated revenue— from 13 consumers at $30 a year plus $157 from the city for fire protection— would only amount to $577.

TWO YEARS' GROWTH

"In order to make the revenue at least 10 per cent of the cost, 21 consumers would be required," said Mr. Powell. We should have these within two years of the laying of the water main, by normal growth."

To serve the petitioners it will be necessary to lay a water main from west of Benson Avenue, to about 250 feet east of Stewart St.

The matter was left in the hands of General Manager Ross Dobbin on the understanding the project would be approved if another seven water consumers could be signed up on Bennett Street.

Famous Merino Sheep Sent To Aid Pakistan Plan

By PETER JACKSON

SHAHPUR, Pakistan (Reuters) —The famous Merino sheep from Australia and Corriedales from New Zealand are coming to Pakistan to help turn a barren desert into a prosperous grazing area.

The 5,000,000-acre desert between the Jhelum and Indus rivers, known as the Thal area, is the scene of one of the world's biggest reclamation, irrigation, and colonization projects, in which sheep breeding plays a key part.

The Thal region, where intense heat is accompanied by high winds and raging dust storms, so far has resisted all previous attempts at reclamation.

Amid its desolation, Thal developed its own peculiar brand of sheep, small and light, but with a good coat of coarse wool ideal for making rugs.

These sheep yielded little meat, largely because of the poor food they got.

FACED EXTINCTION

With partition of the Indian subcontinent and the flood of refugees who entered the newly-created state of Pakistan, the Thal sheep were being sent to the slaughter houses so rapidly that they were threatened with extinction.

In 1949 the Thal development authority was established and livestock farms, for which Australia and New Zealand offered expert assistance, were set up with a prominent place in the development plan.

Australia is sending 300 Merino ewes and 100 rams which will be crossed with Thal sheep at the 15,000-acre livestock farm established near Kalur Kot.

ACCLIMATED SLOWLY

The Merinos are being selected from areas where climatic conditions are as near as possible to those of Thal. But because the temperatures in Thal go up over 120 degrees fahrenheit, a small farm is being established in the hills to help acclimate the sheep slowly.

KEPT SEPARATE

One hundred Corriedale ewes and 10 rams are New Zealand's contribution. Unlike the Merinos, the Corriedales will be kept separate to see how they thrive in the area.

In addition to the work at the livestock farm, it is intended to establish flocks of sheep all over the Thal area as it is reclaimed. Already, over 300,000 acres of the 2,000,000 acres of barren desert encompassed by the development plan have been broken up and farmers settled upon them.

Alongside the breeding project, intended to build a total of at least 50,000 fine wool-bearing ewes and an equal number of lambs in about five years, a wool research laboratory is to be established.

Planning Committee To Study A-Operations

OTTAWA (CP)—Production Minister Howe gave notice on the Commons order paper Thursday of a motion to establish a 14-man committee to "examine into the operations of the government in the field of atomic energy."

It was previously announced that such a committee would be established. It will be the second such committee since the war.

Girl Thugs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Virginia Charles told police that three teen-age girls swooped down on her from behind Thursday night, grabbed her purse containing $50.50, and sped into the darkness. The girls were on roller skates.

New Cardinal Leaves Crowds To Visit Mother

By DAVID PENMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — Cardinal Leger Thursday night broke away from official greeters and crowds who turned out for his return from the Vatican to visit his aged mother in hospital.

As soon as solemn ceremonies of benediction of the blessed sacrament were held in his Cathedral of St. James, the 48-year-old cardinal climbed into an automobile and with a police escort raced 10 blocks to Montreal's Hotel Dieu hospital.

A private reception for prominent citizens in his residence was postponed.

CORRIDORS CROWDED

Old people in dressing gowns and pyjamas, sleepy-eyed children, and young mothers with their babies popped into corridors to see.

Smiling and giving his blessing quickly as people knelt, the tall churchman strode to the door of Room 1105 and said to those around him:

"Will you excuse me."

Mrs. Ernest Leger, 72 and in bed with a pulmonary ailment, had watched the crowded downtown scenes of her son's return on television.

To spare her too much excitement he made his visit as brief as possible.

Later Mrs. Leger told her nurse: "I am too full of joy and happiness to even try to describe what I feel."

Sisters of the Order of Les Hospitalieres St. Joseph knelt when the cardinal emerged.

A baby began to cry.

The cardinal patted its head and said:

"Oh! Boo! little one."

He paid a quick call to the sister superior, walked out to his car and sped off.

Japanese Jet Pilots

TOKYO (AP) — Training of Japanese to pilot jet planes is provided in the government budget for the next fiscal year, Kyodo news agency reported Thursday night. This will necessitate importing foreign jet planes, Kyodo said. A North American jet plane will be imported as soon as possible in the first step of the training.

10,000 Sorties

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australia's No. 77 Meteor jet squadron now has flown more than 10,000 sorties against the enemy in Korea. This is probably a record for any United Nations unit, Royal Australian Air Force headquarters here said. The squadron entered the Korean war six days after it began 2½ years ago.

Cardinal Leger Receives Tumultuous Welcome Back

By BARRY WEST

MONTREAL (CP)—Paule-Emile Cardinal Leger, Montreal's archbishop for less than two years, returned from Rome Thursday night in the red robes of a prince of the Roman Catholic Church to a tumultuous welcome.

Crowds flocked to Windsor station where he arrived by train from New York, more than an hour late, and jammed his four-block route to St. James Cathedral.

The 48-year-old prelate lent informality to his homecoming by his easy air with the throng. He waved, smiled and held up for Montrealers to see the big ring of office on his third right finger.

In a short address at the station after he stepped from the train whose locomotive was in trouble on the trip from New York, Cardinal Leger said:

"I give you my life—all my life. I count on your fidelity and generosity of heart."

MET BY FATHER

Mounting the steps to a raised platform in the station concourse, he was confronted by his 75-year-old father, Ernest Leger.

The elder man, tears streaming down his face, dropped to his knees to kiss his son's ring. The Cardinal stopped, raised the white-haired man and kissed him on both cheeks.

After a ceremony of benediction of the blessed sacrament at his cathedral, the cardinal travelled by automobile to Hotel Dieu to see his 72-year-old mother, in hospital with a pulmonary ailment. Unable to attend the reception ceremonies for her son, she watched them on a television set.

Thousands of people jammed the station area in 15-degree temperature awaiting the cardinal's arrival and chanted O Canada when he made his appearance.

In the brightly-decorated station and streets outside, decked with flags and illuminated by spotlights, the tall cardinal in his bright red garb presented a striking appearance.

He raised his hands to the crowds while his glass-topped automobile moved slowly over the short, snow-covered route between the station and his church. People dropped to their knees and bowed their heads.

The cardinal posed for photographers and spoke freely with reporters. His brief address from the station in reply to a formal greeting by Mayor Camillien Houde was in English and French. He used both languages again in a short cathedral address.

Mayor Houde said Roman Catholics were specially glad over Cardinal Leger's appointment to the princely church rank two months ago, but Montrealers of other faiths also shared the feeling.

He noted that Montreal, seat of the largest Roman Catholic diocese in Canada, had been granted a cardinal for the first time in its 311-year history.

Canada's sixth cardinal was appointed Nov. 29 and elevated at a consistory in Vatican City Jan. 15. The announcement of his appointment came while he was on a pastoral visit to Rome.

He was appointed archbishop of Montreal in 1950, following the sudden resignation of Msgr. Charbonneau. He was superior of the Canadian College in Rome at the time of the appointment.

Would Cut Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chamber of commerce says United States government spending can be cut by $10,600,000,000 from former President Truman's estimates for the next fiscal year—more than enough to eliminate the predicted deficit. The chamber proposed in a report Thursday night that the federal government limit spending to $68,000,000,000.

Tax Cut Foreseen After Abbott Speech To "Rump"

OTTAWA.—Rumor around the capitol has it that Finance Minister Douglas Abbott has more or less committed himself to announcing tax reductions in the 1953 budget. This will come before the house late in February or early in March. Second-hand reports of an off-the-record speech made to a group of Liberal MPs say that the finance minister told the members they would have a sunshine budget to campaign on when they returned to their constituencies.

He apparently made no mention of when they might have to return to their constituencies to fight the general election. Most reports have been that the election will be called early in the fall.

Mr. Abbott was one of the two guest speakers—his prime minister was the other—at the annual dinner of the "rump" Liberals.

The rump is the group which is forced to sit on what is normally the opposition side of the house. This situation exists because so many Liberals were elected in the 1949 election that they cannot all be accommodated at the right side of the house.

During their terms, they have developed a clannish feeling that has manifested itself in an annual dinner. It is felt to be a sufficiently important occasion that important party members and other eminent persons feel it necessary to respond in person to the invitation.

Mr. St. Laurent's talk to the rump was brief. He said there would be no railway strike—confirmed by fact now. Mr. Abbott's speech was also brief, but is reported to have given great comfort to its hearers.

Ike Assured Of Congress Aid For Plan

See Way Clearing For Nationalist Raids On Mainland

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently is assured of strong support in Congress for his expected move opening the way for Nationalist forays from Formosa against the Communist China mainland.

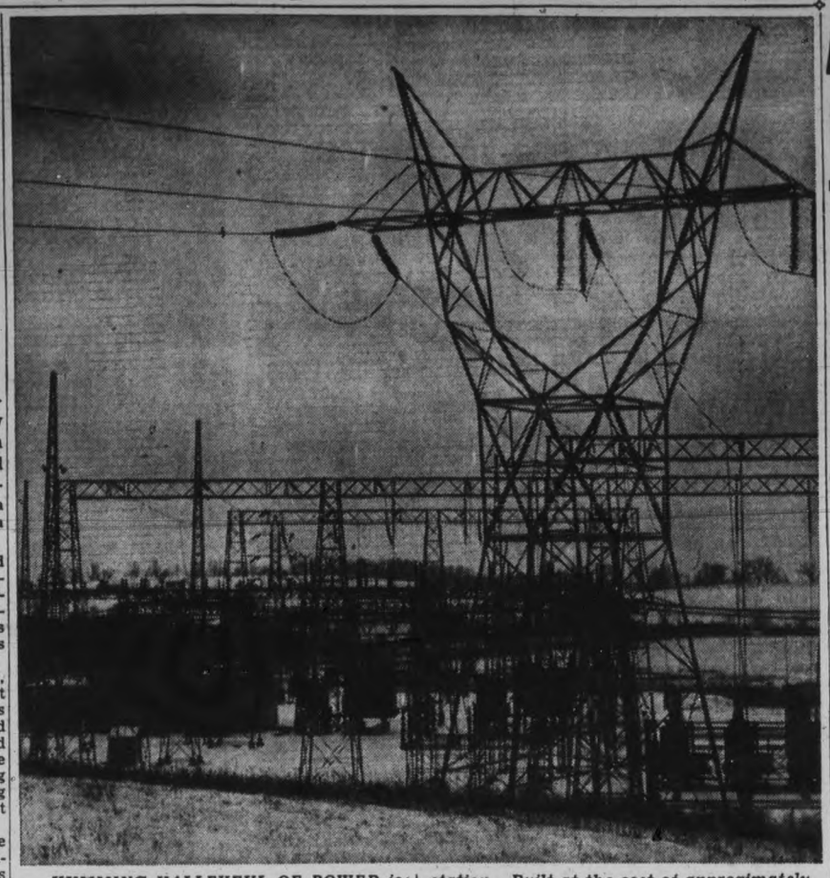
Four authoritative officials told a reporter that—barring a last-minute change in plans—the President will announce in his "state-of-the-union" message Monday he is releasing the 7th fleet from its duty at Formosa.

This would wipe out a June 27, 1950, order by former president Truman under which the fleet has neutralized Formosa. It has stood by ready to defend Nationalist-held Formosa from attack and at the same time has prevented Chiang Kai-shek's forces from carrying out air and sea operations against the mainland.

One effect of the expected move would be to release Chiang's Nationalists for commando-type raids and possibly air strikes against the mainland.

SEEN FIRST STEP

This could draw off Chinese Communist troop strength from Korea and is regarded as Eisenhower's first step toward the administration's announced goal of making it unprofitable for the Reds to continue the struggle there.



Eisenhower's reported decision to go ahead with the plan apparently represents a much tougher attitude toward the Chinese Reds than any the Truman administration was willing to risk.

The assumption in Congress was that the Allies of the U.S. had been —or were being—consulted and their reaction will be studied closely.

There was no advance word from the White House as to why Eisenhower called Fleet Admiral

Mountainous Seas Force 183 To Abandon Ship

STRANRAER, Scotland (CP)—More than 100 persons are feared to have lost their lives today when the car ferry Princess Victoria sank in hurricane-whipped seas between Ireland and Scotland. The car ferry was carrying 183 persons—123 passengers and a crew of 60. Many were children. The victims perished in mountainous seas after being forced to abandon the sinking ship. The heavy death toll apparently resulted from the 35-degree list of the ship which prevented launching of most lifeboats before it sank.

Reports from the scene said it was doubtful if there would be more than 50 survivors from the 183 persons aboard the car ferry on its regular 36-mile trip from Stranraer to Larne, Ireland.

First of those rescued from the raging seas said the Princess developed a heavy list shortly after running into the hurricane and sank quickly.

The ferry was carrying 123 passengers—many of them women and children—and a crew of 60.

A few lifeboats were launched as the ferry was sinking but the 35-degree list prevented the launching of any more.

DROP FLARES

Circling aircraft dropped flares where they spotted survivors, struggling to hang on to rafts and debris in the mountainous seas. But in nearly every case the people had disappeared by the time rescue craft reached them.

The first exhausted survivors were landed at Donaghadee, North Ireland coast town 15 miles from Belfast, but their number was not disclosed immediately.

They said the 2,694-ton ferry sank at about 3 p.m. GMT (10 a.m. EST)

Dazed survivors said the vessel went down in five minutes. There apparently was no panic—even at the end.

Some got free of the vessel as she foundered. But many were swept from life rafts before the eyes of sailors on rescue vessels. Cruel, pounding seas and numbing cold loosened their grip.

The Belfast steamer Donaghadee messaged she had picked up 20 survivors and also reported sighting two or three people clinging to a mast.

But heavy seas washed many other survivors off rafts, it was reported by rescue vessels at the scene.

Rescue craft took a murderous pounding from the seas as they rushed to the area—the northern neck of the Irish sea. Seamen said the weather was the worst in their memory.

SOME REACH BOATS

Some persons apparently managed to get to lifeboats although the vessel had been practically lying on her side before she sank.

A tanker from Belfast — her crew holding on for dear life — hove to in the pounding seas and began to discharge her oil bunkers. It was hoped this would calm the waves enough to give people in the lifeboats a chance for survival.

New U.S. Plans For Formosa Raids Worry UK

LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's reported plan to end the U.S. Navy's neutralizing blockade of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa aroused concern today in official British quarters.

Informed sources stressed that Britain expects to be fully consulted about any basic change of American policy in the Orient.

London newspapers of various political complexions gave big headlines to Washington dispatches reporting Eisenhower may withdraw the U.S. 7th fleet, which has neutralized Chiang's troops on their island stronghold and prevented air and sea operations against the China mainland.

Lord Beaverbrook's pro-empire Daily Express carried this banner: "Ike Move Alarms Britain. Chiang May Get Go-ahead to Raid China."

The Conservative Daily Mail said:

"Ike May Pull Out Formosa Fleet to Free Chiang."

The diplomatic correspondent of the Press Association reported he understood unofficially that American-British consultations now are in progress on major policy changes in the Orient.

These include, he said, withdrawal of the 7th fleet from Formosan waters to permit Chiang's Nationalists to raid the Chinese Communist mainland and modernization of the Chinese Nationalist forces.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles, now in Rome at the start of a 10-day tour of seven European capitals, will arrive in London Tuesday. This will give an opportunity for a high-level British-American exchange of views, possibly along lines of Churchill's recent consultations with Eisenhower in New York.

The foreign office said it had no comment at the present time.

The difficulty arises, in part, from the fact that Britain recognizes the Chinese Communist regime while the U.S. continued diplomatic relations with the Chinese Nationalist government when it moved to Formosa.

This basic difference has been a source of trouble in American-British relations for some time, particularly during the 2½ years the Korean war has been in progress.

President Truman sent the 7th fleet to Formosa when American and other UN troops resisted the North Korean invasion of South Korea in June, 1950. The action served not only to protect Chiang's Nationalists from the Chinese Communists but also neutralized the Nationalists. Its purpose was to prevent the spread of the Korean fighting.

Attack Justified CommanderSays

IN KOREA (AP)—The man who commanded the U.S. 7th division's ground assault in Operation Smack said today the attack was necessary and that his outfit would make raids of the same kind in the future.

Maj. Warren Phillips, commander of an infantry battalion, said the ire sparked in the United States Congress over the operation was "uncalled for and probably due to a lack of civilian understanding of what we did."

Phillips said his outfit had made several previous attempts to get a prisoner in the T-bone hill area west of Chorwon and had failed.

He said the assault was planned to take advantage of an air force bombing of T-bone which already had been planned.

No Communist prisoners were captured in the operation. The 8th army officially announced American casualties as three killed and 61 wounded.

Dulles Lands In Rome To Start 10-Day Talks

ROME (AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the United States arrived here today to begin 10 days of important talks with West European leaders and top U. S. officials abroad.

Dulles and the U. S. mutual security director, Harold E. Stassen, stepped from President Eisenhower's personal plane at 9:25 a. m. On hand to greet the two was Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

Fire Claims Lives Of Two Children

RODNEY, Ont. (CP) — Two children were burned to death in an early-morning fire today which destroyed a farmhouse near here. Four other persons were burned, one seriously. Rodney is 35 miles west of St. Thomas.

Dead are Barbara McColl, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McColl, and Jane Clark, r, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clarke of Chatham, who was staying at the McColl home.

Katherine McColl, 5, was burned but not severely, and is with her mother at the home of a neighbor, while Eddy McColl, 9, eldest of the three McColl children, is in hospital in London with critical burns. Both parents suffered minor burns.

The fire apparently started in a defective chimney while the family was sleeping. In the confusion of trying to rescue the children, no alarm was put in to the Rodney fire department until 20 minutes after the blaze was discovered.

When the fire department arrived the 1½-storey frame house, three miles northwest of the town, was enveloped in flames. It was destroyed within 45 minutes.

Ontario Cracks Down On Sale Of Painkillers

TORONTO (CP)—A crackdown on sale of sleeping pills and painkilling drugs in stores other than drug stores was announced Friday by Health Minister Phillips of Ontario.

He said the practice of selling such drugs in rural stores which are not drugstores has been spreading. The substances concerned include such barbituric acid preparations as luminal, seconal, phenobarbital and similar materials for deadening of pain.

Other than this change, through legislation planned for the session of the Legislature opening Feb. 12, no amendments to the Pharmacy Act are expected.

St. Laurent Observes 71st Birthday Sunday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent observes his 71st birthday Sunday in good health and well into the fifth year of his career as Prime Minister.

He will spend the day attending mass in Brantford, Ont., and returning to Ottawa by train with Mrs. St. Laurent.

He speaks in Brantford tonight at a dinner honoring Hon. Ross MacDonald, speaker of the Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent was born in Compton, Que., in 1882.

Turbulent Labor Leader; Sam Baron Moves to U.S. Job

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP) — Turbulent Sam Baron, Canadian chief of the United Textile Workers of America and one of the stormiest figures in Canadian labor, is moving out of the country.

A few months after negotiating the unprecedented jump from the Canadian leadership of a CIO textiles union to the same job in an AFL union, Baron is going back to the United States in another job with the UTWA.

He will be leaving behind him a record of personal and union strife as rough as any in recent Canadian labor history. Amiable but tough, Sam, a hot anti-Red, has loved to tangle with the Communists in labor but also has staged running fights with his own union chiefs.

One upshot of his intra-union scrapping was that in 1951 he was fired out of the Canadian directorship of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL), as the result of feuding with the international president, Emil Rieve of Washington.

Baron bounced back from that last year to move into the Montreal office of R. Kent Rowley, leftist Canadian director of the AFL-TLC United Textile Workers of America after the UTWA had staged an anti-Red purge of its Canadian leadership.

Union informants here were in some doubt as to who would succeed Baron as Canadian boss of the small—about 6,800-member—but active and vocal UTWA, which once was a centre of Canadian union Communist activity.

According to information here, there was a good chance the job would be split between Roger Provost, Quebec-Maritimes director of the union and president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, and Jack Robinson, Ontario director.

Labor quarters here said that, should a single director be appointed, it was likely Provost would be the man.

There was no immediate word in Montreal from Baron.

Edmonton Police Jail Student On Murder Count

EDMONTON (CP) — Police crashed into a barricaded garage on Edmonton's south side late Friday to arrest Lorang Sorum, 24-year-old university student, wanted in connection with the slaying of an Edmonton oil company executive.

Police said Sorum had barricaded himself in the garage, then climbed into his car and locked the doors. The car's motor was running, they said.

Police reported the University of Alberta student was violently ill when arrested and apparently had been ill in the car before arriving at the garage. He was taken to hospital, but doctors said there was nothing wrong with him.

CAUGHT IN 12 HOURS

The arrest took place about 12 hours after Robert D. Haugen, father of four children, was shot to death at a downtown parking lot.

Following examination at the hospital, Sorum was removed to police headquarters and officials said he may be charged with murder today.

Police said Sorum's condition could but be described as "something resembling shock."

Sorum, a native of Prince Albert, Sask., who spent 13 of his 24 years in Norway, was arrested when a girl at the home where he was staying notified police that he had driven into the garage.

Police said the murder weapon had not been recovered.

SHOT BEFORE FRIENDS

Haugen, a native of Pennant, Sask., and a former resident of Prince Rupert, B. C., was shot to death before the eyes of friends who dared not interfere with the gunman who pumped bullets into the man's body while he lay in the snow.

The slaying occurred as Haugen parked his ca on his way to work at American Petroleum Industries (Canada) Ltd., where he was secretary-treasurer.

The killer escaped in another car.

Friends of Haugen said he had been bothered about a month ago by a man who wanted to borrow money and threatened to shoot him.

Persons parking cars at the lot at the time of the slaying said they heard five shots. Haugen was wounded in the back, the collarbone and the back of the head.

Gem Merchant Claims $100,000 Stones Gone

NEW YORK (AP) — Dante Brigliante, a gem merchant, told police today that $100,000 worth of unset jewels he placed in a 10-cent public locker had been stolen. He said they were not insured.

Brigliante said he placed the emeralds, diamonds, sapphires and rubies in the locker Friday while negotiating a deal for them. When he returned, the locker and a half dozen others had been jimmied open.

Craft From Three Carriers Reduce Wonsan To Black, Smoking Ruins

SEOUL (AP)—Planes from three United States carriers and the battleship Missouri today dumped destruction on the northeast Korean port of Wonsan, already rubbled by the longest siege in U.S. naval history. The navy said that Vice-Admiral James Clark, United States 7th fleet commander, planned and was watching the big attack from the Missouri. Two destroyers joined the massive bombardment against the once-great east coast metropolis.

Swarms of planes were roaring off the decks of the big carriers Kearsarge, Oriskany and Philippine Sea in what the navy termed a "vicious bombardment" and "an all-out aerial bombardment." By late afternoon, no details had been released.

Allied fighter - bombers ranging across the frozen Korean battle front caught a large group of North Korean troops in the open today and reported killing 50 of them.

On the ground, 8th army headquarters reported only scattered patrol skirmishes as the temperature dipped below zero for the second day over the 155-mile line.

The air force reported five UN planes, including a B-29 Superfort bomber, were lost this week over North Korea as against six MiGs. A Superfort normally carries a crew of 11 men.

ONE SABRE DOWN

One F-86 Sabre jet was shot down in a dogfight with Communist MiGs and enemy ground fire knocked down an F-80 Shooting Star jet. A Sabre and an Australian Meteor jet were lost to "other causes," probably mechanical trouble.

The navy said Wonsan has been in a state of siege since Feb. 16, 1951, making this "by far the longest effective seige in United States naval history." The seige of Vicksburg during the Civil War stands next on the list, the navy said.

Wonsan was described as a blackened mass, marked only by columns which formerly were the smoke stacks of busy industrial plants, the navy said.

Lindsay Flier, 24, On Missing Plane

VANCOUVER (CP).— A Lindsay flier, PO M. D. Hill, 24, is one of the five men aboard an RCAF Mitchell bomber, missing since Thursday on a flight from Saskatoon to Vancouver.

He is the son of Mrs. Margaret Hill, 92 Russell Street, Lindsay. PO Hill joined the RCAF in 1949 and went into aircrew in 1951.

Fourteen planes today prepared to cover some 25,000 square miles of British Columbia wilderness and ocean seeking two RCAF bombers and the 12 men they carried. Meanwhile, fishing boats continued their efforts to find some trace of five persons still missing in the crash of a Central B. C. Airways plane in Bute Inlet, 400 miles upcoast from Vancouver.

United States authorities still sought a clue to the fate of a U. S. Navy Privateer that vanished Tuesday over Puget Sound, Wash., with 10 men aboard.

The one known fatality and the lone survivor in the four crashes were aboard the Central B C. Airways plane. Pilot Jim Siddle swam ashore after his plane struck an object in the water and sank when a snowstorm forced him to land. The body of Gustavus Olsen, a passenger, was washed ashore.

One of the RCAF planes, with seven persons aboard, went down in the central Cariboo region of the province on a training flight. The other, a Mitchell bomber that disappeared 14 minutes out of Vancouver, is feared to have plunged into Vancouver harbor or Georgia Strait.

The five aboard the Saskatoon-based Mitchell were identified Friday night.

They are: PO. M. D. Hill, 24, Lindsay, Ont.; PO. E. D. Thygesen 25, Vancouver; LAC. K. G. McInnes, 26, Vancouver; AC. I. M. DeWitt, 20, Vancouver, and FO. Jack McIntosh, 29, Regina.

PO Hill was educated at Lindsay public and secondary schools, and after he finished collegiate took training at Trenton RCAF station as an air mechanic. Later he trained at Arigus, and Centralia, Ont., gaining his wings Oct. 3 last year.

Recently he was posted to Saskatoon; he would have returned for posting to the east coast at the end of February. He has two brothers, Lloyd of Peterborough, and Maurice, at home.

Hurricane Rages Over Scotland, Winds 113 mph

LONDON (AP) — A violent hurricane raged across the north of Scotland today as all of Britain felt the extremes of winter weather.

Aberdeen was severely hit by one of the worst hurricanes in years. The city's electricity broke down several times and transportation services halted.

Wind gusts up to 113 miles an hour were recorded and great trails of damage were strewn in their wake.

Railway service between Keith and Elgin was disrupted when trees were felled in path of trains.

Snow, fleet and rain plagued almost all the British Isles—but in keeping with the strange character of this winter's weather—patches of bright sunlight sometimes lighted up parts of London while sleet fell in Westminster.

Yet, only a few miles away in Surrey blinding snow lashed the area.

HOUSES FLOODED

Far in the north a 110-mile-an-hour hurricane roared over the Orkneys and all shipping and air services came to a standstill.

Great waves burst over the Kirkwall-Stromness road flooding houses and a hotel. The Kirkwall pier was under two feet of water.

Houses were unroofed and there were reports of islands disappearing in a blinding cloud of sea foam and sleet. Small boats were reported sunk.

At Southampton the liner Queen Mary was unable to sail for New York because of high winds.

Other vessels were endangered. Lighthouse keepers were isolated.

Snow blew over Liverpool and in Wales snow, hail and sleet fell.

Steal $60,000 In Video Parts

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal firm of private investigators, employed by a west-end radio and television factory, said today it had recovered more than $60,000 in parts stolen from the plant The factory was not named.

The investigators said at least eight — and possibly many more employees of the plant — will face arrest on charges of theft as servants.

All suspects are reported to have long service with the company, some with 20 years seniority At least two will be arrested Monday.

Investigators said the ring operated smoothly. An employee of each department would steal a few parts and meet at a given place where complete radio and television sets would be assembled.

Investigators said they were called in after the manager of the factory received an anonymous telephone call informing him that sets and parts were being sold at low prices at a mid-town tavern.

The private detectives said they located the sourc e and seized $2,000 in parts in the north-end flat of a suspect. They said further information led to seizures in all sections of the city as well as neighboring communities as far away as Quebec.

Shaven Gooseberries Dupe German Editors

MAINZ, Germany (Reuters) — West German newspapers Friday printed a story of a youth sentenced to six weeks in jail for "violating food laws"—he shaved the fuzz off gooseberries and sold them as grapes.

But editors' faces were red today. Erich Lembach, court clerk in nearby Alzey who is known throughout the Rhineland as a practical joker, confessed he had hoaxed them.

As part of carnival merrymaking he telephoned news agencies and newspapers giving them all the details.

Donnybrook In Ballinalee

Shillalaghs Fly As Villagers Protest

BALLINALEE, Republic of Ireland (Reuters)—Some 400 angry Irishmen battled police Friday night with shelalaghs, fists, bottles and stones in one of the wildest donnybrooks this village has ever seen. Five villagers and three policemen were injured.

The villagers started the fracas by demonstrating in protest against the transfer of the local post office from the little general store of Mrs. Kathleen Devine to Mrs. Nora Mannix' confectionery store, just 100 yards down the main street.

The post office was moved because Mrs. Devine was fired last year after a government inspector reported she had been juggling her accounts.

Now the villagers believe 32-year-old Mrs. Devine, postmistress here for 11 years, was wrongly dismissed. Since August they have been petitioning the government trying to get her reinstated.

So Friday morning Irish tempers were touchy when truckloads of police—about 100 of them—from Dublin and surrounding towns converged on this one-street village without warning to engineer the post office move.

The locals were even more peeved when the cops and a team of carpenters set up two telephone poles outside 44-year-old Mrs. Mannix' confectionery tore, put in letter boxes and installed on the front window a fresh green and gold sign which read "Ballinalee Post Office."

They vented their spleen at Mrs. Mannix' husband, Patrick, the village school teacher who just "happened" to arrive home about then in a police car.

Someone tossed a rock at the police car and glass splintered. Mannix dashed out of the car and was beaten and kicked before he finally managed to escape into his wife's store. A hail of stones followed him, smashing the new post office windows.

Then a police officer ordered his men to charge. The cops waded into the crowd flailing with their heavy clubs. The villagers fought back with their own assortment of weapons.

After a half hour at least five villagers and three policemen limped off to the local drugstore to have serious cuts and bruises treated. Many on both sides nursed sore heads.

Later the villagers ambushed a mail truck and refused to let it enter Ballinalee.

BACK FROM GERMANY — Private Roy Hotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hotts, 675 Donegal St., returned to Peterborough this week after 13 months in Germany with the 27th Brigade. A member of the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, Hotts spent most of his time in Hanover. Hotts travelled throughout Europe, visiting various countries, during his leaves. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Former Air Chief Says Air Force Adopts New Role

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP) — The retiring father of Canada's rebuilt, billion-dollar-a-year air force says it still hasn't dawned fully on the Canadian people or even on Parliament that a revolution has quietly taken place in the country's military structure.

The traditional balances among the three armed forces have been altered, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis said in an interview, and have placed the RCAF in a pre-eminent position unmatched relatively by any other air force in the world.

He said he sees this unprecedented concentration on airpower as a natural outgrowth of Canada's shortage of manpower, her technical skills and industrial resources.

The 59-year-old former air ace who retires today after six years as chief of the air staff said the last two years have lifted the country's air defences from a state of dangerous weakness to a position "where we'd have a fighting chance even if war came tomorrow."

By the end of 1953, he added, "we'll be in excellent shape, ready for any degree of mobilization the future may bring."

TO HAND OVER COMMAND

Air Marshal Curtis is to formally hand over command of the RCAF this morning to Air Marshal Roy Slemon.

His retirement comes only a few days after the government disclosed that it proposes to spend nearly $1,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year to bring the air force buildup to its peak. That is half the entire defence budget, a yardstick of the position the RCAF has assumed.

By the end of the next fiscal year, starting April 1, Canada will be close to her existing goal of a 41-squadron air force. There will be a 12-squadron jet air division in Europe and a good start on another one at home. Home-defence fighter strength eventually will surpass what Canada has in Europe although this may mean going beyond the 41-squadron limit.

Air Marshal Curtis is the father and architect of this transformation. In the interview he spoke with pride and unabashed optimism about the force he has built up as chief and about the change in military thinking it represents.

"The fact we have sent large expeditionary forces overseas in two wars to fight on the ground has left its mark on Canadian thinking," he said. "It has tended to obscure the fact that both our human and industrial resources, our small but skilled population and our complex industry, fit us for concentration on airpower. It has also obscured the fact that we are already trending in that direction to a marked degree."

DEFENDS JET FIGHTER

Air Marshal Curtis struck back at persons who have criticized the CF-100 jet fighter, probably the most controversial factor in the air force setup. It is the plane Canada is building to meet her own needs and which has been delayed getting into production.

"Some people have called the CF-100 a dud. It is no dud. By the end of the year we will have several squadrons of them for home defence and people will be praising them. In two years people will be singing their praises from the rooftops and we will be asked to send them to Europe. . . .

"Our other fighter, the F-86 Sabre will be a marked advance over the Sabres now in use in Korea once we mate it with our Orenda engine.

"For the future, we are working on plans for a new, supersonic aircraft."

Sabotage Theory Gains Support, Carrier Damaged

LONDON, England (AP)—Suspicions of British shipboard sabotage were heightened today following a fire aboard a merchant ship and another mysterious "incident" on a naval aircraft carrier.

The fire broke out Friday night aboard the 5,593-ton steamer Ribera at Hull. The blaze was small, but smoke drove off workmen refitting the freighter. A fireboat had to be called.

At the same time, a high naval official announced in Plymouth that "minor defects of an unexplained nature involving machinery in the carrier HMS Triumph have been discovered.

NO DAMAGE

"No damage has in fact occurred and the ship remains fully operational," he added. "The matter is being investigated."

Detectives from the admiralty's criminal investigation department were reported to have boarded the Triumph at Bangor, Northern Ireland, four days ago to investigate the incident. The carrier arrived in Plymouth Friday after completing a training operation.

The Trjumph is a sister ship of the 13,350-ton carrier HMS Warrior, also under investigation. Workers at the shipyard in Devonport where the Warrior is being refitted were questioned Friday after the navy announced that "minor damage" to an electrical cable had been discovered aboard her.

RCN COMMISSION

The Warrior was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Navy on loan from the Royal Navy in 1946. She was stationed at Halifax.

During her RCN tour of duty she made a trip to the West coast and visited Montreal. She carried two naval air squadrons.

Early in 1948, her crew sailed her to England, where she was returned to the RN..

The current jitters and suspicions were aroused after a mysterious cabin fire in the liner Queen Elizabeth three days ago and a fire last Sunday which destroyed the $5,000,000 liner Empress of Canada at Liverpool.

Deny Tourist Rates Too High In Northland

BLIND RIVER (CP) — The Algoma Tourist Operators Association Friday denied that rates charged for accommodation in Northern Ontario tourist camps are exorbitant.

Travel Minister Cecile said Wednesday that those who cater to the tourist trade in many sections of Ontario charge excessive rates for food and service of insufficient quality.

The Algoma operators said in a statement Mr. Cecile should compare Northern Ontario prices with those in the United States. Costs of constructing and maintaining camps, food prices and transportation costs also should be compared.

The operators said the latter are high because many camps have to be reached by air.

C. R. Hodge, president of the association, said Mr. Cecile's statement is unjustified.

"Food and all equipment all cost more here than in the United States," he said.

Lethal Toys

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. — (AP) — Police have seized several toy guns which they said were converted into lethal weapons by teen-age boys and are able to fire live ammunition. Sgt. Bernard J. Flynn said Friday the youths told him the method of changing the toy guns was described on a TV program and in several comic books.

Lawyer Chairman Of Bylaw Committee Tries To Defend Client On Parking Charge

COBOURG (ENS)—Barrister Harold Richardson, member of the town council, found himself in a slightly embarrassing situation Friday when acting as defence counsel for Larry McCarthy who was charged with violation of the parking meter bylaw.

Constable Homer Seale told the court that the car of the defendant was parked beside a meter on which the time had expired and that a test showed that the meter was operating.

The constable said that where a meter was found to be inoperative, the motorist, under the terms of the bylaw, was required to park beside one that was working.

The bylaw was produced and Magistrate R. B. Baxter commented with a smile that defence counsel as chairman of the bylaws committee perhaps would not feel inclined to object too strongly against the bylaw. McCarthy was fined $10 and costs.

Lyle Davey was fined $10 and costs for parking beside a meter which showed overtime. Davey said that he didn't know he had been charged until he got the summons. Constable Seale stated that he placed a ticket under the windshield wiper. The constable said that he had known of the tickets getting away from under the windshield wiper, but only very occasionally.

Magistrate Baxter commented that it might work a hardship on the accused but that he didn't want to have people think that they could say the ticket was lost from where the constable placed it and thus avoid a conviction.

They were the first contested cases under the 1947 parking bylaw.

Asks Bill Ban Level Crossings

OTTAWA (CP)—George Murray (L—Cariboo) at the request of Transport Minister Chevrier withdrew in the Commons Friday a private bill to eliminate level crossings in all new railway construction in Canada.

The minister said he sympathized with the principle of the legislation but it had some objectionable features. It would make it mandatory for the board of transport commissioners to order the railways to eliminate crossings in new construction—a power already enjoyed but on which it could use discretion.

Mr. Chevrier said the board now is engaged in a study of railway crossings in Canada. When it issued a report it "may be possible to make some amendments to the Railway Act" and to confer with the provinces concerning the highway angle.

C. L. Hodgson (PC—Victoria, Ont.) approved the bill but said the cost would be tremendous. There should be more wig-wag warning devices at existing crossings.

Messages indicating the 2,600-ton ship had gone down were intercepted by the admiralty in London.

A tug was reported to be picking up survivors from the vessel which was smashed by raging seas on her regular 36-mile trip from Stranraer to Larne, Ireland.

The vessel carried 123 passengers and a crew of 60. An order to abandon ship had been issued earlier but the Princess Victoria was listing at a 35-degree angle at the time with one side almost submerged, making it impossible to lower the lifeboats.

WAVE FROM RAFTS

Messages received in Campbelltown, Scotland, said the steamer was sinking, or had sunk. A vessel near the scene said it sighted people on rafts waving frantically.

The Princess Victoria ran into trouble at a point about 12 miles off shore from Portpatrick, a Scottish port on the upper reaches of the Irish sea.

The Princess Victoria left Stranraer at 7:40 a. m. EST today.

She was hit an hour later by mountainous seas whipped up by hurricane gales raging over Britain in the North channel separating Scotland and Ireland.

First messages said her engine room was flooded and she had a heavy starboard list. "Immediate assistance required. The ship is not under command," she radioed.

Mrs. Janie Davidson, Associated Press correspondent at Campbelltown, Scotland, said one of the searching vessels radioed that several bodies had been seen in the sea.

Intercepted messages indicate the ship is sunk, she said. Mrs. Davidson operates a marine radio listening post for newspapers.

One rescue craft at the scene sent this message: "Position hopeless. Weather terrible, but we are doing our best."

SHIP STRANDED

Further north, the 66 crew members of the 7,131-ton steamer Clan MacQuarrie were waiting for a tug to rescue them from the ship, driven aground on jagged rocks and holed off Lewis, largest island in the Outer Hebrides.

Her bottom tanks have flooded and efforts to get a rocket line aboard have failed.

The steamer, travelling from Dundee to Glasgow, ran into an 80-mile-an-hour hurricane and was forced onto the rocks soon after midnight. The people of the nearby village of Larve are standing by ready to help.

A third ship, the trawler Michael Giffith reported herself "full of water and no steam. Helpless." She is drifting off Barra Head, Outer Hebrides.

See Wheat Sale Increase In U.K. Decision

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Grain sources said guardedly today that Britain's decision to hand the grain trade back to private enterprise may increase Canadian wheat sales.

With fingers crossed, a treasury spokesman said he thinks that when freedom is restored to British traders after the next harvest, it should stimulate rather than depress wheat purchases from Canada.

Britain announced Jan. 21 that decontrol of grain, cereals and feeding stuffs is on the way. From the Canadian viewpoint, the key point of that announcement is that the British government intends to avoid paying premium prices for non-dollar wheat.

Treasury and food ministry experts now are trying to work out a formula whereby dollar licences for wheat can be issued at short notice to take advantage of any shaded changes in the market.

Thus, subject to the vagaries of Britain's dollar reserves, traders will be encouraged to buy Canadian wheat whenever there is a tendency for non-dollar wheat to be at a premium.

Exact forecasts are difficult to make. Private traders have been out of the market for 15 years. During that time, government bulk buying may have served to obscure the real supply-and-demand position. On balance, shedding of controls may have little appreciable effect for some years.

"The point is," said a food ministry spokesman, "you've got the wheat, and we want it."

Import statistics tell a revealing tale. In 1952 Britain imported 78,000,000 hundredweight of wheat, some 55,000,000 of it from Canada. The United States and Australia supplied 9,000,000 hundredweight apiece, 4,000,000 came from Russia and the grand total of 17 hundredweight from other countries.

This year Australia and Argentine, the two biggest non-dollar suppliers, are expected to have better crops than the last ones, which were poor.

In Liverpool, a spokesman for the Corn Trade News, journal of the grain trade, said: "The United Kingdom has been very, very dependent on Canadian wheat and will continue to be a very, very long time."

Most British spokesmen declined comment on the possible effect of decontrol on British negotiations under the international wheat agreement. One official, however, ventured the opinion that Britain may be slightly less eager to enter into long-term bulk agreements.

The present international agreement expires July 31. Negotiations on a new agreement opened Friday in Washington. A food ministry spokesman here said it seemed to him that negotiations will "just be a question of supply and price —nothing else."

MORE ABOUT—
Ike Assured

William D. Leahy to a conference there today.

Leahy is on active duty without assignment. The admiral was Second World War chief of staff to Presidents Franklin Roosevelt and Truman.

The general understanding in Congress was that Eisenhower would make it clear that Chiang will be strictly on his own in any hit-and-run raids he may make against the mainland.

The Nationalist leader has a force of about 1,000 trained pilots on Formosa, but they outnumber the planes of all types he has available. And his air force, such as it is, was designed primarily for defence of the island.

$500,000,000 AID

The U.S. has been helping build up this force, as well as other military branches, with about $500,000,000 worth of direct military aid assigned to Chiang since the outbreak of the Korean war.

The Nationalists have been given some small coastal vessels, but whether they have any warships of the size necessary to support even a commando foray on the mainland remains a military secret.

Republicans in Congress generally applauded the proposed reversal of the Truman policy of sealing off Formosa, where Chiang is credited with having up to 600,000 men in uniform.

Democrats generally indicated they will go along, although some expressed misgivings.

Senator Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) attacked it vigorously, asserting that if the move is made it may go down in history as "a sly tactic for encouraging incidents that may start world war III."

Chinese Nationalists Claim May Form Mainland Shadow Rule

TAIPEH, Formosa (Reuters) — A Chinese Nationalist source said today that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's government is planning to set up "shadow" governments for three China mainland provinces.

The statement follows closely on Washington reports that President Eisenhower intends to withdraw the U.S. 7th fleet from Formosan waters and permit Chiang to attack the Chinese Communist mainland.

It said "positive steps" were being taken to "re-activate the provincial governments of Yunnan, Fukien and Chekiang," and added the reason why these provinces had been chosen was that Nationalist guerrilla forces were already in part control of them.

Key provincial administrators and staff had been appointed, and are being trained in Formosa for rehabilitation work, the statement added.

MAY STEP UP WARFARE

Some well - informed observers said they thought the move indicated Chiang would step up guerrilla warfare in the three provinces if the U.S. withdrew its fleet.

Yunnan is the Chinese province bordering on Burma, where remnants of Nationalist troops driven out of China by the Communists three years ago have recently been reported active.

Chekiang and Fukien are coastal provinces opposite the Formosa strait between Shanghai in the north and Hong Kong in the south.

Battle In Malaya Becomes Soul-Destroying Conflict

KUALA KUBU BAHRU, Malaya (NEA)— For the officers and men fighting the small but well-disciplined band of terrorists in Malaya, this remains a soul-destroying war.

A day with the Queen's Own Royal West Kent Regiment began for Major Peter Buckle, the acting commanding officer, when he walked across the tennis court, and what looked like a friendly garden snake reared its head and opened its hood. With one swing of a log he broke the cobra's back.

War amid cobras and terrorists in Malaya has all the aspects of a movie thriller.

"Darling," said a British soldier's wife to her husband as she picked her 18-month-old son off the kitchen floor, "there is a snake out here."

The husband grabbed his gun, and shot a six-foot cobra. He said nothing to his wife. His wife said nothing to him. But, for a week, they were both uneasy. For cobras travel in pairs.

The next time she said "darling" in that extra-calm, sweet tone, she did not have to finish the sentence. He finished off the second cobra. Then he had to explain to the Home Guard why he used up four rounds of ammunition.

✧ ✧ ✧

From the front seat of an armored car, Malaya, with the best roads in Asia, seems as placid as a lady's voice. The towns boast English gardens, like English gardens are supposed to look and rarely do.

But outside the towns, most of Malaya is "secondary" jungle. This means that the sun can penetrate the trees and make the brush and brambles grow. It can take hours to hack your way a few yards through this undergrowth. One soldier, fresh from England, was hacking furiously away when suddenly he found himself in a treetop 30 feet above the ground.

Along the "Gap Road," high cliffs and curves make perfect spots for Communist ambushes. It was along this road that Gen. Sir Henry Gurney, the last high commissioner, was shot and killed on Oct. 6, 1951. The British close the road periodically and spray the whole area with bullets from artillery and planes. They rarely catch a bandit.

You can get an idea what the jungle is like by climbing the embankment and trying to fight through the thorns which reach out to scratch your face. Lt. K. S. Beale was in the lead when the bushes gave way and revealed a nook where the gras was beaten down. He squinted into the woods ahead. You could see about five feet.

"No one up to any good comes in here," he said. "They could be in here. And we could look all day without finding them."

✧ ✧ ✧

His platoon has a light blue flag flying over its thatched roof barracks, with nine white stars to show it has killed nine bandits. The score for the regiment is 56 killed and three captured since April, 1951. The British do not count the wounded, even when they can see a blood trail. They demand the body for a kill.

The regiment itself has suffered about 16 casualties. Seven got hit on a single day when a platoon, after four days of fruitlessly beating the bush for bandits, was hit while wearily climbing into trucks for the last lap back to the base.

To the West Kents, who have won laurels in ev[illegible]g war the British have fought for 150 years, this is a tedious business. What gets them down is the constant alert for what they never know will happen where.

They have an area about 50 miles long and 30 miles wide to patrol. There are four of them to one bandit. And they know who they are up against. They have a roque's gallery of pictures of their enemy.

The most famous is a woman, Ah Lin. They killed her brother. They have captured her laundry three times. So they have the most complete set of measuremens taken on any bandit in Malaya. But somehow she always slips off just a few feet too far into the jungle to place a well-aimed shot.

✧ ✧ ✧

The 3,000 to 5,000 bandits in the jungle are a well-organized army, with platoons, regiments, a provincial and a national command. Supporting them are the Minyum, people who supply the bandits and occasionally kill a civilian who refuses to pay off. They recruit new bandits. And they plot the campaign of terorrism.

Some are switching sides. One former Minyun leader in Kuala Kubu Bahru is now sporting a new motorcycle and a wrist watch, what he bought with the reward he got for turning in some bandits.

Incidents are dropping in the West Kent area, as they are throughout Malaya. These "incidents" range from the murder of a policeman to the throwing of a hand grenade into a theatre.

The bandits have not tried to take on the British Army. They have killed twice as many civilians as soldiers and police. They have not even tried to take on the British. They have killed 10 times as many Chinese as rubber planters.

Of late, the West Kents have detected a Communist effort to avoid brutality and to win the friendship of the people. The change, they say, is obviously designed to recoup their losses—2,709 terrorists killed and 878 captured, from the start of the emergency in 1948 to December, 1952.

Are the British winning? The trouble with the bandits, say the West Kents, is that you never know.

Weldon Rink Close To Que. Championship

QUEBEC (CP) — Ken Weldon's rink from Montreal St. George today moved nearer to a successful defence of the Quebec provincial curling championship with a close 13-12 win over R. Fee of Arvida in an extra-end game.

The win gave Weldon sole possession of first place with seven wins and one loss. Another win in the ninth and final round later today or a loss by Lennoxville, in second place with a 6-2 record, will give the Montrealers their second straight title.

Sept Iles was tied in third place, with five wins and three losses, with Bevcourt, skipped by P. J. McCarthy

"Now Is The Time" Garson Tells Grits

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Friday night in an address to Liberal party members "now is the time to prepare for the election whenever it be held."

He said the meeting of the Liberal associations of the three federal constituencies of Essex East, West and South could be viewed "as a part of the prelude to a national election."

"When we go to the public in the forthcoming election it will be with a case—a record—unsurpassed by any government in our history. If we lose, it will be because we have presented the case badly."

Russian Terror Causing Flight, Allies Charge

BONN (AP)—The Western allies today formally accused the Russians of causing the flight of over 100,000 East Germans to the west during 1952 "by systematically depriving the German population there of basic rights and basic freedoms."

In notes to General V. I. Chuikov, Soviet commander in East Germany, Britain, the U. S., and France also branded as "totally misplaced" Soviet charges that the Western powers are supporting espionage and terroristic centres in West Berlin and West Germany.

The three occupation powers ridiculed Soviet claims that the Reds had to curtail contact between East and West Germany to "protect" the East zone population from "the subversive work of the West Berlin spying - diversionary organizations."

"This statement is plainly contradicted by the facts," the Allied powers said.

Newcastle Out Of Division I

LONDON (Reuters)—Second division team Rotherham United defeated Newcastle United 3-1 today, knocking the Divison I team out of the soccer competition for the prized Football Association Cup it has won for the past two years.

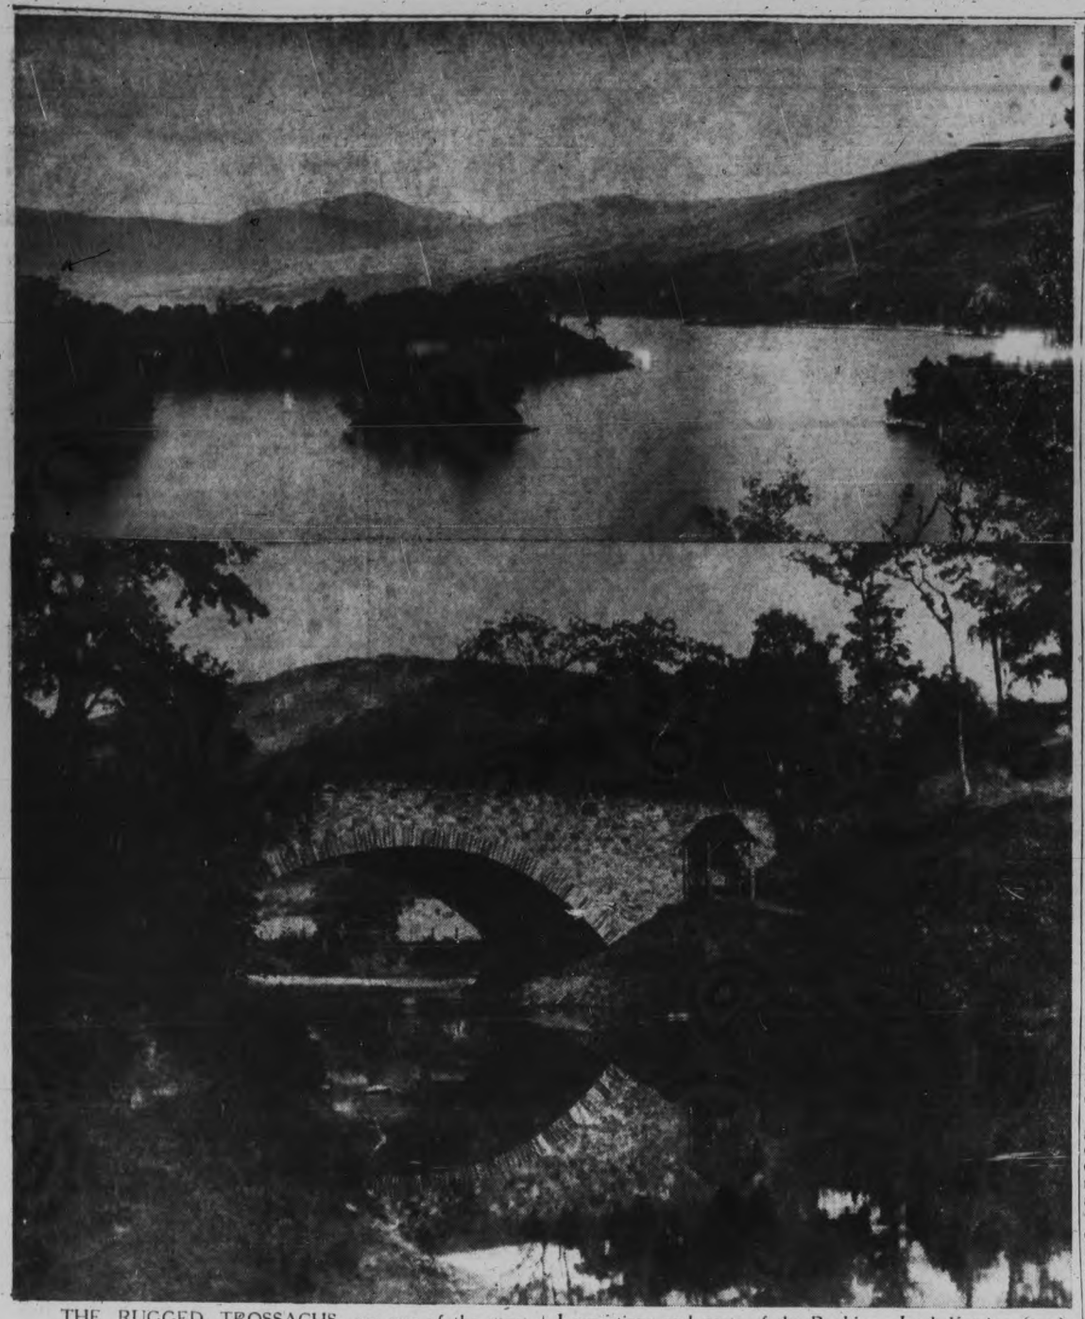
There was another big surprise at Manchester, where Walthamstow Avenue, last remaining amateur club in the knockout competition, held Manchester United to a 1-1 tie.

Only the most ardent supporters of the Avenue, first amateur team to reach the fourth round of the competition for 24 years, expected it to hold Manchester United, last season's league champions.

Halifax Town, Division III team, defeated Stoke City 1-0 and Gateshead, another division III club, beat Hull of Division II 2-1. The remaining Division III team, Shrewsbury, lost 4-1 to Southampton, Division II club.

Seven of the 16 cup games ended in a draw and will be replayed. Favorite for the cup now is London's Arsenal, which defeated Bury, Division II team, 6-2, the best score of the day's Cup games. games.

Canada "Interested" In Fleet Withdrawal



OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is watching with considerable interest the latest development in United States foreign policy—a reported plan of President Eisenhower to withdraw the U.S. 7th fleet from duty off the Nationalist Chinese island stronghold of Formosa.

External affairs department officials declined comment on news dispatches which said President Eisenhower will announce withdrawal of the 7th fleet in his message to Congress Monday.

It is understood that Canada does not plan any official comment until the President's plan is confirmed.

One senior external affairs official said the department is considering what the movie may mean if President Eisenhower carries out the plan. The department has asked Canadian officials in Washington for further information on the matter.

Teran Gives Tips On Dope War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bantam weight boxer Keeny Teran has come out of hiding and given authorities "a few leads" in the war on dope addiction.

The 19-year-old fighter, sought since Thursday as an important witness, said he had been in seclusion because of a telephoned threat against his wife and child.

Teran, who said he used heroin himself until he conquered the habit to make a recent ring comeback, met Friday night with William V. O'Connor, assistant state attorney-general. Keeny was questioned about his sources of supply.

"He was completely co-operative," O'Connor reported, "and he gave us a few leads."

Teran said the threat came to him at his home Thursday afternoon from a telephone caller who warned:

"I know you're gonna talk to the state narcotics men. Don't say anything or something might happen to your wife and baby."

Keeny's manager, Ray Luna, who accompanied the fighter to O'Connor's residence, said Teran is looking for other quarters for his wife Celia and their 11-month-old daughter. In the meanwhile, they have been given police protection.

Charged With Arson Boy Going To Hospital

COBOURG (ENS)—After many adjournments while enquiry was made in regard to mental treatment for a 15 year old boy charged with setting fire to the collegiate here last December, some progress was made Friday. It was indicated that the boy would enter Kingston hospital as a voluntary patient and be placed under observation. A recent mental examination showed that he was neither mentally ill nor mentally defective.

However the psychiatrist suggested that if he were placed under observation for a time some clue to his behaviour pattern might be found. The matter was adjourned for a week Friday so that the parents of the boy could decide whether he would enter Kingston hospital or go to some other institution.

Army Announces New Plan For Rotation Sequence; Sailing Dates Withheld

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (By Mail) — (CP)—The Canadian Army's new-style rotation sequence has been announced to units, although sailing dates have been withheld from the troops.

Psychology plays as great a part as security in withholding that information, since commanders want to forestall disappointment should timetables have to be altered because of weather or shipping delays.

For the first time units are to be rotated out of Korea as units.

The infantry battalions will be going home in one wave, complete —battalion headquarters, all four rifle companies, and support and headquarters companies. So will the 1st regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

They will be relieved by complete units.

MAN-FOR-MAN

While certain smaller service units also will be rotated as units, most will change over on a man-for-man basis.

First replacements coming to Korea in the upcoming sequence will leave Seattle, Wash., in early March. Major elements will be the 3rd battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, 56th transport company, RCASC, and 59th field squadron, RCE.

Units will spend two days in Kure, Japan, being processed, and then proceed to Korea.

After turn-overs of equipment and stores have taken place the relieved units will sail from Pusan to Kure, where they will spend five days being processed and doing their last-minute shopping for home.

Going home early in the second week of April will be the 1st battalion, RCR, the 37th transport company, RCASC, and 23rd field squadron, RCE.

SECOND WAVE

The second wave coming over from Seattle will comprise the 3rd battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, the 81st Field Regiment, RCA, and the 38th field ambulance, RCAMC.

After being relieved in Korea and going through the same process the first departing wave did, the 1st battalion, Royal 22nd, the 1st regiment, RCHA, and the 37th field ambulance, RCAMC, will sail from Yokohama late in April.

There will be another similar sailing early in May of smaller units among the services attached to the brigade, who will have been relieved by counterpart units leaving Seattle early in April.

"B" squadron of Lord Strathcona's Horse will be with the last wave, leaving Yokohama in early June after relief by "A" squadron, which leaves Seattle with other replacement units in May.

Throughout the whole move 200 men a month will be returning to Canada by air, after being relieved in their units on a man-for-man basis.

New Red Charge

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio charged today that United States aircraft had dropped in North Korea "miniature bombs resembling toys for the sole purpose of murdering children."

Atomic Cannon Test

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP) — The United States Army's huge 280-millimetre cannon will be used to fire atomic shells at the Nevada proving grounds this spring after crews are trained here. Maj.-Gen. A. M. Harper, commandant of the artillery centre, said the gun can fire both conventional and atomic shells.

Birth Rate Soars

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's birth rate in December soared more than 2,000 above that of the same month in 1951, while there were 500 more marriages and 50 more deaths. Figures for the month with December 1951 in brackets are: Births 10,889 (8,770); marriages 3,496 (2,997); deaths 4,071 (4,022); and stillbirths 173 (162).

Population Gains

Canadair Takes Over Fleet Plant

PARIS (AP) — Robert A. Farquharson, a Canadian newspaper man, will arrive here tomorrow to begin an extensive survey of the North Atlantic council's information service.

Farquharson will make the survey in co-operation with T. F. N. Newton, also a Canadian and NATO's public relations director.

Newton, who has been on loan to NATO by the Canadian government, returns to Ottawa in six weeks for a new assignment in the department of external affairs.

Nato sources say privately that Farquharson will replace Newton, but NATO has not officially confirmed this.

The public relations survey, part of an over-all NATO council study, was set up by Lord Ismay, NATO secretary general.

Farquharson was for eight years managing editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, and during the last 18 months editor of the weekly, Saturday Night.

U.S. Army Sees Lakes At Lower '53 Levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States Army engineers said Friday that the peak levels of the Great Lakes should be lower this year than they were in 1952, when the five states urged action to control the water levels which had caused damage estimated at $61,000,000.

Engineers' studies announced Friday indicated that Lakes Michigan and Huron will be almost 2½ inches lower this year, Lake Ontario almost 11 inches lower and Lakes Erie and St. Clair slightly more than one inch below last year's top.

An estimate for Lake Superior, which is still falling, will be made later.

Visiting Climbers Enjoy Tackling Rugged Trossachs

One of the most popular spots in Scotland for Canadians is the area near Edinburgh known as the Trossachs. Here the mighty crags and stones with their softening touch of jewelled locks remind them of the Laurentians, and spots in Nova Scotia.

After busy sightseeing sprees in the capital city, a trip to the Trossachs is an ideal way to spend a day. Buses leaving from near the Sir Walter Scott monument on Princes Street, make an all-day circuit which includes Stirling, the rugged and beautiful Perthshire Hills, Loch Katrine, Callandar and Loch Lomond. Every mile is full of beauty and has a story.

The Trossachs is well named for it means "Bristled Region." The actual area is said to lie between Loch Achray and Loch Katrine, the latter of Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake" fame. From Loch Katrine, you can take a delightful boat trip to Ellen's Isle and the heather-covered hills make a gorgeous background.

STIRLING GATEWAY

The gateway to this lake region is Stirling, 36 miles northwest of Edinburgh. Here, as in the capital, a huge fortress-castle dominates the town from a high cliff. The highway winds close to the spot where Robert the Bruce defeated the English at the Battle of Bannockburn.

Through the gorgeous Perthshire Hills and past Aberfoyle and Loch Venacher (site of the duel between Rhoderick Dhu and Fitz James) the visitor keeps savoring new delights. Callandar, a delightful town which reminds you of a Swiss village with its snow-covered mountain framing the end of the main street, is an excellent place to lunch.

BEAUTIFUL LAKE

From Callandar, the tourist enters the lake country proper and what is actually the door to the Highlands. There are a chain of lovely lakes all the way to the queen of them all, Loch Lomond. The mountains, 2,500-3,000 feet high, make a fine background for beauty lovers. Tea at Tarbet on Loch Lomond, is an experience also not to be missed.

A longer holiday in the Trossachs is perfect for those who are seeking a change or rest from the hustle of city life. All the towns have attractive and inexpensive hotels or inns and if you like to do it in style, you might spend a few days at the luxurious Trossachs Hotel. Hiking and climbing are popular attractions and for those interested in the past, this section of Scotland offers a fund of stories and folk tales.

A Tax On Knowledge And On Information

We are in complete agreement with the protest of the Toronto Globe and Mail against the taxes which are levied on books in Canada. Virtually every book sold here, whether printed in this country or not, pays sales tax. If the book comes from another country, it pays customs duty as well. The result is that books are more expensive in Canada than in the U.S.A. or any other country of the British Commonwealth. Consequently an ordinary novel may cost $4 in Canada which could be bought in the U.S. for $3, and on books of non-fiction the prices rise even more sharply. A Canadian of literary or scholarly habit, one who wishes to gather together a private library for pleasure or as a professional necessity, is penalized by his country as such a citizen is penalized in no other civilized land.

* * *

The Toronto morning paper has called this a tax on knowledge. As such it is comparable to the tax on information which the federal government also levies; we speak of the sales tax on newsprint which greatly increases the production costs of Canadian newspapers. It is odd that a government which imposes no tax on magazines or comic books taxes works of art and works of learning, and taxes the paper upon which the news of the day is made available to the public.

* * *

Or rather, we should say that such conduct would seem odd to anyone who had not made a study of the temper of our Canadian Parliament. It is a Parliament in which no matter of any literary or artistic consequence is ever raised, and in which an appeal for consideration for readers of books would fall upon the ears of men who obviously read little themselves, and whose wants are supplied, gratis, from the Parliamentary library. It is a Parliament in which literature is mentioned only when somebody wants to ban something, or when an honourable member has heard (usually at second-hand) that something broadcast by the CBC has offended someone whose chief concern with the arts is to find offence in them. It is a Parliament whose style of oratory has been touched as little by the literature of the past or of the present as human utterance, in the English tongue, can possibly be. It is a Parliament which regards the designing of a National Library as a matter of so little consequence that it can be jobbed off to an architect arbitrarily chosen—without any enquiry as to what the other architects of the country might be able to offer in the way of a great building. It is not a Parliament which is contemptuous of art or literature; there is not a jot of malignance or calculated discouragement in the honourable body. It is—dismaying to relate—a Parliament for which art and literature have no existence.

* * *

It is also, of course, the Parliament which we have elected. But in this respect it is wildly unrepresentative of a large and intelligent minority of Canadians who resent taxes on knowledge and information, not only for their cost but because they are out of tune with the Western civilization in which Canada is a partaker. These are not taxes which become a twentieth century democracy; they are the greedy levies of the Philistines.

How Cosmopolitan Are The Metropoles?

This is the time of year when other sports are dragging and the annual Toronto-Montreal game of jeers and cheers gets its innings. The game got off to a fulgent start in Saturday Night with Hugh Garner defending Toronto's culture and proclaiming her vivid character, and Hugh MacLennan protesting that Montreal's reputation for badness was in danger of a white smear. With dignity we refrain from entering the contest, calm in the knowledge of our own city's pre-eminence in everything but gaudy houses and purple bars. However, we throw out a few statistics to fan the scrimmage and give the panderers of opinion some faggots of fact.

Montreal, that is, the thing known as Greater Montreal, had 1,395,400 people when the last census was taken. Toronto, oh yes, Greater Toronto, had only 1,117,470. So, at the very feet of the matter, Montreal has a leg up. But the number of people is not the sure determination of metropolitan status; after all Mayor Houde would make two of Mayor Lamport. What kind of people are they?

Toronto leads (relatively) in pattering infants; it had 104,456 between the ages of zero and four, Montreal had 148,702. But in the colourful crux of the population, the teen-agers, Montreal had more than its share—120,668 compared with only 69,373 Toronto pre-adult problems between the ages of fifteen and nineteen. The forces were about equal in sober middle life—210,600 in Montreal between 35 and 44, 173,215 in Toronto. But in the final age—the patriarchs and matriarchs imposing their conservative hand over the morals of the city, Toronto lost; it had more people aged 70 or over than Montreal: score—Toronto 57,047, Montreal 51,047. It may be, however, that the elder Torontonians are more skittish than their Montreal counterparts, for they have only lately had the jag of the cocktail bars.

According to some stories, what makes a city cosmopolitan is the number of unattached people drifting through its streets, dens and restaurants. Montreal is far in the lead in this characteristic. It had 331,096 single people aged fifteen and over; Toronto had only 229,215 to lead the carefree Bohemian life of the bright street lights, dim cafes and chromium drugstores. But Toronto had an edge over Montreal in the number of divorced people—if divorcees are as gay as people make out—2,032 in Montreal, 4,966 in Toronto.

The cosmopolitan nature of a place is basically determined by the variety of races. Both cities had as many, but Montreal had the traditionally more volatile and sparkling, Toronto had the sober-sided ones. Here are the figures, Montreal leading: of French descent 900,825 (31,853), Italian—30,722 (27,962), Jewish—71,441 (59,448), Russian—6,921 (5,846). Here are the reputedly sober racial strains, Toronto leading: of British stock—812,498 (307,236), German—19,329 (7,329), Polish—26,998 (13,663), Dutch—12,452 (2,035), Ukrainian—29,262 (11,154).

As we have already said, we have no wish to enter the Toronto versus Montreal game; we have other fish to fry and Toronto and Montreal cook their own goose, anyway. But for the benefit of the players who do take a turn at the annual mid-winter sport, we may point out that the cold figures seem to show that Toronto has to overcome some basic disadvantages—and we do not refer to the number of churches it has; actually, Montreal has more—before it can prove to us that Toronto has character, colour and dazzle outshining the metropolis of Montreal.

No Opposition To The American Government

To Canadians reared in a parliamentary tradition, it is a strange fact that there is never an Opposition to the American government. There are Democrats in Congress during a Republican administration; there are Republicans there during the rule of a Democratic cabinet. But there is never an official Opposition or a leader of the Opposition. Thus there is no Opposition party policy, ever.

Before an election campaign a U.S. party's policy is not really an important question. The voter takes it for granted that what the opposition candidate says (the candidate opposing the party man seeking re-election) has no necessary relation to what he may do once he is elected. And once elected, he and the new Government are in the saddle for four years. In Canada and Britain the policies of the Opposition are important, because of the simple fact that an Opposition party stands ready at any moment, and not just once in four years, to take over the government.

Another curious aspect of the American system, as it has worked out, is the lack of any substantial opposition—even during an election campaign—which radically differs from the Government. Democrats and Republicans are often distinguishable only by the buttons they wear at conventions; and there may be more variation within the party than without. For instance, Southern Democrats are more Republican than northwestern Republicans. Really different parties and policies do not exist, for practical purposes, in the States. The Socialists there have no hope of forming a government in Washington or in any state capital. Liberals and Conservatives are quite close together in Canada; but Canada at least has a substantial CCF party, which has an important voice in Ottawa, and forms a government in Saskatchewan.

Railway Strike Averted

Good sense and a forceful reminder by the Prime Minister of the national importance of the railways when he called company and union leaders to conference, have removed the spectre of immobilized trains. The trainmen have secured a twelve percent. increase in pay and a forty-hour week. The settlement seems fair. At least it is a settlement; the trains will continue to operate. When company accountants get their figures sorted out we shall know how much the greater pay for less work is going to cost the Canadian people generally. There have been earlier pay increases, through negotiations, all across the line. The companies have already placed before the Railway Board, a parliamentary agency, requests for permission to increase rates. Whether additional increases will be asked as a result of the latest settlement remains to be seen.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: My latest fountain pen gave up the ghost today. There can be no question about it, there is some fundamental antipathy between me and fountain pens. I cannot compute how many of them I have owned, but the number must run into three figures. Some of them have been expensive, "lifetime" jobs, each of which the salesmen assured me I would be able to pass on to my heirs as a precious heirloom; others were cheap articles, gaudy in colour and apt to lose their caps and spill their contents in my pockets. But all have declined to serve me. The latest, an English pen in the medium price range, perished of a ruptured ink-bag, which caused it to ooze horribly over my hand; it demanded a special ink, made of lamp-soot and treacle, which I obligingly bought for it, and as this ink is indelible I now have one black hand and one white one. I suppose I should carry a wooden pen and a bottle of ink in my pockets, or perhaps an ink-horn and a quill, but I obstinately try to keep abreast of modern science, and tomorrow, with a heavy heart, I shall buy another doomed fountain pen.

◇ ◇ ◇

MONDAY: Passing second-hand store today I saw a curious object in the window which called up a whole forgotten chapter in my past life. It was a stove, made of iron which had been unconvincingly painted to simulate mahogany, and it was shaped like an old-fashioned Victrola. Across its front in bold letters, was the name "Furniola." Years ago I used sometimes to visit a house which contained one of these monstrosities; the owners were convinced that nobody would ever guess its secret, and they used to explain delightedly that although it looked like a gramophone, and gave an air of cultured ease to their living-room, it was in fact a stove. As the creature was usually white-hot, and blistering, this rarely came as a complete surprise, and I never saw any deceived visitor try to put a Victor Read Seal record of Caruso singing "Santa Lucia" on it. But those were the days when the essence of successful interior decoration was that everything should look like something else, and all sorts of mysterious booby-traps were to be found in the best-appointed dwellings. Even telephones were hidden under dolls with long skirts, and nobody who was not in the secret was able to make a call.

◇ ◇ ◇

TUESDAY: The trouble with Mother Nature is that she will not behave like a lady. Some friends of mine who are fond of animals have had a nasty instance of the old joker's malignance and nastiness recently. They keep newts in an aquarium; I am not a prominent newt-lover, and my only anxiety about these creatures is that they should stay where they belong when I am present. But to the true newt-nut they are remarkable, because they have lived in their aquarium for three years, growing slowly, and if they can hang on for another ten or twenty years they will be lizards. But stay—I should use the past tense. For a week ago my friends got a kitten, a delightful ball of fur with such taking ways that it might have come direct from Walt Disney's studio. Butter would not melt in the kitten's mouth. But today it ate the newts. What happens when the apple of your eye suddenly eats the apple of your other eye? What happens when darling pussums becomes a savage little monster and devours your cherished newts, who have advanced so far on the long road to lizardhood? These are problems for the pet-people; as a philosopher I view them from afar, and you may interpret the twinkle in my eye as you please.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY: Tonight I went to see the National Ballet Company of Canada, and the theatre was so full that I had to sit in the front row, with my feet in the orchestra. I rejoice that a Canadian Ballet can draw such crowds, but my nearness to the string section of the music was very distracting. The double-bass player, for instance, seemed disgruntled with his part which was a wearisome, toneless zum-zum from start to finish; he kept murmuring, quite audibly "Oh, this is stupid! Oh, this ridiculous!" The 'cellos, who were directly in front of me, were reasonably reconciled to their work, but two of the second violins, who were also within my range, never quite played together, and from time to time let out the most damnable squeaks and croaks which were not in the music. I was sorely tempted to tap them on the shoulder and say "Girls, you are taking money under false pretences; you ought to put in a hard two hours practice every morning for a month, to loosen up those pretty wrists." But I was afraid they might tell Petrillo about me, and have my passport cancelled as a subversive character. The big laugh came when the conductor called on the orchestra to bow to the applause which the dancers had earned, and they did so, with straight faces.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: I never cease to be astonished at the books which appear in the twenty-five cent reprints. Today, in a heap of these, I saw "A General Introduction to Psycho-Analysis," by Sigmund Freud. The cover showed the heads of some dazed looking girls and one man, floating in what looked like cigar-smoke. I suppose this was to indicate that psycho-analysis was good for clouded minds. But I will not discourage anyone from reading Freud; after Karl Marx, he is the most-quoted author by people who have not read his works, in the world. I have read Freud with some thoroughness, and I am often astonished by the fanciful notions that are attributed to him. He was actually a man of deep caution and remarkable common sense.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: Seized a chance to see the new Shaw film, "Androcles and the Lion," and was disappointed in it. Shaw's play is a short one, and this piece had been padded out to the length of a feature film with some dialogue which had obviously been left over from "Quo Vadis." Whenever the dialogue was genuine Shaw, people woke up, when the padding was in progress, they slumbered or fidgeted. One sufferer behind me murmured, "Jeez, is this ever a corny film." I seemed to hear the ghost of Shaw agreeing. There was, however, an excellent performance by Maurice Evans, as Caesar, and the man behind me (whose conversational style seemed to be in a rut) said "Jeez, does that guy ever hate himself." This was an oblique compliment to Evans' excellent portrayal of imperial self-satisfaction. When Shaw's "Major Barbara" was filmed, the discussions on religion were intensely interesting, and audiences followed them with eagerness. But in this piece the Shavian clarity was fogged by something fluffy and sticky like white of egg. The whole sorry business suggested to me that a Shaw film, made without Shaw's restraining hand, was a mistake, and that a lot of fine scenery and several first-rate actors had been sadly misused.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: Took part in a sing-song, and in the middle was struck by the thought that the less meaning the words of a song have, the more popular it is likely to be. This is especially the case with Spirituals; I sang about the Big Wheel going by faith, and the Little Wheel going by the Grace of God, and I sang about Bones, Dry Bones, and I sang endlessly that I wasn't goin' to grieve my Lord no more, no more, and as I sang I reflected that in all of this hokum there was none of the sinewy theology on which I was brought up, and which has been the mainspring of my life. But I can see that a Spiritual which attempted to deal adequately with Original Sin, the Fall of Man, or Predestinate Grace, would probably not be very catchy. When Spirituals were exhausted I sang that "One pink porpoise popped up the pole, While the other pink porpoise popped down," and that "One warm worm wriggled up the walk, While the other warm worm wiggled down" and found it refreshing. It is relaxing to make a rhythmic noise for its own sake, without worrying about what it means. Probably what is wrong with modern poetry is that poets fret about meaning and forget the charms of rhythm.

BIRD OF PARADISE

Plain Mr. Manitoba

(SASKATOON STAR-PHOENIX)

THE SASKATCHEWAN government has a constitutional worry. Its neighbour, the government of Manitoba, owns the mineral rights on some 20,000 Saskatchewan acres, acquired during one of those deals with railway builders which were common around the turn of the century. Now these mineral rights have potential value, and Manitoba is said to want to lease them, under it own regulations.

Obviously, an uncomfortable situation would arise if it did so. For one thing it would be highly confusing, not to say impractical, if exploration for and production of oil in the area in question had to be conducted under two distinct sets of official regulations. For another, how would the Saskatchewan government go about taxing the Manitoba government on the mineral rights if the latter chose to take refuge in the traditional concept that the Crown is exempt from taxation?

The whole business may look like manna from heaven to constitutional lawyers. To us, unencumbered by any legal knowledge, there seems to be no problem at all. Within the geographical boundaries of its province and the constitutional boundaries of provincial jurisdiction, as set forth in the BNA Act, the Manitoba government is, unquestionably, the boss. But as the owner of property located in Saskatchewan it is surely just plain Mr. Manitoba, and subject, as such to Saskatchewan law. Or hasn't Manitoba heard that "imperialism" and "extra-territorial rights" have gone out of fashion?

Dr. Clark's Estate

(WINDSOR STAR)

IT IS AN intriguing bit of information that the man who for two decades had such an influence on Canada's fiscal policies should have died a relatively poor man. Dr. Clifford Clark, former deputy minister of finance, left but $14,412, a very small estate for a man of such great capabilities in money matters. There will be different interpretations placed on this fact.

The cynical will make snide remarks that a man with such a large say in the finances of the nation must not have been very smart at all, else he would have compiled a much larger estate. If he couldn't save more than $14,000 out of the salary he made, what right had he to exercise such control over the finances of the people?

This, we think, is a superficial and wrong view. If Dr. Clark had been thinking only in terms of his own financial interests he would not have stayed in the government service. He would have accepted positions in private life which would have paid him much more. He was interested more in service to his country than in his own financial status; in seeing more than $2,000,000,000 in national debt being paid off than in obtaining large personal surpluses.

Also, the taxes which Dr. Clark recommended be imposed helped keep him from amassing a much larger estate, an effect they have had on many other Canadians.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL.

A sentimental woman was married to an unromantic man. One evening she said to him with a sigh: "Would you ever mourn for me if I were to die?"

"Oh, yes," he mumbled "of course I would."

"And would you visit the cemetery often?"

"Certainly," he said, with a little more animation. "I pass it on the way to the local, anyhow."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou are loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified god. And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

The Lord then answered him and said, Thou hyrocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him. (Luke 13: 10-17).

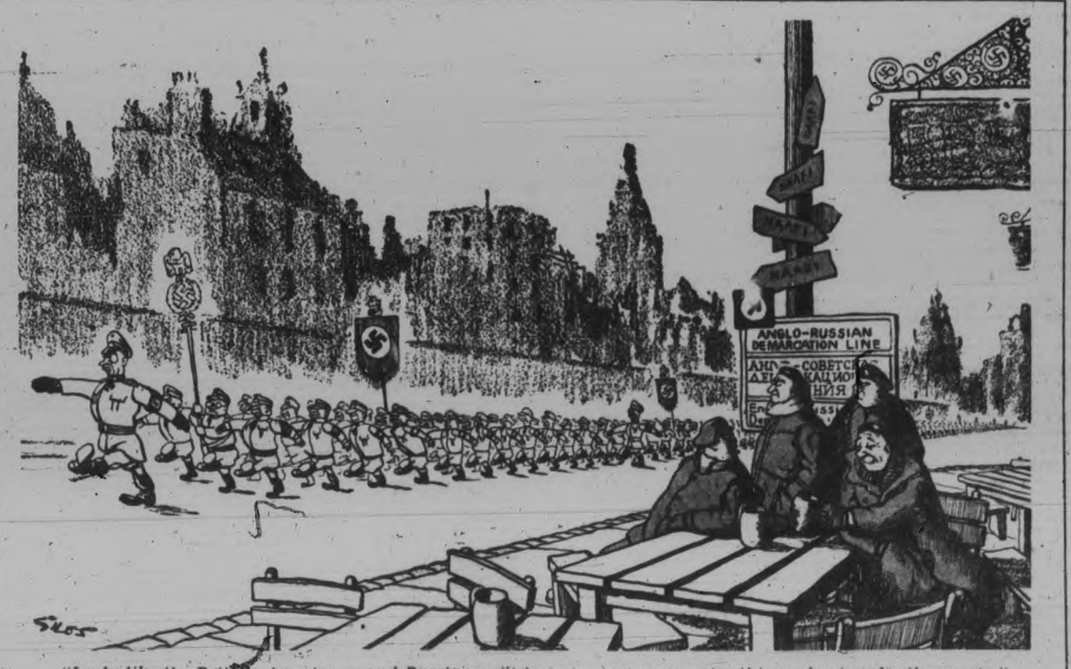
◇ ◇ ◇

No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit. (I John 4: 12, 13).

Senator David

(Montreal Star)



For a great many years the tall, distinguished figure of Athanase David graced Quebec's legislative halls. His translation to the Senate in 1940 was in some sense a political retirement, for it was in Quebec that he did his best work and acquired a reputation for administrative ability of a high order. The period of his incumbency as Provincial Secretary was fruitful. To his initiative we owe a great many measures that brought permanent change to the social structure of this province.

One of his earliest speeches was on education and it made a mark. He will be best remembered for his work in this field. His name has become associated with the David Prizes, literary prizes designed to encourage Quebec talent and he would have been glad to be remembered for this alone. But there were in fact other undertakings that will leave a more enduring mark. They are not commonly associated with his name, nor did they all spring from his initiative, but what he did was to promote them in the Legislature and make them acceptable to a public reluctant to embark on that course which leads to the welfare state.

Carleton Shows The Way

(Montreal Star)

With the objective of raising the standards of the civil service in this country at all levels, Ottawa's Carleton College has taken, as recently announced, a most commendable step. Next fall the College will open a Graduate School of Public Administration for post-graduate study in what is coming to be recognized as a highly important field. This is a development of an interest fostered at Carleton College since its beginning, and one which should exert a major influence on the quality of public administration.

"Looks like the British, Americans, and Russians will have to start saying nice things about each other again."

NICK NICKELS

The following letter came in the mail this week. It contains invaluable information for our district wolf hunters. The letter said:

Dear Nick:

Since arriving in Peterborough a month ago I've been reading your column and listening to the local types exponding on their frequent wolf hunts and all the wolves that get away.

Perhaps you have already heard of it but, in the event you have not, I'd like to suggest a sure-fire method of getting rid of the local wolves.

Some of the trappers in the North where I was stationed for some time as a Game Overseer claimed that the best and easiest way of outsmarting the wolf was by the knife.

A hole is made in the ice on a lake or stream in which the hilt of a knife is immersed. When the hilt is frozen in position, blade exposed, a drop or two of Whisky Jack (Canada Jay) saliva is massaged along the cutting edge. The wolf cannot resist this concoction, sniffs at the bait and starts licking. When his tongue begins to bleed, the taste of blood is too much for him and he licks himself to death.

Best regards,
JOHN VAIL.

I understand that, now and then, after the wolf has finished licking himself to death, he also skins himself at the same time.

The writer, John Vail, was a radio station announcer on CHEX who left here for a Timmins station. Something must have appealed to him in the district for he is back — been here a month and works for restrauteur Dave Foster.

There was also a card from sportsman-lecturer Bill Lang from Tuscon, Arizona. Bill and his wife arrived in the sunny South-west the third week in January from Alaska and the Yukon country. Part of their northern wanderings took the Langs 700 miles down the Yukon River on a movie quest.

Many Peterborough folk who listened to his lecture at the Collegiate auditorium a year ago last spring would like to hear and see results of Bill's more recent travels. We hope Peterborough is on their next lecture circuit route.

Pheasants For The Peasants

Since renovations are being made to the trout hatchery at Codrington, south of Campbellford, the plant is not idle. It is one of the two provincial game bird hatcheries raising pheasants.

During the past season the Codrington and Normandale hatcheries have distributed 36,000 pheasants to the forestry districts of Huron, Simcoe, Trent, Quinte and Rideau.

Northumberland and Durham counties were stocked with 3,500 poults and chicks in an effort to increase populations, and sport, close to our home county. And despite the increased hunting pressure, conservation officers have noted an improvement in district pheasant flocks.

* * * *

Experience has shown hatchery managers that the old method of distributing eggs to all parts of the province was not the answer to increasing populations. Instead, birds are hatched and released to areas that are suitable for their survival where weather conditions, soil fertility, natural vegetation and so forth are found.

Once again scientific knowledge gleaned from extensive surveys has triumphed over the willy-nilly distribution of game bird stocks that were often directed to suicidal areas by pressure groups.

If the situation is allowed to continue as it is at present a natural increase of pheasant populations will be sustained and hunters will benefit.

A Short Line From the Cutting Line

A news release from the Department of Lands and Forests, Queen's Park, this week tells in general outline of home-town surveyor John G. Pierce's boundary survey job. It was reported at great length in this column two weeks ago.

Mrs. Pierce on Bolivar St., has more recent news and from mail received as late as Friday morning she learns that:

With two forestry ski planes the party were able to move most of the crew and equipment inland to a starting base on Painter Lake three days after arriving at the railhead (Geraldton). Weather caused the delay.

Temperatures have been consistantly 20-25 below with three feet of snow.

The country is rough and has many windfall trees on the planned survey line right-of-way.

Many moose tracks have been seen close to their temporary camps and also those of lynx. No game has been actually spotted but John DID see a rabbit.

The boss, in getting used to northern winter footwear again, had blistered feet at the last time of writing.

Evergreen Gardens In The Snow

Peterborough district's biggest and certainly prettiest, snowfall came down quietly this week. The drab November-like city and country landscape was transformed into clean beauty everywhere. On the grounds of city homes clinging blobs weighed down bare garden bushes, ornamental tree plantings, fences and arbours. Some citizens have managed to enjoy the dull snowless winter in well-heated private conservatories but even these few places could not compete with the beauty of nature. The cross light of low afternoon sun dramatized the heavy snowfall for a short time before a fresh wind knocked the snow from trees and bushes. Aside from snow being a thing of beauty to city dwellers it is of major importance to farmers who, mindful of the drought of last fall, know that every snowfall from now until the spring rains start will help next season's growing season immeasurably. — (Examiner Staff Photos)

Oh! New Seed Catalogues

By HENRY FREE (NEA)

The arrival of the new seed and nursery catalogues is indeed welcome, because each one gives descriptions of new plants available to the gardener. Many of the newcomers are annuals and perennialus which merit consideration. There are also several flowering shrubs offered that would enhance the beauty of the springtime garden.

The gardener can while away dreary winter days by browsing through the new catalogues.

While the descriptions seem almost as highly colored as the illustrations, most of us will probably add some new varieties to our gardens.

Since many gardeners wish to grow flowers which are as colorful in the house as in the garden, consider the new trysomic hi-double stocks which made west coast gardeners happy last year. These new stocks are said to produce 85 per cent or more double flowers, the highest percentage of double blooms which stocks have ever produced.

They come in seven colors: Chamois, deep rose, lilac-lavendar, purple, red, white and yellow. A San Francisco seed company has added these sensational double stocks to its line.

Sweet alyssum has long been a much-desired annual, as it is easy to grow and is ideal for edging the flower beds, and for planting between stones in the walks. For the first time since its inception, the 1953 All-American Selections Committee has awarded the silver medal to a sweet alyssum.

The prize winner, named "Royal Carpet," is colored a rich purple and is an excellent flower. While its upright growth is seldom three inches high its spread may be as much as 20 inches per plant. The flowers are fragrant and last well into autumn. Seed sown in late April will result in bloom by early July.

The old-fashioned fragrant flowering tobacco, or nicotiana, has long been a standby in the annual border. Its only drawback is its habit of closing up tightly when the sun is shining.

However, a new strain which remains open during the day may be substituted if one wants day-and-night color and fragrance. This variety, called "New Sensation," should be obtainable at the better seed stores. In addition to white, this nicotiana comes in shades of crimson, bright scarlet, rose, mahogany, violet and yellow.

There are also two new Shasta daisies. The first one is "Wirral Fride," a profusely flowering hybrid from England, with flowers three to four inches in diameter. The heavily crested short white petals in the center produce a semi-double effect.

Equally good but far more prolific is the "Mark Riegel," with as many as 15 to 20 flowers four to five inches across on each plant at one time.

Gardening Questions

Q—Our evergreens were bent over badly by heavy snowfall last winter. Do you think it does any harm?

A—It certainly doesn't do any good. It is not difficult to shake the tree or run a snow shovel up and down the branches, removing most of the snow. Better yet, support the plants with stakes or erect some sort of a substantial covering.

* * *

Q—How soon can branches of Forsythia be cut and forced into mid-winter blooms indoors?

A—At once. Forsythia normally requires three weeks and Peach and Quince a week longer. If possible immerse the entire branch in a tub of warm water for several hours after first bringing indoors. Then place in deep containers of water and spray the tops daily with water. Full sun is not necessary.

Poole Of Poole's History A Man Of Many Spirits

By E. C. GUILLET, M.A.

The parents of Thomas Wesley Poole removed from Kilkenny, Ireland, to Upper Canada in 1831, and he is believed to have been born the same year, probably in Carleton Place, where the family resided. He was educated at Victoria University, Cobourg, from which he received the degree M.D. in 1856. For eight years he practised medicine in Asphodel Township, Peterborough County, residing in Norwood in a terrace on Water Street, in the vicinity of the present war memorial.

Dr. Poole was a highly public-spirited citizen. In 1861 he was treasurer of the township. At various times letters of his on public affairs appeared in the local press. Prior to his graduation in medicine he was the superintendent of schools for Asphodel, and a letter in the first issue of the Colborne Transcript and Castleton, Percy, Hastings and Norwood Advertiser (printed at Colborne, January 19, 1856) illuminates this side of his life:

INSPECTOR REPORTS

"The examination of the Norwood Grammar and Common Schools was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst. Your space and my time will not suffer any minute details. Suffice it to say that in the many and varied subjects in which the classes were examined they acquitted themselves most creditably, and reflected the highest honor upon the excellent teachers under whose care they have the good fortune to be placed.

"The existence of such a school is a boon of inestimable value to those residing in a remote section of the country, placing them, in an educational point of view, upon an equality with the more favored residents of the frontier townships. The new school-house, built of brick and resembling in size and appearance the town-hall of Peterborough, is rapidly approaching completion; and from the increased accommodation thus provided, and a continuation of the valuable services of Mr. and Mrs. Daunt, we have reason to expect a still more auspicious future.

"Here my remarks might close, and should do so were it not that the mind is led involuntarily to contrast the present efficient system of teaching with that which prevailed only a few years ago in our country schools. Many of your readers can call to mind the time when Walker's Dictionary was placed in their hands, and they commenced the hopeless task of committing it to memory.

"Visions of the well-thumbed Maver and the perpetual English Reader, sandwiched with certain rude hieroglyphics, bedimmed by the falling tear and overshadowed by the awful birch, still haunt the minds of those who have survived those melancholy hours. What wonder that school was voted a gloomy place and learning a drudgery! But the scene has changed, and with far less labor and much greater efficiency we have learned—

'To pour the fresh instruction o'er the mind.'

"We rejoice to know that the other 'branches,' besides those of the willow, are now appreciated in our schools, and trust that the portrait of—

'The whining school-boy with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school.'

will be found to be only a portrait of the past, and that its original will be very seldom seen in the future.

"T. W. POOLE,
"Local Superintendent, Asphodel.
"Norwood, Dec. 24, 1855."

PUBLIC DINNER

When Dr. Poole decided to remove from Norwood to Peterborough in 1864 his work was recognized by a public dinner in his honour, on September 23rd or 24th. We have no details of this testimonial to his public service in Asphodel. A keen interest in newspaper work led him to become editor of the Peterborough Weekly Review, and it was while so employed that he compiled his history of the town and county of Peterborough.

His book is among the earliest and most valuable of Ontario local histories. When he wrote, in 1868, many of the very first settlers were still living, and he availed himself fully of their reminiscences and their knowledge of what even then were very different and seemingly far-distant times. He used documents that no longer exist, newspaper files which were subsequently destroyed by fire or negligence, and obituary notices which not infrequently contain all that is known of persons of local prominence.

HISTORY OF PETERBOROUGH

In his preface he observed that there was little or no disposition to save local records: that "in none of our public offices has much attention been shown to preserve and hand down to futurity current and evanescent records of the time, which will, by and by, be of rare value and historic interest".

Dr. Poole writes a well balanced history of the county. He does not over-emphasize the contribution of aristocratic elements in the population, nor devote undue space to individual families. He observed, indeed, that while capital for enterprise and development came from such people, it was the poor and humble, the hard-working and industrious, who made a success of farming, while those who had, in the Old Land, been accustomed to "respectability" and culture, quickly supplemented their failing capital—and spirits—by securing government appointments, or left their land for places or occupations "more congenial to their tastes or more suited to their abilities".

BALANCED WORK

The greatest subjects of controversy in pioneer times were politics and religion, but Dr. Poole deals with restraint with each, and softens all references to bitter disputes and high-handed actions. It would be difficult to establish either his church or his party from any comments in his book. Full praise is bestowed on officials who performed yeoman service in their day, and the cloak of charity is drawn over occasional instances of public scandal. The memory of a family early settled in the village of Norwood—that of Peter Pearce—is perpetuated in words that anyone might envy.

His hourse, ve are told,—"was open to all comers, with the most generous hospitality. Travellers and others in a constant stream were kindly fed and housed by this gentleman and his amiable wife, free of expense, in a manner of which few in later times have any conception, or would care to imitate. Being then the only commodious dwelling in the place, public and religious meetings were held in the house, the inconvenience cheerfully borne, and all made warmly welcome."

A local history is not usually characterized by flowery language, but Dr. Poole's description of the first fur-trader's location on a Rice Lake peninsula approaches the poetic:

"What a lonely situation three-quarters of a century ago, yet not without its picturesque attractions! The sparkling lake in front, redolent with life amid its grassy deeps as yet scarce conscious of the hook or spear,—the moaning waves dashing upon the silent shore, beyond which rose the giant forest, vast, interminable. And then the drifting snows, like a great winding sheet, which for half the year closed up the scene."

TO LINDSAY

In 1870 Dr. Poole removed to Lindsay, where he carried on the practice of medicine until 1904, when ill health forced him to give up active work. He died on August 27, 1905, and was buried on the 30th of that month. For many years a Methodist, Dr. Poole had become a Roman Catholic in later life.

Petes Beat Quinte Squad By 4 To 3 In Overtime To Keep In Playoff Race

BELLEVILLE (Special)—It looked to be all over but the shouting, with the Glen Roys holding a precarious 3-2 lead when out of nowhere flashed Gus Leonard to park the puck behind Goalie Parisi and it was all tied up. The clock read 28 seconds to go in the third period in what proved to be a blistering duel between the Petes and the Glens. The Petes won it in overtime 4-3. There was strategy, good and otherwise, in a game that developed from a lethargic first two periods into a blazing duel in the third heat and the extra session.

The Petes' mentor played it the right way. With a goal down and nearly three minutes to go in the game, he yanked Goalie Ray Harding and an inch nearly turned the tide when Red Doran's skittering shot missed the open Petes' goal by that margin. Back went Harding and as time was running out Gus Leonard in a last-minute desperate drive with Montgomery slammed the puck past Parisi in the Belleville nets for the tying tally.

TOODIE SCORES

The Petes, inspired by the last-second salvation, matched the desperate Glens in the driver for the winner. Play surged up and down the ice and after three minutes of play Toodie Greenlaw proved the hero when he slammed in Chum Fryia's pass. The Glens drove back hard but the stiff checking of the Petes frustrated their offensives and that was that.

The win brought the Petes within three points of the Glens who are in second spot in the eastern division of the group.

The Petes can thank Chum Fryia for the victory. The fleet winger was never in better form and he slammed home two goals and assisted in Greenlaw's game-winning tally in the overtime period. Harding in the Petes' nets deserves special credit. He kicked out Glen rubber from all angles at all times.

HOW IT WENT

The teams broke all even on period scoring. The Petes cracked the ice early in the first period when Fryia took Leonard's pass to beat Parisi. The Petes were a man short and Fryia flashed down on a breakaway. Sammy Mullholland got that one back when he golfed a sizzling drive at Harding and raced in to score from his own rebound. Fryia put the Petes one up on the prettiest goal of the night. He grabbed the puck behind his blueline and weaved his way through the Glen team to park the biscuit. Three minutes later, Red Doran flipped the rubber from behind the Petes' net to Peter Jones and the sorrel-top made no mistake. The same combination clicked after 58 seconds of play in the third period with Jones feeding the playing-coach a perfect pass-out to give the Glens the lead. From then on it was dog-eat-dog hockey.

Play was fast and the checking hard with the laurels going to the Petes. The clock read 17:14 when the Petes' coach yanked Harding in a desperate move. Red Doran missed a free goal by inches and a few seconds later Harding was back. The Petes roared in and as the crowd started to leave Gus Leonard slashed home the tying goal with 28 seconds to go.

Came the overtime and Greenlaw's goal and that was that. The game was cleanly played with Referees Jim Crombie and Bill Reason handing out 10 penalties, all minors, with seven going to the Glens.

The Doran-Jones-Mulholland line was the most effective for the Glens; each scored a goal with the two redheads grabbing assists.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Harding; defence, Leonard, Montgomery; centre, Fryia; wings, Greenlaw, F. Mortimer; subs, Floyd, Spiker, Hill, Legrow, Wasson, Godfrey, Mason.

Belleville: Goal, Parisi; defence, Goyer, Schreider; centre, Doran; wings, Jones, Mulholland; subs, Mulvihill, MacDonald, Wardhaugh, Day, DeGray, Semark, Bastedo.

Referees: Jim Crombie, Bowmanville, Bill Reason, Kingston.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Fryia (Leonard) 7:09
Belleville—Mulholland 9:56
Penalties—Goyer, Schreider, Mulvihill, Armstrong.

Second Period

Petes—Fryia 11:00

St. Peter's Fall To Toronto In Hoop Frays

Toronto St. Michael's strong senior and junior basketball quintette handed St. Peter's High Saints' their thind straight setback in Ontario Catholic Conference play Friday night in Toronto. The Toronto senior cagers overwhelmed the senior Saints 60-28 while the junior Saints were edged 36-29.

St. Peter's scoring star Doug Galvin was checked closely by St. Mike's and held to only two points. But shifty Fred Legros led the Saints with with 13 points in a losing cause.

Meanwhile the whole St. Michael's team, with the exception of Ford, took part in the scoring. They were paced by Turano with 13, Lynch with 12 and Novak with 11.

AN EARLY LEAD

Turano and Novak placed the Toronto cagers out in front 17-8 at the first quarter in the senior game. Novak with six points in the second allowed St. Mike's to stay in front 28-19, despite a scoring spree by Legros.

Lynch and Turano combined with Matsalla, Newman, Scarano and Clark in the third quarter as St. Mike's sank 20 points, at the same time holding St. Peter's to four. Both teams went through the motions in the fourth.

The junior game was much closer but again the ability to score by nearly every member of St. Mike's gave the verdict to Toronto.

St. Mike's Waters with four baskets and a foul shot paced the Toronto cagers to a 23-15 score despite the work by Board, Quinlan, O'Rourke and Killen.

Waters was silenced in the second half and the Saints then managed to eke out a one-point lead, 14-13, but not enough to overcome St. Mike's first half lead.

Quinlan, with eight points out of the Saints' 14, kept them in the game during the last half. Hanagan and Nash, coupled with Isomey, Love and Nash, scored just enough to give St. Mike's the win.

Quinlan led the scoring with 12 points closely followed by Toronto's Waters with 10.

Lineups—

Senior—St. Mike's (60)—Matsalla 8, Lynch 12, Novak 11, Egan Newman 5, Turano 13, Scarano 2, Ford, Waters 2, Flannigan 2, Murphy 3, Clark 2.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's still January and darned if that unseasonable OASA secretary Frank Feaver hasn't blossomed out with his fifth 1953 softball bulletin! Can't the guy wait till approaching the time of the annual meeting Easter weekend? No, softball seems to be a year-around job and pleasure for the feverish Feaver, bless his stash of statistics. He says in this issue that the OASA is proud of its 371 registered umpires, and extends thanks to all Local Umpires Associations. We are pleased to pass this on to local and district arbiters, who are seldom remembered except maybe on the annual tag day for the blind. And then with disfavor.

* * * * * *

Actually, we haven't anything much against ball umps or lacrosse and hockey refs. Mostly they're pretty capable and do a good, if thankless, job. It's impossible to please everyone, so there'll always be plenty of beefing at the officiating in games. They're not infallible, though, and make some mistakes, too. A couple of years ago we wouldn't dare say this as the printer who set our column was umpire-in-chief of the men's City Softball League, and there would have been the devil to pay. He's on another Linotype machine now—that's why we're so brave. Seriously, we've leaned over backward giving the umps a break, even if at times it has seemed necessary to blast 'em in print.

* * * * * *

Completely In Charge

Feaver points out that the convener is in charge of all OASA playoff game arrangements, but the umpire takes over complete control once the game starts. He adds that the penalty for an illegal pitch is the call of time by the umpire and a ball called against the hurler. We recall a hot playoff betwixt Red Sullivan's and Johnny Russelle's teams when Red protested that Bob Greenlaw was using an illegal delivery, and the ump decided that Bob was—thought he'd pitched that way all season. His nibs began calling balls against Bob till it wound up in quite a hey-rube or, as some say, a rhubarb. No one noticed that the umpire was at fault, in any case, as he failed to call "time" each time he deemed it an illegal pitch. Ah, well, the umpire's lot is not a happy one.

* * * * * *

Oddfellows couldn't stand prosperity and kicked away a four-point OHA junior "B" tilt here last e'en. Had a lead for two frames—and should have earned a bigger margin on their play——but Oshawa battled back gamely to sew it up and then win out 9-7 in overtime. Visitors had just 11 men, but five guys named Chirka, Reid, Piontek, McDonald, O'Connor and Lawrence, turned in a whale of an effort to keep their club in the hunt for a playoff spot. Links looked weak defensively, while up front the young line of Kearns, Gardner and Doris showed most. They're still in fourth spot by a fair margin. Next games for 'em are here Friday and away Saturday.

* * * * * *

Glens Worried Now?

Don't count those scrappy Petes out of the senior "B" hunt yet. Minus Bill Crowley and Doug Hunter last gloaming, they eked out a 4-3 overtime win 'gainst the Glens in Belleville to creep to within a game and a half of the Quinte crew. Same squads clash here Monday and that'll be the big one of the year here. If the Petes can take it, they should roll right into the playoffs—if they drop it their chances are just about washed out. It's that important. They came up with a starry effort last p.m., all starring from Goalie Ray Harding out. Chum Fryia was hitting on all eight to score two and aid Toodie Greenlaw with the overtime winner. Gus Leonard shone, also, with an early assist and the tying marker late in the third. Monty and Army also were in on the scoring in a clean, fast fixture.

* * * * * *

With Bob Thorpe a free amateur agent again, the Petes would sure like to sign him for the Monday melee here, and they'll have Bill Crowley on deck for this one. Maybe Doug Hunter, too, if the OHA gives him permission to play pending his hearing. Petes go to Kingston on Friday. Wonder how Mike Rodden feels after writing yesterday: "It is thought probable that when the firing is over in Belleville the Petes will subscribe to the opinion that they are not going to make playoffs, unless the age of miracles has been revived." Hah, good old miracle! Scoring list from Oshawa as of Jan. 27 shows Scott of Oshawa leading with 46 points, followed by McCrone, Samolenko, Partis and Favero. Tops for the Petes, according to those figures, was Fryia with 31, one more than Greenlaw.

Local Curlers Capture Burden Trophy

By HERB. MARTIN.

It's true our curlers did not win the Ontario Silver Tankard, but did the next best thing — they won the second event, the Burden Trophy. And it is just 13 years ago (1941) since our club won this trophy.

Getting away to a bad start in Oshawa on Thursday morning, our boys made a smart recovery, and came through to win the Burden Trophy from the Ottawa Club, at the Toronto Granite Club on Friday afternoon.

It's a long grind to win one of these events, and it takes plenty of time. Our boys played five games all told, winning four and losing one. When the boys arrive home today, we may get more information about the games. The rinks:

Lakefield Bows To The C's

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — About 700 fans saw a total of 29 goals scored in a TVL encounter between Campbellford and Lakefield at the community arena here on Friday evening.

Of the 29 goals, Campbellford scored 21 and Lakefield netted 8. In spite of the lopsided score, the Lakefield team put on a good show, and bottled the local team up on many occasions. Even when playing one and sometimes two men short, the Lakefield boys carried play into the Campbellford end of the rink, and kept it there. Some of the passing plays by Birch and Lonsberry completely fooled the Campbellford defence, and it was this pair that accounted for most of the success of the visitors. Hill, in the Lakefield goal, drew rounds of applause from the crowd in recognition of some of the saves he made.

The Lakefield team, plagued by injuries and lack of local players deserve more support than the fans of that town have shown recently. They went down to defeat in Campbellford, but they went down trying.

The game roughened up somewhat during the last part of the third period, due largely to the fact that the heavier and faster Campbellford team were carrying the play, and the visiting squad thought they had to try different tactics to stop them.

The total score piled up in Friday night's game is believed to be a record for the present season, and may have established some sort of record in TVL play of recent seasons.

Campbellford — Goal, Nelson; defence, Free and Baker; centre, Simpson; wings, Reid and Jeffs; alternates, Blake, Herrington, Payne, Eady, Wilson, Cole, Pace, Taylor, West.

Lakefield—Goal, Hill; defence, Sabatino and Hopkins; centre, Fawcett; wings, Birch and Lonsberry; alternates, P. Calberry, A. Calberry, Knox, Winger, Watson.

Oshawa Juniors Capture Overtime Tussle, 9-7 Against The Triple Links

Firing home two goals in overtime here last night, Oshawa Bees buzzed through to a 9-7 OHA junior "B" triumph over the local Oddfellows before a slim crowd at Civic Arena. It was a four-point game and kept Oshawa in the race for the fourth-place playoff slot, presently held by Oddfellows. Doug Mortimer's crew led most of the way and had a good margin on territorial play till out in the third. They had a 3-2 bulge in the initial inning, were on top 6-5 to end the second, but the battling Oshawa boys (just 11 on the team) made it 7-all to push the tilt into overtime. Play was quite speedy, especially in the last half, and generally clean, despite 22 penalties, 12 going to the winners.

SCORED FOUR

Joe Reid paced the victors with four goals, but O'Connor was highly effective also with a marker and five assists. McDonald clicked for two goals and one assist, as Piontek hit the mark once and helped on three more. Lawrence was their other sniper with a goal and two assists. They had some excellent netminding by Chirka to rob the Links on numerous occasions.

The Oddfellows' scoring was well spread around with singles by Gardner, Kearns, Twist, McCracken, Frizzelle, Coyle and McDougall. Doris clicked for two assists, as McCracken, Wilson, Pue and Coyle chalked up one each. The "pepper line" of Kearns, Doris and Gardner looked good over the route, while Wilson played a lot of defence.

KEARNS TALLIES

Lawrence drew an early cross-checking penalty, followed by Myles for holding, and then Gardner for high-sticking. One was back when Kearns counted in close from Doris. All returned and Twist tallied with a slap at Coyle's passout. Wodinsky was gated next for elbowing and Reid talked himself into a misconduct over it. It cost a goal as McCracken's high hard one beat Chirka, assists going to Pue and Wilson. Kearns went over for cross-checking and Coyle drew a similar penalty, the pair costing two goals. Reid got in first with O'Connor's pass, and then the latter slipped one to Pointek for a backhand marker. Gurney left for interference and an IOOF goal was called back for a man in the crease.

Early in the second, Kearns and Pointek roughed it a bit to be chased, and McDonald followed for holding. Frizzelle scored off a defender and, with the sides even again, McDonald got it back on a slap shot on a play built up by Pointek and O'Connor. Coyle's hard shot hit the hemp, but Reid scored a deflected one from Lawrence and O'Connor. Pointek high-sticked himself into the sin bin, and McDougall promptly scored with neat finish on a good pass from McCracken. Sullivan went then for holding and Reid's screened shot from Piontek beat Delahaye to make it 6-5.

FAST STEPPING

Both sides flew in the tight third stanza. Doris got a hooking penalty but no damage resulted. The McDougall line pressed for a space and then Johnston was waved away for tripping. Gardner wheeled in rapidly to cuff home Doris' rebound and they looked to be home free. Twist and Chirka roughed it up, the former being cut on the side of the head, and minor penalties were given. Lawrence blasted home a bullet drive from O'Connor and, with all back again, Reid raced in close with Piontek's pass to sew it up at 15:45. Twist was chased later for hooking.

In the extra heat, O'Connor whistled the disc in from McDonald at 4:55 after a corner faceoff in Oddfellows' territory. Chant returned from a holding penalty, and Twist was chased once more for cross-checking, McDonald getting the insurance marker on Lawrence's pass with half a minute to go. Frizzelle and Myles roughed it for penalties in the last few seconds of play.

Oshawa: Goal, Chirka; defence, Johnston and Chant; centre, McDonald; wings, Lawrence and Wodinsky; alternates, O'Connor, Piontek, Reid, Gurney and Myles.

IOOF Goal, Delahaye; defence, Wilson and Frizzelle; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle and Ferguson; alternates, Sullivan, Byrne, McDougall, McCracken, Pue, Kearns, Doris and Gardner.

Referee, M. Walsh linesman, B. Kingdon.

Rematch Yukon And Red Mask

Yukon Eric, after losing a dubious mat decision here Wednesday, demanded a return match with the Red Mask along with a different referee. Both requests have been granted and these two grapplers will headline next Wednesday's wrestling card at the Brock Arena.

The Red Mask has shown in his two appearances here that he is about the cleverest wrestler of them all. Eric is still burning at the way the Mask trapped him into losing the deciding fall. He says he won't be tricked this time and vows to use the Kodiak Krunch to subdue the Unknown. He failed in this week's go to manoeuvre the Mask into position to apply the feared hold, winning his only fall with a full nelson. Big, fast and smart, the hooded one will be hard to beat.

Yukon Eric

Popular Earl McCready appears in the semi-final with the Un-Masked Marvel, Frank Valois, as his opponent. This match will produce plenty of action.

Frank Taylor opens proceedings against a newcomer, Ovila Asselin of Montreal. Asselin is highly-rated.

Ace Bobsledder Dies As Sled Leaves Run

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN Germany (AP) — Felix Endrich, Switzerland's world champion bobsledder, was killed today in the crash of his four-man sled in a trial run before the start of the world championship contest.

Endrich's sled skidded over the high wall of the dangerous Bavarian curve and sailed nearly 40 feet through the air before it smashed against a tree.

Endrich, 32-year-old office equipment salesman from Zurich, married only last month, won the two-man bob sled championship last week-end.

He was pulled from the sled with a shattered skull and pronounced dead on arrival at Garmisch Hospital.

Two other members of Endrich's crew, Aby Gartmann and Rene Heiland, were badly, but not critically injured.

Canadiens Get Fresh Chance To Fatten On NHL Small Fry

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens, fresh from a double victory over the tail-end New York Rangers, get another opportunity this week-end to fatten on National Hockey League small fry. In the role of victims this time are Boston Bruins, a fading fifth in the league standings. Lynn Patrick's club faces the unhappy prospect of a visit to Montreal's Forum tonight, an overnight train-ride and a return engagement with the front-running Habitants at the Boston Garden Sunday.

The Canadiens in mid-week seemed to thrive on that kind of schedule. They whipped the Rangers in their own backyard for the first time all season Wednesday night and did it again in Montreal Thursday. A week earlier they pulled the same trick on Toronto Maple Leafs.

Maurice Richard appears to be the key to the Canadiens' success. The Rocket is sizzling at a goal-a-game clip over the last seven games, only one of which was a Montreal loss. He scored two against the Rangers Thursday.

Detroit Red Wings, currently a single point behind Montreal in the standings, have tougher opposition to contend with this week-end, but won't have to do any travelling between games.

WINGS MEET LEAFS

The Wings are scheduled for back-to-back home stands against Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs, two clubs currently tied for third place, seven points behind the Wings.

Losses to both clubs could put a crimp in Detroit's prospects of catching the flying Frenchmen, but the Wings' losing nights are likely to be few if Gordie Howe keeps his scoring touch.

The NHL's ranking marksman Thursday night fired three goals to pace the Wings to a 5-2 victory over the Hawks at Chicago. That made it 32 markers for the season, and Gordie generally improves in the closing stages.

The Rangers, an in-and-out club in recent weeks, spend the week-end on the road as they tackle Toronto Saturday night and Chicago Sunday.

Ontario Jockey Club Shows Neat Profit

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Jockey Club and its subsidiaries made a net profit of $187,570 during the year ended Oct. 31, the annual report states. There were 70 racing days.

The company plans an improvement and modernization program at the Fort Erie track this year and to make improvements at Woodbine. It will dispose of the Hamilton race track property for commercial real estate development.

During the year, the company may hold 84 days of flat racing at Woodbine and Fort Erie and 34 days of harness racing at Thorncliffe.

Western Football Union Meets

REGINA (CP)—Western football executives meet here today in the annual Western Interprovincial Football Union huddle and when they finish tonight or Sunday the fate of several issues will be determined.

Vancouver will be in or out of the Western Conference for 1954; the WIFU will have accepted or rejected a proposal for an increase from 8 to 12 in the import limit; several rule changes will have been discussed and probably approved; and policy for the coming year will have been laid down.

The big issue on the agenda, as last year, is Vancouver's application for admittance to the league in 1954. Earlier, it was believed the meeting might discuss at length a possible interlocking East-West grid schedule. But this was expected to be tabled in view of the eastern Big Four's stand against such a hook-up.

Vancouver's chances of entry appear good prior to the meeting.

IMPORT QUOTA DEBATE

The increasing of the import quota was expected to be voted out with little debate. Edmonton said it would ask a boost to 12. Calgary was pleased with the present eight and would request that this remain intact in 1953 and Saskatchewan and Winnipeg both opposed any increase in the quota.

The league was expected to approve a motion that the Canadian Rugby Union change blocking rules to allow backfielders to block 10 yards downfield, the same as linemen now are allowed.

Green Bay Packers Of NFL Real Diamond In The Rough

This is the last of a series on professional football in the United States. Today's story discusses background of the National Football League and operation of Green Bay Packers.

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—In U.S. professional football, where the difference between profit and loss for most teams is often a Sunday-afternoon rainstorm, the popular Packers of Green Bay, Wis., are a real diamond in the rough.

Green Bay, a city on Lake Michigan, has only 53,000 people—smaller than most of the cities in Canadian football where operating costs are considerably less than in the U.S.— and certainly the smallest of any club in the 12-team National Football League.

And with a stadium seating only 25,000, compared with the 100,000-seat cave in Los Angeles, anyone would think the Packers really had something to worry about.

That's not the case, however and the smooth operation of the team is a tribute to the operators and the sports-minded fans of Green Bay.

"There's only a certain amount of amusement money in any town," says Bert Bell, commissioner of the NFL. "In order to get your share you've got to give the public what they want."

Green Bay Packers give their public a team that, while it may not win all its games, it is never dull, always unpredictable.

The Packers have an advantage of a lower stadium rental than the 15 per cent of gross paid by other teams but they also succeed by charging an average of $3.40 a seat for home games, highest in the league. The fact that they have what Bell describes as a "terrific following" speaks well for the management.

The present setup for pro football in the U.S. came into operation in 1949. The 10-team NFL had been fighting for years with the All-America league for players and salary costs were being driven up.

At the time, the AAC had eight teams — Baltimore, New York, Brooklyn and Buffalo in one conference; and Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles Dons and Chicago Hornets in the West.

When the two leagues merged in December, 1949, San Francisco and Cleveland came from the AAC into the new 12-team league. Philadelphia, New York Giants, New York Bulldogs (later Yankees), Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Detroit, Los Angeles and Green Bay came from the old NFL.

Four teams went out of existence —Baltimore, Buffalo, Los Angeles Dons and Chicago Hornets.

But no thought was given to dropping the Packers. They were welcomed into the new circuit—recognized as an example of how a football team should be run.

Ballet Company From B.C. Enters Festival

VANCOUVER (CP)—When the Canadian ballet festival is held in Ottawa this spring the British Columbia entry is expected to receive more than its share of the attention.

For the first time in the five-year history of the festival B.C. will send east a composite ballet company made up of the best dancers of four different groups.

Last year two separate companies of 20 members each made the trip.

How the novel idea of merging four rival groups into a single company will work out, nobody is yet quite sure. Yvonne Firkins—whose brain-child the co-operative effort is—admits frankly that it's just an experiment.

Mrs. Firkins, western representative for the festival association, explained that finances have made it necessary that only one company from the province take part in the festival.

COSTLY BUSINESS

It costs at least $7,000 to put a B.C. entry in the festival and since the association is able to advance only $1,500 for train fares, more than $5,000 must be raised locally to sponsor the company.

At present four choreographers are working independently with their own dancers preparing ballets which will be submitted to adjudication here in mid-February.

When the ballets to be presented at Ottawa have been selected by adjudicator Margaret Lloyd it is planned to recast the corps de ballet with the exception of the principal leads. In this way the company will embody the best talent of the four groups.

The four choreographers submitting ballets are Mara McBirney, who took a company to the festival last year, Rosemary Deveson, Heino Heiden and Len Gibson.

Eleven ballet companies in all will be taking part in the festival—called the "show-piece of Canadian ballet"—to be held in the week of April 27.

Bookie's Brother Guilty

NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Gross, 26-year-old brother of jailed bookie Harry Gross, was convicted of perjury Friday by a jury. Jackie was accused of lying to a rackets-probing Brooklyn grand jury which produced evidence to smash his older brother's $20,000,000-a-year gambling ring. Harry Gross currently is serving a 12-year term for bookmaking.

PETERBOROUGH RINKS, skipped by Dr. Ralph Clark and Gar Braund, won the Burden Trophy Friday in Toronto as Kingston again won the Ontario Tankard. In the consolation event finals Dr. Clark's rink soundly trounced I. L. Merriman's Ottawa rink to give Peterborough an eight-point margin despite the loss suffered by Gar Braund's rink, 16-10, by P. Butterworth of Ottawa. The Peterborough rinks were: (left), Garth Braund, Johnny Johnston, Bun Worton and Errol Hanbridge; (right), Dr. Clark, Zimmel Levine, Bert Mortlock and Stu Williamson. Clark Wins Consolation In Toronto Tankard 'Spiel

TORONTO (CP)—Kingston curling club won its second straight Ontario Silver Tankard Friday by again beating out Oshawa. It was the sixth time in the history of the 79-year-old competition that Kingston has emerged victorious and the second time a club has battled its way into three successive finals.

The eastern section of the province coralled the major portion of the honors as Peterborough won the Burden Trophy; consolation event of the tankard, and Oshawa the Globe and Mail Trophy. Galt won the Governor-General's trophy for the western section.

Kingston defeated Oshawa 32-19 in the finals. Oshawa, which won both the tankard and the Governor-General's trophy in 1951, had nosed out London rinks 31-19 in the semi-finals. Kingston had eliminated Allenford 38-12.

GALT WINS

Galt faced stiff competition in the Governor-General's Trophy with a 24-20 win over Hamilton Thistles, veteran competitors in tankard play. The consolation event of the Governor-General's event, the Globe and Mail Trophy, went to Oshawa with a 33-20 win over Fergus.

In the premier event of the bonspiel, the tankard play, Kingston took the lead over Oshawa in the final on the third end when Reid scored three against Brownlee and Sands piled up a four against White. They were never headed and piled up such a lead that Oshawa conceded before the completion of the regulation 16 ends.

Four clubs entered the semi-finals with chances to win two of the four events, but none came through. Elmvale lost both chances in the semi-final while Hamilton Thistles and Kingston each lost one semi-final while Oshawa went to two finals. Kingston and Oshawa came through to win one event each but Hamilton and one Oshawa rink lost in the finals.

8-SHOT MARGIN

Peterborough took the Burden Trophy by eight shots due to a big margin piled up by Dr. R. Clark over L. L. Merriman of Ottawa while Garth Braund of Peterborough was losing 16-10 to P. Butterworth of Ottawa. At one time the two games were tied 5-5 but Clark drew away with several big counts.

Hamilton Tistles eliminated Kingston in one of the Governor-General's semi-finals by seven shots, both Thistle rinks winning, while Galt won from Elmvale by eight shots. C. McCune piled up a 19-7 win at the expense of W. S. Campbell and this more than offset the 15-11 win scored by F. Ritchie of Elmvale over R. J. Carson.

In the final Galt and the Thistles won and lost a game but McCune finished with a nine-shot majority over F. Thomas while Dr. Mason could only work out a five-shot win over Carson, Galt winning by four shots.

Fergus knocked off Orillia in one of the Globe and Mail semi-finals 26-22 while Oshawa took Chatham by 10 shots in the other. In the final, Oshawa won 33-20. Kerr of Oshawa and Menzies of Fergus finished 15-15 but McNaughton piled up an 18-5 edge on Wallace.

TRY GREEN ICE

DETROIT (AP)—The ice will be green for Detroit Red Wings' hockey games at Olympia Stadium this week-end. C. L. (Red) Tonkin mixed 15 gallons of pastel green paint instead of the usual white paint with 400 gallons of water in laying down the freeze. It's an experiment. The idea of the green is to cut down the glare from overhead lights.

Britain To Select Canadian Grads

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 38 of Canada's young engineering graduates are to be selected to go to Britain this fall as Athlone fellows.

James Thomson, United Kingdom deputy high commissioner, is making a coast-to-coast tour, visiting 11 Canadian universities to make the selection. He is accompanied by Dr. William Abbott, a senior official of the U.K. ministry of education.

The Athlone fellowships were instituted in 1951, and the "first generation" of fellows will be coming home this summer on completion of their stay in Britain.

Thirty-eight fellowships are offered each year—28 to students in their final year, and 10 to graduates who have spent some time in industry. Fellows go to Britain for a two-year study during which they follow post-graduate programs of advanced practical work or research.

The fellowships are financed by the British government and the award covers all travel costs, living expenses, and any academic fees.

Bobcaygeon Rink Wins At Lindsay

LINDSAY — (ENS)—Bobcaygeon's A. Woollard's rink climaxed the five-day Lindsay McCarty bonspiel Friday night by edging L. Rogers' Lindsay rink 9-7 for top honors. Woollard's rink entered the final with a 10-7 win over Dr. J. McCartney's Peterborough rink in the semi-final, while Rogers edged past M. Shield's Lindsay rink 8-6.

In the consolation games for the Walker Trophy, S. Elsden of Lindsay slipped past C. Brown 9-7 for the trophy. Brown had previously defeated J. Mosley's Lindsay rink 9-6, and Elsden had whipped C. Lazzara of Bracebridge 9-1.

TORONTO WINS

In the second consolation J. B. Parkin's Toronto rink trounced Bobcaygeon's S. Devitt rink 15-5 for the Silverwood Trophy. Parkin had previously whipped O. Lawton's Oakwood rink 13-5 while S. Devitt had edge Lindsay's E. Nugent 8-7.

Lindsay's Herb Hardy held the Watchman-Warder's Trophy in Lindsay with a 13-5 triumph over Dave Charlton's Peterborough rink. Charlton won his semi-final game 11-7 over Dr. Brock of Oshawa; Hardy defeated H. Glassford of Oshawa 12-8 in the other semi-final.

B. McCarrell Leads

B. McCarrell rolled a high single of 367 and A. Mattucci's 874 triple was tops in the men's City Bowling League this week. For teams, Shockey's led with 3697 and Madill and Post had a high single game of 1381. Six points were taken by Madill & Post over Empress, with 4-2 wins going to Clapper, McGillis, Sunocos and Royal Yorks over IUE-CIO, Shockey's, Monumental and Payne's. The Empress special prizes were taken by A. Mattucci and B. McCarrell. J. Playford's 247 average is still best.

Neat triples were: D. Abraham 865, E. Reynolds 846, J. Goodson 724, H. Legrow 726, J. Wade 706, J. Playford 799, B. McCarrell 784, A. Pilling 758, R. Lewis 714 and A. Basciano 702. Good singles included: D. Abraham 353, E. Reynolds 332, A. Mattucci 360 and 290, J. Wade 296, H. Legrow 292, J. Goodson 282, J. Playford 283, W. Crary 294 and R. Lewis 299.

Dr. Jordan Says

Few Victims Of Rheumatic Fever Develop Damage To Heart

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The most important heart disease of childhood is rheumatic fever. Although it does attack grownups, as well, it is responsible for most cases of heart trouble in children between the ages of five and 15.

The principal complication of rheumatic fever is certainly heart trouble, since most of the other aspects of the disease clear up entirely.

It is true that many who are attacked by rheumatic fever do not develop permanent heart damage. But because such a high proportion do, the present efforts at reducing the frequency of rheumatic fever by prevention or treatment of streptococcic sore throat, and, possibly, the use of ACTH or cortisone during its acute stage, carries great importance for the future.

In these ways a great deal of permanent heart damage may be prevented. It should be said, however, that whether ACTH or cortisone will prevent heart damage even though they do act favorably on the other signs of the disease, is not yet entirely certain.

Rheumatic fever may attack both the heart muscle itself and the inner valves of the heart. The valves which lie between the heart chambers serve an important purpose in the circulation of the blood. If they are damaged in such a way as to cause the blood to flow backward into a chamber which it is supposed to have left, the heart, of course, is subjected to extra strain.

Strain of this sort may eventually produce signs of what is called heart failure. If this is noticed, the heart should be carefully examined to determine the degree or seriousness of the difficulty.

In mild cases extensive treatment may not be necessary. A reduction in the amount of exercise or exertion may be enough to bring back some reserve strength to the heart, even though this reserve is perhaps not as much of the normal heart.

REST IS NEEDED

In more severe cases, of course, not only must more rest be taken and the cause attacked by whatever appropriate measures are available, but also special treatments must be considered.

The removal of fluid from the abdominal cavity or the legs, either through a needle or by stimulating the kidneys by drugs, are common lines of treatment. Indeed, the diagnosis and treatment of heart failure of varying causes and degrees is so important that it always requires careful study by the physician and complete co-operation between doctor and patient.

But it should be remembered that heart failure comes to only a few victims of rheumatic fever, and most get well entirely or have only little trouble.

Saigh's Ouster Paves Way For Cards' New Owner

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Walsingham, Jr., probably will be the new owner of St. Louis Cardinals.

Current boss Fred M. Saigh, who agreed Friday to step out of baseball following his 15-month sentence and $15,000 fine for evasion of income tax, intimated as much today when he asserted Walsingham would be given first choice to purchase the stock.

"All things being equal," said the Cardinal president, "Walsingham will get first consideration. Bill is a capable baseball man. He is thoroughly familiar with the inner workings of the Cardinal organization and it would be of benefit to the city of St. Louis and all Cardinal fans if he were to assume control. He is a St. Louis native and worked his way up from a peanut vendor at the ball park. I'd like to see him buy the club."

Saigh said he was not prepared to place a price on his Cardinal stock which amounts to all but seven shares.

"I honestly haven't given that matter too much thought," he said. "I am trying to do one thing at a time. First, I've got to go about selecting a three-man committee to run the club.

SAIGH DENIES CHARGE

"Meantime, I'm hoping against hope that somehow, someone in the government will take it upon himself to reopen my case. I'm convinced if they'll only take the time to check my books thoroughly they'll find no evidence of any fraud."

In a 90-minute conference with Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles Friday, Saigh agreed to appoint a special trustees' committee to run the club until he can dispose of his stock.

No deadline was set for the sale of the stock.

The announcement followed long negotiations between the two Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League teams. In exchange, Guelph will get the rights to three members of the Junior B squad, Weston Dukes, and an undisclosed amount of money.

Defenceman Al MacNeil and forwards Bob Midghall and Bob Forhan will go to the Biltmore camp next season. McCreary will also return to Guelph next fall.

McCreary was Marlboros' first choice to replace Eric Nesterenko, who turned professional with Toronto Maple Leafs three weeks ago.

YOU SLIDE WITH YOUR EARS

Some people should never use the sliding delivery at all, even though they try to perfect the true follow-through. It is a physiological fact that the cochlea or inner ear contains fluid and nerve centres that give you a sense of balance. Look around amongst your friends for a moment. Some are as sure as a cat on their feet, and rarely have tumbles or bad falls. Others are continually nursing sprained ankles and broken bones because of an unnatural sense of balance.

The fact that my brother Grant and myself had no difficulty in balance during a sliding delivery I attribute to an act of God. We were fortunately born this way and can be thankful for it. For those who want to slide, you have to lean on the broom or the stone to help give them a sense of security in balance, I suggest either shortening or eliminating the slide. Otherwise you are in for a lot of disappointments. Riding the rock or riding the broom in order to copy the slide will make you a "pusher" or a "hooker." Both are loaded with disaster.

If you have to slide, use the broom as a balance with the straw pointed forward so that you will not be pulled off line as you go out from the hack. Those who are placing part of the weight of the body on the broom straw pointed behind them or at the left side will find it acting as a brake, with the result that the body swivels to the right on the slippery ice surface. This causes "hooking" of the stone towards the broom at the end of the slide and is more noticeable when an in-turn is played.

One of the most beautiful deliveries to watch is that of a player who rides his broom during the delivery and many young curlers in Manitoba have copied this style. It looks good. It feels good . . . but no Manitoba curlers will ever win a Canadian championship or high school title with this type of delivery.

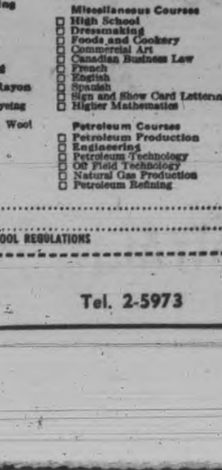
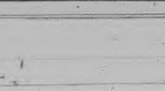
Picture yourself going places



You've done it often. Call it day-dreaming if you like, but you've seen yourself in a bigger job — giving orders and making decisions — driving off in a smart new car — buying your family a fine home.



There's nothing wrong with dreams. But how about making them come true? You can do it, if you're willing to try!

Look around you. The men who are going places are the trained men. They've learned special skills that bring them better jobs and higher pay. It's the men without training whose dreams never come true.

What are you going to do about it? Just wait and wish? If you really want to succeed, you can get the training you need by studying at home in your spare time. International Correspondence Schools offer you a course in just about any field you choose, giving you the practical plus the bedrock facts and theory. No skimming or skimping! And you'll be earning while you learn. Students report better jobs and more pay within a few months.

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Norman Robins, 26, one of two Canadian sailors imprisoned at Hong Kong, is a former Port Colborne resident who sent all his money home to treat two sick daughters, relatives said Friday.

A Hong Kong dispatch Thursday quoted a British spokesman s saying Canada has not yet asked for government intervention for Robins and Steve Hlasney, 19, Drumheller, Alta. He added: "Discussions have been held."

Robins was given 18 months and Hlasney a year for possession of a pistol. Both have appealed. Robins testified he needed money from the sale of the pistol for sickness at home.

Robins and his wife lived here until they moved to the west coast. There he enlisted in the navy and served on the destroyer Crusader.

Relatives here said that one daughter is partially paralyzed because of poliomyelitis and the other has a brain injury suffered in a fall.

Britain Builds Up Market Overseas For TV Equipment

LONDON (AP) — British and United States television makers are coming into increasing competition to reap the rich harvest of foreign television markets.

But some of the best fruit—an expected market for TV-receivers—remains temptingly out of reach, as far as Britain is concerned. Britain managed to export only 5,000 receivers, worth less than $1,000,000, during 1952.

That is because so many countries now starting or expanding young television networks are manufacturing all the sets they need for themselves.

But Britain has done better in capturing orders for transmitting and closed-circuit equipment, cameras and other TV-apparatus.

One British firm, Marconi, now is selling some $2,000,000 worth of TV-equipment abroad a year. A recent order was to set up the Italian national television network, and Britain hopes for further rich orders as TV expands in Italy

Britain has equipped TV studios at Toronto and Montreal and supplied outside broadcasting venicles there. Another dollar sale was for cameras at the United Nations headquarters in New York.

Elsewhere, Britain has built a demonstration transmitter in Siam, and will construct another this year. Britain also hopes to pick up big TV-business in Norway, Sweden and New Zealand.

Demonstrations of clinical, industrial, commercial and underwater television have been given in Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Ireland, France, Germany, Switzerland and the United States.

British color television — still a private process and not adopted by the BBC which transmits only in black-and-white — has been demonstrated in Germany, Holland Italy and Malaya.

Despite the growing manufactures overseas, British business men reckon the rest of the world will adopt TV so fast now there long will be a rich export field for the two which first put television on its feet — the United States and Britain.

Burt Lancaster Plans To Tour Concert Halls

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Thar's gold in them concert halls. Burt Lancaster is the latest to discover this show business truism.

Until recent years, the concert hall was the province of long-hair singers and musicians and thought-provoking lecturers. That has been changed. It started when Charles Laughton hit the road to read from the Bible and other classics. Then Chubby teamed with Charles Boyer, Agnes Moorehead and Sir Cedric Hardwicke with "Don Juan in Hell."

Laughton also directed this year's gold mine, "John Brown's Body," starring Ty Power, Judith Anderson and Toronto-born Raymond Massey. These successes have sent other artists scurrying to find vehicles for concert tours.

CHOOSES PLAY

Burt Lancaster announces that he plans to play the lecture circuit in a concert version of "The Lady is not for Burning." He would play the part John Gielgud portrayed in the Broadway run of the Christopher Fry play.

The tour will have to wait until he finishes some pictures. He's now in "Sulu Sea," then will do "From Here to Eternity," and another one.

Lancaster is intent on demonstrating his versatility. He recently did a middle-aged part in "Come Back, Little Sheba." His new ambition is to play a song and dance man in a musical. Then what?

"Then I'll direct pictures, then I'll be a dramatic critic," said the actor, who apparently doesn't like to do the same thing twice.

Cattle Breeders Discuss A1 Units

TORONTO (CP)—Cattlemen at the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association annual meeting concentrated Friday on methods of maintaining health and quality in herds.

A resolution passed asked that research begin at once to establish the best methods of proving sires at artificial insemination units so the best testing methods could be employed It was asked too, that efforts be made to increase the amount of production testing and type classification of daughters of A1 bulls so use of better sires could be intensified and poor sires eliminated

Dr. J. R. Henderson of Guelph told of experiments at the Ontario Agricultural College and in Britain with the use of frozen semen in artificial insemination units. He said tests had been successful in England after semen had been kept for 32 weeks at a temperature of 100 degrees below zero.

George Rodanz of Stouffville was elected president.

The Ontario Percheron Club at its annual meeting turned down a suggestion that resignation be permitted after grading up. L. S. Livingston of Woodbridge was named president, Stan May of Hornby vice-president, and J. M Sanders of St. Thomas secretary.

Secret Radar Chain Guards Northland

NORTH BAY (CP)—A chain of radar stations at undisclosed points north of here is in round-the-clock operation guarding Canada and the United States against air attack, Defence Minister Claxton said Friday night.

In an address to the Chamber of Commerce annual meeting, Mr. Claxton gave a detailed description of Canada's system of northern defences operating in close co-operation with the United States.

He divided the operation into three phases: Identification by radar; communication of information by wire or radio; and bases for defence aircraft.

North Bay had been chosen for one of these bases because of its strategic position, Mr. Claxton said.

A total of $10,000,000 would be expended in all at the North Bay base, and final strength would be about 1,500 men, he added.

Mr. Claxton said he expects Canada's first CF-100 squadron will operate out of the base in April or May.

Earlier in the day Mr. Claxton toured the air base here.

C.G.I.T. GROUPS PLAN OBSERVANCE OF CHRISTIAN YOUTH WEEK

Church Service To Mark Opening Of Youth Week

Next week, February 1 to 7, has been set aside for the observance of Christian Youth Week, across Canada, which is sponsored by the Department of Christian Education of the Canadian Council of Churches, whose aim is to bring young people into the full knowledge of the church.

The organizations of the Canadian Girls in Training, Explorers, Tuxis, Trail Rangers, Young Peoples' Unions all play an active part in the training of our Canadian Youth for Christian Citizenship.

To build up the spiritual, physical, educational and social aspects of the lives of Canadian youth, is the aim of the Canadian Girls in Training movement in Canada.

CGIT training and leadership may begin when a girl is nine years old. The younger members are known as Explorers, and at 12 years of age they join the CGIT organization.

Co-ordinating activities of the CGIT groups and of boys' work throughout the city, is a large job, and one which requires the careful supervision of well trained and experienced leaders. This task is undertaken for the girls by our local Girls' Work Board, under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. DeNure, and for the boys Mr. John Hunter, chairman of the Boys' Work Board.

Arrangements for a city wide CGIT church service to be held February 1, 7 p.m., in Mark St. United Church, are being made by the members of Girls' Council who will also be conducting the service. The theme, "Be Doers of the Word," and Miss Dencey McCalla, National CGIT Secretary for the United Church, will be guest speaker.

An inter-church youth fireside will be held February 8 at St. John's Anglican Parish Hall, at 8:30 p.m. The theme is "Operation Friendship."

CHRISTIAN YOUTH WEEK in Canada is being sponsored by the Canadian Girls In Training, and in Peterborough the week will open with a joint service in the Mark Street United Church on Sunday evening. Pictures ABOVE were taken of the Mark Street group and in. UPPER RIGHT, a group of girls are having their Bible study. Canadair Takes Fort Erie Plant

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Canadair Limited of Montreal, Canada's largest manufacturer of military aircraft, today assumes control of Fleet Manufacturing Limited.

Under a reorganization scheme, Fleet will operate as a Canadair branch plant, turning out components for two types of aircraft, the F-86 Sabre jet interceptor and the T-33 jet trainer. Completed parts will be shipped to Montreal where the aircraft are assembled.

Massey's Allowance Boosted To $100,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is proposing to double the annual tax-free allowance to the governor-general to a total of $100,000.

Since 1914 the allowance has been $50,000 a year. An official said the increase would recognize the great increase in costs which have occurred in the last 40 years.

The money is used to run Government House and meet the governor's obligations as the Queen's representative. He also receives a salary of $48,667 a year which, at the wish of the governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, is taxable.

Travelling expense allowances are also being increased to $12,000 from $7,800 a year.

Sees Atom Work For Agriculture

WINNIPEG (CP)—The retiring president of the Canadian Federation of Farm Equipment Dealers said Friday the prairie farmer of the future will be able to relax on his front porch, twirl a few dials and watch his atomic-powered tractor do the field work without anyone at the wheel.

Melvin Cunningham of Red Deer, Alta., told the federation's annual meeting of directors here that tractors powered with some form of atomic energy are a definite possibility soon. The know-how and equipment for remote control already were available.

But the atom-powered tractor would be possible only on large farms where it would represent a good investment, he said.

S. B. Beddell of Simcoe, Ont., was elected president.

Troop Transport Helps Freighter To Safety

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP)—The American troop transport General Hodges escorted the damaged Belgian freighter Clervaux to safety here Friday.

Four days ago heavy seas buckled the main deck plates of the 7,084-ton Clervaux. Her master, fearing the vessel would founder, radioed for help.

The 13,000-ton Hodges, en route from Bremerhaven to New York, raced 360 miles due north and reached the wallowing Belgian ship Wednesday night. The Hodges then escorted the Clervaux to the Scottish coast.

The Clervaux, loaded with iron ore, was bound from Narvik to Baltimore when the trouble developed.

Banker Gets 20 Years Embezzlement Count

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former bank president Ludwig R. Schlekat of nearby New Kensington was sentenced Friday to 20 years in prison on charges of embezzling about $600,000.

But Judge Wallace S. Gourley told the former head of the Parnassus National Bank that if he pays a $35,000 fine also given him by the court, he will have to serve only 10 years.

Schlekat pleaded guilty to juggling the bank's funds over a 16-year period. The government accused him of using the bank's own money to buy a controlling interest and elect himself president.

Heavy Trading In Past Week Tornto Exchange

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Housewives, clerks, factory workers and farmers across Canada had a fling on the stock market this week.

But the combined total of their buy and sell orders gave the Toronto stock exchange the busiest week in its history.

Low-priced mining stocks caught the public fancy as news and rumors of a big new base metal find in New Brunswick were reported. Uranium activity in northern Saskatchewan also attracted interest.

On Wednesday the number of shares traded on the Toronto exchange reached 12,264,000 — the highest ever recorded. One issue with interests near Bathurst, N.B., traded more than 3,000,000 shares that day—another Toronto record.

Sales for the week totalled 47,294,000 shares.

In Montreal sales of mining shares rose from 2,895,122 to 6,329,000 for the week.

Heaviest single trader in Toronto was Porcupine Peninsular which has interests in property near Bathurst. "Porc Pen" started the week at five cents, shot up to 27 cents and closed at 19. It traded 7,045,000 shares.

Another leader was New Larder U which netted 88 cents on the week in a turnover of 2,649,476 shares. After closing last week at $1.40, it rose to $2.65 and closed at $2.28. It also has New Brunswick interests.

How long the speculative boom will continue is anybody's guess. Friday's volume of 7,147,000 shares was down from Wednesday's peak, but was still far above the "normal" 2,500,000 shares a day.

Many observers believe the market will calm down late next week—unless some important new discoveries are reported.

The market as a whole paid little attention to the booming juniors. Golds and industrials held steady and base metals and western oils drifted slowly lower.

Toronto declined slightly for the first three days while Montreal was mixed Monday, rose Tuesday and slipped Wednesday. Toronto turned mixed Thursday and Friday while Montreal continued lower.

Losses in New York Monday were recovered in the afternoon and prices continued up Tuesday and the rest of the week.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto indices showed industrials up .73 at 325.67, golds down .64 at 82.91, base metals down 1.96 at 182.19 and western oils down 1.40 at 124.99.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .15 at 33.18, utilities up .2 at 94.0, industrials down 1.8 at 210.1, combined down 1.2 at 171.4, papers down 3.24 at 703.34 and golds down .15 at 64.83.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the New York market was up $1.70 at $115.70.

One of the measures which now becomes law gives magistrate's court exclusive jurisdiction in provincial election contestation cases. Quebec superior court formerly exercised this jurisdiction.

"THIS IS THE LIFE"—Adlai Stevenson (bottom), ex-Governor of Illinois and defeated Democratic Presidential nominee, relaxes in British West Indies. Dagga Smoking Increasing In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Traffic in dagga (marijuana), backed by powerful interests, is increasing in South Africa, according to a government committee which has been investigating the racket for three years.

The spread of dagga smoking is alarming, the committee says, and severe penalties should be imposed on growers and those selling the drugs.

Formation of a special police force is urged together with the introduction of more mobile police patrols. The committee also believes dogs should be trained to hunt secret caches and vehicles used by peddlers should be confiscated.

WIDELY GROWN

Dagga is grown in every area of high rainfall in South Africa, especially where there are Africans and where the nature of the countryside favors secret cultivation.

The traffic is extensive, highly organized and secret. Large profits are made and big financial interests are involved. There is no evidence of any monopoly and the traffic appears to be conducted on an independent and competitive basis.

All races in South Africa are involved but the African is the most active and numerous.

Dagga-smoking in moderation is fairly widespread throughout rural areas among Africans. Most tribes regard it as a tribal custom and usually it is confined to older men.

PEDDLED IN CITIES

But in the cities the practice is largely restricted to delinquent youths and young men, who smoke it in ordinary pipes or rolled as cigarets or mixed with tobacco.

Among white people the vice is largely confined to vagrants and criminals. Some women vagrants have taken to the habit. European dagga smokers are usually found in the bigger cities.

The government committee thinks it is not enough just to punish offenders. It is also necessary to improve the social and economic conditions which produce drug addiction and other evils.

"The basic cause lies in the social and economic conditions under which non-Europeans live, such as poor living and housing conditions, limited scope of employment, insufficient facilities for recreation and education and lack of parental control."

Russell To Seek Peace In Amy Of Monaco

LONDON (AP) — Philosopher Bertrand Russell told a gathering today that when he grows old he plans to join the army of Monaco and seek peace.

Lord Russell, who at 80 took his fourth wife last month, spoke at the 21st birthday party of a literary magazine called "Adam," published in both French and English.

"The French philosopher Descartes was the most comforting of men," Russell said. "He never got up till late in the morning. He hardly ever read a book. He had a passion for a quiet life—and found it at last by joining the Dutch Army.

"Armies are not what they were, but as I grow older, I hope to enlist in the army of Monaco—it is possible that there a quiet life may still be found."

"I'm not nearly old enough for that yet," he added.

Waterfront Vice Probe Reveals New Evidence

NEW YORK (AP)—The closing page of New York state's investigation of waterfront crime today contained a former magistrate's story of an alleged $81,500 shakedown on the Dempsey-Firpo fight by a millionaire shipping industrialist.

The account, given Friday by former magistrate Francis X. McQuade, represented a clear contradiction of statements made the previous day by the industrialist, William McCormack, who denied the alleged extortion.

McQuade's testimony rivalled in interest that of Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL), one of the chief centres around which the months-long state inquiry revolved.

Ryan wound up his own witness stand appearance with a statement among many other assertions, that it is possible that 30 per cent of his union's officials have police records.

After Ryan and then McQuade concluded their testimony Friday the state commission adjourned its public hearings seeking to bring into the open rackets which allegedly take $350,000,000 a year from the $7,000,000,000 shipping industry here. The commission's primary aim is to expose conditions to public scrutiny and to make legislative recommendations.

McQuade, 75 - year - old former treasurer of the New York Giants left a sick bed to go before the commission and swear he forced McCormack to return the $81,500 allegedly extorted from the late fight promoter, Tes Rickard.

The memorable heavyweight championship fight in 1923 was held at the Polo Grounds. Jack Dempsey was knocked out of the ring but came back to knock out Louis Firpo.

McCormack, who was then state athletic licence commissioner, testified Thursday and denied ever receiving the money from Rickard.

In his testimony Friday, McQuade quoted the Giants' late owner, Charles A. Stoneham, as saying the fight would not be licensed unless Rickard turned over $81,500 to McCormack. The witness asserted that Stoneham said McCormack had no right to do this.

After the bout, McQuade went on he called McCormack into his magistrate's chambers and "demanded that he return to me within two hours the $81,500 which he received from Tex Rickard."

McQuade testified that McCormack said nothing, left the room, and returned in two hours with the money.

Legal authorities said the statute of limitations would prevent any prosecution in the alleged extortion.

Skier Drowned In Quebec River

LENNOXVILLE, Que. (CP)—The body of Jean-Claude Gervais, 25, who was drowned in Massawippi river Friday while skiing in the Eastern Townships centre, was recovered today by two public works employees.

Gervais, a Canadian Pacific telegrapher at Lennoxville, was crossing a narrow railway trestle on skis when a CPR train approached. He had no time to reach shore and jumped into the river. The swift-flowing waters were not frozen.

David Conliffe of Barbados and Montreal, president of the students' council of Bishop's University here, made a courageous rescue attempt when he heard cries for help, but his efforts were fruitless

Conliffe dived into the water but could not locate Gervais.

FATHER GREETS SON—Kneeling at the feet of his son, 75-year-old Ernest Leger kisses the ring of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger when the new Canadian prince of the Roman Catholic church was acclaimed in Montreal on return from the Vatican. A huge crowd was on hand to welcome the richly-robed Archbishop of Montreal.

Poor, Yet Making Many Rich

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

"Poor, yet making many rich" that is how Saint Paul describes the condition and privilege of the early Christian believers, many of whom were evidently quite poor in worldly goods. "As having nothing," he adds, "and yet possessing all things" (II Corinthians 6:10).

It was not a chance remark or a sentimental idea on the Apostle's part, but an expression of his settled philosophy concerning the Christian's possessions. He wrote (Ephesians 3:8) of "the unsearchable riches of Christ" as the content of his preaching. But also, in the First Epistle to the Corinthians (Chapter 3:21-23), he reasoned more directly concerning the Christian's wealth.

The Christian belongs to Christ. Christ is God's. All things belong to God. Therefore, he writes to the Corinthians, "All things are yours."

There is a secular parallel in the famous saying of the pagan philosopher, poor, but with a vision: "Cleon hath a thousand acres, but the landscape I."

The cynic may protest that this sort of wealth will not pay the rent, taxes or doctor's bills, or even the expense of keeping soul and body together. There is a point in the criticism but it might also be pointed out that Paul was no visionary dreamer regarding the practical affairs of life and what we call "making a living."

He worked at his trade as tentmaker to support himself and he insisted that everybody else should work. He would have no loafers in the Christian community and when he found some taking advantage of the readiness of Christians to help one another he declared roundly that those who wouldn't work shouldn't eat (II Thessalonians 3:10).

Further, if he admonished Christians to "bear one another's burdens" (Galatians 6:2) almost in the same breath (Galatians 6:5) he qualified this with the declaration that "every man shall bear his own burden." There never has been, even to our time, a clearer statement of social and individual responsibility.

But, to get back to the matter of Christian's wealth, there is a reality of inner wealth and richness of life that no amount of worldly, material wealth or possessions can give. One who has missed the Christian's possessions has missed the greatest thing that God and life have to offer.

The late Andrew Carnegie wrote a book, "The Gospel of Wealth." It was very different from the Gospel of Christ and of the poor making many rich.

In his book, "Opinions of a Cheerful Yankee," Irving Bacheller tells of visiting Carnegie during the millionaire's later years at his castle in Scotland. The impression he got was of a sad-faced man. "In the midst of great abundance he felt the need of something which he could not buy."

There is a reality about that inner wealth of which Paul wrote —a wealth that gives to life, and even to death, a note of triumph.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NOT COON COAT YEAR

This winter has been tempered to the gabardine topcoat, lined and unlined, and also the station wagon garment. A blue Montagnac these days stands out like the rich jewel of the simile.

AT THE CITY HALL

City council meets Monday night at 7.30 and Wednesday night Ald. Syd Black will greet the citizens who respond to the opportunity of assisting in preparations for Peterborough's celebration of Queen Elizabeth's coronation.

BOOSTS POLL TAX

Instead of abolishing the $7.50 poll tax as recommended by five city officials, Oshawa council increased the levy to $10, amounting to around $17,000 this year. Ald. Gordon Attersley said property owners should not carry the entire tax burden providing roads, sidewalks, police protection and various other services used by people who do not own property.

SLIDES INTO BUS

Slippery driving conditions were blamed for a minor accident involving a city bus Friday afternoon. Mrs. Betty Browne, 270 McKellar St., was driving south on Lock St., when a city bus ahead of her stopped to let off passengers at King George St. Mrs. Browne was unable to stop owing to the slippery street and slid into the rear of the bus, causing slight damage to both vehicles.

TAKE OVER DEBENTURES

Debenture charges incurred by Smith township for laying a watermain along Fairbairn Ave. have now been accepted by the Peterborough Utilities Commission. Smith township in 1950 debentured the cost of laying the main between Bellevue St. and Highland Road. This is in the area annexed by the city so the PUC have taken over the responsibility of paying the charges. The balance to be paid is $1,353,-.54 or $225.59 a year.

FIRE DEPT. COMMISSION?

"So deplorable are the conditions in the fire protection service" in Guelph as reflected in the annual report of Fire Chief Charles Vince, that an article in the Guelph Mercury suggests that it may be necessary to transfer administration of fire departments to commissions corresponding with the police commission. Action is needed, it was said in Mercury, "that will adequately meet the needs of a growing community."

TRUCKS ARGUE

A light delivery truck, driven by Mrs. Margaret Andrew, 654 Hawley St., received slight damage to its rear door Friday afternoon when it backed into a stake truck, owned by Ronald Pace, 215 Sherbrooke St., and driven by William Henderson, 198 Rubidge St., at Park St. S., south of Braidwood Ave. Mrs. Andrew was backing out when the stake truck pulled in behind her and was about to back into a store for delivery when the accident occurred.

ATTEND METER SCHOOL

Two employees of the Peterborough Utilites Commission will attend a gas regulator school in Toronto on Feb. 4. There they will take up the manufacture and operation of gas regulators. "It will be useful to us, too, if we ever get into natural gas," said Howard Powell, assistant general manager. Mr. Powell will attend along with one other employee.

NO SHOW THIS SPRING

There will be no sportsmen's show this spring, officials of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association decided at a meeting held on Thursday evening. They plan to hold one every second year and the next will be in 1954. Prospects that the club have committed themselves to—a farm pond, reforestation and so forth—would not let the club do justice to a sportsmen's show this year, they said.

Unlucky Year

This is going to be a bad year for those whom superstition prevents from walking under ladders, crossing a black cat's path or lighting three smokes from the same match. In addition to these and other omens of bad luck, the calendar reveals that there will be three Friday the 13ths to watch out for in 1953. This year the 13th falls on a Friday in the months of February, March and November. The next two months will be especially nerve-wracking; so, there should be a boom in the sale of good luck charms.

$292 Donated To Fund To Help Corbins

A total of $292 has been donated so far to the Examiner's fund to help Henry Corbin's widow and three children as nine more donations were added to the figures published Thursday.

Corbin was hit Christmas eve and left lying on Western Ave. by a hit-and-run motorist. He died 12 days later at Civic Hospital. The Examiner's fund was undertaken to supplement donations of neighbors and hospital employees with whom Corbin worked.

Car Stolen From Used Lot

Two unidentified men had their joy-ride terminated in short order shortly after midnight today when PC Cec. Bowyer saw them running away from a 1949 English sedan taken from the Duffus used car lot on George St.

Bowyer was patrolling his beat near Charlotte St. when he noticed two men run across George St. and disappear west on King St. He gave chase but saw no sign of either man, one of whom was wearing a checked bush jacket.

Bowyer looked inside the car and found the keys belonging to it on the seat. The car was towed into the police station and later returned to the lot.

City's 5-Year Plan For Sanitation Outlined

The city's five-year plan of assisting house owners to pay for the installation of sanitary conveniences will be explained to approximately 100 of them whose properties on streets with sewers are not yet connected.

A circular letter sets out the arrangement by which the cost is charged against the property and collected in five annual payments. Many property owners have taken advantage of it, and the remaining one hundred will be requested to consider the system of instalment charge instead of having to pay for the work in a lump sum.

WHAT'S A DEGREE WORTH?

To a city public school teacher a university degree can help boost his yearly salary. An allowance by the Board of Education permits an extra $400 for a Bachelor of Arts, $150 for a Bachelor of Pedagogy, and $200 for Master of Education or Master of Arts in Education. These allowances are still payable after the maximum salary limit has been reached.

AN AFTERNOON SKATING PARTY for grades 5 and 6 St. Peter's boys was held on Friday afternoon at the Stewart-McDonnel open air rink. The boys taxed the ...rk-bench seating capacity in the rush to put on skates, ...ove, and after one and one-half hours of working off steam on the ice returned to the school for eats and further entertainment. This was not part of their regular school physical activities but an annual party.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Part Of Bethune Not A Street Says Solicitor

City Solicitor Huycke wrote for the city council a four-page report on the question of whether Bethune Street, between Perry and Lake Streets, was ever designated as a street.

His summary on that point was: "I conclude that it never was a street. Under what circumstances the railway which preceded the GTR secured right of way nobody seems to know."

When it came to the board of works this week, it was not lightly dismissed, neither were the four pages read. They were skimmed, and the aldermen were smiling when they decided to file the statement, and its final paragraph:

"I have gone into this matter at some length. The same problem, or part of it, came up in 1950 and 1951, when Sealright acquired part of the gore directly west of their lands (and fronting on Lake Street).

END OF GHOST?

"I reported verbally to council at that time, but I thought the matter was of such importance that I should report in writing, giving reasons which I hope will lay the Bethune ghost for the next 50 years . . . If council decides to convey to the CNR, a surveyor's description should be obtained."

Interest of the CNR is based on the remnant within the city of the former Peterborough-Port Hope Railway, which is now reduced in service to stub line freight connection with Millbrook.

Mr. Huycke remarked that the railway preceding the GTR laid tracks down Bethune Street, "but under what circumstances nobody seems to know."

Explicit information about the beginning of the city are so obscured by time and lack of record that the city's solicitor reports it appears impossible to obtain full and clarifying information. A lot of searching of titles of land and other questing into the Bethune Street background was expended by Mr. Huycke in getting material for his review of what happened to that section of it south from Wolfe Street to Lake Street.

Fined For Swearing

William Bronson, 22, RR 2, Peterborough, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days in jail in police court today, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by swearing at the Brock Street Arena Friday night.

RING ROT RULE

Potato growers whose crop has been found infected with bacterial ring rot must have disposed of them by today. They must not be used for seed, and if sold otherwise must be clearly labelled "table stock only". Bins, bags, etc. must be thoroughly disinfected, and new seed obtained from an approved source. A detailed report must be made to the department.

65 Years In Same Store Hooper's Moved By Change

The 65 years' tenancy of the premises at 327 George St., which the late Thomas H. Hooper rented from George A. Cox in 1888, ends this evening with the customary casual locking of the street door at the close of the business week. In this store Mr. Hooper ventured from a thorough apprenticeship into business for himself as baker and confectioner. At his death a few years ago, he left three generations of satisfied customers, many of them scattered far and wide across the continent with lingering memories of the Hooper delicacies, from the candies of childhood to the wedding cakes of their departing nuptial dinners in Peterborough.

When they come back again, as on other visits in the years since then, the old store will have disappeared in the new building which is about to be erected on the spacious corner site at George and Charlotte Streets for F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd.

Plans for this major change at the corner opposite the market clock begin with ordered vacancies effective on this last day of January, followed by the tumbling of the walls and two upper storeys into heaps of debris, and carting off for clearance of the ground area on which the modern Woolworth store is to arise this year.

HAD REPUTATION

Tom Hooper was a graduate of Long Brothers, who conducted a popular confectionery store and bakery up George Street, on the east side. They had an established reputation for the fine quality of their cakes and creams, candies and fancy breads. Those were the days when apprentices were expected to hop out of bed early and get down to the store to light fires, pump water, and generally make the place ready for the day's work.

Young Hooper had been thinking of starting out for himself, with an estimating eye on No. 327 then unoccupied. Finally, when he applied to Mr. Cox, whose interests were already expanding from Peterborough and enlarging in Toronto, the first question he was asked had to do with his experience.

"When I told him that I had been with Long Brothers and mentioned the time I had been working there," Mr. Hooper once recalled, "Mr. Cox told me that was all the recommendation he needed, and if I could get along with them and suit them as I must have done, then I could have the store, 'and good luck to you, lad.'"

"Several weeks after I had got started, Mr. Cox dropped in on his way up town from the CPR station, returning from Toronto.

"Just came in to see how you got fixed up," was his greeting. "It looks all right," he said after inquiring whether I was getting any business. The report was satisfactory, but Mr. Cox pointed around to some changes I had made. A partition wasn't good enough for the store, and some other things could be improved.

CHEERFUL HELP

"We'll just fix it up a bit, and don't worry about it. I'll look after that."

That was the cheery word of support from the landlord to the young confectioner. And, Mr. Cox was head of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, whose properties down town steadily increased until the company was first on the list of mercantile property owners.

Mr. Hooper's rent was quite plainly adjusted to the income a beginner in business might expect.

"You'd laugh if I told you, when you compare it with the rents along the street today." That was not so many years ago when the former Cox and Toronto Savings and Loan premises were passing into other hands, in a policy of disposing of its Peterborough holdings.

Mr. Hooper used to say that Senator Cox helped him when he most needed considerate dealing, and he continued his interest in the store as it grew until Mr. Cox finally severed all his old connections with Peterborough.

Mr. Hooper developed quite a substantial farm trade, and No. 327 became a crowded lunch room on Saturdays. Sandwiches, cakes or tarts and tea, comprised the simple menu, easily prepared and served. Cheese sandwiches were especially in demand, for it was a Hooper specialty to keep only top quality Cheddar, dispensed in generous helpings. But, eventually, the automobile changed that rural habit. Farmers could come and go on improved roads, as they pleased, instead of making a weekend day of it in town.

PRIVILEGE

During the week when tables were only lightly occupied, it used to be something of a privilege to have lunch with the proprietor himself. By that time it might be whole wheat bread, or Swiss loaf, with a generous cut of cheese, tea and a cream puff, with conversation that occasionally extolled the nutritive merit of Peterborough Cheddar cheese. If that branch of the dairy business has failed to keep pace with the development of the home market, it was not the fault of T. H. Hooper.

Memories of him visualize his boyhood as he used to reminisce about those days in North Monaghan on the property that has been occupied for years by Archie Patterson, just north of the big sandpit alongside the C.P.R. Once upon a time there had been a distillery beside the creek that still flows today through the property. That was prior to Mr. Hooper's boyhood, and even the name of the distiller is forgotten now. But he did remember the hopyards in that vicinity and the girls who used to go out from town to pick hops in the summer for the brewery trade, just as they still go from London down into the fertile fields of Kent.

All that past of the Peterborough of 1888 and its preceding decades is growing dimmer with each aging generation, and soon will be outside the longest memories with only sketchy records of the customs, life and times in print.

Although the Hooper name is now passing from the place of its establishment, it remains in the stores which gradually became its offshoots. The first of them will soon disappear in demolition, but there are two others on George St., one on Charlotte, and No. 327 is being transferred in business and spirit to the northwest corner of King and George Streets.

The Hooper occupation was twenty years earlier than J. W. McDermid's tenure of the corner, under the name for most of its period as McDermid and Jury's drug store. Lech's fur store is the nearest rival in continuity of business, surviving changes in name, ownership and tenancy. It will be left in undisputed position at the top of the list in time when the last of the Hooper confections and furnishings are carried out today by his succeeding sons.

Rooms Prepared For Women On Jury Duty

The bachelor atmosphere of Peterborough County's 112-year-old courthouse is being changed these days as preparations are made to accommodate women jurors for the first time in its history.

Since the beginning of the year Ontario women have been sitting on County and Supreme Court juries because of a change in the Jurors' Act. This feminine invasion of what has previously been a masculine preserve should begin in Peterborough County on March 2.

At that time the Spring Assizes open with Mr. Justice King of the Supreme Court scheduled to preside.

TWO ROOMS

To accommodate the women, who are eligible for both the grand jury and the petit jury, two rooms adjoining the Division Court offices, in the second-floor south wing of the building, have been taken over. The rooms have been painted in light colors; a table is being sanded down for use of the women; and a half-dozen bright-colored leather chairs have been purchased. Off one of the rooms there is a private lavatory.

The county property committee have spent several hundreds of dollars on new furnishings and renovations; but they consider themselves lucky they didn't have to build new rooms or a lavatory. If extensive building or renovations had been required the cost would have been much higher.

County officials are hoping after all this preparation that women will not shirk jury duty alongside the men.

"In any case," as one wag observed, "it looks as though the powder puff has replaced the cuspidor as a jury room symbol."

Commissioner Stringer To Be Buried In Bethany

Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the Ontario provincial police will be buried at St. Mary's Church cemetery in Manvers township near Bethany, where his widow, the former Gladys McKinley, was born. The funeral will be held in Toronto on Monday. He died Thursday night after a long illness.

Pallbearers will be Deputy-commissioners A. Moss and E. V. McNeill, staff inspector T. Trimble and inspectors C. F. Airey of Niagara Falls, A. McDougall of Belleville and A. R. Knight of Dundas.

Loaded Truck Crashes Into House, Bursts Into Flames, Driver Saved

With 10 Tons of Steel Aboard, Transport Fails To Make Turn In Port Hope Driver Suffers Burns Before Pulled Out

COBOURG (ENS)—A truck loaded with 10 tons of sheet steel buried itself in the brick wall of a rear sun-porch Friday night about 11:30, started to blaze and nearly began a fire in the house of James Ball on the northwest outskirts of Port Hope. The driver, Sidney Standing, Montreal, was pulled from the flaming cab in a semi-conscious condition by the owner and two neighbors, Cecil Lingard and Percy Phillips.

The driver was taken to hospital in Port Hope with severe burns, but his condition is not considered serious.

FAILED TO MAKE TURN

The truck failed to make a turn on Highway 2, crossed the yard of a service station, crashed through a picket fence and rammed into the rear of the house. No one was in the house at the time.

This is the third time in seven years that the house has been hit by vehicles that failed to get around the turn. And just two weeks ago a truck loaded with steel made the turn, but the steel didn't and it was dumped on James Ball's front lawn.

As soon as Standing's truck hit the house, it burst into flames, but before it could go too far, Phillips smothered it with his coat. As it was, it burned Standing and scorched the back of the house.

The truck punched a hole in the wall nearly as big as the cab and threw plaster and debris all over the room. It cracked the kitchen ceiling.

"Thank goodness," said Ball, "my wife and children were out at a neighbor's watching television. I was across the road at Cecil Lingard's house.

"I felt, rather than heard, the crash. It didn't take much guessing to tell what had happened.

NOT BANKED

"When we got over there, the truck was buried in the house and the truck and house were on fire. Three times in seven years it's been the same story. The turn is shaped like an upside-down saucer instead of being banked."

He said he was going to consult a lawyer to see what action he can take to put an end to the accidents.

Three years ago, a truck hit the house, broke the kitchen sink and knocked a radiator half way across the room. Residents of the area have been complaining for years with no result.

The house is situated at the top of what is known as the Walton St. hill. The highway, travelling north turns west. A service station is on the corner and the Ball house is next to the service station.

Mustangs Run Wild

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Western Mustangs ran wild here Friday night to chalk up their fifth straight Senior Intercollegiate Basketball League victory of the season over McMaster Marauders 86-49. Doug McNichol was top scorer for the Mustangs with 19 points. McTaggart led the McMaster scorers with 20.

Economy Drive Looming For Utilities?

If Dr. Gordon R. Langley has his way there'll be an economy drive this year to cut down the expenses of operating the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

The PUC haven't committed themselves on it But at the last meeting of the Commission, Dr. Langley served notice that he would press for a cost-reduction campaign. He would make a two-pronged attack on costs:

1—Cut expenses by five per cent a year for two years, if possible.

2—An intensified suggestion system, granting the employee who makes the suggestion 15 per cent of the saving.

SAVE MILLIONS

"Industrial firms, when they get the campaign going, find that they save millions of dollars, not thousands," he said. He estimated that the Peterborough works of the CGE had saved $169,000 through suggestions in 1951-1952.

Ross Dobbin, general manager of the PUC, cautioned that there was a difference between the Peterborough works of the CGE and the PUC.

"They must have 5,000 employees down there," he said; "we have about 100."

Nobody wanted to say anything against economy, so the discussion petered out at this stage. But it will likely be revived in the near future.

Bar Meet Hears Plea For Juries

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The mid-winter meeting of Ontario members of the Canadian Bar Association heard a protest Friday against abolition of the jury system for civil trials as suggested recently by several legal authorities.

A report of the civil liberties committee said the right to trial by jury is "Magna Carta right and if it is to be taken away the request should come from the people."

Chairman of the committee is Isidore Levinter, QC, of Toronto.

The report said statistics show the civil jury system in Ontario's York county costs the residents there one-fiftieth of a cent in the tax dollar.

"Last year," the report said, "we in Ontario spent . . . for alcoholic beverages $46 for every man, woman and child in our province."

Several weeks ago, Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario, in an address to a grand jury in Toronto, said it was time for a re-examination of the system in use in Ontario for civil jury trials.

Friday's report said a judge is "far removed" from the way of life of the litigant while "a jury of his fellow men selected from the same community knows the local conditions and is able to bring in a verdict in accordance with contemporary common thinking."

Cuban Sugar Floods Market PC Member Says

WALLACEBURG (CP)—J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Lambton West, said Friday night that Canada's sugar beet industry is doomed if Cuban refined sugar continues to flood the market.

In a speech prepared for sugar beet growers of this area, he said Canadian and Cuban trade officials should meet to work out a solution to the problem.

"I am confident arrangements can be worked out whereby we can not only continue but enlarge our possible markets for fish, wheat-flour, seed potatoes and other products which Cuba must import and buy from them even greater quantities of tropical and semi-tropical raw materials that will be required by the industrial machines of this nation."

He said Canadian producers did not object to the importation of raw sugar from Cuba under he 1951 agreement. But last year, 30,000,000 pounds of refined sugar were imported in addition to the 75,000 tons of raw sugar Canadian processors are obligated to take each year.

Canadian processors were unable to move their 1952 refined sugar because their regular markets were stocked up with refined Cuban sugar.

"Unless some constructive action is taken immediately to assure markets for the growers at a fair price, they can't be expected to gamble their time and money in planning their 1953 production.

"I say now without hesitation that the Wallaceburg and Chatham refineries will not operate in 1953 unless immediate action is taken to assure beet contracts between the growers and processors in Ontario."

SUSPECT SEIZED — William Davis, 29-year-old handyman, is brought into Newark, N.J., police headquarters after his capture. Police said Davis confessed to slaying socialite Mrs. Penny Coats Evans in her home at Westport, Conn. His arrest followed an intensive three-state manhunt.

Charge Reporter Obstructs Law

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto Daily Star reporter has been arrested and charged under a section of the Criminal Code in connection with the disappearance of a diary belonging to Marie Huras, 17-year-old Kitchener girl who died here last Tuesday from wounds received in a mysterious shooting.

The charge, laid against Angela Burke, 29, reads:

"On or about the 27th day of January, 1953, at the city of Kitchener in the county of Waterloo did unlawfully and wilfully attempt to obstruct the course of justice by removing a diary, the property of the late Marie Huras, which diary has or may have a bearing in respect of a charge of murder outstanding against one Kenneth Wiles contrary to section 180 D of the Criminal Code."

Miss Burke was brought to police headquarters Friday night and later released on $200 bail. She was ordered to appear in Kitchener next Wednesday to answer the charge.

Two Beamsville Men Committed For Rape

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Two men were committed Friday for trial on charges of raping a 21-year-old Welland girl last Dec. 7.

John Franko, 22, and Hugh Nickerson, 19, both of Beamsville district, will be tried at the Supreme Court sittings here in March.

The girl testified she had been walking from church to her home in nearby Vineland when two men, whom she identified as the accused, picked her up, drove to a deserted sideroad, and attacked her.

Past Coronations Had Their Awkward Moments

By RONALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen, reading the history of past coronations in England, may be thankful that her own on June 2 is being so carefully organized that few hitches or awkward incidents are likely to happen.

During the nine centuries that kings and queens of England have been crowned in Westminster Abbey, coronations have hardly ever gone smoothly.

They got off to a bad start.

William the Conqueror was crowned in the Abbey in 1066 amid the cries of the dying and with flames leaping around him.

His invading Norman soldiers posted around the Abbey in case of trouble, thought trouble had started when the Englishmen shouted and cheered inside the Abbey in recognition of William as their king. They rushed in swinging swords and setting fire to tapestries.

STUDIED STARS

The first Queen Elizabeth, the "Good Queen Bess," spent hours with her court astrologer studying the stars before she fixed a date for her coronation in 1559 and still had difficulties.

England was in the throes of a switch from the Roman Catholic faith of Queen Mary, Elizabeth's sister who preceded her, to the Protestant faith of the new queen.

The 25-year-old queen found it difficult to persuade any bishop to perform the ceremony and the Bishop of Carlisle, who ultimately agreed, had to borrow vestments for the ceremony.

OIL SMELLS

The outspoken queen even criticized the holy oil used to anoint her, saying: "It is grease and it smells ill."

George IV, in 1821, spent a fortune on his robes and had a sword specially made for the occasion, glittering from hilt to tip with diamonds, rubies and emeralds.

But George had in the Abbey a collection of London's toughest thugs, placed there in case of trouble over his quarrel with his queen, Caroline.

Caroline, charged with infidelity, was in disgrace and forbidden by George to attend the coronation.

She tried to get in and was stopped. Crowds outside the Abbey hissed and booed her and the unhappy queen drove away, to die a few weeks later.

KEPT COSTS DOWN

The most tight-fisted coronation was that of George's successor, in 1831. William IV disliked ostentation and had to be persuaded to have a ceremony at all. It cost only about £40,000 against he £300,000 spent by George IV.

When Queen Elizabeth II is crowned, superstitious people will look for omens as they have done for the last 900 years. They knew it meant bad luck when Charles I wore white at his coronation instead of the royal purple and later felt justified when he was beheaded on Oliver Cromwell's orders.

The crown kept slipping ff James II's head. He died in exile.

But the omens did not always work out badly. Queen Victoria had a long and glorious reign despite some accidents at her coronation in 1838.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Durham apparently were little help to the 19-year-old Victoria.

During the ceremony she turned to someone standing by and said: "Pray tell me what I am to do for they do not know."

The present queen will be in no such predicament on June 2. The whole complicated ceremony is being prepared with the precision of a military operation.

Still, in such an emotional atmosphere, minor accidents can happen.

Seek £1 Million To Restore Abbey

LONDON (Reuters) — Winston Churchill asked Friday for donations of £1 each from 1,000,000 people to keep Westminster Abbey from crumbling.

"Both the monuments and the stonework are falling into decay," the 78-year-old prime minister said at a ceremony launching an appeal for £1,000,000 from persons in the English-speaking world "so that the abbey can be preserved for generations yet to come."

"The soot of London must be cleaned away and the structure restored," he said, standing in the historic Jerusalem chamber adjoining the musty 1,000-year-old grey-walled abbey. "Shall we in this valiant generation allow this building to moulder under our eyes?"

He then dropped a £1 note into the tray in the chamber. The first donation had come from the Queen who will be crowned in the abbey next June 2. Other members of the Royal family also contributed £1 each.

Maritimes Editor Honored For Work

BC Drinkers Back To Two At Once

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia imbibers returned Friday to the "two-beers-at-a-time" routine.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said a recent order banning sale of more than one glass of beer at a time to a beer parlor patron has been rescinded.

At the same time, he ordered all beer parlors to make available to their customers cheese straws, potato chips, pretzels, soft drinks and fruit and vegetable juices.

This is in line with a recommendation of the B.C. liquor inquiry commission that food be made available wherever beer is sold.

For years, beer has usually been sold in B.C. two glasses at a time per customer. But the liquor act said only one at a time and Mr. Bonner decided to enforce the order two weeks ago after the liquor commission reported some tavern patrons were being sold five glasses at once. This, said the commission, was "sheer debauchery."

Beer parlor waiters protested the ciety had presented a petition rushed off their feet.

Commons Refuses Change Blue Laws

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons refused Friday to change Britain's ancient, strict and often confusing Sunday blue laws.

By a 281-to-57 vote the House rejected a measure to allow stage performances and professional sports on Sunday. It also defeated, 172 to 164, an amendment asking for appointment of a commission to investigate the whole subject. The balloting cut across party lines.

The Lord's Day Observance Society had presented a petition signed by 512,737 citizens protesting any change in the present statutes, which date back to 1625.

The old laws contain numerous anomalies. It is legal to buy a tooth brush on Sunday but not tooth paste. It is permissible to have shoes repaired but not to buy shoe laces. Many provisions are seldom enforced.

John Parker, labor member, sponsored the bill.

Record Steel Output

LONDON (CP)—The United Kingdom set records in 1952 for steel and pig-iron production. Steel output reached 16,418,000 tons, or 780,000 tons more than 1951, while pig-iron increased 59,000 tons to 10,728,000.

Revise Journalism Course At UWO

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Introduction of a graduate diploma course in journalism and revision of the undergraduate honors course in that department was approved Friday by the University of Western Ontario senate.

The diploma course, believed to be the first to be offered at the graduate level by any Canadian university, will begin next fall.

Professor J. L. Wild, head of the department of journalism, said the course is designed especially for graduates of other universities and other faculties.

The revised honors course "forces students to sample from almost every course in the university," Prof. Wild said.

Add Fluorine At Deep River

DEEP RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Fluorine is being added to the water supply of this town 130 miles northwest of Ottawa, it was reported Friday.

Residents of the area were informed 47 days after the fluorine was first put into the water that the action had been taken, Maj. F. Hammond, town supervisor, said no announcement was made because in other places which have announced similar plans people said the water tasted strange.

Dr. R. M. Taylor, medical health officer, said Deep River is the fifth Canadian centre to add fluorine to its water supply.

Dr. E. G. Sinclair, a dentist at the atomic energy project hospital and active in a campaign to add fluorine to the water here, said the chemical makes the teeth of unborn children, babies and children whose teeth still are growing "nearly twice as resistant to decay."

Force Union Secretary To Leave Africa

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Solly Sachs, banned former secretary of the South African Garment Workers Union, left for England Friday by sea because, he said, his position in South Africa "has become impossible."

Sachs was banned from his official post in the union and from attending meetings by order of Justice Minister Charles Swart under the Suppression of Communism Act.

Sachs said that if the nationalist government lost the coming election and the Garment Workers wanted him back he would return. He said he had been deprived of his living and South Africa was "a vast prison camp for me."

Ask More Time Answer Questions

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Representatives of the 3,000-member UN staff called on Secretary-General Trygve Lie Friday to give their American fellow-workers a "reasonable" time to answer complicated questions in the loyalty investigation instituted by Washington.

The UN's 40-member staff council also made clear it felt the council should have been consulted before Lie agreed to fingerprint U. S. employees of the UN as part of the security checks. Their stand was taken in an unanimous council vote Thursday.

The secretary-general, obviously disturbed by the staff council action, issued this statement:

"I have acted in what I believe to be the best interests of the UN staff. If they had any questions, I regret they did not first ask them before passing hasty resolutions which indicate a misunderstanding of the situation."

Canada's Fishing Waters Need More Protection

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should extend her territorial waters to protect her rich, off-shore fisheries from foreign encroachment, the Commons was told Friday.

The suggestion came from a number of members including a Newfoundland Liberal during debate on a government measure to strengthen control of foreign fishing vessels seeking use of Canadian ports.

The bill, eventually approved in principle and sent to a committee for study, would empower the licensing of all foreign fishing craft wanting to restock with bait and general supplies at Canadian seaports. But it makes no mention of territorial waters.

EXTENSION THREE-MILE LIMIT

C. W. Carter (L-Burin-Burgeo) said an extension of the three-mile limit was necessary. For the east coast fishery he had said a line might be drawn from Cape Sable, at the southern tip of Nova Scotia, to Cape Race, at Newfoundland's southeast corner. This would enclose in Canadian waters part of the rich Grand Banks fishing grounds.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes. VC, (PC-Nanaimo) and Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) suggested the same idea for the Pacific coast.

Instead of the present three-mile limit along the British Columbia mainland coastline, which exposes the rich fishing grounds of Queen Charlotte Sound and Hecate Strait to foreign fishing, they believed a line should be drawn along the west coast of Vancouver Island extending north to the Queen Charlotte Islands and the Alaskan boundary. This would preserve Queen Charlotte Islands and the Alaskan boundary. It also would preserve Queen Charlotte Sound and Hecate Strait as Canadians waters where no foreign vessel could fish without permission.

Angus McLean (PC-Queens) also urged a territorial waters extension.

The debate arose after J. W. MacNaught, parliamentary assistant to Fisheries Minister Sinclair, explained the bill as mainly an up-to-dating of an 1868 statute which hasn't been amended since 1913.

At present foreign vessels can enter Newfoundland ports freely under a pre - Confederation arrangement in that province. W. J. Browne (PC-St. John's West) said Newfoundland fishermen were concerned about this since foreign draggers were taking huge hauls of fish off Newfoundland waters. He asked for a statement of government policy.

Mr. MacNaught said he couldn't make one, since the situation was one that would change from time to time. The parliamentary assistant spoke in the absence of Fisheries Minister Sinclair, who had to leave the House to catch a plane for his first visit to Newfoundland since he took over the fisheries job a few months ago.

Elsewhere in the debate Mr. Carter suggested the time had come for Canada to use port privileges as bargaining power with Portugal once a big buyer of Newfoundland salt fish but who now sends fishing fleets to the Grand Banks. Leonard Stick (L - Trinity Conception) warned against any tough policy that might upset good trading relations with Portugal and other countries involved, such as Spain and Italy.

The House also discussed a government resolution for federal assumption of 37½ per cent of the cost of joint federal-provincial water conservation projects.

John Deifenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) touched off a procedural wrangle when he attempted to discuss the South Saskatchewan river project during debate on the measure. He was overruled by the Speaker and the decision of the chair was upheld by a formal vote of 70 to 30.

Mr. Diefenbaker then offered an amendment to bring the South Saskatchewan project into the debate, but again was ruled out of order. This time the Speaker's ruling was upheld by a formal vote of 67 to 28.

In each case the Liberals and Social Credit members lined up against the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF group.

Quebec Election Act Amendments Passed

QUEBEC (CP) — The legislative assembly has given final reading to the controversial government bill amending the Quebec Election Act.

The vote, 41 to 17, came Friday night at the close of four-day debate and at a time when many of the government members had gone home for the week-end. The vote was the lowest on record during the current session.

The bill, violently debated and examined down to the smallest details during the week, overhauls the electoral procedure in Quebec.

It now must go to the legislative council—provincial upper house—for discussion and be given royal assent before becoming law.

It is expected there will be a fight over the bill in the Liberal-dominated upper house.

However, voting rarely follows party lines and government measures generally get through.

DUPLESSIS RAPS LIBERALS

Before the bill came to a vote, an angry Premier Duplessis verbally spanked the Liberals for making statements "damaging" to Quebec's reputation in the rest of Canada.

He said true defenders of democracy have their opinions but also respect authority and do not give the impression all electoral workers in the province are ready to commit perjury.

Before adoption of the bill, a clause dealing with voting certificates issued at election time to Montreal and Quebec City voters was dropped.

CLAIMS VOTERS LOSE BALLOTS

Liberal House leader George Marler voiced opposition to the clause which, he said, deprived a voter who lost the certificate from casting his ballot.

A former clause stating that a voter who loses his certificate may vote provided he is identified and swears to his identity was re-established

Mr. Duplessis said the only condition added will be that the alternate procedure will be followed only if the certificate has been lost or destroyed involuntarily.

Main changes to the current electoral act are: the electoral period is extended from 47 to 53 days, no court writs may be taken against any election officer, a single enumerator system for the province, reduction from two to one in number of a candidate's representatives in a poll.

During Wednesday night's uproarious sitting, Emilien Lafrance (L—Richmond) was expelled from the assembly. He was back at his seat today.

Jap Defence Budget

TOKYO (AP) — Japan will spend 2.6 per cent of her national income for defence in the fiscal year starting April 1 if the Diet approves the budget bill submitted Friday. The 960,561,000,000 yen ($2,668,000,000) budget includes 83,000,000 yen for the national safety agency (defence department) and 62,000,000 yen as Japan's share of expenses for garrisoning U.S. security forces.

Woman Gets Divorce, Spouse In Monastery

LONDON (Reuters) — A judge granted Mrs. Eileen Newman a divorce Friday because the man she married 30 years ago has entered a monastery.

The judge said it was plain that Maj. Edward Polson Newman, 65-year-old author and father of two grown-up sons, has no intention of living with her again. She claimed Newman had deserted her.

Newman was baptised a Roman Catholic in 1945, the same year he had been appointed editor of Crockford's Guide to the Clergy of the Church of England.

Knox Presbyterian Church Reports Successful Year; Elect 1953 Officers

HAVELOCK (ENS) —The annual congregational meeting of Knox Presbyterian Church was held in the Sunday school auditorium, with a good attendance.

A pot luck supper and a short film preceded the meeting.

The minister, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson was chairman and Fred L. McKenzie the secretary. Reports presented from the various departments of the work showed that all had experienced a very successful year. The treasurer's report showed that after all expenditures had been met there was a substantial balance on hand.

The following officers were elected: Board of managers (three years), R. Anderson, J. McQuigge, H. Winter; (two years), A. Rosebush, J. Watson, O. Patterson; (one year), A. Spencer, Mr. Rennie, G. Rutherford.

Mr. Duncanson announced to the congregation that the Westwood charge would be joined to the Havelock-Norwood charge of the Presbyterian Church in March.

SOUND GROWTH HIGHLIGHTED

From every standpoint 1952 was a notable year for The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada. The Directors take pleasure in reporting that public confidence in this 55-year-old institution is revealed in new peak records of insurance purchases and of savings made by policyholders through their insurance contracts.

Service and progress were evident in increased benefit payments, an improved interest rate on invested funds, and the greatest yearly gain in insurance in force in the Company's history. The story of sound growth is highlighted by the accompanying figures.

Chief among the events of the Company year, and a source of confidence to policyholders, was the attainment of over $700 million of insurance in force. Illustrative of the rapid growth of the Company in recent years is its gain of over $100 million in force in the past two years.

The Imperial Life writes all standard forms of life insurance and pension plans; in the field of Group Insurance, Employees' Group Life, Weekly Indemnity, Hospitalization, Surgical and Medical Insurance. We look forward to continued extension of the Company's service to the citizens of this country in 1953 and the years to come.

Shyness Can Be Conquered Cannot Be Done In Hurry

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Jim is so shy, I'm ashamed of him. The more I urge him to get out and mix with the older children in our block, the more timid and sulky he gets. I don't know what to do with him."

"When I have a caller Marilyn runs and hides. She hates meeting strangers and crys if I insist that she say "Hello" to Mummy's guests."

Shyness can be the source of a great deal of misery for both a child and a parent. To feel ill at ease with others is a painful emotion. The mother who has lots of self-assurance often finds it difficult to be patient with her timid offspring.

SKILL REQUIRED

There is no use urging him to "get out and play" without giving him tools with which to play. The skillful mother can use her imagination in drawing her child into a game of an activity with a playmate. The very shy pre-school child needs supervision in his play or he is apt to be bullied and discouraged.

Making a child "be sociable" when visitors arrive is equally frustrating. There is nothing more uncomfortable for the poor caller than a hostess standing over her small son or daughter and ordering him to "be friendly."

The child needs a little time to look at the newcomer until the strangeness wears off a bit. Then if he makes any small advances, the adult who knows the ways of children will chat with him in a relaxed and natural way and not expect him to answer questions. The timid youngster usually likes his new shoes, or the color of his sweater or some other article of clothing admired.

DISCIPLINE TOO STRICT

Some children do seem to be born with a more self-conscious personality than others. But if the discipline in the home is excessively strict, fear of bringing down his parent's displeasure upon some action or remark makes him hesitant of doing or saying anything. The too protective mother who is always urging her child to "be careful" may also produce a rebellious, timid son or daughter.

Shyness can be a keen source of unhappiness to an adolescent or an adult. For that reason it is of great importance that parents do all they can to help their child conquer it at an early age. This cannot be done in a hurry. It does help a youngster if mother is encouraging or if Dad says, "When I was a kid I was often scared of other fellows. But when I got to know them, some of them became my friends. Then I forgot about myself and enjoyed their company."

The mother who prides herself on "never leaving her child in the care of others," frequently produces a boy or girl who is tied to her apron strings. How can he help but be dependent upon the only adult who has looked after him? If mother will allow a loved granny or aunty to look after Junior occasionally and search for a satisfactory teen-age "sitter" who is genuinely fond of children, the child will make real progress in self-confidence.

The shy child needs to think well of himself and gain prestige in the eyes of his comrades. If he is not good at one skill, perhaps there is something else at which he excells. Mary may be a flop at skipping but she is a whiz at roller skating. Rupert may muff the ball which is thrown to him but when it comes to skating he really shines. By praising Mary and Rupert in the things which they do easily and well, they gain confidence to try their luck in other activities. Anything a parent can do to help a child conquer shyness is very worth-while.

Tries To Teach People To Walk Again

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Pocket—sized Geraldine McDonnell, 24-year-old Irish Canadian from Vancouver, has a man-sized job in Britain.

Miss McDonnell, just five feet two inches, is a "remedial gymnast" in a provincial hospital near London. Her job is to help, by exercise, those who have lost the use of their limbs. She takes persons made helpless by arthritis and infantile paralysis and tries to teach them to walk again.

"We move in after physiotherapists have applied lamp treatment and other remedies," Miss McDonnell said in an interview. She is the first woman to serve as a gymnast in this hospital, and there aren't many anywhere. Men outnumber women in this field of medicine because of the strength needed.

YORKSHIRE SCHOOL

The first school for remedial gymnasts in Britain was established last October at Wakefield, Yorkshire. So far the only course has been for men only—the first women's course is scheduled for June or "perhaps later."

Dark-haired Geraldine, a colleen with Irish-blue eyes, is entered for the course. And she's hoping that its pioneer qualities will not result in an indefinite starting date. She wants to return to Canada with a new career.

Geraldine, Vancouver - born, started her working life in Canada as an English and games mistress at high schools in Nelson, B.C. She didn't care much for teaching, so, when an opportunity presented itself, she jumped at the chance of a medical career. Her only brother is a doctor at Vanderhoof, B.C., her father retired from a first-aid job in a prison hospital, and her ancestors were doctors in Ireland.

Before returning to Canada, she has to spend nearly two years in Britain. "By then I'll be thoroughly homesick," she said with a laugh. She's already missing her folks at South Burnaby, B.C. Meantime she enjoys life in Britain and the continent, having returned recently from a Christmas holiday in Paris with a Vancouver girl friend, Nancy Bowell, who works with the United Nations in Geneva.

The ladies sponsored the sale of poppies on Remembrance Day for the men's organization from which they realized the sum of $60. Naval Ball Of '53 Opened With Piping Of Colors

The 1953 Naval Ball Friday evening was a huge success—being well attended and highlighted with a uniformed naval ceremony. The younger set of the navy in Peterborough, the Sea Cadets, officially opened the dance with a band party in command of Lieut. Stuart Gardiner piping the colors to the mast-head. Following the salute, the band continued playing according to navy procedure.

This variation in the dance program was well received and compliments on the ceremony were heard from all sides. President of the Naval Association Ron Teasdale and other officers, accompanied by their ladies, stood at attention throughout and all guests were standing as the colors were raised.

Club Aragon was a "ship" for the night and its "decks" were hung with signal flags and its bandstand like a scene at sea. Entertainment conveners were Basil Young and Jack Whyte. Other members attended the "ship's log" and the "gangway."

Each couple received a plastic cigarette case as a souvenir of the dance and two handsome door prizes—a lamp and a smoking stand—were given away. The prizes went to Mrs. Robert White and Mr. Glen Grierson. The spot dance prize was won by Miss Helen Hayes and Mr. Andy Brown.

Attending as patrons and patronesses were Mayor Hugh Waddell, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, MP, and Mrs. Fraser, The Hon. Harold Scott, MPP, and Mrs. Scott, Mr. Lou Durkin, president of the Canadian Legion Branch 52, accompanied by Miss Helen Howden, and Mr. Hurrell Dodds, secretary-treasurer of the Legion, and Mrs. Dodds. BABY BLUE MARQUISETTE, cut with halter-necked bodice, makes this swirling, ethereal ballgown for spring. It is sprinkled with tiny blue crystal beads. A length of drifting marquisette, caught with a single pink cabbage rose, makes a stole that provides sheer cover-up.

Etheval Evening Dress

The approach to the formal gown for spring is handled, this year, in two very different ways: slim and narrow, or bouffant and floating.

The long, slinky evening dress looks newest, of course, and is more sophisticated. These appear with little jackets shaped like shrugs, or with jackets that are brief and flared.

The full-skirted dresses are drifting and diaphanous. These are frequently shown with self-stoles or tiny triangles or very long stoles to be wrapped about the neck so that the ends float and trail at the back.

In addition to the full, sweeping skirt, there is the ankle-length dress. This length is pretty in chiffon, in lace, in organza. It's longer than the short dinner gown, shorter than the floor-length evening gown and therefore highly adaptable. Much interest centres around sheaths with skirt fullness placed low.

The strapless top gets variations in the way of shoe string straps, tiny sleeves that just cover the shoulder and single shoulder straps.

For the sheath-like dance frock, there are two well-liked treatments: the wide V neck and the tank top.

Colors are as soft and gentle as the silhouettes. Pale, cool pinks, shadowy greys, soft lime greens, and ice blues are ideal for the feminine, floating quality of the fabrics.

DOROTHY DIX:

Long Separated; Father Permitted to See Children

DEAR MISS DIX: Six years ago my husband and I separated, though not legally. The cause was his drinking and infidelity. I am 33, and he is 27 years older. We have six children, and at the time of the separation the oldest was 11. We sold what property we had. I received a fair share, and moved to another state where I bought a small home. My brother came to live with us and between what he gave me and the money I made on the night shift we made out all right. Three years ago I received a letter from my husband's doctor saying that, since my husband was in very poor health, he should be near the children so he could see them occasionally. We made an arrangement whereby I took a loan on our home, bought a truck and my husband set up a business, paying me back from his wages. He has stuck to his bargain, sees the children twice a month, which does them good, and never bothers me. However, my brother got sore and left us; now he wants me to sell everything I have here and move to his place. I won't want to make the move. Everything here is going well. I work, and in addition make some money out of the farm so I have no financial problem. I live a quiet life, reading a lot and going to the movies occasionally with the children. My husband's health is not improving but he, too, is working hard. Am I doing right in staying on here under the circumstances or should I listen to my brother?

O.O.

TIME TO TRUST YOURSELF

ANSWER: You are to be commended most highly on solving your own problems—up to this point—so admirably. It's odd that you faced every major situation and worked it through to a satisfactory conclusion, then struck a snag on a minor issue. Your judgment has been good so far; don't mistrust it now. Everyone seems to be satisfied with the present arrangement except your brother, so why sacrifice the general well-being for a whim of his? His intentions, undoubtedly, are good. He still regards your husband as a menace to your welfare and happiness, with himself as your buffer. Since he was of so much help to you when you needed him, it would be too bad if an estrangement occurred now, but I'm sure that you, with your usual good sense, can convince your brother that your actions are in accord with the children's best interests. Even though their father hasn't been much good to them, he is still, as you observe, their father and as long as he doesn't take advantage of the privileges you give him, the idea of the occasional visits is wise.

I wish you would send me your name and address so I could return the money you sent; there is never any charge for my services.

You are doing a fine job with your large family and I hope they appreciate your efforts and will someday repay them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married woman of 30, have been married for six years and have a son, 4. My husband left us a year ago and we haven't heard from him since. We're getting along all right now, except that I am very lonely. I'd like to write to someone in service, and wonder if it would be the right thing to do under the circumstances.

PATSY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Until your marital difficulties are straightened out, you must conduct yourself as a married woman, and this precludes dating or writing to other men. Any entanglement at this time could lead to unpleasantness from your husband, if he is disposed to make trouble. Better consult a lawyer and see what can be done to protect the custody of your child.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Several months ago I moved near some relatives who had suggested the change. After living near them for a while, I found things very disagreeable, and finally learned that my niece was having an affair with my son (both married). I have since returned to my home town and now discover that the niece has been doing everything to turn my sister against me, as she is afraid I will tell about the affair. Should I risk losing my sister's love, or let her know why I left?

H.B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: On the off chance that it might help, tell your sister. Her probable reaction will be that she doesn't believe a word of your story but since an estrangement is already in effect, you probably won't make things any worse. The principals in the affair are behaving in such a despicable way that they're not entitled to any consideration from you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The boy I like is 16, the same age as I am. We get along wonderfully except that he is very moody. When he gets one of his spells he won't speak to me, which leaves me in a very difficult position. He tells me to overlook these moods, but I'm always worried that something I did or said brought it on.—E.W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Moodiness is fairly characteristic of the adolescent boy and is usually outgrown. When one of these moods overtakes him, you are better off to leave him than to try coping with the situation. You are too young, anyway, to be in a position of conciliation, and should let it be understood that you won't stay in the boy's company when he goes into a great silence.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a sailor of 19, going with a girl of 17. She writes often but never about anything but school. She never tells me about herself, or home. Her mother is against my religion and I'm wondering if she is influencing the girl against me. Should I stop writing to her, or go on as if nothing is wrong?—S. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A girl so young is bound to be influenced by her mother's ideas of a boy, especially when the boy is away. Since a situation of mixed religion carries so many seeds that will sprout into future trouble, I suggest that you try to find another girl. Surely there are girls in your home town who will be glad to write you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is a summer romance. While on vacation I met two boys, Hal and Bud. I fell in love with Hal, but Bud liked me and asked me out. I refused, then when I came home I saw Hal several times, but not Bud. Now I realize it is Bud I liked all along. How can I get in touch with him? I'm 15.—MAGGIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

AnSWER: If Bud really likes you, he'll respond with enthusiasm to an invitation to spend an evening at your house with some of his old friends from the country. Why not arrange such an occasion, and see if he picks up your cue?

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION — I am particularly enthused over the columns that feature vegetables as my husband is a potato, meat and gravy man — a hangover from his bachelor days. He is always interested in any fascinating new ways I have of preparing vegetables. You have been a great help . . my request is about bread and its making . . I started making it as an economy and now Mike loves it and I have to continue . . I have not found exactly the recipe I want so far. I want a recipe that uses skim milk and bread flour. I use a lot of powdered skim milk and am sold on it. I also use dry yeast package. No eggs please . . could I have your recent recipe for cottage cheese. If the reader who is interested in making cakes in pressure cooker is still interested she could write to Edith Adams' Cottage, c-o Vancouver Sun for book entitled "Cooking Under Pressure"—cost 35c . . Patricia P.

ANSWER — Thanks Patricia. I hope our pressure cooking readers see this helpful hint. See note at bottom.

WHITE BREAD (fast dough method using skim milk powder)

Soak 2 packages granular yeast in ½ cup lukewarm water for 5 minutes. Stir thoroughly before adding. In a large warm mixing bowl put 2 1-3 cups lukewarm water, ½ cup skim milk powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt and mix together. Add the soaked yeast. Stir until yeast is well incorporated. Add 2 tablespoons soft shortening or cooking oil. Mix in 7 to 7¼ cups sifted bread flour Up until the time you add 4 cups this can be stirred in. After that use your hands. When the dough begins to leave the sides of bowl turn it out on lightly floured board and knead by folding dough toward you, then press down heavily with the heels of your hands. Give it a quarter turn and repeat until dough is smooth, squeaky and elastic and does not cling to board. Transfer to greased bowl, brush top with shortening or oil, cover with damp cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled. When pressed with finger indentation remains when dough has risen enough. Punch down in bowl and turn over. Cover and let rise again until almost double in warm place. Mould into loaves, making top smooth and let rise in greased loaf pans until doubled in warm place. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 25 to 30 minutes.

QUESTION—Would you bring me up to date on a fluffy cake made with salad oil instead of shortening? I want the basic recipe and if possible the variations for a chocolate cake. L. T.

ANSWER—

BASIC CHIFFON CAKE

Into mixing bowl sift 2½ cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups sugar. Remove sifter and make a hole in centre of flour mixture. Add 5 unbeaten egg yolks, ¾ cup water, 2 teaspoons each grated lemon rind and vanilla, ½ cup cooking oil. Beat until perfectly smooth. Into another large mixing bowl measure 1 cup egg whites and ½ teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until very stiff. Slowly pour first mixture over whipped whites, folding in carefully with rubber scraper. Do not fold too much.

(If you want to make half of this into a chocolate chiffon add to half of the batter at this stage ¼ cup cocoa and ⅛ cup sugar mixed together with ¼ cup boiling water. Or you can make a marble cake by making half the batter into chocolate chiffon and pouring alternate layers of dark and light batters into ungreased tube pan.)

For Basic Chiffon pour batter into ungreased 10 x 4-inch tube pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 55 minutes, then turn heat up to 350 deg. and bake cake 10 minutes longer or until when lightly touched with finger cake springs back after.

Immediately turn cake upside down without touching anything but pan on rack. Cake must hang until cold. Loosen from sides of pan with tips of fingers or spatula when cold.

P.S. I will send cottage cheese by mail to Patricia.

Attendance at St. Aidan's Increases

SELWYN (ENS)—The annual vestry meeting of St. Aidan's Anglican Church was held in the parish hall Monday evening.

Mr. Bevan Monks, the student in charge of St. Aidan's, was in the chair. Mrs. Grace Wilson was appointed vestry clerk.

Mr. Monks told the meeting how much he and his wife enjoy being at Young's Point and also that the church and Sunday school had both shown a decided increase in attendance in the past year. It is to be hoped that in the near future the church can provide vestments for the newly formed choir.

Capt. J. Sloan, the incumbent's warden, gave a comprehensive report as to the condition of the rectory and other church property.

The rectory has had a complete redecorating job done, and also new wiring installed at a cost of $200.

Mr. and Mrs. Monks were thanked by the congregation for their help in this project. Also, a new ladies' dressing room was built in the parish hall, and the kitchen remodelled.

The financial report was given by Arthur Morris, people's warden. It showed all accounts met and a fairly good bank balance on hand. Mr. Morris also thanked Mrs. Darling for her work as organist. He also gave the ladies of the WA a vote of thanks for their splendid help.

The same church wardens were re-appointed: Capt. J. Sloan as rector's warden and Mr. Arthur Morris as people's warden.

Sidesmen for the coming year are: Leonard Wilson, Arthur Duggan, Leo Traynor, John Darling, Douglas Heard and Arthur Foucher. The auditor is the same as other years, Robert Johnson of Peterborough.

The WA report was read by Mrs. R. Nicholson and it showed a very profitable year. At the summer bazaar alone the profits were over $500.

Mr. Morris gave the Sunday school report in the absence of Cecil Pelton. This also showed a marked increase in attendance.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

A nominating committee formed to bring in a slate of officers for the next meeting consists of Mrs. Jack Dougherty, chairman, Mrs. Dick Ouimet, Mrs. Philip Whitnall, Mrs. Bruce Servos and Mrs. Frank Harvie. Appointed to a telephone committee are Mrs. Des Plewman, chairman, Mrs. Joe Bencze, Mrs. George Ball, Mrs. Jack Blaby and Mrs. Clifford Scott.

FALLIS—In loving memory of our mother, Isabella Fallis, who passed away January 31, 1950; and also our dad, Johnston Fallis, who passed away Dec. 27, 1937.
Not just today but every day
In silence we remember.
—Ever remembered by their family.

FONTAINE—In loving memory of Angus Fontaine, who passed away January 31, 1948.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own,
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

JACKMAN—In loving memory of Mrs. George Jackman, who passed away January 31, 1948.

JACKMAN—In loving memory of Mrs. George Jackman, who passed away January 31, 1948.

In death we do the same.

MOORE—In loving memory of mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Moore, who passed away January 31st, 1952.

But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
—Ever remembered by Claire, Ruby, Judy and Nancy.

THORN—In ever loving memory of our beloved mother, Annie Erminbelle Thorn, who entered the presence of her Lord on January 30, 1952.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials

In silence she suffered, in patience
she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer
no more.
—Sadly missed by her daughters and sons.

WAGAR—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Herbert Wagar, who passed away Feb. 1, 1952.
Tonight the stars are gleaming
On a lonely silent grave,
Where sleeps in dreamless slumber
One we loved, but could not save.
May heaven's winds blow softly,
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot
Where one we loved lies sleeping
Never to be forgot.
—Sadly missed by wife, son Roy and daughter-in-law Olive, daughter Myrtle and son-in-law Leslie and grandchildren.

Van Doos Want No Leave, Further Training

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (By Mail)—(CP)—More than one-third of the Van Doos due to go home in April don't want to take their home leave when they get there.

They want to become paratroopers, and they want to begin their training right away.

"What's more, they've signed official requests and have asked the army to arrange a special course for them. They say they'll take their 60 days' leave afterward.

The 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, like the other 1st battalions of Canada's permanent force units, is a paratroop unit. On returning to Canada it will revert to that role. It is scheduled to sail from Japan during the last week in April.

The spontaneous movement caught on when two subalterns made the original request. They were Lieut. Haldene Merrithew of Queen's county, N.B., and 2nd Lt. Frank P. Fornass, Assiniboia, Sask.

NOT ALONE

They weren't the only ones in the battalion who wanted to remain with it on its return to Canada and yet had not qualified for wings.

Many soldiers joined the unit just before it left for Korea last year. And to brush up on training for the Korea assignment Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau had halted paratraining the preceding November.

Word of the subalterns' request spread and the men soon began parading before their company commanders with similar requests.

The company commanders went to Trudeau, who said he would ask Brig. M. P. Bogert, commanding the 25th brigade, what could be done.

Bogert said that before putting the request up to Ottawa he wanted official forms drawn up and signed by the men. That was done and the unusual request is going forward.

DURHAM, Ont. (CP)—When Agnes Pinder married last year she became stepmother of 10 children. Since then she has added one of her own to the family.

At 19, she became the wife of 40-year-old George Picken who had been married twice before. The children who came with her husband included four from his first marriage and one from the second. Five orphaned stepchildren of Mr. Picken's second marriage also became her charges.

The family of 13 live in a six-bedroom farmhouse in the Pine Hills district, three miles south of here.

The oldest child in the family is Margaret Birr, stepdaughter of Mr. Picken. She's as old as her new mother. The youngest is Kenneth, Mrs. Picken's own three-month-old son.

All the children don't live at home now as some of them are working in other cities, but on week-ends as many as possible gather around the family dining table.

Parishes Told Help Pay Clergy's Bills

HALIFAX, Eng. (CP)—Church of England parishes have been told bluntly to help with the clergyman's bills or go without one.

Ven. E. Treacy, Archdeacon of Halifax and overseer of 100 parishes, says the vicar who combines with his normal religious duties those of community host, church janitor, intellectual stimulator and various other positions will have to get more money. Otherwise he can't continue to give his best.

Besides, scarcity of clergy is such that vicars likely won't be available for parishes unwilling to help with his support.

The archdeacon writes in the Yorkshire Post that Anglicans up to now have been luckier than most denominations since clergy have been paid almost entirely by endowments. These vary but most aren't any too ample in these days. The archdeacon's diocese has an average stipend of £500 gross thanks to a program by laymen for adding to clergymen's stipends.

But for other parishes the archdeacon suggests assumption in part at least of vicarage rent, depreciation, pension contribution, expenses of office and health plan fees.

Choir, Quartet Provide Fine Evening

George Street United choir entertained a crowded churchfull of listeners Friday evening with their own choral work and a quartet from Toronto called "The Commodores". It was top-notch entertainment, particularly after choir and quartet left Handel behind and indulged in Malotte, negro spirituals and popular rhythms.

The large choir was impressive, well balanced and rhythmically vital under the direction of Charles Allen. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" in an arrangement by Wilhousky, the spiritual "Joshua Fit The Battle of Jericho", and a waltzy thing called "Night in Granada", showed the choir's command of fulsome rhythms. The audience enjoyed them. Its applause of the choir sounded less generous than deserved, but many in the audience have the opportunity of hearing this good choir every Sunday. So its singing was not the revelation the visiting quartet offered.

HANDEL, SCHUBERT

The choir sang two groups, the quartet four. Each touched on classical music, the choir with Handel's "His Yoke Is Easy" (Messiah), sung with dramatic discipline. Mrs. James Goldie's well-knows voice and technique were pleasurably heard in the soprano obbligato to Malotte's 23rd Psalm. On octet sang Oley Speaks's "Morning". Mrs. Ross Moore was piano accompanist to the choir. Mr. Allen was at the organ.

The Commodore quartet did not distinguish itself in either its two Handel pieces or its two Schubert. The arrangements, though interesting, were disturbing, and the voices were frequently four rather than a blend. Throughout their program this separateness of the quartet voices was noticeable; an advantage in the light and funny turns, a detriment in other songs. It may be that the voices are too distinctive for good musical blending.

ENTHUSIASM FOR QUARTET

The four skilful artists used the individual characteristics of their voices and personalties with good stage effect. Their miming, mimicry and joyful irreverence in handling old folk, shanty and national tunes was fun. The arrangements were fascinating and clever.

The first tenor was high and light—and a short man to boot. The second tenor had a good twist of eye and phrase. The baritone—a tall fellow—could rant like a caller-off at a barn dance, and the second bass was very bass; a richly modulated deep voice. Their "Aunt Rhody", "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star" and "On Ilkley Moor" were as good in their kind as a New York floor show. The big audience was delighted; smiled, laughed and called for many encores.—T.J.A.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Gordon Dean of the U. S. atomic energy commission said Friday "there is no doubt" the Russians have "a supply of atomic weapons."

HOUSE No. 62-806—Bold handling of line and materials has given this house a generous touch of glamor seldom seen in a small house. There is no fussiness or gadgetry to mar the straightforward modern character of the house. The wide stone chimney not only forms an important part of the exterior design, but it serves as a striking decorative feature of the living room. There are two bedrooms with good closet accommodation and a cheerful, convenient kitchen. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Home Owner Protected In Architect

Whether you purchase a new home in a project or subdivision, the builder takes care of the design and construction. A professional architect usually is commissioned to take charge of this phase of home planning. However, if you desire to have your own home built to your individual tastes, the question of an architect is sure to arise.

"Can I afford an architect?" is a good question. When you retain an architect on the usual percentage of cost basis, his services are by no means limited to preparation of the working drawings from which your builder will erect your home.

"An architect often can save the owner more than the amount of his fee." This is a common statement and requires explanation. It may not work out if you simply retain the architect to design the house. The chief advantage of an architect in such a case would be that your house would be better adapted to your individual lot and your special family requirements.

If yours is a typical, average, level lot, and if you choose your stock plan wisely, some of this advantage falls by the wayside.

SERVICES RENDERED

Your architect should render all the following services if you are to benefit fully from his specialized knowledge, training and experience.

1. First, he will discuss with you, your cost budget, your architectural preferences, the number of rooms needed, their sizes and arrangement, in relation to your way of life.

2. He will study the plot to see its limitations and advantages.

3. He will prepare rough sketches and floor plans until he develops a house that seems just right for you and your family.

4. After you approve a rough sketch, he prepares the detailed working drawings, with due regard to correct orientation and any peculiarities of the lot, such as irregular contours, trees that must be saved, views and lot usage.

5. Working drawings will be supported by detailed specifications setting forth exactly how the house is to be built. The architect will prepare your contract with the builder.

6. Your architect will invite builders to submit bids for the job, conferring with them, if need be, to explain the work. He may suggest responsible builders with whose work he is familiar.

7. He will advise you on bids received. The lowest bid is not always ultimately the cheapest.

8. When the contract is let, he will confirm the location and elevation of the house on the ground to agree with his visualization of it on paper. He will help you select and find "just the right color" and type of material or equipment.

9. He will make frequent inspections as work progresses, to insure that the plans and specifications are rigidly followed and that high quality in materials and workmanship is maintained.

10. He will tell you when a payment is in order and in what amount, arranging to secure any necessary sub-contractors' waivers in liens.

11. The architect provides liaison between the home buyer and the builder, keeping track of agreements, progress and payments.

JUSTIFIED PART OF COST

If you are qualified to handle these highly specialized chores, then you may save the architect's fees. For most people this fee is a thoroughly justified part of the cost of building.

HOW TO SELECT YOUR ARCHITECT

Like most professional people, architects specialize. Designing an individual home that will stay within a specified cost budget is usually best done by a man who has made a reputation in small house design.

Talk with people who live in homes designed by the architect you are considering. The material dealers and outstanding realtors have opinions, too. If you can locate an architect who knows his field and who, in addition, is able to produce the attractive looking house you wish, you need seek no further.

When you have chosen your architect, give him your top cost limit in the first interview—and don't expect him to pull a white rabbit out of his hat in the shape of a $20,000 house for $10,000.

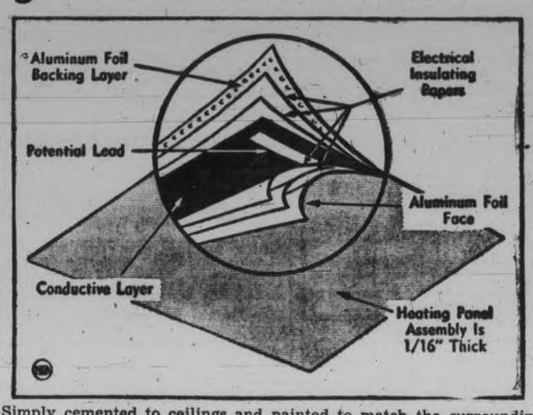
Rubber Heating Panel Ideal For Attics

By MR. FIX (NEA)

In some cases "expansion" attics of today's small homes are a problem to heat — most attics being without heat ducts, or with only one built in to serve the entire floor.



A new electrical radiant heating panel has come forward as a solution to the problem. Only 1/16 of an inch thick, the panels can be cemented to ceilings like wallpaper and painted to blend in with the surrounding area.

Each panel is composed of a sheet of conductive rubber that is the heating unit, sandwiched between layers of aluminum foil and thin plastic.

Complete radiant heating for an entire house or for a single room is possible with the panels, according to the manufacturer. They are ideally suited for use in a new room and in dens, expansion attics or garages, where supplementary heat is needed.

The panels are quite light, weighing only six ounces per square foot. They are bonded to ceilings of plaster, sheetrock or similar smooth material with a special adhesive. The number of panels required is determined by climate, insulation and other factors, but, generally, the panels don't cover the entire ceiling.

Where electricity is available for 1½ cents a kilowatt hour or less, the cost of operation is comparable with that of other fuels, the maker claims.

Simply cemented to ceilings and painted to match the surrounding area, these panels are ideal for supplementing existing heat.

Panels are available in three sizes—four by six feet, four by four feet, and three by four feet. The aluminum foil covers both the back and the face of each panel to keep out moisture.

The panels are rated at 22 watts per square foot (75 BTU's) for either 115 or 230 volts. Due to the absence of abnormally high temperatures at concentrated points, hazards from burns and scorching are eliminated, it is said.

Surface temperature of the ceiling panels averages about 100 degrees.

Excessively dry air is avoided—the humidity is said to approach that of the outdoors. There is no fuel soot or fumes, of course, and virtually no dust in circulation. Room heating may be operated by thermostatic control, if desired.

Panels can be cemented to ceilings without any cutting, rebuilding, plastering or structural changes, and then painted with flat interior finish.

One last obvious but significant fact is that with walls and floors left completely free of radiators or heating units of any kind, there is more unobstructed room for furniture and decorations.

46 Countries To Decide Fate Of Pact

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Delegates from 46 countries who in 1949 signed the international wheat agreement to stabilize world prices met Friday in a building next to the White House to decide whether they will renew the pact or let it lapse when it expires in July.

The international wheat council opened its formal sessions today but was not expected to reach the crucial stage until Monday.

Then, at least some, if not all, of the four exporting countries—Canada, the United States, Australia and France — will ask for higher prices for the wheat they have guaranteed to sell to 42 other couhtries at fixed ceilings.

The United States agriculture department disclosed today it has not yet decided on the conditions it might suggest to agree to an extension of the wheat pact.

WANT HIGHER PRICES

The impression gained ground today that the United States would consent to an extension only if it could be assured of a substantial increase in the pact's minimum and maximum prices because of higher production costs.

The demand for higher prices in the United States is strengthened by the fact that the agreement to supply wheat on demand has been honored only at heavy cost to the American taxpayer, officials contend.

This is because the price in the United States itself for the last four years has usually been much higher than the international wheat agreement ceiling of $1.80 a bushel.

The United States has been exporting about 250,000,000 bushels of wheat a year at a rate averaging 70 cents a bushel lower than the domestic price.

This has meant subsidies totalling more than $500,000,000 from the treasury, because, officials say, world wheat prices have been higher than were anticipated when the agreement was signed in 1949.

Charge Japan Violated Law

TOKYO (AP)— Peiping radio charged Friday Japan violated international law by capturing and turning over to U. S. military police five North Koreans who escaped from an Allied prisoner compound on Koje Island.

The Red China broadcast asserted Japan broke the Geneva convention which, it said, provides escapes PoWs shall not be returned when they leave the territory controlled by their jailers or their allies.

"Up to the present the government of Japan has not dared to take an open part in the Korean war," Peiping said. "This being so the government of Japan has directly violated the convention respecting the rights and bases of neutral powers and persons in case of war."

Japanese police captured the five prisoners last Sunday on Tsushima Island, midway between Koje and Japan. Tsushima, owned by Japan, lies about 50 miles east of the main Alied PoW island.

Alberta Grower Trying Out New Wheat

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—A new type of hybrid wheat developed in England will be planted in southern Alberta this spring on an experimental basis.

The wheat—known only as number 46—is a record producer. Nine acres were planted to the grain in England last spring and produced 134 bushels to the acre.

T. E. Brown of Cassils, Alta., mid-way between Medicine Hat and Calgary, will plant the new wheat on his combination farm. Mr. Brown has been a consistent winner at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto and the International competition at Chicago.

OBTAINED SEED

He visited Toronto last fall and obtained some number 46 seeds from C. E. Marsters Ltd., seed specialists who developed the strain and introduced it on the commercial market in England in 1946.

The new wheat was bred for the fertile fens and silt lands of England. It has a strong straw and is a heavy yielder. It has been widely grown in England in the last two years and its popularity has spread to less fertile areas, where it has been found that it does well with generous fertilizer treatment.

Growers have expressed some doubt as to the new wheat's suitability for the more rigorous North American growing conditions and Mr. Brown's experiment will be followed with interest by all Prairie farmers.

Warden Says Church Healthy Financially

ROSENEATH (ENS).—All expenses paid, a cash balancee on hand of $350.41 and two bonds, reported Herbert J. McCracken, people's warden at the annual vestry meeting of St. James' Anglican Church. The report showed that the church was in a healthy financial condition after a successful year. Included in the expenses were the rector's stipend, the allotments paid in full to the Synod, $100 paid toward a new furnace in the rectory, fuel, and organist's salary.

The meeting was held in the township hall Wednesday evening, under the chairmanship of the Rev. A. J. Patstone. Following the devotional period, Mr. Patstone presented the incumbent's report on matters of importance to the church, namely the accomplishments of 1952 and activities for 1953 and concluded by saying that the first Easter service in St. James' Church was held on April 1, 1863, and this year the church will be marking its 90th anniversary.

Mrs. Jack Webb was appointed vestry clerk for the meeting.

Mrs. Ray McCracken, president of the WA, in presenting their report, spoke of a successful year. The WA had paid for redecorating the interior of the church and renovation of the chancel, pledge and affiliation fees had been paid in full to the Diocesan treasurer, leaving a balance on hand of $51.

The Cemetery Board report, prepared by chairman Ross McCracken, showed all expenses paid and a balance on hand of $299.80.

Mrs. James L. Timlin, Little Helpers' secretary, presented the report of that department.

Votes of thanks were tendered the rector, the wardens and all other officers assisting with church work.

The Rev. A. J. Patstone was in charge of the election of officers. Herbert J. McCracken was elected by the congregation as people's warden. James L. Timblin was appoitned by Mr. Patstone as rector's warden.

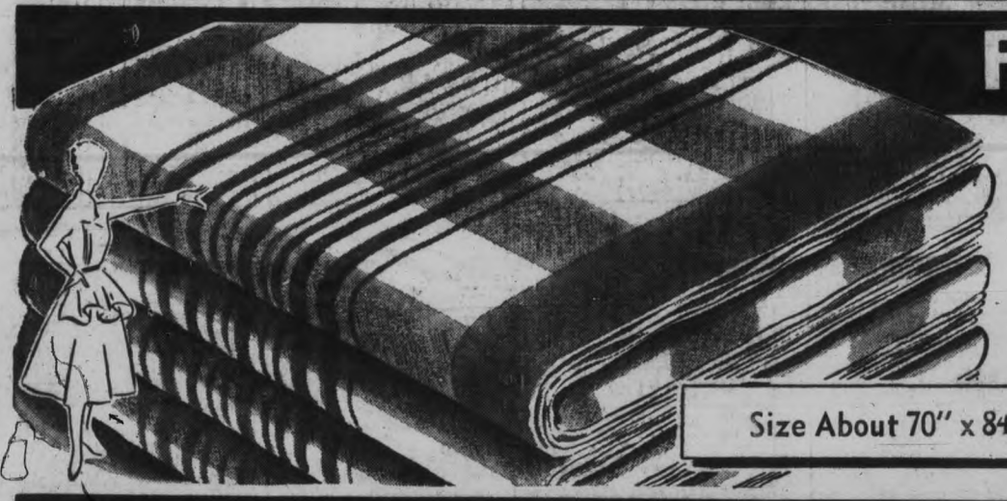
Other officers elected were: sidesmen Messrs. Earl Braithwaite, Stewart Nichol, Ray McCracken, Edgar Braithwaite, Jack Webb, Thomas Robins Jr.; lay delegate to Synod: J. A. C. Trustram; alternate, James Webb; auditors: Ray McCracken, Stewart Nichol; chairman of the cemetery board: Ross McCracken; rectory committee: Mrs. Ray McCracken, William Robins.

Newspapers Denounce Memory Of Hitler

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Many German newspapers denounced the memory of Hitler Friday on the 20th anniversary of his appointment as Reich chancellor.

Some devoted an entire page to bitter accounts of his rise to power.

"When Freedom Died in Silence," was the heading of the Offenbach Post's article.



"In Hitler's wake, force and lies, terror and murder entered Germany," the Frahkfurter Rundschau wrote. "From the gas chambers of concentration camps and the chimneys of the armament factories, the spark was struck that set the world ablaze."

Fleet Stops Shielding China Coast

Eisenhower Declares U.S. Ships Giving Protection To Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he is ordering the United States 7th fleet to stop shielding Communist China and, in a surprise move, he invited Congress to disavow any Roosevelt-Truman "secret understandings" which permit enslavement of people anywhere.

At home, the new Republican president cautioned against tax cuts until a balanced budget is in sight and gave his blessing to the end of all price and wage controls when present authority for them expires on April 30.

Eisenhower said the present effect of the Truman order neutralizing the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa is to protect the very Chinese Reds who are killing American soldiers in Korea.

NO OBLIGATION

"We certainly have no obligation," he said, "to protect a nation fighting us in Korea."

Eisenhower's mention of secret understandings referred to wartime conferences at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam attended by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Republicans long have attacked the two Democratic presidents for making secret agreements with the Russians at those conferences.

Only a portion of the agreements reached at the conferences were disclosed at the time. In 1947, the state department made public what it described as full texts of the agreements made with Premier Stalin.

FAR-RANGING ADDRESS

Eisenhower spoke out in a "state of the union" message which brought him before a joint session of Congress for the first time since he took office.

It was a far-ranging 8,500-word address in which the chief executive took "individual liberty" for his theme and—

1. Said near-balance of the budget, and with it the prospect of tax cuts, won't come in the immediate future. He pointed to the "inherited burden of indebtedness and obligations and deficits" which he said threaten to crash through the present public-debt ceiling of $275,000,000,000.

Queen Tours Areas Of Disaster

Children's Bodies Seen Lying On Tops of Trees

LONDON (CP)—The death toll in Britain's greatest peace time disaster in modern history mounted today as troops and volunteers raced to rescue hundreds still marooned and imperilled by flood waters caused by raging weekend hurricanes.

Rescue workers counted the number of dead at 389 and expressed fear it may hit 1,000. Five hundred persons on Canvey Island in the mouth of the River Thames were unaccounted for.

Scores of bodies, still uncounted, floated among vast seas of debris along Britain's battered east coast. The disaster almost rivalled the terror and severity of the evacuation of Dunkerque and the blitz.

While a great army of troops and civilians rushed by land, sea and air to snatch survivors from possible deaths in new tides, the Queen and Prime Minister Churchill acted quickly on behalf of the stricken country.

QUEEN TOURS AREA

The Queen toured the stricken Norfolk area by car, talking to pitiful groups of survivors and offering her sympathy and condolence.

Churchill called an emergency cabinet committee meeting and ordered his government to mobilize every means for rescue and rehabilitation.

The weekend of terror struck Saturday afternoon when a howling hurricane sank the British ferry steamer Princess Victoria off Northern Ireland, drowning 132. Only 44 were saved.

News was flashed later that a British trawler had disappeared in the North Sea with 15 aboard.

BREAK SEAWALLS

Then the furious gales whipped up great walls of water which raced southward, slamming through seawalls and dikes along the east coast of England and the west coast of The Netherlands and Belgium.

By noon today about 100 bodies had been recovered from the submerged Canvey Island, reclaimed from the sea 300 years ago. More could be seen floating among the branches of trees or lying sprawled on rooftops.

Flood survivors were convoyed to high ground and huddled in emergency quarters. Planes dropped supplies to some isolated rescue centres and all day long the work of barricading against new tides went on.

Rescue workers were hopeful that the gale winds which died down somewhat during the day would not bring fresh disaster.

Damage in property alone will run into the tens of millions of dollars—a heavy blow to money-pinched Britain. Inundated farmland may be ruined for two to three years to come by the salt water.

QUEEN TOURS (Continued on Page 2)

Netherlands Hardest Hit As Dikes Break, Million People Homeless

LONDON (CP)—Mountainous new tides rolled in upon Europe's battered coasts today, bringing fresh peril to lands which have already counted more than 850 dead in a weekend of hurricane flood. More than 1,000,000 were homeless in Britain, The Netherlands and Belgium. Hundreds more were unaccounted for and it was feared the over-all toll might reach 1,500 when all bodies are recovered. Towering waves pounded through ancient dikes at 70 places and covered a sixth of Holland with salt water, bringing the country its worst disaster since the 15th century. The Netherlands death toll, according to the best available count, mounted to 464.

Britain counted 397 dead, 250 in east-coast floods, 132 in the sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria, and 15 in the disappearance of a British trawler. Rescue workers feared the toll in England alone would mount to 1,000.

Belgium had 17 drownings and 10 others were lost at sea in the sinking of a Belgian trawler.

CALL OUT ALL HELP

All three countries mustered every effort—navy, army, relief workers of all kinds—to save thousands threatened by death or cold or disease and to aid millions more whose homes were destroyed. Property damage was in the millions of dollars.

The Thames river burst its banks at four new places today under the pile-driving force of the afternoon high tides, spreading more desolation. Hospitals at King's Lynn and Tilbury were flooded in part and isolated.

Scores of bodies floated among vast seas of debris on Britain's beaten coasts. There were corpses on rooftops of abandoned homes. One man paddled to safety on a table.

100 DROWNED

Canvey Island 25 miles down the Thames estuary from London reported at least 100 drowned and 500 missing. Snow began to fall there, adding to the misery of the flood victims.

A fleet of small boats made trip after trip into flooded Canvey, called "The Island of Death." Families huddled on rooftops awaiting rescue. They were taken to nearby Benfleet, a town of 17,000 that began to resemble a war refugee centre. Many families were wiped out or broken. Sobbing mothers searched for their children. Homeless tots clutching toys scanned faces for sight of parents or other kin.

BOATS COULD PASS

The holes in the dikes in Holland were so big ferry boats could be driven through them—and one was. Up to 1,500 square miles of land were flooded.

At Stellendam, in south Holland, 70 persons were reported dead, out of a population of 1,919.

Sunday's 90-mile winds were reduced to 22 miles an hour today, but temperatures around zero added to the sum of human mis-

Gales Cancel Search For U.K. Plane

HALIFAX (CP)—Strong gales and torrential rains probably will cancel search operations today for a British troop-ferrying aircraft with 39 persons aboard reported down in the icy north Atlantic.

A search and rescue official said an RCAF Lancaster bomber, lead aircraft of an 11-plane search fleet, was forced to return to Gander because of "turbulent gales and very heavy rains."

He said the other planes also were expected to turn back.

Two United States Coast Guard cutters were believed continuing through heavy seas to reach the crash scene, 359 miles east-southeast of Gander, where the missing four-engined York was bound from the Azores.

BOUND FOR JAMAICA

An official at the Gander weather office said the aircraft was due there about 5:30 a.m. Newfoundland time (4 a.m. EST) He said the flight probably originated at an airport near London, England, and was bound for Jamaica via Gander and Bermuda

This weather office source said York aircraft normally carry a crew of "about half a dozen," indicating probably 33 passengers were aboard.

He said he had no information as to the trouble which caused the overdue plane to send its SOS.

BAD WEATHER

Gander said the weather where the plane was last reported was "very bad"—rough sea, icing conditions and poor visibility to handicap the search.

Flood Tragedies Across Europe At-A-Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The human tragedy: At least 800 killed, hundreds of others missing, more than 1,000,000 homeless, in Britain, The Netherlands and Belgium.

Property loss: No official estimate but damage to farms, homes, dikes, communications, shipping, is believed to run into the millions of dollars.

The areas worst hit: Southwestern Holland where flood waters ran inland as far as 40 miles over crumbling dikes; Belgium, including southern Flanders and the Antwerp area; England's north sea coastal area. On Canvey Island in the Thames there were at least 100 dead and 500 more were missing.

Worst single tragedy: the sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria off Northern Ireland Saturday with 132 drowned.

Airplanes in trouble: A British commercial transport plane with 39 persons aboard believed down in stormy north Atlantic 262 miles east southeast of Gander, Nfld.; at Pearl Harbor the U. S. Navy announced 11 airmen were killed Saturday in the crash of a PV2 Neptune patrol bomber in the mountains of north Okinawa

Reds Refuse Go To Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen convicted U. S. Communist leaders today were offered a choice, either go to Russia or to jail, but defence counsel promptly rejected the go-to-Russia alternative.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock put forward his unusual "probation plan" as the Red leaders were called into court for sentencing.

It would permit any of the defendants to go to Russia, instead of to an American prison, as a penalty for their conspiracy.

Hon. H. R. Scott Opens $25,000 Arena In Apsley

A year of total community effort reached its climax at Apsley Saturday night when the Hon. Harold Scott officially opened the $25,000 Burleigh-Anstruther community centre.

Highlight of the program, which included two exhibition hockey games and a draw for valuable prizes, was the presentation by Mr. Scott of a $4,250 cheque, the province's share of the cost of the arena. A cheque for $500 was presented by Reeve E. J. Leeson of Havelock, on behalf of Peterborough county, of which he is warden.

From the beginning of the hockey game between Apsley and Lakefield bantams at 7:30: the crowd began to swarm into the 196 by 80-foot structure until at 10 o'clock, when the centre-ice ceremonies of dedication began, close to 800 fans from the surrounding countryside filled the three rows of bleacher seats and the four rows in the balcony at the west end.

MADE CONTRIBUTIONS

Many of these people were more than fans, however. Most had contributed money to the cost of the arena and several had given their time and labor to cut 90,000 feet of lumber which forms the framework for the glistening corrugated aluminum structure.

Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther township recalled how, after obtaining crown timber permits, two or three sections of bush had to be used to obtain timbers of the proper size

Million Dollar Fire Razes Collingwood Business Block Deny Firemen Left Scene

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Damage estimates reached $1,000,000 in a fire which left four persons homeless and destroyed one of the town's largest buildings Sunday. The building ran for about 300 feet along the main thoroughfare. It contained stores and living quarters. Fire Chief Jack McCallister said the blood and contents were worth "nearly a million." Earlier estimates placed damage at $500,000. The fire raged for four hours before it was brought under control. Midway during the battle there was a lull and it was thought the crisis had been passed. However, it broke out a short time later.

DENIES FIREMEN LEFT

Mayor Grayson Kohl of Collingwood denied firemen left the scene during the lull and went for coffee. Previous reports said the blaze flared up while the men were away.

At one point the fire threatened to spread to adjoining buildings and dynamite was held in readiness. A platoon of firemen were almost caught in an avalanche of falling debris.

A defective oil heater in a storage room is believed to have started the fire.

Firemen from Owen Sound, Midland, Wasaga Beach, Elmvale, Stayner, Barrie, Camp Borden and Creemore battled for four hours before bringing the blaze under control for a second time.

They worked in zero temperatures and a heavy snow driven by a stiff wind. All but one of the hydrants near the fire were frozen and firemen had to use pumper trucks to relay water from the harbor of this Georgian Bay port.

Four stores, storage rooms and two second-storey apartments were destroyed. Flames threatened the post office for a time, but all mail and much equipment was carried away. Firemen kept nearby buildings wetted down.

Some local telephone lines were knocked out by falling debris and store windows across the street were cracked by heat.

One man suffered minor injuries when hit by a falling brick. Two couples, one newlywed, escaped from apartments above the stores.

Begin Search For Bomber

HALIFAX (CP) — A fleet of 15 planes awaited clearing weather at dawn today to search for an RCAF Lancaster bomber and its nine-man crew, missing over the rocky wastes of Labrador while hunting for another plane.

The weather office here said westerly gales would sweep snowflurries across the area 120 miles southeast of Goose Bay where the crippled Lancaster disappeared Sunday in an attempt to return to the airport.

It was not known immediately whether United States Air Force planes would join the search, directed from Goose by Sqdn. Ldr. R. F. Epps of Winnipeg.

The big four-engine bomber was patrolling the sea and land area between Goose Bay and Torbay airport, near St. John's, Nfld., when her skipper radioed that two motors had failed and he was trying to make it back to Goose.

The air force released names of seven crew members. The others have not been confirmed. Known aboard were:

FO Thomas C. Wagar, pilot, Kingston, Ont.; next-of-kin, wife, Greenwood, N. S.

FO. Charles B. Scott, co-pilot; next of kin, mother, Mrs. M. Scott, Fairville, N. B.

FO. Francis S. Fowlow, radio officer, St. John's Nfld; next of kin, mother, Mrs. F. Fowlow, St. John's, Nfld.

Russians Send False Signals

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. airlines pilots in Japan disclosed Sunday that Russian radio transmitters on land and sea are trying to lure American fliers off course.

For many months, false radio signals from Siberia and the open Pacific—possibly from submarines—have baited aircraft over northern Japan, the pilots said.

Planes which would follow such beams would be in danger of crashing into mountains or becoming lost over the vast Pacific.

The existence of the mock signals was confirmed by U.S. air force pilots at a northern Japan air base.

Walter J. Lawton, a pilot for Japan Air Lines, said:

"One set of false signals comes from Vladivostok, west of Japan. Other strong signals come from the Pacific Ocean east of Japan and it is my opinion that these probably are sent by Russian submarines. A ship would be too easy to find. I believe subs are to blame."

Lawton emphasized, however, that since pilots are aware of the false signals, they rely on other, trustworthy navigational aids, averting any danger.

Queen To Make Tour Of World

LONDON (CP) — The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly to Bermuda and Jamaica in November at the start of a round-the-world Commonwealth tour, Buckingham Palace announced today.

They will board the liner Gothic in Jamaica, and sail through the Panama canal and across the Pacific for their 1953 trip to New Zealand and Australia.

They will call en route at the British Pacific islands of Fiji and Tonga.

The itinerary released today does not include a stop in Canada. The Queen and her husband visited Canada in 1951 while she was still a Princess. The couple's month-long tour took them from coast to coast on that trip.

Actor Alan Curtis Dies After Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Movie actor Alan Curtis, 43, died Sunday a week after a kidney operation.

He had appeared in many films, among them "Between Two Women," "Bad Guy," "Mannequin," "Yellow Jack" and "Shopworn Angel."

Check All Buses For Wanted Man

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial, suburban and city police Sunday night checked all busses coming into the city for Ralph Grubisech, 33, of Hamilton and Windsor, wanted by Buffalo police in connection with the slaying of a jeweller last December.

Police stopped and searched the busses on the highway and city police checked all passengers at the Toronto depot after the suspect's auto was found abandoned near New Hamburg, 12 miles west of Kitchener.

Two other men, Maurice (Digger) O'Dell, 27, and Walter Griffen, 26, are being held at Hamilton awaiting extradition.

OTTAWA —(CP)— Finance Minister Abbott announced today he will bring down the budget Thursday, Feb. 19.

Find Quartette Just On Visit

TORONTO (CP)—Two men and two women, reported missing during the weekend, returned home Sunday night. Apparently they had gone out of town on a visit.

The four are Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Donovan and their daughter and son-in-law, Kay and Norman Bett.

The quartette went on a trip to Plainfield, 16 miles north of Belleville, without telling anyone. When told they had been the object of a search, they said they thought it was a joke.

Earlier police reported the two couples had vanished without a trace.

Police were preparing to search every private garage in Toronto, fearing foul play, when the foursome turned up.

Family Of 9 Destitute After House Burns

NILESTOWN (CP)—Fire near here early today left a family of nine destitute and sent the oldest son to hospital with injuries received rescuing his small brother from flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wright, having returned a few hours earlier from visiting a six-year-old son in St. Joseph's Hospital, London, had to flee in night attire with their other six children from their blazing home near midnight.

The oldest child, Allen, Jr., 16, returned to the house when it was discovered five - year - old Dennis was still inside.

With the child in his arms he discovered his escape blocked by fire. He smashed a window with his arm and reached safety, his arm gashed almost full length.

Million-To-One Chance Caused European Floods

LONDON (AP) — A million-to-one combination of wind and tide was responsible for the storm which spread death and destruction over Britain, The Netherlands and Belgium this week-end.

It happened this way, meteorologists who constructed weather maps over the critical period said today:

1. A tiny cyclone developed in the north east Atlantic late last week.

2. At the same time a belt of warm calm air, stretching from Africa to Iceland, began moving steadily eastward.

3. Air from this high pressure belt rushed to feed the cyclone which thus grew into a big storm centre. At the same time, the warm air front pushed the storm east until it advanced into the North sea by way of Scotland.

4. By a tragic coincidence, the storm arrived over the North sea at its climax—and at exactly the moment when high spring tides were in full flood.

5. The stinging northwesterly gale now began ripping at the surface of the angry waters, driving them with mounting pressure against the North sea's southern bottleneck just as the tides were pushing with their maximum force against the low-lying land.

The force built up until something had to give under the strain. The blows came, naturally, at the weakest spots in the land's defences—river estuaries and man-made walls.

Question Paratrooper:

School Girl Shot On Busy Stratford Street

STRATFORD (CP) — A young woman was shot to death today on a busy downtown street. Police said shortly afterwards they were questioning a paratrooper in connection with the shooting but they did not release his name.

The girl victim is reported to be Marilyn Satchell, about 17, an 11th grade student at Stratford Collegiate. Her home is in the Gadshill district, about five miles from here.

Witnesses said a man fired four pistol shots at the girl as she stood in front of a delicatessen store.

Mrs. Elmer Candler, who works in the delicatessen, said that while she was behind the counter she heard shots. She looked out the window and saw a man with a pistol or revolver firing at a girl. Then she saw the man walk across the street to the police station, she said.

Police said the paratrooper gave himself up to Inspector Joseph Taylor of the Stratford city police a few minutes after the shooting.

2 Communist Jets Reported Destroyed

SEOUL (AP) — United States Sabre jets tangled with Russian-built MiGs all along MiG Alley today. Pilots reported shooting down two Communist jets, probably destroying another and damaging two more.

It was the 15th straight day of dogfights in far northwest Korea. Allied losses, if any, will be announced at the week's end.

The air battles came after U. S. Superforts and fighter - bombers struck heavily at Communist battle-front positions Sunday night and early today. The air force said it was the biggest B-29 strike on Communist bunkers and gun positions in a year.

Far East air forces reported 10 of the big bombers dumped 100 tons of high explosives on the Reds. Fighter-bombers followed up the raid early today.

The 8th army said the sharpest ground fighting broke out o nthe western front near shell-battered Old Baldy hill. Allied troops withdrew from an outpost position after a two-hour night assault but reoccupied the hill before daybreak without resistance.

Dulles Questions French Leaders About Unity

PARIS (AP) — John Foster Dulles, the United States secretary of state, met French leaders today with a spate of questions about France's reluctance to push for European unity.

The French, worried over President Eisenhower's reported decision to withdraw the U. S. 7th fleet's neutralization of Formosa, also were expected to ask some questions about this.

French foreign - office sources have said Foreign Minister Georges Bidault certainly will bring up the matter during his talks with Dulles and the U. S. foreign-aid chief, Harold Stassen.

Dulles and Stassen, making a flying 10-day tour of seven European capitals, were well prepared for the all-day session with the French, including President Vincent Auriol, premier Rene Mayer and Bidault.

BRIEFING SESSIONS

When they flew in from Rome Sunday, they hurried into briefing sessions with American officials and military leaders stationed in Europe.

The French fear the new policy toward Formosa waters might mean the U. S. is thinking of putting Chinese Nationalists into the Korean war. In that event, the French fear Communist China might send troops to help the Communist-led Vietminh fighting the hard-pressed French forces in Indo-China. The Chinese Reds already are helping the Vietminh rebels with arms and supplies.

Dulles, on the other hand, wants to find out from the French what they intend to do about getting Western European unity working.

The French have been wary of the proposed European defence community, which would rearm West Germany to help defend Western Europe. French leaders thought up the plan in the first place, but stalled after giving it a second look.

Mrs. George Kent

The funeral service of Mrs. George Kent, 63, was held at her late residence, Plainville, on Thursday afternoon. The service was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. V. M. Gilbert, assisted by Rev. Kennedy of Uxbridge, Ontario.

Mrs. Kent, the former Estella McCarthy, was born in Hamilton township, east of Coldsprings, a daughter of the late Callahan McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy, who is still living.

Mrs. Kent had been about as usual; but was stricken with a heart attack early Tuesday morning, from which she never rallied. She was a member of St. Paul's United Church, Coldsprings.

Surviving are her husband, George Kent; one son, Donald, at home; her mother, Mrs. McCarthy, also two brothers, Denton McCarthy, Port Hope, and Justin McCarthy, Camborne. One sister, Mrs. Wilbert Graham, (Mabel) and a brother, Norman, predeceased her several years ago.

There were many beautiful floral emblems. Interment was in St. Paul's United Church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Allan Dines, Edgar Buttars, Alec Buttars, Thos. McKinley, Edgar Bowman, and Herb McKinley.

2. Predicted that with the end of controls some prices will go up and others will come down.

3. Said the United States has "incontrovertible evidence that Soviet Russia possesses atomic weapons." Former President Truman had stirred up a controversy by expressing doubt in a recent interview that the Russians had a workable A-bomb.

FIGHT SEGREGATION

4. Promised all action within his power to wipe out racial segregation in the District of Columbia and in the armed forces. Beyond that, Eisenhower indicated he would work "through friendly conferences with those in authority in our states and cities" to seek civil-rights progress.

5. Announced a new system of checking the loyalty of federal employees, together with a series of studies and surveys designed to end "waste and incompetence" in the post office and other departments.

"Our people," Eisenhower said, "have demanded nothing less than good, efficient government. They shall get nothing less."

He asked Congress for a good bit of legislation—"corrective action" of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, for one thing, and an extension of the government reorganization act.

Eisenhower's most important announcement—freeing Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on Formosa to strike at the Communist-held China mainland—came as something of an anti-climax. Word of it had leaked in advance, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur among others commended it warmly.

PECULIAR ROLE

"This has meant, in effect, that the U. S. Navy was required to serve as a defensive arm of Communist China."

Truman issued the order on June 27, 1950, two days after the start of fighting in Korea. He directed the 7th fleet to protect Formosa against Communist invasion and to assure that the Nationalists did not attack the mainland. The explanation was that the order was designed to keep the Chinese Reds out of the Korean war.

Since 1950, Eisenhower recalled, the Reds have entered the war and, with Russian backing, he said have turned down every peace overture from the United Nations.

NO LONGER SENSIBLE

"Consequently," Eisenhower said "there is no longer any logic or sense in a condition that required the U. S. Navy to assume defensive responsibilities on behalf of the Chinese Communists, thus permitting those Communists. . .to kill our soldiers and those of our United Nations allies in Korea.

"I am, therefore, issuing instructions that the 7th fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China. This order implies no aggressive intent on our part. . ."

Eisenhower disclosed another move in the Far Eastern conflict—"immediate increased attention to the development of additional Republic of Korea forces." This was in line with his campaign demand that Korean troops replace other UN forces in the front lines as soon as possible.

He said his foreign policy, in general, will envision "all peaceful methods and devices — except breaking faith with our friends."

CAN'T APPROVE ENSLAVEMENT

Then—in apparent reference to the meetings Presidents Roosevelt and Truman attended at Yalta, Potsdam and elsewhere—the new President declared:

"We shall never acquiesce in the enslavement of any people in order to purchase fancied gains for ourselves.

"I shall ask the Congress at a later date to join in an appropriate resolution making clear tha tthis government recognizes no kind of commitment contained in secret undertakings of the past with foreign governments which permit this kind of enslavement."

Eisenhower asked of Congress, among other things:

1. Early statehood for Hawaii. He didn't mention Alaska, which is normally Democratic while Hawaii votes Republican.

2. "Corerctive action" to amend the Taft-Hartley labor law. Eisenhower said the labor department was making some specific recommendations and he would send them along later.

3. Amendment of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act to remove what he called discrimination against some groups of aliens.

4. Extension of the old-age and survivors' insurance laws "to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the social security system."

5. Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

List Highlights Of Speech By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here in brief are the salient points of President Eisenhower's state of the union message:

The U. S. must spurn any past, secret deals which let aggressive communism enslave free peoples.

The 7th fleet no longer will "shield Communist China" by preventing Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on Formosa from attacking mainland.

Western Europe should take further steps toward "practical unity."

Tax cuts must wait until "we show we can succeed in bringing the budget under control."

U. S. price-wage controls should be permitted to lapse April 30.

OLD-AGE INSURANCE

Old-age insurance should be extended to millions now uncovered.

A new commission will study ways of getting farmers "full parity of income."

All government agencies are being ordered to weed out any disloyal, unreliable employees.

"Corrective" amendments to Taft-Hartley labor law ought to be speeded.

McCarran - Walters Immigration Act should be revamped to remove "injustices."

The President will seek to end racial segregation in the armed forces and District of Columbia.

Hawaii deserves prompt statehood.

Tales of horror, of heroism and of pathos were common throughout the stricken area.

A rescue worker on the island, his clothes sodden and mudcaked, said: "We are still fighting against time for the living—if there are any. We have no time to bring in the dead."

2,0000 ORDERED TO LEAVE

Faced with the threat of today's tide bringing fresh danger to the island, police today ordered 2,000 persons who had clung to their homes in less flooded parts to evacuate.

Eye - witnesses wading through the brown flood-water saw ghastly sights. The bodies of children lay entangled among the branches of trees—flung there by the vicious waves from the North sea which engulfed the island early Sunday morning.

The bodies of cripples and old persons were brought from cottages, as the rescuers sought any who might still be alive. A choking stench hung over everything.

Stunned men and women tramped across the wooden bridge connecting the island with the mainland, carrying bedding and parcels of food. At their heels trudged small children clasping their dolls.

PEOPLE IN TEARS

Men and women in tears lined up outside the police station in the mainland town of Benfleet, seeking news of relatives.

The seven-mile-long island, popular with Londoners at summer weekends, was reclaimed from the sea in 1622. Thousands live there the year round.

All along the east coast, where families have lived with the sea for generations, the weekend was one of terror.

At Salthouse, Norfolk, a 73-year-old woman was swept through her front door to death when a great wave roared through her house. A young mother gave birth to a baby at Mablethorpe while firemen climbed the wall to her flooded home to take her to hospital.

A boy of seven stood in a kitchen sink at Whitstable, Kent, with water up to his ears until he was rescued.

U.S. AIRMEN HELP

At Hunstanton, Norfolk, 400 American airmen aided rescue work in launches and on foot. Their wives cut sandwiches and made coffee for them. Seven airmen have been officially posted as missing.

Hunstanton looked like a ghost town as the floodwaters receded. Blocks of concrete were tossed on to the roads like pebbles.

At dawn today wives and husbands began to search in the wrecked towns for the families they had lost, looking first in the emergency centres for the homeless. Scores of children cried for parents they may never see again.

Cautious police officials listed as dead only bodies actually recovered from the swirling floods.

After the alarm had been turned in, firemen were able to get water from one hydrant and within 30 minutes seemed to have the blaze in check.

100 FIREFIGHTERS

Fire Chief Roy Elliott, who was directing more than 100 firemen at the height of the blaze, said he had no idea how the fire broke out. Other firemen said it was fortunate there were only two apartments in the entire block.

Members of the Salvation Army set up a coffee stand at the fire scene and worked through the day in an attempt to keep the firemen fed and warm.

MURRAY D. HILL, pilot officer, son of Mrs. Margaret D. Hill, 92 Russell St., was one of five men missing in an RCAF Mitchell bomber which was on a flight Thursday from Saskatoon to Vancouver. No sign of them has been found.

for trusses, some of which are 26 feet long, 12 inches wide and four inches thick. All the trusses were bolted and ringed. "There's not a nail in them," Norm. Wilson said proudly.

Most of the timber was cut last winter after the bylaw authorizing construction was passed on February 2. It was hauled to Apsley where it was sawed last June and actual construction began the first week in September with district men working on the job voluntarily.

The first skating was held in the new arena on New Year's day and hockey games have been held there subsequently, 4 local teams playing their home games there.

BUILDING COMMITTEE

The building committee who directed construction of the community centre is composed of Sidney McAuley, chairman; Reeve Norman Wilson, financial chairman; Mrs. Mae Reddick, secretary; Donald Campbell, treasurer; Clarence McCormick, Herb Tucker, Bill Houle, Ray Hall, Earl Trotter, Albert Bolton and Donald Fowler.

But if any one person was responsible for the genesis of the idea for the centre and the determination to see it realized, it is agreed that the credit belongs to Canon C. A. G. Spence, for 19 years rector of Apsley, and since 1937, he was clerk-treasurer of Burleigh Anstruther township until his retirement a year ago. It was Canon Spence who at Saturday night's ceremony dedicated the new community centre "to the glory of God and the use, benefit and enjoyment of the young people of this and succeeding generations and of the citizens of the district." He then announced that he was offering to present a silver trophy to the most gentlemanly player of the season.

PAINTING TO DO

Now that the building is all but complete— there is some painting to be done at the end of the season— the local citizens are ready to take up the voluntary task of operating it. A management committee will be appointed by the township council and a group of local women, under the convenership of Mrs. Mae Reddick, is operating the refreshment booth on the opposite side of the western entrance from the two heated dressing rooms.

Profits from the refreshment booth will be used to defray expenses of operating the arena and Mrs. Reddick says that they have already paid for the stock on hand from sales and will soon be able to pay some money to the committee.

Elwood Nesbitt is looking after the property without remuneration, assisted by local fans who do the flooding and scraping of the 172 by 70-foot ice surface.

Donald Campbell, local school teacher who acts as treasurer of the building committee, was able to give the crowd a report on Saturday night showing that close to $17,000, including the provincial grant had been raised so far towards the cost of construction. In addition to $6,227.52 in cash donations, $2,251.71 had been raised in a series of draws, dances and a regatta at Jack's Lake, last summer.

Winner of the draw for a deep freeze unit was Duncan Brown, Apsley; while Joyce McGibbon, L'Amble, won a washing machine and James L. Schram, Bancroft, a mixmaster. The draws were made by Mrs. Andrew Shedden, Peterborough, and the little Northey sisters, Barbara and Ilene of Woodview. The door prize, an electric clock, was won by Jack Post, Coe Hill.

In the exhibtion bantam hockey game, preceding the ceremony, Murray Crosby of Apsley scored four goals to lead his teammates to a 6-3 victory over Lakefield. Murray McCormack scored the other two goals for Apsley while the Lakefield scorers were Lawrence Neill, Terry McIlwain and Terry Stenner.

The only incident which threatened to mar the proceedings was an injury to Keith Delahaye, captain of the Apsley Intermediates, who tore the ligaments in his left shoulder when he was body-checked just a couple of minutes after the Hon. Harold Scott had dropped the opening puck between his stick and that of Norm Brough, captain of the Bancroft team.

Island Refugees Reach Safety After Disaster

BENFLEET, England (AP) — Refugees clutching their last treasured possessions trudged to safety today across the big iron bridge from shattered Canvey Island — worst-hit area of flood - devastated eastern England.

The last of the Thames river island's 13,000 population, they took refuge in the neighboring Benfleet on the mainland in case tonight's high tide deals their shattered homes fresh blows.

Their departure left an eerie silence over the watery wastes of what were cheerful homes until Saturday night. Swarms of rescue craft going quietly about their task and a few desperately determined householders who refused to quit were the only signs of life left on the 8,000-acre isle 30 miles from London.

But scores of corpses, sprawled hideously across rooftops. Others flung in the treetops by the angry waves, stayed behind as grim reminders of the scale of the tragedy.

NO TIME FOR DEAD

Rescue boats sailed past the dead. The boat crews, hardly bothered to turn their heads:

"We are still fighting against time for the living. We have no time to bring in the dead," one rescue worker said.

Nobody knows how many more bodies still lie undetected beneath the flood waters, but it is known at least 100 inhabitants were drowned in their bungalows by the rapidly rising waters. Between 400 and 500 were reported still missing this afternoon.

Disaster struck suddenly in Canvey. When the stout sea-wall, built by the Dutch, caved in, the Thames poured through in torrents. The water reached ceiling level of many one-storey dwellings almost without warning.

As the flood waters rose, the wartime air-raid siren wailed a warning to the islands—but for many it came too late.

Police, firemen, home guardsmen and civil-defence workers rushed to duty and have worked by shifts ever since.

Some islanders were rescued in their nightclothes, some were completely naked when dragged to safety. William Nial, a 78-year-old invalid unable to walk, sat in his wheel chair for seven hours as the water rose around him. All that time his wife signalled frantically for help.

ery. Many crops of winter wheat were damaged, along with thousands of acres of rich soil.

In the Belgian port of Antwerp about 150 yards of docks crumbled into the Schelde estuary. Another 130 yards collapsed in the city proper. But the Belgians, not as badly hit as their Dutch neighbors, sent small boats to evacuate stranded Dutchmen.

WATER 6 FEET DEEP

English lowlands from the mouth of the Thames north to Yorkshire—the land called East Anglia—were flooded by water six feet deep. The water coursed as far inland as three miles.

Thousands of British and American service men and rescue teams worked around the clock to remove survivors. Tens of thousands were removed from coastal towns.

REACHES LONDON

The flood even reached London as the Thames at high tide pushed into the streets of Putney, a southwest suburb. Water lapped at the base of Cleopatra's Needle, the ancient Egyptian obelisk standing on the embankment in the capital's heart.

Reports of horror, death and destruction came from all along the east coast. Snettisham, Norfolk, reported 20 missing and five known dead. The Suffolk resort of Felixstowe counted 17 dead.

At Mablethorpe and Sutton-On-Sea several thousand were evacuated. A Lincolnshire police superintendent estimated homes of 5,000 to 6,000 persons had been flooded on a 20 - mile stretch of coast. The waves carried away concrete and steel walls 20 feet high.

Cley, in Norfolk, was under eight feet of water and many houses were swept out to sea. The Norfolk fishing port of Yarmouth reported eight dead. Dead cattle floated through the ancient streets of Aldeburgh, picturesque Suffolk fishing village and tourist spot.

FEAR EPIDEMICS

Health authorities were busy trying to prevent outbreaks of typhoid and other diseases as the thousands of refugees poured inland.

At Sheerness, Kent, the 1,000-ton submarine Sirdar sank at its dock and another Royal Navy ship, the 1,100-ton frigate Berkeley Castle, capsized. There were no casualties. Yachts and fishing craft were smashed against the sea walls or carried inland.

Among the 40 believed dead near Hunstanton, on the North Sea coast of Lincolnshire, were six Americans from the United States bomber base at Scunthorpe. Eight others were listed as missing.

In the Netherlands and Belgium, the death toll mounted rapidly as the stricken little countries mustered their resources to meet mounting dangers of disease and starvation. Search teams still were unable to contact many flooded areas.

HIGH WINDS CONTINUE

The Dutch weather bureau warned that high winds today would continue to threaten the broken dikes. In Britain, the forecast was for fresh winds tending to "moderate slowly."

Breaching Holland's historic dikes in countless places, the floodwaters poured inland as much as 40 miles at some points. Hardest hit were the provinces of Zeeland and Northern Brabant in southern Holland, the Frisian isle of Texel, and the Island of Walcheren, at the mouth of the West Scheldt.

At some points the swirling floods were 30 feet deep. Farmers faced months and years of hard toil to reclaim the salt-damaged acres for agriculture.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

Authorities estimated that areas populated by 4,000,000 Dutch and Belgians were flooded. Both countries proclaimed a state of emergency.

The waters poured south into Belgium, flooding even wider areas of Flanders and turning the great port of Antwerp into a city of confusion. Telephones and electric light were knocked out. Ships in drydocks were overturned.

More than 50 cities and towns called for emergency aid. Emergency radio circuits crackled with a confused jumble of calls for aid.

In Graveldeel — population 5,316 —55 were reported dead. To the west, the twin islands of Goeree and Over-Flakkee reported 40 casualties and asked for a big steamer to evacuate the population.

ISLANDS CUT OFF

So far, 32 drowned had been reported from the islands of Zeeland province. Some of these islands still were cut off from the outside. Nord Beveland—more than 60 square miles in area—was said to be totally under water. Another Zeeland island, Schouwen-Duiveland, also was out of touch.

Thousands of Dutch and Belgians tried to plug the gaping holes in the dikes with sandbags or fought their way through the swirling, near-freezing waters seeking survivors. Many were drowned in their homes before they could escape.

Two battalions of French Army engineers were dispatched to the stricken lowlands. Despite its own catastrophe across the channel, Britain's Royal Navy ordered four helicopters to Valkenberg, the Netherlands, to assist.

U. S. Army forces in Germany sent a group of engineers and a small survey team. Lt.-Gen. Manton X. Eddy, U. S. Army commander in chief in Europe, planned to follow up with a flying visit to see what help his forces could give.

Plane Limps Back On Two Engines

PRESTWICK, Scotland (CP) — Airport officials here said today an unidentified plane, bound from Montreal to England, messaged from over the Atlantic that it was limping back to Gander, Nfld., on only two of its four engines.

The sources said the plane messaged that it did not need assistance No other details were available.

It was the second plane to report trouble over the stormy north Atlantic early today.

Real "Birdie"

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, Eng. (CP)—Driving off at the sixth hole at Westerhope golf course Fred Prior scored a genuine "birdie." His ball killed a pigeon in flight. The bird will be stuffed and placed on the clubhouse trophy shelf.

Thinks Warning False, Ignores Fire

TRENTON (CP)—David R. Taft refused to be ruffled by a neighbor's telephone call telling him his combined gas station and grocery store was on fire and leisurely went on with his breakfast

When he eventually arrived at his combined grocery store and gas station four miles south of Trenton on highway No. 33, he found the Trenton fire brigade battling a blaze which threatened to ignite barrels of coal oil and motor fuel stored in the rear of the building. Windows splintered in the heat and flames licked through the broken glass toward a line of gas pumps.

Taft, who bought the store three years ago, said he was in the habit of stoking up the wood stove in the kitchen each morning, before he went out for breakfast. He said that people often worried him by saying that his place was afire when it was only smoke from the low chimney.

MISTAKE THIS TIME

"I was dead wrong this time," he said ruefully. He lived alone with his big cat Tim. The scorched animal was rescued from the burning kitchen by 14-year-old Vernon Kemp, R.R. 2, Trenton, soon after the outbreak was discovered.

Despite Taft's unconcern at the restaurant, neighbors tried desperately to get in touch with the fire department. Mrs. Joe Copeland, R.R. 2, Trenton, who lives across the road from the service station first noticed the blaze but valuable time was lost because telephones in the area were out of order. She hailed passing motorists, one of whom drove to Trenton and raised the alarm.

Largest Funeral In Years Held For G. H. Hardy

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—One of the largest funerals seen in Campbellford in recent years was held on Saturday afternoon when the Rev. John McKibbin, of Christ Anglican Church, conducted services for the late George H. Hardy, chief constable of the town and a member of the force for the past 24 years.

Five provincial police cruisers led the funeral cortege, carrying more than 20 OPP officers who acted as honorary pallbearers. The Anglican church was filled to overflowing and scores of persons stood outside the church in a cold January rain while the services were being conducted inside.

MANY FROM DISTRICT

Officials of Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham counties, police officers from many distant points as well as other government and municipal officials were in attendance to pay their last respects to the police chief. Dinsmore Robertson and the Hon. Wm. Goodfellow, minister of welfare, also attended the funeral.

The services of a score of flower bearers were required to handle the many floral tributes. Burial was in Christ Church cemetery.

Gasoline War

LONDON (AP) — Britain's gasoline war flared into the open today with the return of brand-name motor fuel for the first time in 13 years. Filling station attendants are handing out pencils, razor blades, key rings and handkerchiefs to woo customers. Brand names were banned in 1940 when all Britain went over to low-grade "pool petrol." The new brands cost about a half-penny a gallon more than the pool mixture.

Lester Pearson Praises Newspapermen

KITCHENER— (CP) — Never in his own experience has he had a newsman violate his confidence, L. B. (Mike) Pearson said here Saturday in opening the Kitchener-Waterloo Press Club's new quarters.

The external affairs minister and president of the UN General Assembly said he felt in as good a postiion as anyone to appreciate the significance of the press in international affairs.

It could be an influence for evil or good, he said, adding that he has found most news men "just as concerned about the responsibility of the press as they are about the freedom of the press.

Long noted for affinity for bow ties, Mr. Pearson left with the club the neckpiece he was wearing Saturday. But he did not leave without a tie. In a trade for his neckwear, the club presented him with a box of bow ties.

Martimes Begin TTS Operation

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Press Sunday night began transmitting news by teletypesetter operation to 24 newspapers in the Maritime provinces and nine in Quebec. The teletypesetter report now goes to 74 newspapers across Canada—from St. John's, Nfld., on the east to Nanaimo, B. C., on the west.

Teletypesetter is an automatic typesetting device. Through coded holes punched in tape, an operator at a central point operates typesetting machines in distant newspaper offices. If they wish, newspapers can continue to set type manually; news stories are delivered in the form of teleprinter copy as well as tape.

Conversion of the 26-paper Ontario wire from teletype to teletypesetter was completed last June. Last July 20 CP opened a teletypesetter circuit to 11 Manitoba - Saskatchewan papers. On Nov. 16 the Western circuit was extended to five papers in Alberta and eight in British Columbia.

Crippled Children Require More Camps

COBOURG (ENS) — Work of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children is becoming so extensive that plans are being formulated for more direct control of the work by the district in which the cases occur instead of it being handled more or less directly by headquarters of the Society in Toronto.

Cobourg is in the district made up by the counties of Ontario, Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham and Haliburton with the district office in Cobourg. At a meeting of the district held last week in Peterborough, attended by J. G. Ewart, president of Cobourg Rotary Club and district chairman of the crippled children's society, and by representatives from other centres in the district, the future plans of the Society were discussed. Representing Peterborough Rotary Club, at the meeting, were Paul Irwin, Dr. B. R. Smyth, Robert Maybee and Sydney Black.

In addressing the meeting, Mr. Ewart spoke of the convenience if the summer camp for crippled children were held somewhere in the Kawartha district. The three existing camps are located near Perth, London and Collington and in addition two new camps have been proposed, one to be located in the Niagara area and one near Kirkland Lake. The five will meet immediate needs, it is felt but, with the way the work is increasing, it will be necessary to provide others.

When the Easter Seals campaign gets underway this year, the "Timmy" chosen, will be a little fellow from Vernonville, north of Cobourg.

Distorting TIME

Time magazine, an American publication with a wide circulation in Canada, has complained several times that the British press is distorting American news. This week it again takes another right-wing pitch at the British press. Quoting bits from the Mirror, the Sunday Pictorial, the Evening Standard (an article by Beverley Baxter) it says: "As a result of such wild reporting . . . many a Briton is led to believe that the U.S. is dominated by Senators Joe McCarthy and Pat McCarran, and that it is a slick, grossly materialistic country populated by bathing beauties, crooners, gangsters and political strong-arm men."

* * *

These British papers belong to the sensational side of the British press, and there are few worse papers in the world than the British at their worst—among the few are some American journals. Responsible British opinion on the United States is not formed by them any more than the Chicago Tribune influences responsible American opinion on Britain. If Time wants to attack "wild reporting" which makes people believe that the U.S. is materialistic, populated by crooners, gangsters, political bosses and Red-baiters, it has thousands of targets in the U.S. press, and not only on the lurid side of that press.

* * *

No country in the world outside the U.S. has as many American publications as Canada, literate dailies and monthlies as well as sensational rags, photo magazines and Time. What view of the U.S. do Canadians get from the American pictures, advertisements, articles, short stories and even editorial opinion such as Time smoothly interprets as news? False or not, the image is not far different from what Time accuses the British press of giving—of materialism in a jelly of sentimentalism, of the hounding of liberals, of a climate of fear, and of a national addiction to movie faces, sex and dollars. If Time wants an example of press distortion it could look at its own soupy stories on Quebec life during the last year or two—coy things about picturesque Jean-Baptiste and momma. Jean-Baptiste is tourist bait now; the real one works in a factory and belongs to a union.

* * *

It is an invalid excuse, says Time, that the British papers are too small to have space to present American news and views properly. It says that "every time that paper rationing is eased, British dailies use the extra newsprint to add more entertainment and feature news." What, we ask, do the majority of American dailies do with their extra space when they increase an issue from fifty to sixty-two pages? Give more British news?

* * *

Disgruntled Time says that papers like the London Times, the Telegraph, the Observer and the Manchester Guardian give a quieter and more complete coverage.

"But even the Times, instead of trying to explain the problem of Communists in government, often brushes the whole matter off as 'witch hunting' and a 'shrill campaign . . . against spies and saboteurs who are widely imagined to be imperilling the security of the U.S.'"

Time magazine protests too much; it betrays its own flushed face. In its slick way so that the shrill sound is made to seem only a quiet, reasonable recitative on a theme by Thomas Jefferson, Time is a notable hunter of Red witches, seeing winds of liberty as gusts from Russia.

* * *

We suspect that Time is angry with the British press because it does not mimic Time's own views, and Time is of course the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The job of reporting what the U.S. is really like has hardly begun, it says of the British press. This is to say that until the British press rolls in Time's groove it will not be reporting the U.S. accurately.

Laws To Be Defied

Arrest without a warrant. Despatch to concentration camps. Censorship of the press. Martial law without notice whenever the Minister of Justice thinks it necessary in any area. Russia? Hitler's Germany? Canada in 1837? No; These restrictions of liberty are provided in new legislation which the South African Minister of Justice in Dr. Malan's cabinet is bringing before the South African Parliament. Two bills will give him unprecedented powers to deal with native riots.

There is opposition to them, but it is likely to avail nothing. The Malan Government has set its course and come bloodshed and civil disobedience it intends to stick to that course. The unhappy fact is that every restriction on liberty creates more unrest which in turn creates a need—according to the Malan attitude—for further restrictions, which in turn cause more unrest and violence.

The opposition to the severe apartheid (racial segregation) laws and the new legislation dealing with native rioters is itself undermined by one of the two bills which makes it an offence to take part in any way in movements aimed at defiance of any law. Thus the opposition to the legislation can be accused of supporting the defiance campaign, which is a passive resistance against racial segregation laws. They can be jailed.

The South African Labour Party is supporting the more liberal sections of the United Party, which is the official parliamentary Opposition. Dr. G. Routh, a delegate to the Labour Party conference in Johannesburg earlier this month, said that the Government had "a sinister plot to bring the defiance campaign down in a pool of bloodshed." More than nine thousand men and women defiers have been arrested so far.

The complexities of the racial problems in South Africa are many; Canadians who tolerate illiberal laws in their own country—for instance, the Quebec Padlock Law— should be circumspect in denouncing the South African governmental policies. And yet Canadians who value liberty must be shocked by the turn of events in South Africa, and have a human right to side with the liberal South African opposition to the harsh Malan legislation. Malan policies are leading directly to civil war in that country which we are now loath to call a sister-Dominion.

The Most Expensive Scientific Discovery

Since general opinion throughout the Western nations is that the atomic bomb is a prime factor in national and international security, it is interesting to learn how much the development of atomic energy has cost the United States. During the period from June of 1940 to the end of June last year the grand total was $7,963,373,536, and that represents only funds allotted to agencies charged specifically with carrying out the atomic program. In all scientific history, no sum even approaching this has been spent in the exploitation of a single discovery in a single decade.

There is a natural disposition in the United States to ask if the nation got its money's worth. If that question is to be answered in terms of national and international security, the answer must be "yes," if the opinion noted above is accepted. In a world plagued for some five years with armed conflict and the threat of its expansion, the atomic bomb has been regarded as a deterrent. Military supremacy is thought to rest with the powers protected by possession of the bomb, even though possession is no longer a monopoly. Nevertheless, the United States retains leadership in this field, militarily, and that leadership is also thought to be an effective deterrent.

In the current fiscal year, the United States will spend another four billion dollars on the atomic energy program, and ex-President Truman recommended the expenditure of another two billion in the fiscal year ending in June, 1954. It is thus possible that a year from this coming June the total expenditure on the development of atomic energy will be double the total noted at the end of June last year. That would be a staggering price—somewhere between fourteen and sixteen billions of dollars—yet if the program actually is providing the insurance that many credit it with, the money indubitably has been well spent.

Better English Department

The Kitchener-Waterloo Record, an improving sort of paper, runs a daily "Better English" column on its editorial page. In a recent issue the first illustration of poor English was "Directly I came here, I knew there was no city as beautiful as this." In its editorial comments on the same page appeared this sentence: "A bachelor has no ties except those that always look like they need pressing." Readers were not invited to say what was wrong with that sentence. Probably it was only misplaced, and really intended for the "Better English" column. Directly—pardon, as soon as—it noticed the colloquialism, like it ought to have noticed in the proof sheet, we presume that the K-W Record corrected itself.

NOTES AND COMMENT

"Youth Didn't See Curve," reads a headline. A strange thing for a youth to miss.

"In Cardiff, Wales, a man named Lot was fined for stealing salt"—press report. Maybe he thought it was his wife.

An English physician, Dr. J. M. B. Morwood, says that children with colds should not be made to blow their noses, as this may cause infection of the inner ear. Sniffling, he says, is "fundamentally sound." How nice to know that a child is fundamentally sound, when to the untrained eye and ear it merely seems to be disgusting.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

IT IS ALWAYS EASY, perhaps too easy, to write about French music. The French themselves have done it so well that the temptation to quote from their writings is almost irresistible. They realize that a profound saying need not necessarily be wrapped up in obscure language, and they strive towards clarity and wit in their style. Their composers, too, can express themselves almost as admirably in words as in music. Berlioz, for example, wrote some most entertaining and at the same time penetrating musical criticism, and even today it makes excellent reading.

◇ ◇ ◇

I WAS REMINDED of this fact on Sunday evening after listening to a broadcast of Faure's suite "Pelleas et Melisande". This atmospheric play by Maeterlinck has attracted Debussy, who wrote an opera on the subject, and Schoenberg, who wrote a tone poem. But let us return to Faure, a writer for whom I have long had a great admiration. His style, so supple, suave and subtle, disguised a revolutionary attitude towards harmony that bore fruit in the next generation, particularly in his most illustrious pupil Maurice Ravel, who resembles him strongly in his combination of classic restraint and harmonic audacity

It is unfortunate that Faure's music has been somewhat overshadowed outside France by that of Debussy, Ravel Satie and others, but I think it is true to say that there is a renewal of interest. Faure will never be popular amongst the masses: he resolutely avoided the grand gesture the magnificently obvious statement. He is, as it were, always side-stepping. It may be true, too, that his emotional range is somewhat restricted, though the sensitive listener will perceive that his understatements and hints can convey a greater wealth of meaning than the grandiose affirmations and passionate throbbings of others. This is music that needs to be heard several times for its full import to be assessed.

And here I come to my quotation, from Debussy, whose musical criticism is lively and pungent even when wrong-headed There was an Oxford don who was reputed to have started a lecture with completely unconscious arrogance as follows: "Saint Paul says (and I partially agree) . . . ". Debussy says concerning a concert at which was heard the Ballade for piano and orchestra by Faure, "The Ballade is almost as lovely as Mme. Hasselmans, the pianist. With a charming gesture she readjusted a shoulder strap which slipped down at every lively passage. Somehow an association of ideas was established in my mind between the charm of the afore-mentioned gesture and the music of Faure. It is a fact, however, that the play of the graceful, fleeting lines described by Faure's music may be compared to the gesture of a beautiful woman without either suffering by the comparison." And I partially agree.

◇ ◇ ◇

I READ with interest and a certain amount of satisfaction (in an American magazine) that one of Healey Willan's works is to be performed at the forthcoming coronation. I hardly dare to imagine that my winged words ever reached the ears of the committee in charge of choosing the music, but can bolster up my self-esteem with the old adage, "Great minds think alike!". Incidentally the first performance in England of Dr. Willan's Apostrophe to the Heavenly Host, which took place recently in the new Royal Festival Hall with the composer present, received a lukewarm notice in the Musical Times compared with other British periodicals. "This work uses effectively the resources of a large divided choir, and effectively also introduces the well-known Easter hymn '(Lasst uns erfreuen'); but its harmonic idiom made it but a tame offering for 1952." Thus the critic; he fails to mention, however, that this motet was written in the early twenties of this century.

The implication that age lessens the emotional impact of music is interesting. There is little doubt that certain chords and progressions that had a stunning effect in bygone years (such as the opening cadence of the introduction to the first movement of Beethoven's First Symphony) have lost their power to shock and have become, (dare I say it?) a little "tame" in 1952. But great music wears pretty well. Dr. Willan's motet may not be great music; only time will tell, and we shall have to wait until we are dead to know the answer, as the Irish might say.

I AM NOT quite so sure that I want to be shocked and bewildered by our wild young men all the time. We have a few of them in Canada. Whether they in their turn will become tame with age or merely dismissed as freaks of the Futile Fifties, as the wild young men of the Terrible Twenties are treated today, remains to be seen. There may even remain a small residue of greatness amongst all this ferment. Willan may be comparatively tame to listen to, though he is always exciting and stimulating to sing, but I for my part enjoy that sort of tameness, the tameness of a master-craftsman who has complete control of the refractory medium in which he chooses to work. I have on a former occasion expressed certain misgivings concerning Dr. Willan's muse: his amazing power of assimilating the externals of almost any given style and his unfailing craftsmanship have hindered the development of a personal idiom. He can switch from a pastiche of Rachmaninoff in his Piano Concerto to an influence as completely opposed as Vaughan Williams in many of his choral works, while his Passacaglia and Fugue could almost have been written by Reubke. I am quite sure that Dr. Willan could, if he wished, turn to the twelve-note system and produce something as good as Schoenberg, though not as good as Berg.

TWO WELL-KNOWN British musicians have been included in the New Year's Honours list, and both of them have appeared in concerts in this locality recently. Boyd Neel, who has been made C.B.E., gave a concert in Peterborough last fall, and Kathleen Ferrier, who is similarly honoured, will long be remembered for her superb artistry and glorious voice in a recital she gave some three years ago. It is good that public recognition should be given to those who have reached distinction in the arts, and local audiences have had the opportunity to enjoy at first hand the talents of the two new C.B.E.s. Our own government is slow in recommending the names of musicians and artists to the Queen for inclusion in Honours Lists. In view of the "tyranny of mediocrity" which lies so heavily on us might it not be time to revise this policy?

ANOTHER HITLER-STALIN PACT

Fluoridation Endorsed

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

WHILE STILL some relatively short time from being completely proven, Brantford's fluoridation experiment has been impressively vindicated by facts, and now enjoys the official approval of the Canadian Dental Association and the Canadian Medical Association.

As reported earlier this week a statement issued by a joint committee of these bodies endorses the process and offers instructions and information for other municipalities desiring to follow Brantford's example.

Brantford was the first city in Canada to undertake fluoridation of the communal water supply in an effort to reduce the incidence of decay in the teeth of children. Observations had indicated that in places where fluorine occurred naturally in the drinking water supply of a community the condition of children's teeth was superior to that of children in communities where there was no fluorine. The theory evolved, therefore, was that fluorine mechanically added to water supply (through fluorides) should produce the same good effect as naturally-occurring fluorine, provided the addition was on a systematic basis and in exactly the right proportion.

Through the initiative of Dr. W. L. Hutton, Medical Officer of Health, and with the support of the Board of Health, City Council, Public Utilities Commission and other interested bodies, local and provincial, the addition of fluorine to Brantford's water supply was commenced in June, 1945. This was almost coincident with a parallel experiment begun, with health department support, in Newburgh, New York.

Periodic reports of the Fluorine Committee since that date have piled up impressive evidence that the experiment will be successful. Indeed it has been demonstrated as a success to the considerable extent that it has reduced dental caries in various junior age groups. Scientific procedure, properly cautious, requires however that, before the outcome is conclusively certified, about two more years of trial shall elapse.

At that, the benefits already derived have become so apparent, to laymen and scientists alike, that many authorities have long since been satisfied that fluoridation is the saving solution to a serious health problem. The stamp of approval just given by the official organizations mentioned is a matter of gratification to the Brantford civic administration and, in particular, to Dr. Hutton, Dr. Bradley W. Linscott, the school dentist, and their associates. Conversely it implies a rebuke to certain elements in Canadian professional circles which have been overcautious, unscientifically skeptical or downright reactionary in this matter.

Radar For Jets At Airports

By W. MACLANACHAN

BRITAIN is now moving forward into the jet age of civil aviation in ground facilities as well as in aircraft.

Preparations for handling the increasing traffic at British airports and for dealing with the growing number of jet-propelled air liners are further advanced than in any other country. Airports are being enlarged with extended multitude runways and the radar and ground control organizations are being developed to enable them to deal safely with the more frequent arrivals and departures and with faster aircraft with speeds up to 500 and 600 m.p.h. (800-960 km).

Radar is the key to this ground organisation and a new device has now been developed to ensure the rapid and economical training of radar operators to deal with 'jet-age' traffic. So that operators can obtain practice in monitoring the flight of aircraft the (British) Ministry of Civil Aviation has designed an elaborate radar control installation which simulates the flight of aircraft. The models at present in use can deal with four aircraft in each sector at speeds up to 450 m.p.h. (720 k.m.) while the latest, now in development, can deal with from up to twenty aircraft at speeds of up to 1,000 m.p.h. (1600 k.m.)

In addition to allowing training in advance of operations the new equipment, costing about £8,000 to construct, effects a considerable saving in expense and labour. Previously, operators, who are responsible for the safety and regularity of aircraft landings, gained experience only by handling actual aircraft flying in training areas.

Small aircraft flying at 200 to 250 m.p.h. normally cost between £30 and £50 an hour, while faster airliners such as Stratocruisers can cost up to £500 an hour. The cost of using a Comet at its operational (and most economic) height of 40,000 ft. is £400 an hour. As the average radar trainee has nearly 50 hours of practice before being given the direction of operational airliners, the saving under the new system is enormous.

In a recent demonstration at London Airport the new Simulator, as it is called, registered the positions of "synthetic" airliners exactly as the real monitor radar showed the real liners approaching from as far off as the North Sea.

The apparatus has been perfected by Mr. J. Fenwick of the Ministry of Civil Aviation and is being manufactured by Marconi. Several overseas aviation organizations and airline operators have already shown considerable interest in the new development.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

For thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out. As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day. And I will bring them out from the countries, and will feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

I will seek that which is lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick . . . And I will make them and the places round about my hill a blessing; and I will cause the shower to come down in his season; there shall be showers of blessing . . .

Thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they even the house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord God. And ye my flock, the flock of my pasture, are men, and I am your God saith the Lord God. (Ezek. 34: 11-13, 16, 26, 30, 31.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein . . . I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. (Isa. 42: 5, 8).

High Cost of Survival

(Ottawa Journal)

A generation ago statesmen spoke in fear about the "race in armaments", predicted disaster. Today a little country like Canada spends more for defence than Britain was spending for her army and navy, with all their far-flung ramifications, at the turn of the century.

In 1912-13 many Canadians recoiled at the thought of a gift to Britain of $35 million for the building of three dreadnoughts. Today we spend that much for defence in a week, will spend this coming year some $400 million for air power alone.

What a future, happier world will say of this age is surely an arresting speculation.

Our Taxes

(Ottawa Citizen)

From the size of the main estimates for 1953-54, it is difficult to imagine how Mr. Abbott in his next budget can offer the Canadian people really substantial tax cuts, especially when it now appears that he may have only a small surplus at the end of the present fiscal year. Defence remains the critical item in government spending, accounting for about half the four billion dollar total, and just so long as this is the situation, taxation levels are bound to be relatively high. Were it not for defence needs, indeed, the government might be persuaded to appropriate funds for many useful purposes now given insufficient attention or neglected altogether.

Antique Car Exhibit For Toronto

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Items from here and there:

An exhibit of antique cars will provide a contrast to the newest in cars and trucks at the national motor show in Toronto which opens Feb. 13 for eight days. Old timers will include a 1900 Locomobile steamer; a 1904 Rambler; a 1906 Baker Electric; and a 1902 Orient Buck Board.

Nesbitt, Thomson and Co., Ltd., investment firm, says:

"Indications are that Canada's gross national product in 1953 will be as high as or exceed that of 1952. Business sentiment has taken an upward swing in recent months, and many who in mid-1952 were predicting that by now we would be experiencing a slower rate of business activity, have since had to revise their estimates."

J. G. Hungerford, executive vice-president of National Trust Co., Ltd., commented at the company's recent annual meeting:

"People spend their lives accumulating estates, but there are many who seem to begrudge the short time it takes to plan a distribution which will provide the maximum benefits to their families and dependents."

Sam Dawson, of The Associated Press, writes:

"Detroit Edison Company, which is teamed with Dow Chemical in studying the problem of atomic power, predicts it may be ready to build an atomic power plant within a year. Heat from the plant would produce steam to run a conventional turbine. Existing Detroit power lines would be used. Detroit Edison thinks the electricity could be produced at a competitive cost."

Three Children Die In Fire

RODNEY (CP)—Three children were burned to death early Saturday when fire swept through a farm home near this Western Ontario village.

Dead are Edward McColl, 8, and Susan McColl, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. John McColl, owners of the home, and Deborah Clark, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark of Chatham, visiting the McColls.

The children were trapped in an upper bedroom of the 1½-storey frame house.

Mr. McColl managed to climb up on the roof of the kitchen at the rear of the building and crawl into the bedroom to get his son and the Clark girl, but was almost trapped himself in a vain effort to reach his daughter.

The Clark girl died in a Rodney doctor's office while the boy was taken to hospital in London, but died Saturday afternoon.

The McColl girl's body was found among the embers of the house.

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said Sunday 20 East German uranium miners were drowned and 62 others are trapped in the lower levels of a Saxony pit which flooded after the pumps gave out. Two other miners were reported to have been shot to death and six wounded by Russian guards who quelled with bullets a demonstration by about 2,000 men demanding quick rescue for their comrades. Telegraf said the tragedy occurred at Obserschlema, Saxony.

Too Many Deer In Ontario Blame Closed Season

NORTH BAY (CP)—Walter Wilson of Kitchener, a delegate to the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, said Sunday that sections of southern Ontario are "loaded with deer" and farmers are slaughtering them for fox feed.

He suggested that the closed seasons on deer in southern Ontario were responsible for the increase in the number of animals and that "political pressure" on the part of county councils had been used to keep the seasons closed.

Other delegates at the organization's silver anniversary convention here told of illegal deer shooting and the sale of meat to American visitors.

RESERVES STAND

The convention reserved its stand in relation to the deer population in Northern Ontario. A motion was passed seeking a ban on the shooting of bucks and a shortening of the present deer season by 15 days.

Dr. A. B. James of Toronto, chairman of the resolutions committee, said the suggestions will be held over until a province-wide deer census has been completed by the department of lands and forests.

The meeting approved a motion recommending keeping the daily limits of fish to their present levels, reducing possession limits from two day's limit to one day's limit, limiting export of a day's catch of any type of fish and abolishing the non-resident family licence.

William Maloney of Hamilton was awarded a plaque for contributing the most to practical conservation during 1952. Mr. Maloney has organized a group of junior conservationists in his city.

Veteran Bush Pilot Found After 3 Days

WINNIPEG (CP) — A veteran bush pilot was rescued from a frozen lake in northern Manitoba Sunday after three days spent in 50-below-zero weather.

Oscar Erickson, 38, was forced down by engine trouble on a flight from South Indian lake, 600 miles north of here, to Ilford, Man. He was located by pilot Bill Eaton and Doug McKenzie of Central Northern Airways, flying a Norseman aircraft.

Erickson said he lived on emergency rations in the plane and suffered partial snow-blindness from his experience.

Approve Land Sale

BRANTFORD (CP)—By a vote of 90 to 35, a handful of Six Nations Indian voters Saturday approved a proposal to sell 100 acres of Glebe lands to the city of Brantford for $160,000. The board of education is awaiting completion of the purchase to use a portion of the site for a new million-dollar secondary school.

Marmora Fair Holds Annual

MARMORA— (ENS) — The annual meeting of Marmora Agricultural Society held in the Town Hall, last week, proved one of the most enthusastic in the annuals of the society.

All officers of the past year, were re-elected, as follows: president, Carl Heath; first vice-president, Gordon Jones; second vice-president, George Fox, secretary-treasurer, Thomas J. Bateman.

The following were added to the Board of Directors: Joseph Hulsmans, Carl Heath, Howard W. Sabine, Charles Lajoie, William McComb, Irwin McCoy, Louis Hulsmans, John Wilkes, Harry Neal, Thomas J. Bateman, John McAvoy, William Kelly, Vincent Lynch, Gordon Jones, George Fox, Willam Coe, William Lavender, and Alex Fraser.

President Carl Heath presided in his annual report, he said, he had been well supported by the directors. They had, he said, as much to do as himself with the 1952 fair being a success.

He referred to the recent Central Ontario Fairs' Convention held in Belleville, and the innovation of a dinner together in the Kiwanis Centre.

The dates Sept. 5 and 7 which had been applied for, for staging of Marmora Fair in 1953, had been granted.

Correspondence relating to the Annual Field Crop Competition received keen discussion. It was unanimously decided to re-enter the competition.

Mrs. T. J. Bateman, who was a delegate to the recent convention in Belleville, in a brief speech told of recent increases in lady delegates, which she considered a good sign for the future of the association. No less than 55 ladies were present and they held their own sessions, she added.

The secretary treasurer's annual financial statement proved encouraging in all details. Total receipts were $3,712.36 and expenses $3,067.22. The net balance was $645.14. The report brought out the value of the street dance, and other events, supplemental to the actual fair.

A total of $467.97 had been spent on the wire fence on the west side of the grounds and an additional $486.79 on ground improvements.

Value of the evening horse show, initiated last year, was very successful.

Delegates to the Ontario Association of Agriculure Societies Convention, to be held in Toronto, Feb. 4 to Feb. 6 were appointed, in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bateman, Carl Heath and a fourth delegate to be named later.

President Carl Heath offered his home for the next meeting, to be held February 26.

Joseph Hulsmans was awarded the good service diploma for this year.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With less than three weeks remaining of the OHA senior "B" schedule up this way, one might well call it the stretch drive now for the club concerned. The ones concerned most in our part of the six-team grouping are Petes, Belleville and Kingston. And the dark horse bothering Belleville and the K's plenty at the moment is the Ellis outfit from this city. The Petes served notice that they're going to give it all they have from here in by downing the Glens in overtime last Friday on Quinte ice. So they're now one and a half games back of Glens. One of these three teams will not make playoffs which means it'll be a cut-throat fight the next few weeks. No fooling about that.

* * * * * *

It boils down to this, as we see it: Petes must win over Belleville here tonight or their chances are very slim. A local victory puts Peterborough just half a game behind the Glens, the locals then going to Kingston on Friday for another important tilt. But we feel that a win this eve for the Ellis battlers will start them off on that drive which would mean a playoff slot shortly for 'em and elimination for Red Doran's dudes. Being definitely the most important puck scrap staged here yet this season—— and with a hot battle certain——this one should draw 2,000 fans. No quarter will be asked or given, except a couple apiece at the gate, of course!

Good Senor Troubled?

Senor Miguel Roddenique, who yields a peppery pen down Kingston way, wonders audibly at the drafting of the senior schedule. The good senor finds it passing odd that this schedule calls for Belleville to meet Kingston nine times, Peterborough eight, Oshawa five, and the Orillia and Stouffville squads each four. The Glens play five of their nine tilts on Kingston's sheet. To add to the confusion, Oshawa failed to show up for a game in Bella Villa after being notified of a change in dates, and the Glens—worried at the proximity of the Petes— demanded the win by default, even at the sacrifice of a large gate, OHA in its wisdom (a crack always good for an agrument) ordered Oshawa to pay expenses and play the disputed game again. Ah, wurra, wurra.

* * * * * *

Scribe Carver of Belleville remarked after the Friday fixture: "Chum Fryia was the best man wearing the Petes' uniform and on the ice, for that matter, as he sparked the Petes to victory with a grand display of offensive hockey. He scored two goals, one of the prettiest seen on local ice in many a moon, and he aided in the third shot that won the game and broke 1,200 hearts. M'sieu Ray Harding, who reached the pipe and slippers stage a while ago, is still the cagey cage custodian he was in his heyday." Carver also commented on the smart sliding saves Godfrey was pulling on defence from time to time. He sums it up thusly: "The Petes are by no means out of the race yet."

Hitting The Cage Hoops

Collegiate hoop tilts Saturday saw PCVS seniors yank out a 45-52 win o'er St. Catharines, with Dan Griffin pacing their attack as PCVS juniors won 52-32 from Lindsay. Scoring was spread around by the local chaps who have just about clinched district COSSA honors. Same way with the senior PCI-ers, since Oshawa Central seniors and juniors dumped Oshawa CVI. Senior game was 56-42 in the Motor City and the junior tussle a 44-27 one. An exhibition went to Oshawa's junior "B" boys again Kenner. Also, Kenner bantams romped through PCVS lads by 21 points a few nights back. At the "Y" on Saturday, Marines rolled through the Orillians 84-42, led by Hugh Dibben, Bill Edgar and Warren Smith.

Feeling quite frisky as this Alaskan weather drifted in with February to our section of the country, Yukon Eric demanded a return mat bout with the Red Mask for the Brock on Wednesday— but with a different referee. He wants a guy who can keep up with the snide tricks of the hooded horror, who was given a doubtful decision over him a week ago. The commish said okay, without naming the third man in the ring. The fact that it won't be Golab should suit many a rabid city and district grapple fan. Anyway, that's the main bout this week here. Earl McCready faces Frank Valois in the semi-final, the Frenchman being a former masked marvel who now does his villainous stuff in the bare-faced manner. Prelim has Frank Taylor in against Ovila Asselin, a newcomer from Montreal.

Senator Fears Policy On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado says the major league's policy towards baseball television could wreck every minor-league club in the United States.

The senator, president of the class-A Western League, let loose with his blast Sunday night at the annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers. Most of the major-league owners were in the audience.

He accused the majors of "conniving with a super-salesman (for television) to take the last drop of blood in the minors' territory."

Johnson said this salesman, who he did not further identify, was making the rounds of major-league club owners trying to set up a television game-of-the-week.

"Once the minors agree to a game a week they have taken the fatal plunge over Niagara Falls."

Campbell Gives Ruling Thursday

DETROIT (AP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Saturday night he likely will rule Tuesday in the case of Detroit's general manager, Jack Adams, who is accused of invading the referee's dressing room to argue about officiating here Jan. 18.

Campbell conducted a hearing Saturday, calling in referee Red Storey, who claimed Adams waylaid him en route to the dressing room and then invaded it to protest further.

The NHL president also called in Adams, who insists he thought Storey invited him into the dressing room to discuss his protest further.

PCVS Cagers Capture Two Seniors Get St. Kitts As Juniors Beat Lindsay

Still smarting from a defeat earlier this season by the St. Catharines Stars, Bev Goulding's senior Garnet and Greys fought for revenge Saturday night at PCVS and gained a 45-42 victory. Meanwhile in the preliminary game Zoltan Temesy's PCVS juniors vaulted into position from which the COSSA championship tournament is only a game away by virtue of a 52-32 win over Lindsay Collegiate.

FRANK'S IDEA — Vice-president Frank Buckland of the OHA has suggested a challenge hockey series for teams failing to make group playdowns this winter. The Peterborough member's suggestion has been approved by the subcommittee and will be presented to the OHA executive this weekend for consideration. Mr. Buckland says: "Such a series takes up the slack from about the middle of February to early April and helps revive hockey interest in many centres."

PCVS fans shuddered when the Stars first took the floor in the senior game. The St. Catharines OABA junior entry had added several players, all with considerable height. Everyone expected the Stars to sweep through the Garnet and Grey.

But several minutes later the Garnet and Grey served notice they wanted victory for revenge and started to drive in that direction. Directed by Dave Langhorne, PCVS completely outplayed the Stars at both baskets and took a 9-2 lead.

HELD A MARGIN

From that point until late in the fourth quarter Dan Griffin, Larry Cunningham, Bob Allen and Langhorne kept the margin at eight to 14 points. Then in the final minutes Dennis and Majcher took the Stars to within two points of PCVS. But that threat died in the final 35 seconds.

Both teams played below their usual standards. St. Catharines were troubled particularly with the backboards; only Majcher and Robinson found the hoop, but fortunately for PCVS too late. The week's school examinations and hours of study put the PCVS timing off.

Cunningham and Allen showed the most improvement since the Garnet and Greys last appearance. Allen filled in for Lionel Hempstead who was out with a sprained ankle and played his best game this season.

But reliable Dan Griffin paced the Garnet and Grey to victory with a variety of shots for 14 points. The game's top scoring honors went to the Stars' Majcher with 15, scored most on hook shots from the pivot position.

CLOSE TO TITLE

The Garnet and Grey juniors brought the COSSA championship tournament much closer with their victory over Lindsay. Without a gym this season Lindsay Collegiate plays only four-point games away from home. Those four points for PCVS sent them well out in front for lakeshore district honors, in fact only a game away from the championship.

Again the examinations had their effect. Throughout the game the PCVS cagers were continually off their timing both in dribbling and passing; their shooting wasn't anything to rave about. But they did, even at that rate, overwhelm Lindsay after the first quarter.

The PCVS offence, except for the timing, was far superior to Lindsay's. The Garnet and Grey broke quickly, led by Terry Roberts, Bob McKinney and Paul Davis. When they were within hoop range, they knew what to do, for all counted on the scoresheet.

Meanwhile the PCVS defence was stiff, particularly in the second half after a so-so first. They succeeded in stopping Lindsay's star, Art Truax, along with brother, Reg.

Foul shots allowed PCVS to earn a seven-all first quarter score, then from close in during the second took a 21-15 halftime score. They gradually drew away in the third, 35-25 and in the fourth.

Alouettes Leading In "Y" Volleyball

Taking a win and a tie in three games from Roy Westropp's Tiger-Cats, Al Holmes' Alouettes jumped into first place in the Lillico Trophy volleyball league Saturday at the YMCA.

The Alouettes scored a 15-10 victory and a 13-all tie over the Tiger-Cats, but failed to gain further ground in first when they lost the third 15-6.

Eskimos, captained by Barney Dundas, helped the Alouettes climb into first by winning two of three games from the former first place club, Blue Bombers, under Lloyd Ash. The Eskimos won 15-4 and 15-10, but were nearly whitewashed 15-1 in the third.

Bill Edger's Stampeders climbed from the cellar as the last-place clubs, the Stampeders and the Argonauts, captained by Ken Kingston, met. The Stampeders' two wins, 15-1 and 15-7, helped them rise up in the standing, two points up on Argos who salvaged one win, 15-4.

Marines Defeat Orillians By 84-42 In An Exhibition

Doug MacPherson's Marines were too strong defensively and offensively Saturday night for the Orillia YMCA basketball quintet and as the result record their third win in four exhibition appearances. They scored almost at will and checked the Y cagers with ease for an 84-42 victory. The Marines plan two more exhibition games this week in preparation for the Ontario intermediate B playdowns.

Hugh Dibben, Bill Edger and Warren Smith were the Marines' winning combination throughout the game. They continually weaved passing patterns and set up blocks for each other. At the same time the whole team showed up well against the weaker opposition.

Edger started his season's best showing in the first quarter when the Marines indicated that they would romp through Orillia. Mixing three field baskets and three foul shots for nine points, Edger led the way with Ab Stewart, Gord Burns and Dibben to a 20-6 quarter score. That quarter was Orillia's worst, Kehoe counting five.

Another group, Warren Smith, Al Northcott and Paul Frise, took over the Marines' scoring duties in the second quarter. Smith led the parade with four field baskets as nearly all the Marines added to the score which stood 43-18 at half-time.

SLIPPED A BIT

But then the Marines faltered slightly and in the third had their worst time, outscoring Orillia only 17-13. Ted Payne and Edger kept the Marines going up with six points each while J. Cross enjoyed his only spree for Orillia for eight points.

The points the Marines didn't score in the third, they scored in the fourth as they walked over the YMCA-ers. Again Edger led the way, followed by Smith, Dibben, Stewart, Burns and Bill Trimm, all totalling 24 points. Orillia answered with 11 scattered points.

Edger in previous games appeared to be enjoying his best year in basketball and he thoroughly enjoyed himself Saturday night. He grabbed the scoring honors away from teammates Dibben and Smith with a grand total of 23. Smith scored 14, Dibben 12 and Burns 11. Meanwhile Orillia's best was Cross with his third quarter eight. Lineups:

Marines (84)—Dibben 12, Frise 4, Edger 23, Smith 14, Payne 6, Gillespie, Northcott 6, Stewart 6, Trimm 2, Burns 11.

Orillia (42)—Cross 8, Kehoe 5, Gill 2, Fitzpatrick 1, McLachlan 4, Wilde 7, Oulette 3, G. Thomson 2, B. Thomson 3, Ganton 7.

Wings Bounce Leafs 5-1 Clip Chicago 4-0 In Weekend Triumphs

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jolly Jack Adams may not be so jolly these days when contemplating National Hockey League action over his recent invasion of referee Red Storey's dressing room. However, you can be sure he isn't wasting too many frowns on the recent antics of his first-place Detroit Red Wings. The explosive Detroit manager who loves nothing more than winning has cause to smile. His free-wheeling hockey machine is rolling once again. The Stanley Cup champions, who looked tired last week when they let Montreal Canadiens take over the top slot, shifted into high gear during the weekend and pulled off a pair of one-sided victories to resume their familiar role of league leaders.

Blanking Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 Saturday night, the Wings bounced Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1 Sunday. Montreal could manage but a single point in a pair of games against Boston Bruins, who fought Canadiens to a scoreless tie Saturday and then gained a 4-3 Sunday decision.

Meanwhile, the tail-end New York Rangers, who bowed 4-0 to the Leafs Saturday, turned the tables Sunday in Chicago and chalked up a 1-0 shutout over the Hawks.

TWO-POINT EDGE

The wings now hold a two-point edge over the runner-up Montrealers while Toronto is seven points back in third, a game in front of the Chicagoans. Boston holds down fifth, three points down the line, and the trailing Broadway Blues are 25 points off the pace.

Gordie Howe with a pair of goals—his season's total now is 37—and three assists shared honors with goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit Sunday victory.

Sawchuk was hit in the mouth by a shot off Harry Watson early in the game and had to be helped from the ice. However, he returned 20 minutes and 12 stitches later with no apparent difference in his effectiveness.

Alex Delvecchio added two for the Detroit cause, Marcel Pronovost getting the other. Sid Smith notched the lone Toronto goal.

Winger Joe Klukay provided the tying and winning goals in Boston's 4-3 decision over Montreal. The winner came with less than two minutes to play, and all after the Habs had held a 3-0 second period lead.

ADD OTHER TALLIES

Leo Labine and Ed Sandford added the other Bruin tallies while Paul Masnick potted a pair for the Montrealers and Bert Olmstead the other.

Rookie Aldo Guidolin combined with George Senick and Don Raleigh to score the lone New York goal at Chicago while Lorne Worsley chalked up his second NHL shutout by turning aside 44 shots in the Ranger nets.

Tony Leswick, Reg Sinclair, Red Kelly, and Howe provided the firepower in Detroit's 4-0 Saturday win over the Hawks. The shutout was Sawchuk's sixth of the season and came as a present to coach Tommy Ivan on his 42nd birthday.

Harry Watson and rookie Eric Nesterenko each netted a pair of goals Saturday night as Toronto blanked Rangers 4-0. The whitewash job was Harry Lumley's seventh of the season and his third consecutive Saturday night of zero goaltending.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Many Interested In Acquiring Ralph Kiner

NEW YORK (AP) — If Ralph Kiner, the National League's home-run king for the last seven years, leaves Pittsburgh Pirates he probably will go to Cincinnati Reds or Boston Braves.

Out of the wave of reports circulated during the major-league meetings here last weekend came these two definite facts concerning a deal for the 30-year-old slugger:

1. The Reds have offered Pittsburgh five players, valued by vice-president Gabe Paul of Cincinnati at $300,000, for Kiner.

2. The Braves have handed Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates, a long list of players whom they are willing to include in a deal for him.

ALSO INTERESTED

There were other reports that Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies also were interested, but they were denied by top club officials. And still another had Wid Mathews, personnel director of Chicago Cubs, offering $200,000 for the Pittsburgh star.

The offers of the Reds and Braves fit in with Rickey's pattern of disposing of ailing top-notch players and rebuilding with younger talent.

Rickey declined to say what players.

"Let's put it this way," he said. "A deal for Kiner definitely is contemplated and is nearer completion than 24 hours ago but it will not be completed as soon as another 24 hours."

"I am not interested in cash. I want young players who can help us. That is the only reason Kiner is on the market."

Barons Whip Buffalo 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets are still atop the American Hockey League today but Cleveland Barons moved a step closer during the weekend, taking both their games. Only one point separates the two teams.

At Buffalo Sunday, the Barons trimmed Buffalo Bisons 3-1 with Lou Crowdis, former Buffalo goalie in the nets for Cleveland. He replaced the injured Johnny Bower and played brilliantly.

Steve Wochy scored twice for the victors while the Bisons were shorthanded. Eddie Olson added an insurance marker. Bob Fryday tallied for the Bisons.

HAVE TIE

In the only other Sunday game, at Providence, St. Louis Flyers moved into a third-place tie with Hershey Bears by defeating Providence Reds 5-2.

Motto McLean's second goal broke a 1-1 deadlock in the second period and sent the Flyers on their way to victory. Pete Conacher Lou Jankowski and Guyle Fielder were the other St. Louis marksmen. Paul Gladu and Pete Kapusta tallied for the losers.

Saturday Pittsburgh blanked Buffalo 6-0, Cleveland outscored Hershey 5-3 and Syracuse defeated St. Louis 4-2.

Offer Pirates 5 Men For Ralph Kiner

NEW YORK (AP)—Gabe Paul, vice-president of Cincinnati Reds, disclosed Sunday he had offered Pittsburgh Pirates five players for Ralph Kiner, National League home run king for the last seven years.

Paul said he made the offer to Branch Rickey Saturday night and the Pirates' general manager had assured him he would give the proposition "serious consideration."

Mercurys Clip Sarnia Sailors 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high-scoring combination of Jerry Reid and Ray Leckie was the difference Saturday between first and second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series for Owen Sound Mercurys.

The Mercs, holding down top spot by one point over Stratford Indians, earned a 6-2 win against Sarnia Sailors on the strength of three goals by Reid and a pair by Leckie. Meanwhile, the Indians were downing Brantford Redmen 5-2 to maintain their red-hot pace on the necks of the league leaders.

In the only other Senior OHA game played Saturday, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen tightened their grip on third place with a 5-2 victory over the cellar-dwelling Hamilton Tigers. The Dutchies are eight points back of Stratford.

In the rugged Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, the league-leading Sudbury Wolves suffered a double setback during the week-end, bowing 7-4 to Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds Saturday night and collapsing 4-0 before Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians Sunday.

DIVIDE GOALS

Clare Martin, Don Bauer, Paul Oliver, Al Buchanan and Charlie Brooker notched the Kitchener-Waterloo goals against the hapless Hamilton club. Jim McWirter and Al Lisco were the Tiger marksmen.

Terry Biocchi and Don Johnstone collected a pair each in Sault Ste. Marie's Saturday win while Ron Kastelic, Johnny Offidani and Lorne Waters added singletons for the Greyhound cause. Marty Burton, Andy Millen, George Defelice and Lenny Speck scored for the slipping Sudbury Wolves.

Sunday Vip Palladino, Danny Horeck, Ken Greene and Johnny Lumley tallied as Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., shut out the Wolves.

Germany Seeks Industrial Supremacy In '53

By BRACK CURRY

BONN (AP)—West Germany expects to capture industrial supremacy in Europe during 1953.

Government and industry leaders predict that steel and coal—the sinews of modern industrial power—will set new production records.

The automobile, shipbuilding, chemical and machine tool industries also expect their biggest year since the war.

Already far ahead of France in steel output, West Germany expects to overtake Britain this year. Britain now leads Europe in steel production.

German steelmakers have mapped an ambitious program to expand the capacity of their plants by 2,000,000 tons during the next 18 months.

The smoky Ruhr mills are now turning out steel at a rate of 16,000,000 tons a year. This is close to present capacity.

In 1952, the Ruhr hit its stride with the scrapping of Allied production controls and spewed out 15,804,000 tons.

BRITAIN AHEAD

Britain produced 16,400,000 tons and France 10,900,000 tons in the same year.

Germany's ultimate target is 20,000,000 tons a year, probably by 1955. Britain, too, is aiming to boost output to 20,000,000 tons but not until 1957.

The phenomenal comeback of Germany's war-battered steel industry gives steelmakers here confidence that Ruhr steel output soon will be second in the world only to the U.S. and Russia.

Less than eight years ago, 50 per cent of Germany's steel capacity was out of action from war damage and the breakdown of supplies. After the war, some 6,700,000 tons capacity were ripped out by the Allies under the reparations and dismantling programs.

In 1946, West Germany turned out only 2,551,000 tons of steel. By 1949, output jumped to 9,156,000 tons, then to 13,506,000 tons in 1951.

Despite this, German steelmekers face serious problems. Their equipment is old. A lot of it would have been replaced long ago by U.S. standards. But investment capital for both expansion and modernization is scarce.

In other fields, the Germans expect to push coal output to 129,000,000 tons in 1953 or almost twice what France and the Saar produce together. German coal production in 1952 hit 123,000,000 tons.

Engineer To Captain

HALIFAX (CP)—An engineering officer became a ship's captain for the first time in the Canadian navy's 42-year history at the commissioning Saturday of the 10,000-ton technical training ship Cape Breton. He is Cmdr. E. N. Clarke of Vancouver.

Unsuccessful Attempt To Flee Prison

TORONTO (CP) — Prisoners made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from a downtown police station during Friday night, police said Saturday.

A heavy screen was pried from a window in Court street station where 41 prisoners were held. Bars had been loosened.

"All that was needed for an escape was one good kick to the bars," an officer said.

Set Roadblocks To Trap 2 U.S. Bandits

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial police set up roadblocks Saturday east of here in a vain attempt to trap a car which may have been carrying a man and woman wanted in connection with two killings and a bank robbery in Kansas.

It was the second alarm in 24 hours arising from reports the couple was somewhere in the Toronto vicinity. Friday an anonymous caller told police the suspects were in a Toronto restaurant, thereby touching off a search of the district.

The couple are Louis Sturgess, 32, and his blonde companion, Virginia Iser, 20. Local police say they are wanted in connection with a $40,000 bank robbery at Kansas City, Kas. Two days after the robbery a man and a woman were found shot to death near the hold-up scene. Police believe the dead couple were accomplices and were killed to avoid a division of the loot.

A car answering the description of the one the couple is believed driving was reported travelling along the road to Toronto from Oshawa, 25 miles east.

Edmonton Drivers Accept Settlement

EDMONTON (CP) — A union spokesman said Edmonton's 450 bus drivers voted Sunday to accept a proposed settlement of their wage dispute. The action ended a bus strike threat.

The drivers won a pay scale equal to the highest in the country. They will receive $1.51 an hour, the rate paid in Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria.

At the same time bus fares were raised to 10 cents straight, or 11 tickets for $1.

11 Die In Plane Crash

Mrs. John Corkery Dies In 101st Year In Hospital

One of the few women in Peterborough to pass the century milestone of life, Mrs. Nora Corkery, 487 Gilmour St., died early Sunday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital. She would have reached her 101st birthday in May. Infirmity accompanying her advanced age had required hospital care for nearly two years, developing during the last few weeks into a turn of illness which was recognized by her physician and family as the approaching end.

Mrs. Corkery had been a resident of Peterborough since 1863, and had been blessed with good health into her late nineties.

She was born in the county of Tipperary, Ireland, nearly one hundred and one years ago, daughter of Richard Sheehy and his wife, Mary Sisk. Mrs. Corkery was ten years old when the sea voyage with her parents, who are buried here, interrupted her education which was resumed in Peterborough.

She became the wife of John Corkery, an esteemed citizen who died in 1940 in his retirement from the position of postmaster. For some years he was a member of Peterborough's municipal council.

ACTIVE IN PARISH

Mrs. Corkery devoted her married life to her home, her husband and family, and she was long an active member of St. Peter's parish. She leaves two sons, John R. Corkery, QC, Peterborough county registrar, and the Rev. Vincent J. Corkery, chancellor of the diocese of Peterborough; one daughter, Miss Emma Corkery, at home; also five grandchildren. A second son in the priesthood, Rev. Kevin Corkery, predeceased his mother three years ago.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning from the residence of Mrs. Corkery at 487 Gilmour St., to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be celebrated, beginning at 9.30 o'clock, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

Explosives Set Off In Washrooms

Light explosive charges were set off in the washrooms of the Capitol Theatre and the Plaza Billiard Parlor on Saturday, breaking the mirrors and knocking plaster from the walls.

Fourteen-year-old David Mace, of Hastings was in the washroom at the theatre when a man came in and set off the explosive. He was described as being of husky build, weight about 180 pounds, dark hair, no hat, wearing a checked orange windbreaker and about 25 years old. A short piece of fuse was discovered in the washroom of the theatre.

Skunk Ventures Out On Groundhog's Day

Whether the venturing bear decided from the aspects in the bush country today to vacate his den of hibernation for the rest of the winter, one of the minor species of the seven sleepers was seen Friday evening waddling across Rubidge Street.

Crossing from east to west curb, he briefly sniffed the front wheels of a curbside car, and continued on his foraging way through a lane between two terraces, south of Dalhousie St. This skunk probably has a family depending on him somewhere in the vicinity, perhaps beyond Aylmer St. As to the bear and his shadow, main streeters agreed that he didn't see it, promissory lore that he can take a chance on the rest of the winter weather and remain abroad.

Ladies' Tankard Draws Many From Ontario

For the first time since 1944, women will be competing in the Ontario Ladies' Tankard Tuesday at the Peterborough Curling Club. Finalists from eight districts in the ladies' association will be playing for the coveted tankard trophy, emblematic of supremacy in women's curling in the province.

Increased membership in the provincial association this year resulted in a change in tankard play. In previous years the 42 clubs sent two rinks each to the tankard bonspiel but this year no Ontario club could handle such a large undertaking.

The association divided the district into eight areas and each club sent two rinks to the area bonspiel. From each of those bonspiels the two finalists enter the tankard bonspiel Tuesday.

FAVORITES AGAIN

Mrs. J. R. McIntosh, of Bobcaygeon, won the tankard when it was last played in Peterborough, followed by Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Toronto Granite rink. Again this year these rinks are favorites for the trophy finals.

Other rinks considered in the pre-bonspiel predictions were Mrs. C. Knapman's Hamilton Victoria rink, Mrs. R. H. Reive's Toronto High Park rink and Mrs. K McLaren's Hamilton Thistle rink.

Representing the Peterborough district are Mrs. Vern Selkirk's rink and Mrs. E. H. Northey's Lakefield rink. Those rinks won the district bonspiel honors recently in Oshawa.

Winners of the first round will advance into the tankard play while the losers will enter a second competition for the Northey Trophy, donated by Mrs. E. H. Northey, of Lakefield.

OPENED BY MAYOR

Mayor Hugh Waddell will officially open the tankard play at 9 p.m. Tuesday by throwing the first stone after extending a welcome to the visiting rinks. Then after three rounds the finalists for the tankard and the Northey Trophy will be decided and the final games played, starting at 1.30 p.m. Wednesday.

Curlers will take time out Tuesday night for the tankard dinner at the Empress Hotel, starting at 7.30 p.m. A highlight of the dinner will be the association's annual meeting, including the election of officers.

Immediately following the final games on Wednesday (approximately 3.30 p.m.) a tea will be held at the club, featuring the presentation of the trophies. Officials said today that W. E. (Ernie) McMurtry, secretary of Ontario Curling Association, may present the tankard trophy, while Mrs. Northey will present her trophy.

Following is the draw:

Mrs. C. Schmidt, Kitchener, vs. Mrs. C. Knapman, Hamilton Victoria.

Mrs. J Rutherford, Kingston, vs. Mrs. L. E. Wooley, Toronto Granite.

Mrs. J. R. McIntosh, Bobcaygeon vs. Mrs. R. Thomson, Gravenhurst.

Mrs. V. Selkirk, Peterborough, vs. Mrs. M. Sayle, Brantford.

Mrs. C. M. Elliott, Woodstock, vs. Mrs. T. J Donnelley, Kingston.

Mrs. E. H. Northey, Lakefield, vs. Mrs. R. H. Reive, Toronto High Park.

Mrs. R. Cameron, Oakwood, vs. Mrs. K. McLaren, Hamilton Thistles.

Mrs. J. L. Babcock, Galt, vs. Mrs. D. Hastings, Midland.

FREE RIDE TO TORONTO

Gilbert is a friendly boxer dog who made a trip to Toronto on Sunday in the back seat of a strangers' car. Gilbert is owned by Carl Duffus, Aylmer St. north, and he is the pride and joy of all the children in the district. It seems that on Sunday neighbors of Mr. Duffus had some friends from Toronto visiting them. The back door of their car was left open and in Gilbert climbed and went to sleep. The owners of the car in due time made ready to go home and never looked in the rear seat. Off Gilbert went with them and it was outside of Port Hope before he was discovered. They advised the provincial police the tag number of the dog so the owner might be notified and continued with the dog to Toronto. Today Mr. Duffus sent a car to Toronto to bring Gilbert home.

Traffic Lights Installed On Lansdowne

Stop-and-go lights were placed at the intersection of Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Road at the weekend by the board of works, and are now in operation.

They were ordered by the council as a facility for Monaghan Road traffic in crossing No. 7-A Highway, which is the guide book designation of Lansdowne St. The east-west traffic has been assuming its own priority over the north-south lines. Complaints came to the council that rush-hour delays on both sides of No. 7-A were holding up drivers on their way to and from work, often causing them to be late at their places of employment.

STUDENTS AT KENNER

Consideration was also provided for the students who are now attending Kenner Collegiate and who were entitled to protection at the highway crossing at Monaghan Rd. A third factor was the traffic light check on eastbound trucks roaring down the hill at the west end of Lansdowne St., night and day.

City council recently discarded a bylaw that was intended to deal with traffic on this street and also on Charlotte St. west, approaching residential sections of the city. The lights at Lansdowne St. are expected to reduce speed on that street, and the general attitude of the council was to the effect that if the police department would insist on the observance of present speed regulations complaints would be disarmed from people living near both these west entrances to the city.

He will be away from Peterborough about three months.

Groundhog Makes Report Offers Free Advice To World

BY DELONG INCISOR

Burrr! It's cold. I don't remember it being so cold since a year ago.

We groundhogs sacrifice a good deal more in the interests of science than most people realize. We're in the forecasting business.

Every year just about this time people around the world wait for our report. "What," the world wants to know, "about spring? When is it coming?

Now most people have the idea that come Feb. 2, all groundhogs stir themselves out of a comfortable sleep and go snffing about looking for their shadows and then shout the new abroad.

ORGANIZED

That may have been the style years ago. But we've become a lot smarter since then. We're organized now. Each fall one groundhog is picked as his turn comes up and it is his duty to turn out Feb. 2 to report for the district.

This is my report! There was very little snow to push away from the entrance of my den. I immediately thought that the crops would suffer and we groundhogs will have to forage far and wide to get enough wheat, oats and other foods to eat next summer.

I waited around for quite a while and peered up at the sky to see if I could find the sun. I could see where it was behind the clouds, but little else. However, it broke through at 9:20 and I saw my shadow.

That's my report. I saw my shadow for a few minutes and that's all. As I was typing my report, snow began to fall and it was bitter cold.

So, although, this isn't part of my duties, I offer a little advice. Go back to bed and stay there until about the end of March. By then the weather should have improved and the world become habitable again.

Two Hurt As Car Rams Truck

Transport Stopped Flares Burning OPP Officers Report

Two Oshawa men are in hospital in Port Hope suffering facial cuts following an accident near the Newcastle subway early this morning.

According to Bowmanville detachment, OPP, the two men were travelling east on Highway 2, in the early hours of today, and had passed through the subway at Newcastle when they came upon a truck parked on the hill in front of them, on the right side of the highway.

Police say the truck had run into mechanical trouble, and that marking flares had been placed, and were burning, at the time of the collision.

It has not yet been established who was driving the car, which struck the rear of the truck with a heavy impact. Both men were pinned inside. They were removed under supervision of Contable L. Gailbraith, OPP, and rushed by ambulance to Port Hope hospital. Dr. E. L. Rathall, Port Hope, is in charge. The collision occurred shortly before 7 a.m.

Investigation is continuing. Both the victims, Norman McDougall and Victor Petit, came from Pleasure Valley ranch, Oshawa.

Driver of the truck was stated to be Allen Quesenberry, of Bowmanville.

Lou Shaw Elected Breeders' Head

"I have been president four years, and I feel that has been long enough," Mr. Shaw said prior to the election of officers. "I'll be pleased if you name someone else in my place."

"Look at the way the club's gone ahead since you have been president," said Cliff Lowes.

Mr. Shaw's name was the only one proposed. "I'll do the best I can for the club," he said, "but please don't ask me to be president after this year."

The other officers are: Lorne Pimmett of Indian River, and George Shoniker of Norwood, vice-presidents.

Members voted in favor of bidding for a regional show here this year, and also decided to try to arrange a county sale. Howard Beavis of Lakefield said he hoped the association would hold its county show at the village fair next Ocotber, and G. A. Brethen of Norwood said he would like to have the Shorthorns at that fair. However, he said, "I did not come here today to try to outbid anybody."

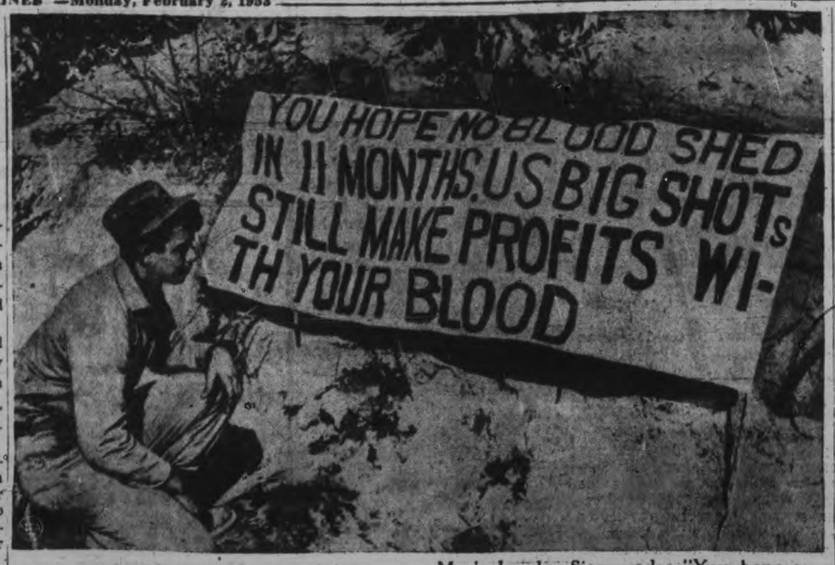
New Industry Opens For Jamaica

MANDEVILLE, Jamaica (Reuters)—The first link in a new economic chain joining Jamaica with a sparsely-populated area of Canada's Pacific coast will be forged soon.

The Jamaican plant, which will become a main source of supply for Canada's giant new aluminum smelting project at Kitimat, B.C., is due to be formally opened Feb. 21.

It will help to transform Jamaica, renowned for years as a "pleasure island" and a producer of rum, sugar and bananas, into a strategic area of world-wide importance and a big dollar earner for the sterling area.



MORE BAUXITE

The reason is the increase in production of bauxite, the raw material from which aluminum is made.

And Mandeville, a resort centre at an altitude of about 2,000 feet, is becoming an important cog in the exploitation of the bauxite.

About five miles from here a subsidiary of Aluminium Limited of Montreal, one of the three companies interested in developing the bauxite industry of Jamaica, has built its plant. It is the subsidiary, Alumina Jamaica Limited, due to open the plant formally Feb. 21, although production actually started in December.

In a short time Jamaica is expected to become one of the most important suppliers of bauxite in the world.

Alderman W. Stokes Dies In Toronto

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Alderman William Stokes, former mayor of St. Thomas and for many years a prominent figure in the city's municipal life, died here Sunday of a heart attack. He was 71.

Ald. Stokes was stricken while attending services in Grace United Church.

He entered civic politics in the 1920s being elected alderman several times. He contested the mayoralty races in 1928 and 1929 and both times was elected.

For two years he was a member of the board of education and the public utilities commission and later returned to city council as alderman. Mr. Stokes was past president of the Southern Ontario Highway Association.

Chemists Waging Battle Against Unsuspected Poison

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A battle against unsuspected poisons that kill little children is being waged here by Dr. Morton J. Rodman of Rutgers University college of pharmacy.

The unsuspected poisons are seemingly harmless things which a child may swallow out of curiosity. Often, there's no label telling what chemicals they contain—no clue to an antidote.

So Rodman, a pharmacology professor, is compiling a checklist of products that have poisoned youngsters—and the antidotes—in an effort to cut down the annual toll of 600 youngsters dying from poisoning.

It covers things like cosmetics, perfectly safe when used externally but potentially fatal to a child exploring his mother's boudoir, things like metal polish, paint removers, insect repellents.

There's no foretelling what a child may take a fancy to drink, Rodman explains. If the contents aren't fully known, doctors lose precious time trying to learn what poison the child has taken and how to counteract it.

The idea for a list of contents of various commercial products, with antidotes if wrongly used, grew from calls from physicians to the pharmacy college asking for quick chemical analyses of products. Sometimes the college was able to give the answer in time.

Many poisoning fatalities could be avoided if all chemical products listed their ingredients, whether or not they were meant for internal use, Rodman says. That at least would supply a start toward treatment to counteract the poison.

Another phase of his campaign is telling women's groups of the hazards in some commonplace and seemingly safe products.

See Little Hope Of Reprieve For Lee

HAMILTON (CP)—Hopes of a last-minute reprieve for convicted murderer Harry Lee dimmed today. No reply to his counsel's appeal to Justice Minister Garson.

Lee is scheduled to be hanged at midnight tonight for the June shooting of Mrs. Mary Rosenbla.

Affidavits from Dr. A. M. Doyle of Toronto and Dr. A. Newton-Brady of Hamilton in which they stated they thought Lee was suffering from a mental disorder have been forwarded to Ottawa.

If Lee hangs it will be the first time the Barton street jail execution chamber has been used since 1930.

Moscow Pushes Revolution In Colonial Lands

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Western diplomats in Vienna report growing evidence that Moscow apparently has made revolution in colonial countries a leading objective for 1953.

In Africa and the Far East, colonial Communists have been pressing for "independence" from the West and closer ties with Moscow ever since the war. The diplomats say they believe Moscow now has sent out orders for speeding up Communist-led colonial unrest because:

1. It received special attention from a recent meeting of the Communist-run world peace congress in Vienna.

2. Publications of the Cominform have been devoting an unusual number of columns to what is described as the "growing upsurge of national-liberation movements in colonial and dependent countries."

GAIN PROMINENCE

During the Red peace congress, speakers from the colonies of Britain, France, Belgium and the Netherlands used more than half the total time for debate. One after another, Communist representatives from Africa and the countries of the Far East demanded "freedom" from the West.

In the weeks following the congress, Cominform publications have been demanding that colonial Communists make a greater effort to win independence. This evidently means that Moscow feels its greatest hope today lies in the colonies for making inroads into Western defence and unity.

Dr. Jordan Says

Fright Is Unlikely Cause Of Death In Normal Cases

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, MD

We have all heard the expression "it almost frightened me to death," or "it scared the life out of me." The obvious fact that people who say this are alive and usually well is a good sign that fright does not often kill.

A severe fright can certainly cause a lot of distress, however. The question as to whether it can ever cause death has recently been raised again in an interesting article in one of our leading medical journals.

The discussion revolved around the case of a young woman who had had attacks of smothering sensations, palpitation of the heart, weakness and other peculiar symptoms off and on for a period of two years.

At first, nothing could be found to account for these attacks. Finally, while she was being given a test of the heart, she became alarmed by a box put in front of her containing pills and her heart started to beat more rapidly in short bursts. At the same time she complained of the same symptoms which she had had periodically over the past two years.

She did not die of this experience, but the doctors concluded that in a person who had certain kinds of heart disease it might be possible for a severe fright to cause death.

In discussing this problem, the subject of "Voodoo deaths" naturally comes up. Apparently, this kind of death from fright really occurs following "hexing" by a "medicine man" or by "black magic." An interesting example of this kind was described some time ago:

"A young Negro on a journey lodged in a friend's house for the night. The friend had prepared for their breakfast a wild hen, a food strictly banned by a rule which must be inviolably observed by the immature.

"The young fellow demanded whether it was indeed a wild hen, and when the host answered 'No,' he ate of it heartily and proceeded on his way.

HOST TOLD SECRET

"A few years later, when the two met again, the old friend asked the younger man if he would eat a wild hen. He answered that he had been solemnly charged by a wizard not to eat that food. Thereupon the host began to laugh and asked him why he refused it now after having eaten it at his table before.

"On hearing this news the Negro immediately began to tremble, so greatly was he possessed by fear, and in less than 24 hours was dead."

While it is interesting to study the possibility that the common expressions quoted at the beginning of this column may have some basis in fact, the chances of being truly "frightened to death" are so unlikely that for all practical purposes we can forget about it.

Gordon, noted scientist and member of the defence research board, has been appointed dean of the school of graduate studies at the University of Toronto, President Sidney Smith announced Sunday night. Dr. Gordon, who takes over his new post July 1, succeeds the late Harold Innis. He has been head of the university's chemistry department since 1944.

Judge Criticizes Some Work By Lawyers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Chief Justice J. W. Pickup of the Ontario Supreme Court said Saturday night prestige and public confidence in the legal profession are menaced more by neglect and carelessness than by dishonesty of individual members of the profession.

Addressing the final session of a two-day meeting of Ontario members of the Canadian Bar Association, he said he was pleased with the institution of a fund to reimburse clients who lose money through the dishonesty of lawyers in Ontario.

"If one member of the profession falls," he said, "the public confidence can be restored only by the voluntary assumption of the loss of association members out of their own pockets."

However, he said the greatest public complaint was against lawyers who neglect their duty after agreeing to provide certain services.

The meeting passed a resolution Saturday which said the association "viewed with disfavor any attempt to encroach on the rights to hold a trial by jury in civil actions."

First Broadway Show Lifts Fragile Girl To Stardom

BY MARK BARRON

NEW YORG (AP)—A young girl with a haunting, elusive quality of tenderness, Geraldine Page found herself lifted to stardom the other day in her first actual appearance on the Broadway stage.

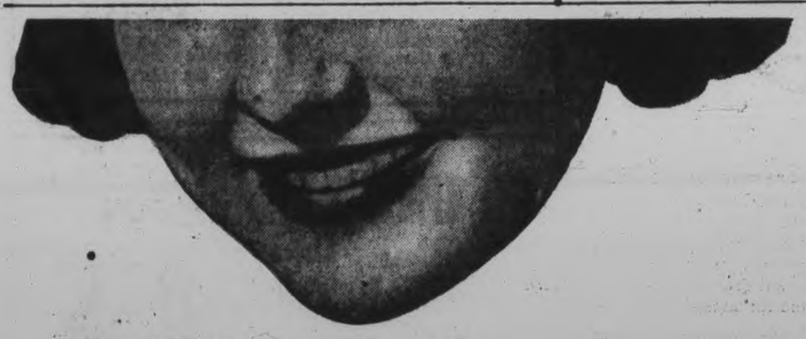
As the inarticulate, wistful Lily Barton in Vina Delmar's new play "Mid-Summer," this fragile actress sent first nighters home cheering her exciting performance. In the story she is the wife of a stage-struck school-teacher who wants only to get away from show business and return to the "little white house" where she can cook and sew.

"This really is my first performance on Broadway," Miss Page said as she saw her name go up in lights. "I often tried to get roles in Broadway plays before without success.

"I had enough ego to go on the stage and act. But when I went looking for a job I never had the ego to continue looking after I had at least two doors slammed in my face.

"Two doors was my top batting average for a day. If I got those two doors early in the morning, I was finished and went home."

She added to her slim income by modelling negligees and by wrapping cones of thread at the International Thread Company.



She joined the Valentine Travelling Players which toured Illinois in cars, carrying the scenery in trailers.

Returning, Miss Page again found Broadway offices equipped only with doors that slam in your face. So she went downtown to Greenwich Village and joined the Loft Players cooperative group to play the neurotic Miss Alma in Tennessee Williams' drama, "Summer and Smoke."

Word of her moving performance in this role got uptown. So at last, a Broadway door opened at her approach. Now her name is up in lights above the Vanderbilt theatre.

Mystery Entertains Omemee Audience

OMEMEE (ENS). — The three act mystery play, "The Clock Struck Twelve," as presented by Trinity United YPU Friday night in Coronation Hall, held the capacity audience in suspense, but at the same time afforded much amusement while the plot was unravelled.

Tension created by the strange actions of Housekeeper Elizabeth, played by Grace Sebley, was relieved by the sudden appearances and foolish antics of Garnet Pogue as her imbecile son who called himself John D. Asterfeller. The three would-be entertainers who took shelter from the storm were played by Phyllis Nelson as the true crime story fiend, Marion Zufelt who was least happy about their plight but could always find a witty answer, and Marion Murray who weighed circumstances and never came to hasty conclusions. Don Blakey as Ranry Hendrix, was not too much at home in the role of a villain. Jack Brown played the part of Dick Thomas. Don Raffan as the green policeman provided much amusement, and the fainting and dying acts by Donna Clifford as Lucille, were perfect.

The play was directed by Ted Roos.

You Too Can Have Frost-Bitten Toes Say Specialists

More cases of frost bite are treated in the average Canadian city between December and February than in Alaska or the Yukon.

Although we tend to associate frost bite with Arctic explorers and the frozen wastes, foot specialists report that it just isn't so. Chief sufferers among the urban dwellers are the ladies—who stride through snow and slush in a sliver of shoe and a wisp of stocking.

"Nonsense," you utter indignantly, as you read the above. "I never heard of anyone having frost bite here—and for myself I wouldn't know it if I saw it." And therein lies the nub of the story.

Foot doctors say those painful small black - and - blue "bruise" marks some of us observe on the end of our toes during the winter months don't come from toe dancing. That's frost bite. And once you get this painful ailment, it keeps coming back winter after winter—because the blood vessels become permanently enlarged.

That's why foot doctors urge women to wear a closed all-leather shoe this time of the year. The leather upper and sole provide protection against the elements, but still allow your foot to "breathe." This last is very important, because foot moisture should be evaporated rapidly and not allowed to accumulate. Damp feet will freeze faster than dry feet.

Here are a few vital "do's" and "don'ts" to keep your feet in shape until spring returns:

Treat your feet—and particularly around the heels—to a brief massage with lanolin or olive oil especially after a hot bath. Cold tends to dry out skin and plunging your feet into a hot bath will remove the rest of the surface skin oils. Replace them, or your skin will crack.

Make sure your shoes fit properly. Cold feet will blister and swell quickly if ill-fitting shoes rub or press the tender skin. Save your flimsy shoes for spring or summer—or at least keep them for dining and dancing. For trudging around in all weather, wear a pair of comfortable all-leather closed-up pumps or oxfords. If your skin is dry, avoid sling-back shoes. They'll cause cracks around the heels and the back of the ankle.

Don't "over-protect" your feet. Foot doctors say over-long wearing of overshoes or galoshes will make your feet perspire and become tender, leaving them a prey to blisters, skin irritations—and even frost bite—when the weather gets cold enough to freeze the unevaporated moisture.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES K. CAMPBELL were pictured just after their wedding at Hamilton. Mrs. Campbell is the former Miss Audrey Magee of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Magee, now of Hamilton. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Campbell, Peterborough. They will make their home in this city.

Mistress of Queen's Robes Directs Ladies of Household

LONDON (CP) — The Queen's choice as Mistress of the Robes is a dark-haired, classic beauty, the dowager Duchess of Devonshire.

Daughter of the fourth Marquis of Salisbury, the duchess is the widow of the 10th Duke of Devonshire, who died in 1950. Her job can loosely be described as "supervising the duties of the ladies of the household." She will be at the Queen's side on most important ceremonial occasions.

The women serving a sovereign, largely descendants of ancient families, receive no special training. The duchess, whose late husband was a trainbearer at the coronation of George V, will however have plenty of family experience to draw on for guidance. Her mother-in-law, also a dowager Duchess of Devonshire, has been Mistress of the Robes to Queen Mary since 1910.

Until 1893, Mistress of the Robes was a political office with a salary of £500 a year. Holders changed office with the government until, during the last period of office of Prime Minister Gladstone, the post was made non-political. Appointments then became the personal business of the sovereign—a fact welcomed by Queen Victoria.

For the first 11 months of her reign, the present Queen borrowed the services of the Duchess of Northumberland, Mistress of the Robes to the Queen Mother.

Women Should Forget Urge Become Radio Announcers

TORONTO (CP)—Girls who cherish dreams of a career in radio should listen first to Leigh Lee. She could give them some good tips.

Mrs. Lee, whose unusual name is matched by an unusual ability, is program director of station CHUM in Toronto. Her job places her on the top rungs in private radio, and she started at the bottom.

The tall, attractive blonde is one half of a husband-and-wife team. Her husband, Robert, is manager of the station. But it would be an injustice to say Leigh got where she is on anything but her own ability. She has been tested and proven in radio's most competitive area in Canada—Toronto.

FORGET THE MIKE

When it comes to opportunities for women in radio, Leigh says if they forget the urge to get behind a microphone, their chances will improve. She advises them to concentrate on writing, traffic and promotion work. Although there are a few women doing well as announcers, the field is still dominated by men, and Mrs. Lee thinks women have a better chance in other fields.

As an ambitious youngster, Mrs. Lee, then Leigh Stubbs, started in a Hamilton station looking after the record library. Even then she had her sights set on program directing, and she held fast to this course despite the advice of colleagues who urged her to give it up.

Her career had its real beginning when she joined station CKEY in Toronto. Her reputation was enhanced by excellent work on that station. Then she retired from radio for a housewife's role.

But she was destined to remain in radio. The marriage didn't succeed and before long she was writing on a free-lance basis.

STEP TO SUCCESS

"The writing was enough to keep me interested," she said, "but it wasn't enough to keep me eating."

In 1949 she landed a promotion job with CHUM. Four days after she joined the station the liner Noronic burned in Toronto harbor, and it was then Leigh earned her spurs.

Her radio direction, original presentation and coverage of the disaster won for the station the 1950 variety award.

Her husband joined CHUM not long after the Noronic episode, as commercial manager. It wasn't long before Leigh Stubbs became Leigh Lee.

Names became a problem, but Leigh's good humor was the equal of it. She loves to tell of the Toronto columnist who wrote: "I dropped in on Lee Lee, which reminds me, I have to pick up my laundry."

The couple had been married only a short time when Bob was offered the station managership. He looked around for a program director and found one no farther away than the family breakfast table.

FASHION REPORT FROM LONDON

Coronation Styles Avoid History

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

LONDON —The eyes of the fashion world are focused on the 12 top British designers, who are meeting the clothing challenge of this Coronation year with their current Spring showings.

Right from the start, it is evident they have purposely avoided historical reminiscences. There are no 13th Century wimples or 16th Century ruffles. They have, however, borrowed ideas from the Mauve Decade—Gibson Girl boas, arc-shaped hats, floating dust - coats, 36-button - length gloves—which they've included in their "gala dresses" for all the grand occasions which women will attend next June.

Michael of Lachasse (the tailored suit specialist) opened the Spring style offensive by staging a minor revolution. He launched the Tango Line and "Forward Look," which is a definite break with the traditional aspect of the English classic suit as women the world over know it.

Severity has given place to casual, rounded lines. Jackets have padded basques that dip at back, are moulded through a high nipped-in waistline, with Beau Brummel collars and lapels or no collars at all and diagonal or triangular fastenings. Skirts, 13 inches from the ground, are slender, with a long-legged "American" look.

The softness is carried through to the rounded, padded, sloping shoulder line, emphasized, by kimono or raglan sleeves, usually cut off at midarm. Silk suits are often sleeveless, and have the necklines starkly cut-out in deep squares, V's or half-moons.

Buttons, in self fabric and very large and flat or in leather for contrast, underline the exaggerated asymmetrical fastenings to top coats and are often repeated on the skirt.

Michael's redingotes have swinging, stiffened skirts attached to brief fitted tops and are made of stiff silks. Informal wool coats were mostly of the straight, mannish-cut style. His "Gibson Girl" boas were in navy and olive green organdie exactly matching the sleeveless silk suits and worn with court gloves.

For Digby Morton, the Coronation influence is only traceable in his "young" line which in reality has an air of the fashions of the 1920's. Slender dresses are matched by hip-bone "matchbox" coatees. Suits have easy-fitted jackets with three-quarter sleeves and pocket interest often stressed by buttoned-on bands.

For sheer whimsy there is a trailing evening coat of mannish cut in red, black and white tartan taffetas over a "Bal Tabarin" gown of black chiffon tightly shirred to the knees where it billows out in an enormously full flounce. Morton also showed a "Gibson Girl" boa in white organdie, double this time, to accompany an evening gown.

Peter Russell's suits stressed the same "softening" influence. His jackets have nipped-in waists, soft dropped shoulders combined with kimono or raglan sleeves. Several models were inspired by the Tyrolean jerkin, with fullness restrained by wide contrasting leather belts.

Coronation dresses ranged from a trim two-piece ensemble in white Nottingham lace— a slender chemise dress and a straight taffetta-lined coatee to swinging pleated chiffon dress topped by a sleeveless grosgrain redingote with deep shawl collar, both in Russell's striking "New Geranium" red, definitely intended for the Royal Garden Party.

Evening gowns were sweeping and regal, some in lace with long tight sleeves and sweater bodice entirely re-embroidered, others with the briefest bodices teamed up with yards of net in the best "keepsake" style.

Victor Stiebel's collection leans to the trim, tailored look in suits. His jackets fit like a second skin and have amusing collar and pocket details. The majority of skirts are stick slim. These are made of worsted, flannel, silk-and-alpaca mixture, linen and surah.

Topcoats were divided between redingotes with full stiffened skirts and loose dust coats, the latter almost straight, with dropped shoulders and wide armholes. Dresses stressed flattened diaphragms and drooped shoulders. Ensembles in vivid printed tie silks had pleated skirts over stiff petticoats.

Evening gowns were mainly of the picturesque portrait types, fashioned of the most fabulous fabrics ranging from rich French brocades to slipper satins and paper-thin taffetas as well as lace and tulle. Two hundred and fifty yards of fabric went into a briar-rose tulle number.

All these gowns were obviously created with a view to formal Palace and diplomatic functions. It is not the easiest thing in the world to curtsy gracefully in a stream-lined skirt.

Conversation pieces included a short black organza dance frock, the full skirt trimmed with a deep band of tiny guinea-fowl feathers; printed tie-silk to match daytime ensemble; small diamond-embroidered white ermine tiaras; a dress made of graded cornflower petals with skin-tight bodice in darker blue jersey and finally, slipper satin evening coats trimmed with fur.

The most striking element of the London collections so far is the gentleman's agreement between textile manufacturers and couturiers to set aside all inhibitions and use bold and dashing colors, as well as the more subtle shades favored by Paris.

Navy seems to have made a determined stand to replace black. All the shades of beige are shown, from oatmeal to caramel. And white, the most impractical of all, is widely featured for both daytime and evening wear.

FOR GALA OCCASIONS to come this Coronation year, British designers have produced fashions like these. The coat and suit is in golden rain acetate rayon faille, and the coat is lined in black and white check wool. Top inset shows a typical evening gown illustrating a trend to picturesque portfait gowns. The lower inset shows organza "Gibson Girl" boa.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX:

Saving Money Praiseworthy But It Has Its Limitations

DEAR MISS DIX: During the four years my husband and I have been married, we haven't enjoyed ourselves at all—trying to save every penny we make to buy a home. I am 23, and we have a child of 3. We both teach school, and are very well suited to each other.

Every year, the college, of which we are both alumni, has a big dance to which graduates are invited. I haven't been to one, or to one of their games, since our marriage, for the simple reason that I haven't the clothes to wear. I'd like very much to attend this year's affair but can't decide whether to buy the clothes and go, or forget the outfit and save the money. My husband thinks I should save the money.

DAISY M.

ANSWER: It would appear that this saving spree you'r on is more your husband's idea than your own. Though you don't mention the fact, I'll bet all the money is banked in hubby's name and the home you intend to buy will also be in his name. For four years you have catered to his desire to save money, both by working to earn a good salary, and by depriving yourself of every pleasure, every amusement, and even necessary clothes, to get your money into the bank. Now, I certainly don't deprecate the virtue of thrift, but there's only a fine line between praiseworthty economy and culpable miserliness.

You can see now that your husband is much against money being spent on such fripperies as clothing and adornments; he will probably never get over this aversion to spending; certainly he'll never change unless you take steps right now to relax the rigid saving program your family has adopted.

STINGINESS LIKE AN OCTUPUS

Postponing the ownership of a home for a few years is better than settling into a parsimonious life. Your budget should be rearranged to permit a reasonable expenditure on pretty clothes, and on mutually enjoyable entertainment. These are the components of a warm life; stinting yourself of them in order to save every penny will soon make hard, unhappy folks of you and your husband. When you finally do acquire the home for which you are stinting yourself, there'll be nothing to put into it, but a small family starved of affection, friends and content. Stinginess is like an octopus; its hungry tentacles reach out to grasp everything within reach to hold and devour. People who are stingy with money become equally niggardly with their affections. Soon they can't even spare a smile or kind word to anyone.

This is a picture of the progression you are likely to follow if you give money the most important part in your marriage. Don't let it happen to you. There's no reason why two young people with good positions can't make a happy adjustment between saving and getting a little pleasure out of life. Don't let your youth be restricted solely to work and trips the bank and a little more into looking nice, keeping your home open for friends, and getting out in company occasionally.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Potatoes And Parsley Quality Foods

A man said, "You should eat the parsley and send the steak back, instead of eating the steak and leaving the parsley."

He said this because parsley is so high in vitamins—it has four times as many as its closest vitamin-bearing competitors. It outclasses all vitamin-A foods and is extremely high in vitamin C, which is scarce in Canadian-grown foods available in winter. We acquire most of our vitamin C from citrus fruits; but parsley has it in abundance.

This lecturer is a noted physicist and knows his vegetable analysis, but just the same I'll send a steak back to any kitchen and just munch on parsley. Emily Post says we should eat our parsley, so that ough to settle that.

I weary though over trying to convert folks to eating it. It must be because parsley is so cheap and easy to grow that they spurn it.

Now is the ideal time to start a little pot growing in the kitchen window; then you can snip it off as it branches out, for your salads every night. Or buy a big bunch and be sure to give everybody in the family some every day. It is easy to work it into the cooking too. Notice the following recipes.

And another thing — the best part of a potato is just under the skin so plan to serve them in the ways best adapted to potatoes cooked in their jackets. Potatoes contain vitamin C in good amount and vitamins A, B and G in fair amounts. They are rich in minerals. Just see that you don't drain these precious minerals off in the vegetable water.

BASIC POTATO CROQUETTES

Scrub potatoes clean and boil in as little water as possible until very tender. Water should be evaporated by the time they are done. Rice or mash the peeled potatoes until smooth. To 2 cups mashed potato, add 1 teaspoon of grated onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon pepper, 1 or 2 tablespoons very finely chopped parsley, and 1 beaten egg. Beat the mixture until very light. If the potatoes are very dry you may want to add 1 or 2 tablespoons of milk. Spread on flat dish to chill. Mould into cylinders, balls or cones, and roll in flour then in 1 well-beaten egg diluted with 1 tablespoon water, and in fine sifted breadcrumbs. Brown in deep fat at 375 degrees Fahr., turning once. Drain on paper towel.

I called the potato croquettes basic because they do make such a good base for meat croquettes.

MEAT CROQUETTES

Use potato croquette mixture above. Add 1 or 2 cups ground meat. If you use beef add 1 teaspoon each horseradish and Worstershire sauce. If you use ham add 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. If you use ground fresh cooked podk, add 1 or 3 teaspoons drained green pickle relish. If you use chicken, add ½ teaspoon celery salt or 1 tablespoon extremely finely chopped celery and omit the onion—but always include the parsley. Fry as you would the potato croquettes.

QUARTERED POTATOES IN SPANISH SAUCE

Cook potatoes of even size in boiling water until not quite tender. Peel and carefully cut into quarters. Gently melt ¼ cup butter and add ¼ cup each finely chopped green onion tops (or sprouts from old onions) and parsley, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 1 chopped canned pimiento. Let these cook slowly for 5 minutes, then add the quartered potatoes. Cook gently for 10 minutes, turning potatoes over once. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, turn out into hot serving dish, and pour over them the sauce remaining in pan.

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

Bake 6 medium-large potatoes which have been scrubbed well, at 475 degrees Fahr. Very high heat makes baked potatoes fluffy. Cut large cross in top, scoop out insides and add to them ¼ cup hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter or fat, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and ⅛ teaspoon paprika—and guess what?—2 tablespoons parsley. Mash and beat until light. Refill potato skins. Dot with butter or sprinkle with grated cheese. Brown and reheat at 350 degrees Fahr.

What's Right?

A newcomer to a town asks a resident to recommend a business firm and then is dissatisfied with the service.

WRONG: He makes a point of telling the person who recommended the company how disappointed he was in its service.

RIGHT: He registers his complaint with the concern, or keeps his opinion to himself.

"I've always been my husband's second choice"

SHE: Ralph hasn't spoken to me for five days. He prefers any woman's company to mine. Only lack of money keeps him faithful.

HE: Alice's jealousy drives me crazy. She likes to show I'm a poor provider. I'm on the edge of cracking up.
